In preparation for the season a meeting of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club was held on Saturday afternoon under the direction of the president William Wright. Twenty-five members of the club were in attendance and a considerable amount of business was accomplished.

The executive of the club held a brief meeting after the regular meeting and elected William VanTassel as general chairman of the Corbin Gold Cup committee with Gerald Hyde as secretary-treasurer. These officers successfully conducted the tournament last year.

The greenskeeper, Jack Smith will commence his duties today when the greens are brought to a condition where they visit the club for the first time for throughout the winter, members of the club on their own time have completed extensive renovations. Art Braddon announced an extensive drive for membership with particular attention being paid to former members of the club. A drive will also be instituted to obtain set of bowls that are not being used.

The women's section of the club have donated the drapes for the renovated clubhouse and many of the members are making donations of furniture. It was decided to start the club games and jitneys at eight o'clock in order that all who want to bowl will be accommodated. M. E. Semple was appointed in charge of the jitneys and he will be given the assistance of other members until the routine is mastered.

A great deal of enthusiasm was exhibited at the meeting and all members are looking forward to another splendid season on the greens.

Family Homeless After Weekend Fire

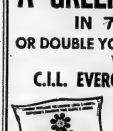
AMELIASBURG — On Saturday fire destroyed a township family's farmhouse and most of the personal belongings they had taken 17 years to accumulate. The scene of the spectacular blaze was on the third concession about seven miles south of Belleville.

Left homeless with only the clothing they were wearing were Mr. and Mrs. John Sietma and their three children Mike 15, Edna 13 and Joan 8.

About 11.30 in the morning Mr. Sietma smelled smoke in the downstairs part of the one-story wood-framed dwelling. His wife Shirley discovered the source, when she ran upstairs to investigate in the children's bedroom. When her husband opened the wall where the smoke was escaping and doused it with two pails of water from an outside well he realized he was fighting a losing battle and called for help from the Belleville Fire department.

By the time some 1,200 gallons of water from booster tanks and the supply from the family well nearby had been used up they had managed to contain the outbreak and save the shell of the building. Heat generated by the inferno inside prevented the Sietma and neighbors from moving most of the household effects to the lawn outside. Fire Chief Ted Posts could not pinpoint the origin of the outbreak when he examined the ruins along with Mr. Sietma yesterday. Mr. Sietma said the loss was only partially covered by insurance.



On Saturday the Sietmas were given shelter by neighbor and friend Bill Boema the farm manager for cattle grower Mike Levine.

Yesterday Mr. Sietma said it was necessary for his wife and him to make a trip into Belleville on Saturday night to buy clothing for their children left with only the garments they had on when they fled the burning farmhouse. Mr. Sietma is employed by a Trenton plumbing and heating concern.

LSD Controversy

The LSD controversy doubtless will wither and wane, like every other confrontation in the history of man. But meanwhile it is in the headlines as a result of the death of a Toronto youth who jumped or fell from the Bloor-Street viaduct after experimenting with LSD.

Dr. Abram Hoffer, psychiatric director of the Saskatchewan department of public health, has described LSD as a boon to mankind but a dangerous toy in the hands of persons unqualified to use it.

Experiments carried out under controlled conditions among people in various professions, from architects to editors, apparently have proved that creative powers can be heightened by use of the drug.

However, Dr. Hoffer warned that LSD can drive persons with schizophrenic tendencies "right over the hill" into disease, can influence some persons to suicide or cause accidental death by elimination of the inhibitory qualities. For example, under its influence some people think they can walk through the air.

Certainly LSD should be under medical supervision does appear to have beneficial effects and Dr. Hoffer has indicated he sees little point in prohibiting the drug. He says it would be like trying to prohibit alcohol) and would create problems similar to those experienced during the days of prohibition.

As in the case of other substances whose qualities have varying effects on individuals the key element where the public good is concerned is knowledge. It is all very well to condemn LSD as if out of hand while ignoring the fact that proper use of it could bring benefits to some.

The very fact that plants like the "rat root" of northern Canada (which gives the same effect as LSD and has been used by Indian medicine men for centuries) grows naturally seems to suggest there is a place for such elements in the natural order of things. They are part of the phenomenon of creation which includes man and the fruits of the earth and therefore have their purpose — for good or ill.

Man has a choice. Like the nuclear bomb LSD may be used to the benefit or detriment of mankind. It is the duty of medical men and researchers to discover where the truth about such drugs lies.

Values Distorted

Inflation Is Inflation Is Inflation

Montreal Gazette

The way in which inflation in Canada is eating its way into every aspect of economic life, and falsifying everything, becomes more and more apparent. The federal Government, which has the main responsibility for the control of inflation, is being penalized for its failure. In the last four years our gross head costs of the federal administration have increased by 30 per cent. The Minister of Revenue, Mr. Benson, explains that one of the main causes of this rise has been simply inflation — the general price increases. The Government, like everyone else, is forced to pay out more money for the same things.

As example of how much more it is costing to do the same things has been given by the Minister of Defence, Mr. Hellyer. When the Government of Canada says that he would seek a bigger defence budget for 1967-68, he explained that he would not ask for more money because his program is saved by the Defence Department had failed.

Of his savings, he said: "But those savings don't show up in a very short time through increased costs, unless we can get enough extra money to offset the devaluation of purchasing power." In other words, inflation has cost us so much money, even when you save money, the saving disappears — a fact that is painfully evident to any citizen.

An example of how the inflation of construction costs has eaten into the estimates has been given in October by the Minister of Justice, Mr. Bertrand. He said that work on Montreal's Palais de Justice had to be delayed because inflation had raised the costs of the project so high that it had to be reviewed.

The original estimates had put the costs at $30,000,000 to $35,000,000. But the price, mostly because of rising construction costs, had just about doubled. To make the project feasible, the plans had to be redrawn and a smaller building substituted for the one intended.

Another example of inflation's distortions is seen in the fact that the Canadian Construction Association has felt compelled to ask the Minister of Finance to stimulate investment in construction in the country, even though the figures for construction are up, not down. The Canadian Construction Association forecasts in 1967 a building program of $11,500,000,000, will be higher than 1966 in "dollar terms." But, in real values, it will be a reduction. In other words, though the construction figures are up, construction is really on the way down.

The same sort of confusion enters into labor negotiations. It is one of the guarantees of labor contracts that they should not be amended by unilateral action during the agreed period. But every labor contract is amended by inflation. As the Governor of the Bank of Canada, Mr. Louis Rasminsky, says:

"There is very little to be said in favor of income negotiations, often difficult, prolonged and costly to all concerned, which lead to agreements that are bound to be greatly amended in their final effect by subsequent increases in prices."

The same inflation that distorts income and prices, distorts taxes. It would raise particularly acute problems if the government were ever to adopt the recommendation of the Carter Commission to introduce a capital gains tax in Canada.

What are capital gains? The problems here have been pointed out to the Minister of Finance, in the brief presented a few days ago by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. If any kind of property is worth more today than it was a number of years ago, how much of the gain is real, and how much is one of inflation's illusions?

"The distortion of inflation — that is the problem, Inflation forces down every value. But the worst of all its deceptions is that inflation is associated with, even the cause, of prosperity.

The Governor of the Bank of Canada hopes that Canadians will not be taken in by that deception.

"Hope," he says, "we can do better than this. I hope that we can find a way to operate the economy at a high level of activity without price instability, by a combination of better management of demand, better policies on the supply side to increase the efficiency and productivity of the economy, and better performance of the income-determining machinery in our society."

If inflation, having distorted all the values of a country's economy, then poses as essential to its prosperity — then it would be time to forget the supreme cheat of all human history. But, as the Governor of the Bank of Canada says, it is to hope we can do better than that.

Abortion Issue and the Catholic View

In a recent letter to The Globe and Mail, Mrs. Barbara Cadbury, president of the Planned Parenthood Association, put the organization's case for birth control.

"This association," she wrote, "exists to promote the understanding and adoption of family planning by medically approved birth control. One of our reasons is that we regard birth control as the first line of defense against abortion, legal or illegal."

Mrs. Cadbury continues:

The association exists to promote the understanding and adoption of family planning by medically approved birth control. One of our reasons is that we regard birth control as the first line of defense against abortion, legal or illegal.

I was therefore distressed to read in your issue of April 7 that the editor of the Roman Catholic weekly — The Register — had stated that it was contraception which in Japan and probably Sweden "had opened the floodgates of abortion."

About Sweden first. In 1938 contraception was made legal in Sweden, and at the same time the grounds for legal abortion were made much greater; to include socio-economic as well as health. Legal abortions did increase, from 644 in 1938 to 2,378 in 1945, and to 3,223 in 1951. There is no proof, and very little likelihood, that this increase was because of the legalization of contraception. The fact that legal abortions declined in Sweden to 3,386 in 1957 might suggest the opposite, as advocacy of contraception was encouraged by the pill.

It is true that in 1957 Swedish doctors began to be more strict in the granting of abortions, and more public emphasis was put on contraception. I think the editor of The Register has confused those abortions that move from the illegal column (which always has to be an estimate) in to the legal one as an increase in abortion. They are not an increase; they are merely a move from back-kitchens and unsanitary conditions to hospitals and the best medical care.

Now about Japan. After the Japanese defeat, when the home islands of that country began to burst at the seams with the return of Japanese from their dissolving empire, the people turned of their own accord to abortion. Contraception was forbidden by the old militarist regime, and the means were hardly known. Abortion became so widespread that the demographic miracle was achieved of reducing the birth rate from approximately 34 per thousand to 17 in 12 years. This was a national blessing, helping much to account for Japan's unique position as a prosperous Asian nation. The "normal" poverty for the millions of Japanese women who suffered the abortions.

The Japanese Govern ment was cautious to introduce birth control, but this was the time of the American occupation, and the Roman Catholic Church was powerful. They were not sure through the United States. It succeeded in preventing Marie Stopes from introducing the birth control at Japanese invitation. Now all the efforts of the Government of Japan, and of the Japanese Family Planning Federation, are to replace abortion with birth control. They were not able to pursue their aim unhampered until the end of the American occupation. The floodgates of abortion came first; contraception second.

Only the few public health authorities that has kept tabs on the relation between illegal abortions and birth control services in the City of Corpus Christi, in Texas. Since it introduced birth control services the rate of bungled abortions that reach the hospitals has dropped by 40 per cent. One doctor said that since birth control availability he treats as many victims of bungled abortions in a month as he used to in a week.

Does the editor of The Register feel that the prohibition of birth control has produced more abortions? It seems an odd view though it does appear from the brief to be the supreme cheat of all human history. But, as the Governor of the Bank of Canada says, it is to hope we can do better than that.

Image and Reality

The Hollywood legend is one of the most enduring ones of our age. It survives where other world phenomena and political credos and crises wither and die.

Hollywood is Hollwood, as another Academy Award night has reminded us. Even the movie stars right are such a part of the legend just keep on going.

Just imagine . . . Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Yes, there they were on the Award night, dancing away, just like old times. And if it seems unfair to mention that Astaire is now 67 and Miss Rogers 56 it is only because the years scarcely show at all.

But they are mere youngsters compared with some. Maurice Chevalier is approaching 80 and thinking only now of retirement. And Boris Karloff, that gentlemanly master of the horror film, is also 79.

In a recent interview the English actor, who made his stage debut in Kamloops, B.C. in 1910, touched on the secrets of happiness and longevity for many. "I am one of that very small family of the human race who happens to thoroughly enjoy his work. If I didn't enjoy it, I wouldn't go on."

And then there are those other veterans of the screen, stars like James Stewart, John Wayne, Gregory Peck, yet they are still relatively young men who enjoy their work and have given a lot of pleasure to the moviegoing public.

Hollywood is still a mecca of beautiful women. Of the current crop of women stars one of the most striking is Ursula Andress. The talented Swiss-born actress has appeared 13 films, including two James Bond movies.

Miss Andress is another with a guiding philosophy. She has spoken of the money involved in film-making and the tension of it. . . "But if you enjoy what you can give pleasure to someone else, you can be very proud. And if I do well in the stock market also I feel very proud about that too." She must be wealthy enough, as it is, but is refreshingly modest about it.

And there are others whose interests are not confined to making films alone. Politics has claimed some, like Governor Ronald Reagan of California. And on the distaff side again, Jayne Mansfield, who recently attended a court hearing in Vancouver. The visit reflected her interest in the penal system and in the treatment of prisoners. Then in London the other day she caused a stir by visiting Parliament.

Of such is the legend of Hollywood. The familiar faces on the screen are likely to turn up anywhere and be recognized. They are in a sense both living and reality, and has been shown, they are human too.

Alberta's Lead

RCMP Commissioner for Ombudsman Post

Montreal Gazette

The appointment by the Government of Alberta of Commissioner George B. McClelland of the RCMP as the province's first Ombudsman (and the first to be appointed in Canada) shows what can be done. The office of Ombudsman, created in the Scandinavian countries, has been a necessary development of modern times. The more that governments grow, and the more functions they take over, the more helpless the citizen may find himself if he suffers wrong and has a grievance.

It is an odd saying that "you can't fight City Hall." But the citizen is badly armed to fight any government if he sets out against it. Ombudsman is an official whose duty it is to hear and investigate any complaint against any official anywhere in the bureaucracy.

But if he finds that the citizen has suffered a wrong, and officialdom declines to set it right, the Ombudsman has one powerful weapon on which to fall back. He has his annual report which is made public.

The shelter of the bureaucracy has always been the labyrinth it presents to any citizen with a complaint. It is the run-around. The complaining citizen, once in the labyrinth, will find many a strange and bewildering turning. Not infrequently, he will find himself retracing his own steps.

There is always one case that takes on a symbolic, classic character. And the one that proves the need for an Ombudsman is the celebrated case of Crichel Downs. It happened when the Labor Government of the United Kingdom after the Second World War. But it is the sort of thing that could happen anywhere, to anyone, under any government.

Crichel Downs is a place in Dorsetshire. In 1937 some 725 acres of it were bought by the British Air Ministry. The owners' protested, as it split their farm. But the Air Ministry said the purchase was necessary "in the public interest." It needed a training range on that site.

The years passed. In 1945 the Air Ministry had no further use for the land, and the public, it might be assumed, had no further interest in it.

The original owners wanted their land back, that their fields might be restored, but no fur. They begged for it. They offered to buy, rent or farm it. But the Air Ministry would not let them farm it under any conditions. The 725 acres of Crichel Downs were equipped as a separate farm.

This involved considerable outlay, for which no adequate return was likely to be secured. The land was then sold to the Commissioners of Crown Lands. By them it was let to a tenant, in the labyrinth, will find many a strange and bewildering turning. Not infrequently, he will find himself retracing his own steps.

The whole matter would have been lost in the official files, buried away, out of sight. It would all seem a routine matter decided "in the public interest." But this particular case was brought up in the House of Commons. A special report was brought down in the Crichel Downs case by Sir Andrew Clark Q.C.

Sir Andrew's report was alive with sprightly and incisive comment. He found that the more the original owners of Crichel Downs asserted their reasonable claim, the more the government officials showed the feeling of irritation that any member of the public should have the temerity to oppose or even question the acts or decisions of officials of a Government or State Department."

It is not possible for Parliament to investigate every instance of complaint. But need life and frustration be precisely stated in Sir Andrew Clark's report: the citizen must have not only the remedy but the right to question the acts and decisions of officials, if he believes he has suffered injustice. And what is more important still, he must have the right.

This means is the Ombudsman. Alberta has set the example. It should be followed by every government. Otherwise the citizen, with his complaint in his hand, going into the labyrinth will remain, as he is today, the perfect embodiment of the forlorn hope.

They Can Always Go Home

Letter in Windsor Star

I note you are persisting in printing those anti-British letters from obvious cranks.

One minute you are blathering about peace and unity in the world, then you inhabit the rubbish about how we might all have a TV set free if we dumped Royalty.

If anyone doesn't like being in a commonwealth country, then he hasn't got to be unduly unhappy about it; go back wherever you came from. The system we have is instituted by a free democratic Canadian government.

If there is anything wrong with it, we can't blame it on the Queen. Those cranks would still be members of some type of society they lived in, so please don't encourage them.

French explorers from Montreal captured the British fort at the confluence of the Ohio and Allegheny Rivers 213 years ago today — in 1754 — and named it Fort Duquesne. It was recaptured by the British in 1758, rebuilt and renamed Fort Pitt in honor of the British prime minister, only to be abandoned in 1772. The city of Pittsburgh now stands on the site.

World Armament Bill $130 Billion in 1964

Christian Science Monitor

The world expenditure for armaments remains astronomical and continues to rise. According to a recently released United States study, all nations spent more that $130 billion on defense in 1964.

What will $130 billion buy? It is enough money to construct more than 8.6 million houses at $15,000 each. And it is equivalent to twice the value of total new construction, both private and public, in the United States in 1964.

It is enough to purchase more than 65.3 million automobiles at $2,000 each. And that is almost six times the 1964 production of automobiles in the United States.

It is enough to send 1644 million students from grade four years of college at an American public university at an average cost of $8,000 per student. And this is over three times the total number of students enrolled in American institutions of higher education in 1964.

One hundred thirty billion dollars is a lot of money. It comes to about $40 for every human being on earth. While that may seem an insignificant figure to those from prosperous lands, its significance can be better appreciated when we consider that in 14 of the world's poorest countries the average per capita annual income is less than $50. (The comparative figure for the United States is from $2,300—$2,400.)

While the United States and the Soviet Union together accounted for about two-thirds of the total, the study compiled for the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency showed that underdeveloped nations have been increasing their defense expenditures more rapidly than the economically developed.

No country in the world, given the choice between defense and development, can afford this expenditure. But least of all those nations whose people live at bare subsistence levels and whose most pressing need to invest in development. However difficult it may be to achieve arms control, disarmament, and peace among nations, we can only conclude, if we stop to count the economic and human costs, that mankind must find a more effective system to maintain security and solutions to international disputes.

Foreign Industrialists Look for Fundamentals in Export Lines

OTTAWA (CP) — For those who are not actively engaged in export business there may be some surprises in the current trade department drive to capitalize on Canada's export sales potential.

More than 60 trade commissioners, now mostly stationed abroad have been brought back to Canada for an extensive tour of the major cities, in which they will be available for interviews by local businessmen.

They gathered in Ottawa last week for a pep talk by Trade Minister Winters and for conferences with trade department headquarters people. While this was going on there was an event which, in a way, crystallized some of the new thinking that is being done about exports.

Iawa of a 10-man delegation, representing the forest industries of Southeast Asia. They were brought to Canada from the Philippines, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and the republic of China to look at forest products equipment that Canada might sell abroad.

One of the Filipino delegates said that forestry operations in his islands was not unlike the Tish was the arrival in Ot-smaller mill operations of Brit-ish Columbia, 20 to 30 years ago. Half of the mahogany output of the Philippines goes to the United States, and 40 per cent of it is used locally.

The Thai delegate said his colleagues in the forest industries of Thailand had never thought of looking to Canada for equipment. They had always regarded Canada as a customer of United States equipment manufacturers, not as an equipment producer itself.

And a delegate from Malaya said his country was interested in exporting kiln-dried lumber. He had found kiln builders in Canada who could produce just the kind of kilns his country needed.

All of the countries were interested in getting technical assistance from Canada. But they were not interested in outside capital coming in and taking over such a resource industry as forestry.

And basic to their needs is basic equipment. There are countries where labor is cheap and plentiful. They don't want sophisticated, labor-saving devices added to their basic equipment. It is preferable to them and to their economies to hire 10 or 100 more to do the job that might be done by one modern North American machine.

So the Southeast Asian group made a suggestion to Canadian manufacturers wanting to do some export business to add to their production lines. It is that they don't emphasize all the latest gimmickry of their lines of merchandise, but go back to fundamentals.

KEEP THE ROPE

ST. HELIER (AP)—The parliament of Jersey, one of the British Channel Islands, has voted 28-23 to keep the death penalty for murder, although Britain has abolished it. Three death sentences in the last 18 months were commuted to life imprisonment and the last execution was in 1959, when a British hangman brought his equipment from the mainland.

Sea Cadets of Quinte Corps Again Capture Marsden Cup

Sharpshooting sea cadets in Belleville are splicing the mainsheet, while over in Picton the bell bottomed lads are probably keelhauled.

For the fourth time in a row, RCSCC Quinte has captured the Marsden Trophy for marksmanship.

On Sunday, 70 of the neatly-clad-minded young men blasted away at the bullseye, not from the four-inch mount on a pitching frigate but on the calm deck of the Belleville Armouries.

They sailed in from as far away as Ottawa and Port Hope to compete for the silverware which was donated by the past commanding officer of RCSCC St. Lawrence to encourage small bore competition among area sea cadet corps.

The first shoot was held in Kingston in 1963. The trophy went to the Belleville team of that day and has been deposited here ever since.

Out of a possible 400 points, RCSCC Quinte Team 1 hoisted the signal flags on the halyard for 344. RCSCC Falkland of Ottawa responded with 338.

Team 2 from Quinte were only five points behind for a berth in the third hammock.

Cornwall and Port Hope edged RCSCC Trent back into sixth spot. The tastebuts from the six force town managed to nail 308 points.

Two teams from Kingston were seventh and eighth, with another team from Cornwall ninth. RCSCC Hallowell from Picton walked the plank last with 250 points.

Chief Petty Officer James Kaiser led RCSCC Quinte Team 1 in to battle. Petty Officer Second Class Pierre Mercier, Leading Sea Cadet Brian Bevan and Able Sea Cadet Gordon Farrow were his champion crew.

To prove that the deck hands are just as good as that top heavy with brass, non commissioned officer group, David Magee, Stephen Rose, Thomas Fresser and Stephen Buckles, all Able Sea Cadets comprised third place Team 2, just 13 points behind.

Coach of the two winning RCSCC Quinte teams was W. A. Bennett, an instructor and former sea cadet of the local corps.

On the plus side of the industrial list, Alcan and Inco rose ¼ each to 3 and 95.

Among western oils, Hudson's Bay rose ¼ to 35 and Canadian Superior ⅜ to 27½.

Dome paced the gold group lower dropping ¼ to 43¼.

Kerr - Addison countered the trend by rising ⅛ to 12⅜ and Hollinger followed suit with a rise of ⅛ to 23¼.

Speculatives remained generally inactive with United Keno and Leitch rising 15 cents each to 3.50 and 7.60 respectively.

Home for Wayward Girls Started on a Shoestring

TORONTO (CP) — Street Haven, a centre in downtown Toronto where women just out of jail can get a cup of coffee and an understanding ear, is a dream fulfilled for Peggy Ann Walpole.

Three years ago, with $20, the former nurse founded a rehabilitation centre for female ex-convicts, drug addicts, prostitutes, lesbians, alcoholics and girls from broken and foster-homes. Today it operates on a $22,000 budget.

Sixty volunteers working with the Children's Aid Society and on the streets, in jails and courts, and using a growing list of volunteer services, help the weekly average of 70 to 80 girls find jobs, accommodation, medical and psychological help.

"We started at the bottom level trying to restore the girls' self-respect by giving them a reason to change and showing them how," says Miss Walpole. "But I never realized it would go as far as it has.

"I never really expected success and I got a heck of a lot more than I ever thought I would. Many of the girls have taken real strides forward."

Miss Walpole recognizes, however, that Street Haven isn't a cure-all. Often girls who seem to have been successfully rehabilitated turn up at the centre.

Some come back because of loneliness and lack of contact with the community, "and Miss Walpole would like to see more volunteers available to follow up in helping the girls meet people and make a new life.

Miss Walpole says authorities in Kingston, Ont., have tried to persuade her to open a similar centre there. She adds that she is convinced it would be a worth-while project but hasn't decided yet where to go.

Although Street Haven is primarily for women, it recently helped two men, a drug addict and ex-convict. The addict is doing well at a full-time job and the ex-convict has found acceptance among the women of Street Haven, surprising in view of the large number of lesbians who use its facilities.

"I don't intend to hang out a shingle for men," Miss Walpole says, "but the need was there. They were desperately sick and I decided they were no different from any others who are ill. It has worked well."

Prospective volunteers undergo a training program directed by Miss Walpole and those who come to work at Street Haven seem infected with her enthusiasm.

Florence Waterworth, a part-time volunteer who now works at the centre full time, says:

"I'm sold on it. I could go out and get a job where I could earn more money but that's not what I'm interested in. I love the work and the girls because they, in particular, need someone to care for them."

Mrs. Waterworth's sentiments echo those of the founder who says: "I sincerely like these kids and I don't feel human beings should be shoved around and rejected."

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

Work was the magic word on Tuesday afternoon when members of Christ Church Parish Guild met at the home of Mrs. Horace Wright for the April meeting. Preparations for the forthcoming blossom tea and sale were the order of the day and everyone was busy with sewing and preparing lovely items for sale.

Mrs. D. G. Livingston, president, was in charge of the business portion of the meeting which included reports from the various conveners and correspondence. The Guild will cater for two wedding receptions and two dinners during the month of May and also hold their annual tea and sale at the end of the month. Members were urged to do their best to help at these various functions. Mrs. Hickey reported on the outstanding success of the rummage sale held recently, the proceeds of which will be forwarded to Rev. and Mrs. John Jeffries towards their work in northern Saskatchewan. Another rummage sale will be held at the end of this month.

Mrs. J. R. Cousins, reporting on the progress of the Blossom Tea and Sale, said that tickets had been distributed and conveners for the various booths will be meeting shortly. All were urged to help make this event an outstanding effort.

Club Activities

ALBERT COLLEGE WOMEN'S GUILD

The job of the press, how well it does its job and its future job was the topic of a talk given by Mrs. Gordon Williamson at the April meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild.

Mrs. Williamson stated that the job of the press is to make the complaints, requests and attitudes of the people known. A publisher can print what he pleases but he has to please his customers if he wants to sell his product. The publisher has a great responsibility to his customers, for the press is the eyes, ears, voice and conscience of the people. The reaction of the public tells how well the paper is doing its job. Editors enjoy criticisms and comments in letters-to-the-editor column.

It is surprising to note that in the future the news may come in the form of a little capsule which you will slip into a Rube Goldberg contraption and with a flick of a switch you will be there in the jungles of Viet Nam with a battle raging around you on all four sides while you observe and draw your own conclusions. The techniques used will be developments of the present day tape recorder, microfilm, television, satellite and electron communications devices.

The daily press of Canada is characterized by a calm and level-headed tone and thus accurately mirrors a calm and balanced nation. It is free to say whatever it likes about politicians. It is honest in that Canadians cannot buy their way into the news' columns; and, what is more important, they can't buy their way out of them.

Mrs. Williamson was introduced by Miss Helen Sulman who was in charge of the program. During the devotional period she read an article expressing the importance of little things. In this time when everyone seems to be impressed by big things it is well to remember that "little things well done are the secret of success."

Mrs. Gage Smith, the president, conducted the business of the meeting and Mrs. N. Brown and her committee served refreshments at the close of the meeting. Mrs. H. B. Fetterley and Mrs. Bedell presided at the tea table.

Reader Does Not See Actual Necessity For Signing His Real Name and Address

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: I have no particular trouble that I cannot solve myself at the moment, with the help of the Lord. But I think you are doing a great deal of good to many.

One thing I object to, and it is this: You always insist on real name and address. Well I think that is one reason they write you, young people in trouble who don't want anyone to know it and they feel they can tell you. You don't know them and they don't know you, and they feel free to unburden themselves.

If it is not necessary to write them personally, why insist on an address? I may be wrong; likely am. — Just One Beef.

Dear Beef: (1) It proves the writer is serious. I find that unsigned letters come from pranksters, cranks, and hardcore-hys who want to answer as antagonist with a complaint in my column.

(2) The timid young person may still unburden without any fear of disclosure.

(3) I can reply privately, when a column answer would suppose far too late to be helpful; or when the problem is one I have already covered in the column.

(4) Editors would think I needed my head read if I did not ask for identification.

P.S. I still try to get some sort of message to any desperate unidentified young person. But please don't tell them!

Dear Doris: Our son age nine has started to steal. We have tried nearly everything but he has never been actually caught stealing. I believe he should have some professional help but my husband says he will outgrow it. I do not know how I can get psychiatric help as we have none in this city and my husband says I can expect no help from him.

Doris, I blame myself. I have thought of just walking out and I am at my wit's end. I have been wondering if a child had seen a member of the family steal would he then be could do the same? — Ashamed.

Dear Shamed: The very fact that you and your husband are so at odds about this — and that you even think of walking out — suggests a home atmosphere to start a child climbing the walls, or raiding the purses, or kicking over the traces.

Yes: it could be an example he is following. What ever started it, the chances are simindeed that it will correct itself. What started it needs the treatment.

Could the real culprits be your son's two best loved adults?

Dear Doris: Both of my girls wanted lipstick at age 12, so I let them choose the color they wanted, and pay for it themselves.

After a few tries and rather unflattering remarks from their five brothers, they decided that they had missed completely. Now it is a chore to get the oldest (16) to put lipstick on for a special occasion. Both are quite pretty, with or without the stuff, and happy as well because nobody will let them wear it if they wish. Ellen.

Dear Ellen: Nice going!

Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Jim: "I hate arithmetic. why should I bother with it? I don't see what good it will ever do me."

Father: "Don't talk so silly. You'll use arithmetic all your life. I don't see how you can be so unconcerned."

Jim needs specific help, not scolding. Perhaps he simply doesn't know his multiplication tables. In the spirit of a game, go over and over the tables, until he can give the answers easily.

The normal child these days is deeply concerned about his school work. When he says he hates a subject, his words may be a cover-up for his feelings of inadequacy.

Psychiatrists's Couch Poor Marriage Bed

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am married to a psychiatrist who is in many ways a fine man and a good father. Our problem is communication. He refuses to talk to me about our areas of disagreement, even though his basic professional training emphasizes the need for communication. When I ask him to tell me what is bothering him he says, "I don't care to discuss it."

I have suggested that we see a marriage counselor together. He refuses on two grounds. First, "How would it look?" Second: "Marriage counsellors don't have the psychiatric or psychoanalytical training that I have. How can they help me?"

I am no romantic. I realize that perfect communication between two people is rare, but our relationship is on precarious ground because my husband will not talk to me about our problems.

He doesn't admire many people, but he has often said he respects your common sense. Do you have some advice that might help us both? — CALIFORNIA CRY FOR HELP.

+ +

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Another case where the shoemaker's kids are going barefoot. I have repeatedly pointed out the difference between possessing know-how and having the ability to apply it to one's own life.

How many physicians do you know who are grossly overweight — or smoking themselves to death — or drinking heavily? I know a bright insurance man whose home was vandalized recently, and he was not covered.

Your husband is one of many who is unable to use what he knows. Since you write, you are obviously the one who is troubled. I suggest that you go to a counsellor alone. You need an outlet for your bottled frustrations.

+ +

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the girl who was left stranded and pregnant by the sailor who claimed he loved her until he found out she was in a family way. The sad victim suggested that every girl, before she consents to sleep with her boy friend, ask him to sign a paper saying he slept with her on such and such a night.

Her opinion was that he would change his mind in a hurry.

You requested the girls in your reading audience with persistent boy friends to try out the suggestion and let you know what happened. Well, I am a man who would like to tell you how it worked with me.

For several months I tried, without success, to get my girl to sleep with me. She said unless I signed a paper, there would be no sex. Reluctantly, I signed. It worked out great. We have been sleeping together for 14 years and have three dividends to prove it. The paper I signed was a marriage licence. — SMART OKIE.

DEAR OKIE: Stop congratulating yourself. I know of someone who was smarter than you were. Your wife.

Spring Tea Rosettes

By MARY MOORE

Bridal showers and spring teas are in the wind and I have made a pretty start to help you with your particular efforts.

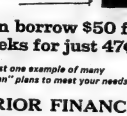
Rosettes are pink cocoanut macaroons that are decorated with little crescents of marschino cherries to make them resemble petals.

These pretty little macaroons are foolproof for they are started in the top of the double boiler. You can make 24 large ones — 2½" in diameter — or 48 smaller ones. They are so pretty they will make any trayful of dainty teatime cookies attractive.

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
¼ tsp. red food coloring
1 tsp. almond flavoring (or rose water if you can buy it in your drugstore)
2 cups desiccated cocoanut
Drain marschino cherries each cut into eighths

In the top of the double boiler beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Mix together the sugar and cornstarch and beat them slowly into egg whites. Place over boiling water and beat for 5 to 7 min. or until mixture softly holds its shape. Remove from heat and add red food coloring, flavoring and cocoanut. Have ready two or three cookie sheets covered with buttered wax paper or use buttered teflon pans (as I did) and spoon mixture onto pans — about 1" apart. These do not spread. A heaping measuring teaspoonful makes a good measure and yields 48 rosettes. Place four little crescents of marschino cherry around edges of each to give rose effect.

Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 15 to 18 min.



NOTE:—If you make only 24 large rosettes they require 25 minutes baking time. These keep well for two or three days that I know of. Maybe longer but ours did not last because we were hungry.

Abduction Was Not Planned

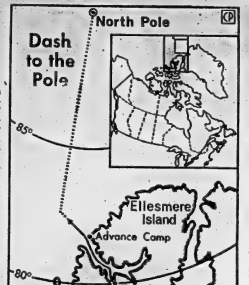
BERLIN (Reuters)—A man charged with kidnapping four-year - old Audrey Klewer of Montreal from her grandfather's home here apparently took the girl as an afterthought, the prosecution said at the start of his trial today.

Prosecutor Alfred Atzrott, who read the charges of kidnaping, blackmail, theft, robbery and having a forged passport, said Juergen Henschel, 22, entered the home of Erich Klewer, the girl's grandfather, Aug. 22 with the intention of stealing.



However, Atzrott said Henschel was apparently taken by surprise at the arrival for a visit by Audrey and her mother, Regina Klewer, 28, a Montreal secretary.

The prosecutor said Henschel waited until girl, then bound and chloroformed the mother stole a ring from her finger, and then took Audrey to his mother's apartment.

Later he took Audrey to a deserted garden shed where he left her, before fleeing to Norway where he was arrested Sept. 11 after an international police search.

Officials said Henschel tried to commit suicide in prison by hanging himself from a window bar, but the makeshift bed-sheet rope snapped.

Accused of helping him were his mother, Anni Henschel, 51, his brother Joachim, 19, and friend Peter Ulrich, 19, who was charged with giving Henschel the chloroform used on Audrey's mother.

Icy Journey to Pole

An expedition of Americans and a Canadian headed for the North Pole by motorized sled over the polar ice cap had nearly 600 miles to go as of Wednesday, April 12. Led by Ralph S. Plaisted of St. Paul, Minn., the group was 210 miles north of its base camp at Eureka on Ellesmere Island in the Northwest Territories. The five-man advance party hopes to become the first to reach the North Pole overland since Admiral Robert E. Perry accomplished it in 1909. (CP Newsmap)

Governor-General Takes Oath Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Roland Michener was to be sworn in today as the 20th Governor-General since Confederation — the first Canadian head of state born in this century.

With his ascent to the vice-regal throne, he becomes the third native Canadian to occupy the post.

The installation takes place in the Senate, where his late father once sat as a Conservative member from Alberta.

Only six weeks ago the Red Chamber was the focal point of national mourning as the body of Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Mr. Michener's predecessor, rested there in state.

Supreme Court justices, the federal cabinet, some provincial premiers, MPs and military leaders were among the 720 official guests.

The hour - long ceremony, starting at 11 a.m. EST was being carried live on the CBC network.

Personal guests of the Micheners included their three daughters, Mrs. Leslie Lawrence of Toronto, better known as Wendy Michener, a CBC producer and Maclean's magazine columnist; Mrs. Roy Schitt of Toronto; and Mrs. Ronald Lohr of Providence, R.I. and her two children.

Pageantry was to be supplied by some 1,000 servicemen, including six trumpeters, a 700-man guard of honor in bearskin hats and scarlet tunics, and two bands.

Cloudy skies and temperatures nearing 50 were expected.

Mr. Michener and his wife, the former Norah Willis, were to be driven to Parliament Hill in a limousine with a motorcycle escort. They were to leave in a horse-drawn state landau, escorted by mounties carrying ceremonial lances.

Their appointment, normally for a five-year term, was announced April 5 by Queen Elizabeth and Prime Minister Pearson.

The new Governor - General and Mr. Pearson have been friends since they played hockey together at Oxford in 1919.

Mr. Michener attended Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar and returned to Canada to build a career in law and business.

When appointed Speaker of the Commons in 1957, he resigned from the boards of 26 companies.

In five years as Speaker, he gained the respect of all parties and after defeat as a Conservative MP, was offered the post of permanent Speaker by Mr. Pearson.

He declined and in 1961 was appointed high commissioner to India, the post he held when chosen to become Governor-General.

Mr. and Mrs. Michener arrived here from New Delhi Friday after stopping in Britain for a night as guests of the Queen.

They spent a quiet weekend at the first occupants of 7 Rideau Gate, refurbished at a cost of $200,000 as an official guest house for the stream of boards of state due this summer.

It is located across the street from Rideau House, the official vice-regal residence.

Mrs. Michener, a hostess sensitive to the intricacies of protocol, has estimated that she and her husband entertained 1,000 guests during their two years in New Delhi.

While her husband was Speaker, Mrs. Michener wrote a handbook of social dos and don'ts for wives of MPs.

A native of Manitoba who was raised in Vancouver, she studied at the Toronto Conservatory of Music and in 1933—after 10 years of part-time study—was awarded a doctor's degree in philosophy.

Mr. Michener was born April 19, 1900, in what was then part of the Northwest Territories and now is Lacombe, Alta.

Raised in Red Deer on what is now Michener Hill, he was the youngest member of a boy scout troop that distinguished itself by correcting a man wanted for attempted murder of the chief of police.

His parents went west from Lincoln County, Ont., where his father was born, appropriately enough, in 1867.

During the weekend, Mr. Michener put the finishing touches to his installation speech and took communion at St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church.

Kingston Leads Effort To Get New Tax Source

TORONTO (CP)—In a time of spiralling taxes, at least one municipal government is questioning the theory that the man who owns the property should pay for the sidewalks, teacher salaries and the fire hydrants.

In Kingston, officials say the municipalities' tax spiral will not end until more aid to local school boards and welfare comes from the provincial government.

In an attempt to ease taxation pressure, Kingston Mayor Robert Fray has set a committee of aldermen to study means other than property taxes to raise money.

Among the ideas come suggestions to install a bar in Kingston's Memorial Arena and to ask the province for a few sweepstakes. Auto taxes, municipal sales taxes and a poll tax were mentioned as possible new tax bases.

In Northern Ontario, Pembroke and Sturgeon Falls decided that the easiest way was to avoid what they could not afford—the former was to fire one of 19 policemen and the latter to do without 13 of 85 high school teachers for the coming year.

The tax increase ranges from $4 in Niagara Falls to $80 in Bay Ridges on the fringe of Metropolitan Toronto.

The "average" house in Metropolitan Toronto with three or four bedrooms and an assessment of $8,000 will have a levy of about $50 more than last year.

In other Ontario cities and towns the increase this year will be about: Hamilton, $20; London, $45; Kingston, $60; Brantford, $20; Oshawa, $40; Ottawa $37 and $22 for Chatham.

Some smaller communities have managed to scrape by without plant increases. Gananoque, in the Thousand Islands area, has the average man paying only $2 more this year. Suburban coin in unities receive the heaviest punch from the taxman. These are the areas to which ex - urbanites have often fled to avoid high inner-city housing prices and taxes.

The climb in school costs is at the root of the tax increases and many communities, like Pembroke and Sturgeon Falls, are pinching school budgets just to make municipal taxes bearable.

Property taxes supply most of the money the town and school governments depend on.

Despite an increase of about 4.5 mills in London, Ont., school taxes, the city is having problems.

Harry Rockey, executive secretary of the London Board of Education, said:

"We've had to curtail our capital building. There's no money in the budget for acquiring new school sites, something we should do a year before we build, and I know we're going to have to go out and buy one," he said.

Mr. Rockey spoke of general economies all round. He said that the board is limiting plant maintenance, delaying the buying of heavy instruction equipment and more data-processing equipment.

Chatham's Mayor Garnet Kird says the establishment of a provincial-municipal formula in which the provincial government pays for education and welfare would let municipal property taxes pay for property services.

Toronto Township residents face taxes an average $40 increase and the local council is thinking of asking developers to provide school sites and pay the costs of school construction before development permits are issued.

Municipal councillors find the ever - growing demands of school boards a double-barrel since the boards cannot be refused. Unless a municipality wants to appeal a school board demand to the Ontario Municipal Board, it must give whatever money the school trustees ask.

The two rebel communities of Sturgeon Falls and Pembroke both ran into trouble by cutting the budget. Eighty high school teachers threatened to resign in Sturgeon Falls when it moved to reduce teaching staff and the attorney-general threatened to move Provincial Police into Pembroke and charge them for keep if they did not provide at least 19 police officers.

Iowa Twister Kills Woman

KEOSAUQUA, Iowa (AP) — One person was killed and about a dozen were injured Sunday night when a tornado struck the northern edge of this southeastern Iowa community of 1,000.

The twister uprooted trees, downed power lines, damaged several farms and mobile homes.

Mrs. Helen Scull, who lived in a mobile home in the path of the tornado, was killed, and her husband, Delbert, was critically injured.

The tornado also struck the tiny community of Lebanon, 10 miles west of here, and Stockport, 12 miles northeast of here. Several Lebanon residents were injured.

Astronaut Will Never Orbit Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Navy Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter, the second American to orbit the earth, has abandoned all hope of ever flying in space again after surgery failed to mend a once-broken arm.

This leaves only two of the famed original seven Mercury astronauts—navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and air force Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr.—available for space missions. One, air force Lt.-Col. Virgil I. Grissom, died in the Apollo 1 spaceship fire Jan. 27 along with two other astronauts.

Carpenter, who will be 42 in two weeks smashed his left arm just below the elbow in 1964 when his motorcycle skidded off a road in Bermuda. Injury to the bone hampers his ability to rotate his arm properly.

Douglas Said Not Real Chief

TIMMINS (CP)— Donald S. Macdonald, Liberal member of Parliament for Rosedale, said Sunday that Tommy Douglas is not the real leader of the New Democratic Party, "just a bomb thrower."

Calling Mr. Douglas "a sword out of Castro", Mr. Macdonald said it is hypocritical that Mr. Douglas makes attacks on the U.S. whenever possible because the NDP is financed by unions, the majority of which are in the U.S.

Mr. Macdonald said someone in Parliament was feeding information and replies to Mr. Douglas that were not his own. Mr. Macdonald was speaking to the annual meeting of the Timmins Liberal Association.

SPORTSLICE

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association, according to a secretarial directive is strongly opposed to changes in minor age dates as suggested by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

It also opposed a suggested date change as proposed by the Niagara District Minor Hockey Association without authorization of the OMHA.

The present basis if it stays as at present calls for junior for players born after May 31, 1947; juvenile, May 31, 1949; midget, May 31, 1951; bantam, May 31, 1953 and peewee, May 31, 1955.

If the basis as passed by the CAHA coupled with alleviation for one season with junior, the new dates would be juvenile, for players born after December 31, 1948; midget after December 31, 1950; bantam, December 31, 1951 and peewee, December 31, 1953.

Junior would be for players born after May 31, 1947 for the 1967-68 season and then would be for players born after December 31st nor the 1968-69 season.

OMHA secretary Gary McLeod states that his organization has advised the OHA that "we take strong exception to any change being made in the minor age date. That is the date should remain May 31st of the playing season. The fact is the players that are good enough for junior hockey will be playing junior anyway, and the proposed change will only deprive many juvenile age players of another year of hockey."

"Further," McLeod states, "there are two rules now benefitting junior hockey, one is the rule in effect in regard to over-age midgets having a choice of playing either juvenile or junior in the same town. The other rule allows midget and juvenile players to move up to junior in "C" or "D" towns on their minor cards."

"The Niagara Minor Hockey Association," says McLeod, "through an appointed committee sent questionnaires to all OMHA centres asking for support in changing the date to January 1st rather than December 31st."

"I want to make it clear," states the OMHA secretary, "that the Niagara Association did not have the authorization of the OMHA to conduct such a poll."

"I am advised," he goes on, "that out of 216 centres polled, some 158 have returned the questionnaires in favor of the change to January 1st. There was, of course, no mention in the questionnaire asking the OMHA centres as to whether or not they were in favor of leaving the date as at present, May 31st, which has been in effect for the past three or four years."

The NDMHA indicated their sole objective was to establish the date of January 1st because it would be more consistent with most other minor sports played in this country. It was also indicated the OMHA should emphasize the January date in its presentation on to the OHA.

Says McLeod: - "The OMHA is not necessarily concerned with the uniformity of dates for all sports. Our prime concern is for the minor hockey eligibility letter as Ontario minor hockey players are concerned."

"This is the indication the OMHA has made to the OHA," says McLeod. "We are strongly opposed to any change of age date in December 31st and wish to see the date remain as it is at the present time that is May 31st of the playing season."

McLeod reminds all OMHA centres to keep in mind that Ontario is not the only province involved. There are nine interested and the decision in this case must be made by a democratic vote of approved delegates to the CAHA annual meeting in the middle of May.

"The OMHA has made known its thinking to the OHA who will have the vote at the CAHA meeting. The final decision will rest with the CAHA and that decision, of course, must be abided by the OMHA no matter what date is accepted," McLeod says.

ANDY CAPP

Beats Hawks 4-2 ★★★★★

Sawchuk; Horatio At The Bridge!

★★★★★ Mikita Out?

CHICAGO (CP)—The name—Terry Sawchuk!

And Sawchuk was the story of the fifth game of the Stanley Cup semi-final series between Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sawchuk went into the Toronto nets at the start of the second period Saturday with the game tied 2-2. And that ended the Chicago scoring. The Hawks could knock Sawchuk down, but they couldn't get past him. Leafs won the game 4-2.

"What can you say," said Chicago coach Billy Reay. "The guy was fantastic, we couldn't beat him. We went at the Toronto net 66 times and 43 shots were on target."

Sawchuk, Utley to his Leaf team-mates, made 37 saves—22 in the final period. He replaced Johnny Bower who made 10 stops and allowed the two goals in the first period.

Even Toronto coach Punch Imlach, who is usually reticent after one player stands out, praised Sawchuk.

"He was fantastic. It's one of the best games I've ever seen him play, some of the saves were almost unbelievable."

The victory gives the Leafs a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series and the advantage of home ice in the sixth game Tuesday night at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Winner of the series meets Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley Cup.

When he was unable to take part in a free skate called by Reay Sunday to loosen the team up the coach fated Mikita as a doubtful starter.

"It looks as if he isn't going to make it at all," said Reay.

The game produced one casualty — an important one for Chicago. Stan Mikita aggravated a pulled muscle in his right leg and may not play for the Black Hawks Tuesday night.

He hurt the muscle in Thursday's game and it apparently bothered him Saturday. Mikita who led the NHL in scoring this season, took his regular shift Saturday and played on the power-play.

The big question after the game was why did Bower suddenly decide to leave the Toronto nets?

"I told Punch that I was a bit shaky and wasn't feeling just right," said Bower who was making his first start in the series since injuring his finger at the Leafs training camp in Peterborough, Ont.

"I said maybe you better put in Ubey. This is an important game to the guys, a lot depends on it. Ubey is real hot."

Mike Walton, Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski and Jim Pappin scored for Toronto. Lou Angotti and Bobby Hull got the Black Hawks goals.

"I don't know what happened on their first (Angotti's) goal," said Bower. "All I know is the puck hit my stick and turned it around as it went in."

A shirt - sleeved crowd of 16,666, sweltering in 71-degree temperatures, sensed a battle when Sawchuk came into the nets.

It was nearly a disaster. Almost as soon as play got under way Sawchuk was hit in the left shoulder by a sizzling slapshot from Hull. The Toronto netminder spun around and felt heavily to the ice.

"I was afraid that I'd hit him in the neck or throat," said Hull, who thought Sawchuk was seriously injured by the 30-foot shot.

But Sawchuk, a veteran of 18 seasons in the National Hockey League, picked himself up, and after shaking off the numbing effects of the shot continued the game.

After, Sawchuk was asked if he'd seen the shot.

"Are you kidding. All you do is hope that it hits you. Especially when Bobby Hull is the guy at the other end. There's no skill to that."

Of Sawchuk's 13 saves in the second period, only a couple were really difficult. But in the third period—nearly every shot was a potential goal.

Pat Stapleton got away at least six slapshots, Hull concionally peppered the net from the point and Stan Mikita was frustrated from close-in drives.

Sawchuk did everything. He leaped, sprawled, twisted, jumped, fell and kicked out the Hawk scoring threats. His best save was on a close breakaway by Doug Mohns.

Amerks Win Marathon

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the most rewarding aspects of being in the American Hockey League playoffs right now for Baltimore Clippers and Rochester Americans must be that they get a day off between games.

The teams put on a marathon performance Sunday that ended with Gerry Ehman whipping the puck past Baltimore goalie Gilles Villemure for a 4-3 victory after just over five periods of hockey.

The victory gave the Americans a 1-0 lead in their best-of-five semi-final for the right to go against Pittsburgh Hornets, who defeated Hershey Bears 4-0 Saturday to win their semi-final series four games to one.

The 104 minutes and 18 seconds played prior to Ehman's goal at 4:18 of the third 20-minute overtime period was short of the AHL record of 122 minutes and 42 seconds registered April 4, 1938, between Syracuse and Cleveland.

The goal surprised everyone, perhaps Ehman most of all, since it was his first in six playoff games and his first at home since March 19.

Commercial Hockey

S. Warner Wins Title

Stewart Warner won the Commercial "B" Hockey League title and Belvedere Hotel took the consolation trophy award as the hockey season came to a close in Belleville yesterday.

Stewart Warner defeated Popal's 6-3 to take the championship series three games to one, with one tie.

Belvedere whipped American Optical 9-3 and took the consolation series 3-1 with one tie.

Gord Irwin and Ray Mambert scored two goals each for the Warnerman's victory with hoots for Wayne Walls and "Pug" Kellar, Kellar also had two assists, Jerry Doyle, Waite, Irwin and Garry Rowbotham one each.

Paul Rattan collected a goal and assist for Popal's with Stu Muirhead and Duke Doran adding the other goals. Ralph Boomhower helped on one.

Jack Hughes was a one-man scoring machine for Belvedere. He rattled home three consecutive goals in the early going and added another back-to-back pair later for a total of five. Les Moreau scored two, Bruce McGrimmon and Larry Stewart one each. Jerry Di Donia had four assists, Stewart two, Hughes and John Smith one each.

Gerry Jones potted two goals, Doug Phillips had a goal and assist and Dick Stewart one assist for Optical.

Arrangements for the league banquet and dance are being made.

Why is spring a good time to get the bug?

Spring is skipping out of the house and shifting for yourself. And a Volkswagen is a great car to shift in. (The four-speed stick shift lets you drive the car. Not vice versa. And helps save money on gas, too.)

Spring is following the siren sound of the open road. But drive carefully or the sirens will be following you. (Cruising speed in a VW is 75 miles an hour.)

Spring is getting off the beaten track and making tracks of your own. (You can drive right up to your picnic spot in a Volkswagen. It has the traction to go in mud and sand. And a torsion bar suspension that'll get you over the roughest bumps. No springs to be sprung.)

Spring is when money doesn't grow on trees. (With new clothes to buy and last year's taxes to pay, it's good to know that new Volkswagens start as low as $1796.*)

That's what spring is. And why you'll enjoy it more in a Volkswagen.

So see us soon. Spring expires on June 21st.

Lead 3-0

Marlies Shade Wings

TORONTO (CP)—An irresistible urge to carry the puck into the opponent's end of the ice has marked the play of Toronto Marlboros defenceman Mike Pelyk all through the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season.

His persistence has often left him far out of position, to the annoyance of team-mates and coach Gus Bodnar.

But one of Pelyk's forays paid off with the game-winning goal Sunday as the Marlboros defeated hi-semifinal Junior Red Wings 3-2 to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final series.

"I've tried him on forward lines a couple of times," said Bodnar later, "but he's more valuable to me on defence."

Pelyk's goal at 19:05 of the third period came on a power play while Hamilton defenceman Rick Smith was served a minor penalty for holding.

The game was a tight defensive battle with no scoring until late in the second period when the Marlboros struck for two goals within a minute, one by Gerry Meehan, the other by Mike Bayes.

But within another minute, Ronald LeClerc beat Toronto goalie Bob Whidden and Hamilton was back in the game.

Midway through the final period Hamilton's Brian Gibbons tied the score when the Red Wings held a five-to-four manpower advantage, setting the stage for Pelyk's winning goal.

CORNWALL (CP)— Cornwall Royals pulled their defenceman in exchange for an extra attacker Sunday in a last-minute attempt to tie 4-3 game with Thetford Mines Canadiens, but lost 7-4 to give the Canadiens a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-final series.

Thetford Mines took the lead in the second period after the teams closed the first with a 1-1 tie. Cornwall didn't tie the game again until the third period, but Thetford Mines came back with the winning goal and an insurance goal on two third-period power plays.

U.K. Soccer

Forest Nudges United

LONDON (CP) — Nottingham Forest continued Saturday its successful march to the second double of winning the English Football Association Cup and the English League soccer championship.

The day's league program was greatly reduced because of the England-Scotland European Nations Cup game here—which Scotland won 3-2—but Forest was in action and cruised to a 2-0 victory against struggling Aston Villa. Forest now is only one point behind the leaders, Manchester United, which did not play. Both teams have five games still to go.

Tottenham Hotspur, without England player Jimmy Greaves who fought back after being cut down against Sheffield Wednesday and wound up 2-1 winner to move into fourth place, five points behind United. Liverpool, which did not play, is third, four points behind United.

Blackpool, which has been in the First Division since 1937, was beaten again Saturday, going down 2-0 against Stoke City. It will play Second Division soccer next season and will be accompanied by either Newcastle United or Aston Villa.

West Bromwich Albion eased its relegation worries with a 1-0 victory against Leicester City.

The Second Division promotion battle is between three over. Wolverhampton Wanderers, with a 2-1 victory at Preston, took over the top spot from four games, and Coventry City, which beat Huddersfield Town 1-0, is two points short of its target with the same number of games outstanding.

Only other team with a change of promotion from the Second Division, Blackburn Rovers, was beaten 4-0 at Plymouth.

Barber Misses No-Hitter By Whisker

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Barber started off making a pitch for job security and wound up making a grab for immorality.

The injury - plagued lefthander, whose arm troubles almost cost him a spot with Baltimore this spring, missed a no-hitter by a whisker Sunday in pitching the Orioles to a 3-0 American League victory over California Angels.

Jim Fregosi, whose 10th inning RBI single had given the Angels a 5-4 nod in the doubleheader opener, ruined Barber's bid with a one-out double in the ninth.

Barber finished with a one-hitter, facing 31 batters, and took little doubt he's ready to reclaim his spot in the Orioles pitching rotation.

It was the first American League appearance for Barber since last Sept. 23, when he was lifted by manager Hank Bauer after holding the Angels hitless for five innings.

Trondenlia in his left elbow kept the 28-year-old veteran out of action for most of the second half of the 1966 season and sidelined him during the Orioles' four game World Series sweep over Los Angeles Dodgers. He took a 10-3 record into the all-star break but didn't win another game.

Upham, hoping to impress in his first major league showing, was allowed only to pitch to Manny Mota, who singled to drive in a run before Durocher turned to Joe Niekro.

It also was Niekro's first major league appearance and he run head-long into Jim Fregosi and Matty Alou. Fregosi recrificed and Alou tripled to end the disastrous inning and the game.

Niekro's brother Phil had better luck for Atlanta Braves as he came on in eighth inning, forced Lou Johnson to hit into a double play then set down Los Angeles Dodgers in the ninth to preserve a 4-1 victory.

In other games, St. Louis Cardinals outslugged Houston Astros 11-8, Philadelphia Phillies blasted New York Mets 2-0 and Cincinnati Reds took two from San Francisco Giants 4-1 and 5-2.

Saturday, the Reds dumped Houston 7-3, the Braves edged Chicago 4-3 and the Cards demolished the Dodgers 13-4.

"The thing I was concerned about before the game was being able to go nine innings."

New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox had more difficulty at Kansas City, Kan. Mantle capping the outburst with a three-run double. Dennis McLain was the winner, firing a six-hitter.

Brilliant relief work by rookie Tony Pierce and veteran Bob Bolin blanked off an eight-inning Detroit rally in the 8th.

Sam McDowell pitched out of an eighth-inning jam as the Indians beat off Minnesota. Leon Wagner's two-run homer in the fourth was the deciding blow.

Joel Horlen's six-hit pitching in the first game.

The Tigers scored five runs in the sixth inning of their opener at Kansas City, Jim Northrup capping the outburst with a three-run double. Dennis McLain was the winner, firing a six-hitter.

Jenkins Ahead When Hurt

Cubs' Canadians Didn't Fare Well

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Cubs, and a pair of Canadian pitchers they have working for them, didn't fare too well Sunday as Pittsburgh Pirates won a National League baseball game 6-5.

Ferguson Jenkins, the Cubs' 24-year-old ace from Chatham, Ont., was coasting with a 5-2 lead in the seventh inning when he was forced from the game with an injured ankle.

Cal Koonce appeared to have escaped the idea through the remainder of the seventh and the eighth.

But in the ninth he gave up a single to Bill Mazeroski, sandwiched between walks to Don Clendenon and Gene Alley and that sent manager Leo Durocher to the bullpen for John Upham.

That may have been unfortunate for the Windsor, Ont., native who called on only Thursday from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League.

Upham, hoping to impress in his first major league showing, was allowed only to pitch to Manny Mota, who singled to drive in a run before Durocher turned to Joe Niekro.

It also was Niekro's first major league appearance and he run head-long into Jim Fregosi and Matty Alou. Fregosi rec rificed and Alou tripled to end the disastrous inning and the game.

Playoffs Hero

Fergy; Habs' Top-Scoring Ace

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are hoping that their layoff before the start of the Stanley Cup finals does not take the edge off John Ferguson's goal scoring.

Ferguson, known around the National Hockey League as a rough, tough, joking player, turned over a new leaf by scoring key goals when the Stanley Cup playoffs started.

He was credited with two game - winning goals and scored another goal which tied a game and led Montreal to another victory as Canadiens eliminated New York Rangers in four straight games in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

Toronto Maple Leafs lead the other semi - final round over Chicago Black Hawks three games to two.

One of Ferguson's winning goals came in the fourth game when he scored in the first overtime period to snap a 1-1 deadlock and give Montreal a chance to defend the Stanley Cup, which the club has won the last two seasons.

Ferguson, who had a league-leading 17 in season in penalties during the regular season, had only one goal in his first 22 games.

Then he scored two goals in the second All-Star game in January to pace the Canadiens to a 3-0 victory.

From then on, he found the mark with regularity and finished with a 20-goal season. He had his big goal early over into the playoffs to lead the Canadiens into the Stanley Cup finals.

Should the Maple Leafs beat the Black Hawks Tuesday night in Toronto and advance to the finals, the first game of the final round would be played in Montreal Thursday night.

But, if the series goes the full seven-game limit with Toronto winning, the Canadiens will entertain the Leafs in Montreal Saturday afternoon. If the Black Hawks win the series Montreal will travel to Chicago to meet the Hawks Saturday.

The Canadiens left Montreal Sunday for their Laurentian mountain hideout and will commute between there and the Forum for daily practice until the opening game of the final round.

Decision Worth $20,000

Beard Birdie Nips Palmer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— Frank Beard faced this decision after one of Arnold Palmer's spectacular rallies of the $100,000 Tournament of Champions:

Should he try for a birdie-four on the final hole Sunday and break a tie with Palmer or should he play it safe for a par and gamble for a playoff with Arnie.

Beard agreed today he made the correct decision.

Beard got the birdie, the $20,000 winner's purse and marred the amazing comeback round by Palmer, who shattered the Stardust Golf Club's par, 36 - 35 — 71, with a round of 29-35—64. The 29 and the 64 established a course record.

A quick rundown of results: Beard, 71 for 278, six under par; Palmer, 64-279; George Archer, 68-282; Jack Nicklaus, 73, Doug Sanders, 71 and Bobby Nichols, 70, each 284.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper's 73 gave him 292, and Masters' champion Gay Brewer had 75 for 293.

Palmer shot an eagle - three on the first hole and added five birdies before he finished the front nine for his 29.

"I don't think I ever shot a 29 before on a par-36 nine," said Palmer.

Palmer's second nine was something else. He four-putted the 14th but on the very next hole he had an eagle-three.

The 18th is a par-five, 540-yard hole.

"A lot of things were going through my mind," said Beard later. Included with the thought of an 18-hole playoff with Arnie, and Frank indicated he didn't think much of this idea.

So he said he told his caddie, "We might as well win it." He selected his driver instead of the two-iron he had been using on this hole.

"I just knocked the hell out of it," said the happy Frank. Two strokes later, he faced — seven-footer.

"Sure, I was nervous, but not too much. I knew I still had another putt to tie and there was the playoff to remember."

Beard didn't linger over the ball. He putted quickly. The ball hit the right corner of the cup and fell in.

Kapuskasing Intermediate Champions

PORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)— Kapuskasing Merchants won the all-Ontario intermediate A hockey championships by defeating Port Erie Frontiers 8-3 Saturday night.

The Merchants won the best-of-three series 2-0 following their 12-4 win here Friday night.

Kapuskasing meets Fredericton Capitals, champions of the Southern New Brunswick League, in the Eastern Canada final.

Kapuskasing goals were scored by Gilles Pratt, Bob two, Larry Taisement, Rocky Rukkvona, Russ Beliveau, Murray Chesher, Ken Vail and Ernie Grenier.

Brilliant Climax To Season

Fuels Capture Shrine Tournament

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Add a final notch to Smith Fuels' superb 1966-67 season victory gun.

Smith's completed their season in grand fashion here on the weekend by sweeping through four games to capture the annual Belleville Shrine Club peewee tournament championship.

Tommy Miller's youngsters whipped Bowmanville 7-0 Friday night; dumped Trenton Flyers 7-1 at noon Saturday; blanked Peterborough Rehill Reds 7-0 in the "A" semi-finals at 5.00 p.m. and captured the championship with a 4-0 victory over a good Peterborough Church League club in the 7.30 tilt.

Smith's thus scored 25 goals and allowed only one in the tourney - but they ran out of "I's" in the final match.

Richmond Hill captured the "B" or consolation series, defeating Bowmanville 3-1 in the decider game.

Smith's received the Harry Robins Trophy as "A" champs and Richmond Hill, who their reigning goalie of TV renown, Louis Moore, received the Belleville Shrine Trophy for the "B" victory.

In another presentation, young Mike Lynch of the BMHA novice league received the Tommy McNevin Memorial Award for sportsmanship and education. Recreational Director Lloyd "Red" Doran introduced Don McNevin Jr. who in turn presented the trophy and a replica to the proud Lynch boy.

The Church League squad gave Smith's a real battle in the championship game and the score was 1-0 until the seven - minute mark of the third period, Grant Geogan gave Belleville their lead at 6.10 of the second heat when he completed a passing play with Mark Coates and Danny Coulson.

Donny Lapenette broke in for the second goal, then Geogan fired his second and Murray DeZeo completed the scoring. Defence star John Malvihill earned points on the last three and Dave Smith on one.

Terry Merak played well throughout to get the shutout. Both he and David Rutherford, who tended goal for the first two and a half games, were steady as usual.

In the semi-final win over the other Peterborough club, Smith's scored four in the third, two in the second and a loner in the first. Dave Smith and Grant Geogan triggered two goals each, Jim Richardson, Danny Lapenette and John Mulvihill the others. Lapenette drew three assists, Mark Coulson, Richardson and Peter Smrke two each, John Mulvihill, Smith and Danny Coulson loners.

Against Trenton, Belleville took a 3-0 lead in the first but Grant Martin, aided by Billy Glover, got the only goal scored against Smith's in the tournament at 3.10 of the second. Four third-period goals sewed up the decision. Danny Lapenette had two goals and three assists, Jim Richardson two of each, to pace the winners. Dave Smith and John Mulvihill added a goal and assist each, Peter Smrke a goal, Tim Whelan and Mark Coates single assists.

D. Dunkley in the first and S. Crockright in the third gave Richmond Hill a 2-0 lead over Bowmanville in the "B" finals but the losers scored one after lifting their goalie. They tried the move again but it backfired this time as T. Scanlon scored into the empty net. Max Johnson was the Bowmanville marksman.

The Peter Church Leaguers knocked Richmond Hill into the "B" round with a 3-2 win in the tourney's only overtime game Saturday morning. Paul White's second goal was the winner and Paul Evans scored the other one. T. Scanlon and S. Gordon scored in defeat in one of the day's best games. Later, Peterborough ousted Oshawa in another 3-2 game with Lorne White scoring two and Steve Casey one. F. Schram and F. Bathe scored for Oshawa.

Tom Scanlon scored twice as Richmond Hill blanked Oakville 4-0 with Rich Bolingbroke and Steve Gordon getting the others. Oshawa won 5-2 on two goals by Joe Greenstree and loners by Glenn Kirkham, John Thaler and Frank Bathe, over Oakville, who got goals from Rick Court and Mark Perras.

A first-period goal by Doug Tamblyn and Randy Thille's shutout goaltending stood up for a 1-0 win over Bowmanville over West Rouge. And Max Johnson scored twice in the third to put Bowmanville past Brooklin 3-1. Robbie Simpson also scored and Neil Sanders replied for the losers.

It was a good tournament, from start to finish, with the crowds up and down depending on the game.

And the Shriners are turning all proceeds into the crippled children's fund.

Trent Valley Softball Organized

The revival of the Trent Valley Softball Association, which suspended activity a few years back when several of its club entered the Belleville and District league, was announced last night.

Five teams were represented at the organization's second meeting in less than a week last night and a partial executive was elected.

Heading the league is Belleville's OASA executive committee member, Clifford Belch Jr.

Vice-president of the league is Jim Wallace, of Trenton, and Frank Insley, also of Trenton was named executive-at-large.

The team representatives accepted the necessity of a natural and strong executive at both league meetings. They expect to name a secretary, a treasurer and perhaps one or two more executive members at the next meeting, to be held next week at Trenton's Chamber of Commerce.

"The league hopes to have five or six entries and any or all area teams will be welcome to attend the next meeting," Belch said last night.

Among the present entries are Madoc Juniors providing the league has four or five other clubs. Trenton Juniors, RCAF Flyers and a Trenton town intermediate "AA" team are also in.

Point Anne Cementmen, last year's Belleville Commercial League pennant winners and OASA Junior "C" champions, will announce their decision this week. Madoc was a member of the Belleville and District League last year.

"It is felt these two clubs would assure the league of success and both have shown a great deal of interest," Belch said.

He added that the other clubs would like to see another entry from outside the Trenton area, perhaps from Picton or Belleville.

Entry fee for the league was set at $25.

Meets Griffith Tonight

Italian Eyes Title!

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven Italian-Americans have won the world middleweight boxing champion-ship but no Italian citizen ever has captured the valuable boxing title. Nino Benvenuti hopes to become the first tonight when he meets champion Emile Griffith at Madison Square Garden.

The betting odds, however, favor the 29-year-old champion from New York at 13 to 5 over the handsome, 28-year-old challenger from Trieste for the televised 15-rounder.

Several hundred Italians, including Benvenuti's wife, father and brother, will be in a crowd of about 15,000 which will pay $125,000 or more.

John Wilson, Vince Dundee, Fred Apostoli, Rocky Graziano, Jake LaMotta, Carmen Bordello were the Americans of Italian descent to win the 160-pound division crown.

"I've seen Griffith fight and I know what I must do," said Benvenuti as fight time approached. "Joey Archer could have beaten him, I will."

The 5-foot-11 stylist hasn't said what he plans to do. But it's obvious that he hopes to nail Griffith early with left hooks to the head. He has fast hands and is an expert and potent left hooker.

"I'm going to beat him good," said Griffith. "I'm going to his body early."

Benvenuti has fought out of Italy only twice in compiling a 71-1 won-lost record, including 30 knockouts.

Griffith's record is 52-7, including 18 knockouts.

Reprimanded, Fined

Buffey; Sound-Off Proves Costly

TORONTO (CP) —Referee Vern Buffey of the National Hockey League has been reprimanded and will be fined for publicly replying to criticism from Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers.

"Vern has already been disciplined and he will (definitely be fined," Scotty Morrison, NHL referee-in-chief, said in an interview Sunday night.

"The fine will not be imposed because of the context of Buffey's statement. It will be levied because the terms of his employment state he must not sound off in the manner he did."

Buffey, a senior official, publicly defended the work of his colleague John Ashley, who refereed Saturday's 28th game of the Stanley Cup semi-final between Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks.

But Jennings' criticism of Ashley's work came during the semi-final series between the Rangers and Montreal Canadiens, won by Montreal four straight.

Ashley worked the third game of the series, won 3-2 by Montreal, and Jennings said Ashley's errors included the disallowing of a goal by Phil Goyette of New York.

Jennings was quoted as calling Ashley a bush-leaguer and an incompetent.

In a published rebuttal, Buffey said:

"It is ridiculous that Jennings can rap officials like he does.

"How dare he brand an official such as Ashley a bush-leaguer and incompetent. Ashley has forgotten more about hockey that Jennings will ever learn."

Morrison said he agreed with Buffey's remarks, but disagreed with the way he publicly presented them.

"This abusing of officials has got to stop," Morrison said. "I don't condone this public criticism, particularly at the owner level, but it can't be stopped overnight.

"Vern was wrong in replying to the charges himself. He should have come to me and I would have made a reply for him after talking it over with Clarence Campbell, president of the league."

Asked if references should be allowed to answer criticism, Morrison said:

"Of course. But they must come to the league instead of speaking to newspaper reporters. It's an internal matter, definitely something the officials themselves should not get into."

Morrison said he spoke to Buffey Saturday night on the plane returning from Chicago.

"I verbally reprimanded him. He realizes what he said was wrong. But when he was interviewed, he had reached the point where he felt he had to defend his colleagues or explode."

Morrison said league officials cannot be muzzled.

"It's hard for them to come out after a game and listen to criticism for all sides. Sometimes, they have to say something. But they must say it to us, not to reporters."

Asked about the amount of Buffey's fine, Morrison said, "When I fine him, it'll be a private thing. If I tell you, I'll be setting a precedent and I don't intend to do that. He will be properly disciplined, that I can assure you."

Speck Is Found Guilty Of Murdering 8 Nurses

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — "Let's say I did it," Richard Speck once remarked about the murder of eight nurses in Chicago last year.

A jury Saturday made the supposition legal fact by convicting Speck for the July 14 killings and fixing his penalty as death in the electric chair.

The seven men and five women jurors spent only 49 minutes deliberating the evidence presented in nine days of testimony.

Post-trial motions will be made today in Judge Herbert C. Paschen's chambers. Speck is expected to be returned to Chicago immediately following the session. The judge said all further legal action will be conducted in Cook county, Chicago.

Illinois law provides an automatic appeal of any verdict fixing the death penalty. Judge Paschen will set dates today for appeal action.

Gerald Getty, public defender of Cook county, based his defence on a plea that the drifter was not the intruder who spent four hours strangling and stabbing the nurses.

Speck, 25-year-old native of Monmouth, Ill., retained his appearance of disdain and disinterest during the final hours of his trial.

Speck had told a psychiatrist at the Cook county jail that he was "shocked out" the night the murders occurred.

Dr. Marvin Zporyn related other his verdict parts of his conversation with Speck after the nearly-haired, tattooed wanderer was arrested last summer.

Speck was reported to have insisted that Dr. Zporyn tell him about the rape and murder of Gloria Jean Davy.

Miss Davy, an attractive brunette, bore a resemblance to Speck's divorced wife.

Dr. Zporyn said he used the word "killer" in discussing the murders, but that Speck would interrupt and say: "Let's say it was me."

Negro Rowdies Riot in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Young rowdies put extra police to work Sunday night in Cleveland's east side Negro area with a rash of rock-throwing, window smashing and looting that lasted about three hours. There were at least 30 arrests.

"There were no injuries and no fire-bombings," said Lieut. Wilmer Kuhns of the 79th District where the disturbances occurred. In that same district last July rioting started in the same Hough area and led to four deaths and $500,000 property damage, much of it from fire-bombs.

Kuhns said there were 18 arrests in his district and adjoining districts reported two others as a result of the disturbances. Police said nearly all 30 arrests were in connection with looting by young Negro men operating in small groups.

One injury not reported to police was minor—a fireman hit by a thrown bottle while on his way to one of a number of false alarms.

The trouble started on the same corner night at a field near a carnival on Superior Avenue. It spread to the main thoroughfare to the east, Euclid Avenue, before police got the situation under sufficient control to dismiss the night-shift patrolmen who were held beyond their midnight quitting time for a little more than an hour.

About 30 stores were damaged by vandals, police said.

Two young men were nabbed carrying furniture out of a store. Also hard hit by looters were a pawn shop, an optical company and a discount clothier store.

Helmeted police, carrying rifles and for a time aided by a helicopter that swept dark areas with its searchlights, kept crowds dispersed and blocked off traffic from trouble spots in the area of about two square miles.

Robarts Defends Record

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Premier John Robarts told a meeting of party supporters here that "most officials document I can make about any election" in Ontario is "it will eventually come."

Addressed the inaugural dinner meeting of the Southwestern Ontario District Progressive Conservative Association Saturday the premier said he was unable to be more precise about the possibility of a forth coming election.

Mr. Robarts, who spoke of the dinner which started a day of panel discussions and the election of officers for the district, revealed that he expressed opposition to the idea that the provincial government should pay the costs of elementary and secondary school education.

He said such a plan "would remove from the local people the control of these levels of education."

Mr. Robarts said school enrolment has grown and a wide variety of new programs—opposite high schools and vocational schools—had been developed to meet the increased number of students.

"This has not come about without the expenditure of large sums of money by municipalities and the provincial government," he said.

The premier said the government was proud of its record of assisting municipalities with education costs.

Seek End To Debate On Forces

OTTAWA (CP) — Five men were to meet privately today in search of a compromise formula to end the Commons deadlock over armed forces unification.

George McIlraith, government House leader, and representatives of the four Opposition groups were continuing negotiations they began Thursday after the government threatened to invoke the new "guillotine" rule to cut off the marathon defence debate.

The debate enters its third week today and threatens to extend the current session into the longest in Canadian history. Today's sitting is the 362nd, seven short of surpassing the "flag session" of 1964-65.

Two indications of a possible compromise were dropped in the House Friday:

—Defence Minister Hellyer said "several months" will be needed to rewrite the Queen's Regulations after the unification bill receives royal assent, thus holding up the implementation of his overall plan.

—Conservative front-bencher Alvin Hamilton entered the debate for the first time to propose this compromise: Passage now of most of the 65 clauses in the defence bill, with the contentious sections deferred until the next session.

Mr. Hamilton, widely regarded as a Conservative leadership aspirant, said his suggestion would end the debate voluntarily and give the government time to draft the defence regulations and clarify its objectives.

This idea and a government timetable for the current debate were expected to be discussed by the all-party "business committee" today. If no agreement is reached, Mr. McIlraith will invoke the new rule to force the measure to a vote April 25.

Stanley Knowles, New Democratic party whip, said after a Friday night meeting of the committee he was "quite optimistic" about reaching a solution.

The House has not passed a single clause of the bill since detailed discussion of the measure started April 3.

Catholic High School Aid Asked

KINGSTON (CP) — The Ontario government, by not supporting Roman Catholic high schools, denies them the right to give their children moral education in the critical teen years, Archbishop G. L. Wilhelm of Kingston archdiocese.

He told 300 delegates to an archdiocesan Catholic parent-teachers association convention Saturday that the state must provide education which does not trespass on the parental right to give children religious instruction.

By cutting off support for separate schools after Grade 10, the province "enters a crisis in the Catholic child's moral development which can culminate in a near-split personality in teen-agers, he said.

The archbishop suggested public authorities should allocate subsidies so parents can select schools consistent with their beliefs.

Frank Howard, NDP MP, Admits Serving Armed Robbery Term

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Howard, New Democratic Party MP for Skeena, said Sunday night he once served time in the British Columbia penitentiary for armed robbery.

Mr. Howard, 42, member for the northern B.C. riding since 1957, said in an interview with The Province he does not intend to resign from Parliament.

In the interview with Vancouver's morning newspaper and in a television appearance Sunday night on television station CFTV in Terrace, B.C., Mr. Howard, disclosed he was convicted on three charges of armed robbery in 1943 in Vancouver.

He said he received and served 18 months of concurrent two-year prison terms on each of the charges.

Mr. Howard, who was also a member of the B.C. legislature from 1953 to 1956, said he decided to reveal his past after receiving a blackmail threat by mail in Ottawa about two weeks ago.

A charge was placed a week ago in Vancouver in connection with the sending of the letter and the case now is before the courts.

He said he was 18 years of age when convicted on the robbery charges and prefaced his television statement with an outline of his early life.

Mr. Howard said he was raised in a foster home at Kimberley in the West Kootenays area of B.C. The name under which he was raised was not Frank Howard, although that is his legal name. He declined to identify his foster family.

"Then a year or so later I was placed in a couple of other foster homes in Vancouver. They weren't too pleasant."

He said he "ran away a couple of times" but was brought back on each occasion.

At this point in his story, Mr. Howard read the extortion note he received in Ottawa. He said it started by claiming he was serving as an MP while using a false name and concealing a criminal record.

The note con'--ed:

"Send $3,000 $10, $20 and $50 bills to: Mr. Albert Marks (a fictitious name) C/O General Delivery, Vancouver, B.C., in a small box wrapped in brown paper.

"If received within 21 days of March 15, you will be repaid at $100 a week for one year beginning May 4. If not, I will totally ruin you by distributing proof of your past to your friends, relatives, political associates and appropriate authorities. . . ."

Mr. Howard said the letter was signed "An old friend."

After reading the note, Mr. Howard said he was not proud of his armed robbery conviction, "but it is a fact."

He pointed out that during his seven years as a local president of the International Woodworkers of America from 1950 to 1957, he was entrusted with the care of "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in union funds.

He said he had not once violated that trust.

In Ottawa, it was learned that when Mr. Howard informed the NDP caucus of the threatening letter a check of his qualifications to sit as an MP was made and it was determined there was nothing in the law to stand in his way.

Young Grits' Solution Fails to Amuse Hellyer

TORONTO (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer was offered Saturday a final solution to his problems involving unification of the armed forces — abolish them.

The suggestion came from one of 20 youths at a Liberal conference.

Mr. Hellyer stood up slowly and unsmiling. "That is a gross oversimplification," and he went on to defend his unification policy.

Mr. Hellyer, Trade Minister Winters and Finance Minister Sharp attended the conference at York University to answer questions from the floor.

Main speaker was Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader. In his speech and in answer to questions, Mr. Nixon said:

1. Ontario should consider collecting income tax now collected by Ottawa and remitted to Ontario. He said responsibility for levying taxes directly would encourage more care in spending the money.

2. Car insurance should be compulsory but not socialized. Mr. Nixon said insurance firms should be required to justify rate increases at public hearings.

3. Ontario should provide second mortgages to homeowners.

4. Federal - provincial relations will be an issue in the Ontario election expected in June. "I think the premier of Ontario is intent on making it an issue," Mr. Nixon said.

A review of the curriculum in elementary schools is needed.

Nazis Distribute London, Ont., Leaflets

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Canadian National Socialist party members handed out pamphlets again Saturday while city councillors were discussing a proposal to tighten control over persons giving out street handbills.

Saturday night unknown persons painted slight swastikas and the word "Jew" on a Moslem mosque in the city.

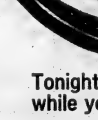
The handbill proposal, sparked by the controversy which has arisen in the past three weeks of CNSP pamphlet distribution in the city, was defeated.

Hundreds of the pink pamphlets by members of the CNSP were hatted by police last week on the assumption for existing bylaw requires all distributors to have a licence. City officials, however, later discovered the bylaw refers only to those who are "in the business" of distributing handbills.

Saturday's proposal for an amendment was made to cover individuals who are not employees of anyone in this business, or who are not in the business themselves.

Council members argued this would require someone in the city to pass on the basic ideas of the contents of various handbills, and to decide which organizations would be granted a licence.

John Beattie, of Toronto, self-styled Canadian Nazi leader, and Martin Weicke, of London, international party chairman, drew a large crowd of onlookers when they passed out pamphlets at a downtown intersection.



A week ago, Mr. Beattie said London was being singled out as a future party stronghold and that demonstrations and pamphlet distribution was closed in the city for several weeks.

Choral Society Matches Performance of Preceding Groups

The Belleville Choral Society gave the final event of Arts Festival '67 in Centennial Secondary School auditorium on Saturday evening.

If the choir had any qualms about following the other three very enjoyable presentations the applause and enthusiastic comments of the capacity audience left no doubt it was equally successful. Under the expert leadership of Miss Mary Hay and the fine accompaniment of S. A. Gordon they presented a varied program of sacred and secular music ranging from the 16th century to the present day.

The opening anthems by Meredith Urio Mo, O Lord by Silvester and Behold the Tabernacle of God by Wilson showed the liturgical endeavor to be expected in those organists. The solemnity of the first led into the more dramatic expression of the second which the choir handled with a pleasing style. The best of this group was Non Nobis Domine, Elgin's words set to the virginous music of Quilter.

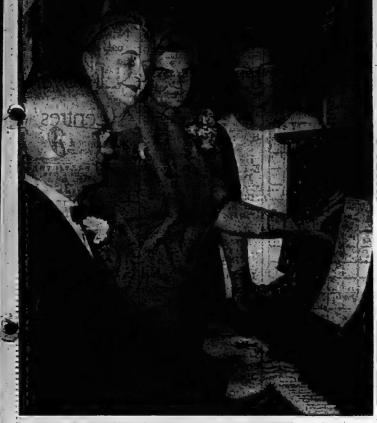
The rich voices of the triple trio ably met the demanding phrases of Mendelssohn's Lift Thine Eyes and if the tone became rather pinched at times, this was remedied as the women's choir presented the very difficult The Lord is My Shepherd by Schubert.

The following solos of Canadian composers demonstrated the versatility and technical competence of Murray Irwin as he moved from the tenuous and dramatic Silvester to the reassurance of Miss Eyes Have Seen the Glory to the sustained plendanism of Dubois's Ave Maria. To allow himself more freedom of expression Mr. Irwin chose as his third number the spiritual including Mo by Dyson.

The choir seemed to be more relaxed as they performed Palestrina's Adoramus Te and Bortniansky's Glory to the Lambs by Dett.

In Healey Willan's dynamic The Three Kings, the male voices taking the opening lines provided a nice contrast to the ethereal effect of the well blended tones of the women's choir whose carefully controlled expression was notable. With due respect to all, the four tenors must be complimented for holding their own so well through the entire concert.

To open the second part of the program the double quartet performed Dr. Willan's Centennial Hymn. The substance enthusiastically received the last two works by Belleville composers. The sana with which the choir sang S. Alec Gordon's 'Tis Thy Land gave a false notion of the competence underlying the deceptively simple melody which ended with a patriotic flourish. The choir then performed the stirring, martial Awake, Mesi by the talented Mary Deacon.



Miss May thoughfully included Bach's lovely Sheep and Lambs May Safely Graze which allowed us to enjoy Mr. Gordon's accompaniment.

The choir is to be complimented on the rapidity with which they switched from the dramatic mood of Gounod's By Babylon's Wave to the By thy Bulids the Boat.

The Bell arrangement of Rock-a Ma Soul was attacked with, perhaps, too much enthusiasm resulting in a lack of precision. Miss May chose to conduct the French folk song Ah Si mon Moine Voulait Danser at a slightly slower tempo than is sometimes heard. This was, no doubt, to allow the double quartet to show how well they could pronounce those vowels. The concluding number was the complicated and amusing Cousin Jedediah.

Miss May and the Choral Society are to be praised for the performance. The balance, tone, and diction were excellent. The addition of secular music was worthwhile and it was nice to hear concert arrangements of the royal and national anthems.

The women's partial drama were attractive against the blue background although there could have been more light on the soloist. Another suggestion is that lighting be provided off-stage so that the performers, on leaving the glare of the spotlight, don't have to stumble around in the dark.

Belleville Composers

Festival '67 saw original work presented for first time. Above, Alec Gordon and Mary Deacon, Belleville composers, had works performed at closing performance. With them are Phyllis May, choir director and Mrs. Margaret Stansfield, president Belleville Choral Society.

A Taste of Honey Festival Aftermath

The curtain has come down on Arts Festival '67 — but enthusiasm for what it proved still is rising.

The festival was different for Belleville in many ways. In fact, it was so successfully different the order may be for more of the same.

Today, many of its contributors are hopeful for a repeat performance as a regular feature of post-Centennial years.

The four-day package program of music, drama and art production did more than contribute an artistic highlight to Belleville's Centennial program.

For the first time, it drew public awareness of the scale on which artistic endeavor exists in Belleville and district.

The public response was impressive — and this in turn impressed the participants.

Hitherto, such presentations were confined to individual groups, each attracting its own immediate following.

Festival '67 may have changed all that — and the possibility looms that such co - operative efforts will become a feature of future community art enterprises.

The possibility, even when the stimulus of centennial year recedes, comes close to probability with the formation of an area council.

Organization of host groups into one big representative body is nothing new in other communities.

The response to Festival '67's co - operative success may now generate greater enthusiasm for such get - togetherness.

There were among some representative reactions gleaned today on the festival's results:

Muriel Angives, president Belleville Art Association — "We're enthused. The only direction to go is forward. I think this idea of an arts council is good. After all, we worked together for the festival."

John Feist, president, Belleville Camera Club — "This was a co - ordinated effort. None of the groups could have done it alone."

Audrey Davies, vice-president Arts and Crafts Association — "In a community this size our endeavors should be combined. I don't think any (single) group has had the active support on its own the way we all did in the combined festival."

Vera Slade, St. Julien Chapter IODE (sponsors, Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra) — "I think this would do a lot of good if they all work together and help one another. We're most fortunate in having such excellent talent."

Marion Wilson, president, Belleville Theatre Guild — "The co-operative effort should not be lost. It certainly established a good relationship among the groups and awareness toward working toward an arts council."

Enter the Drama!

Belleville Theatre Guild contributed Canadian play to the festival . . . Roberison Davies' At My Heart's Core. Above are Flo Yanover, Gavin Semple and Mary Mulvihill in scene from drama of backwoods pioneers.

On-the-Lam TV Medic Vindicated

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The longest cliffhanger in television history is over. After four long years as a fugitive, Dr. Richard Kimble finally has been vindicated.

The on - the - lam medic has been played on ABC's The Fugitive by David Janssen. It has been a long run—literally—and he was much relieved when the series ground to a halt a fortnight ago.

And what happened in the final reel? How did Dr. Kimble win vindication?

"I'm under wraps at the orders of ABC and producer Quinn Martin as to how the final show came out," said Janssen. "It's a two-parter, and the present plan is to show it after the summer recess.

"About all I can say about it is that I'm innocent."

That will be good news to Toronto's Barry Morse who, as a frustrated but determined detective, almost caught Dr. Kimble several times as he chased him around the country for a couple of seasons.

And so The Fugitive will go off the air after four years of producing a fabulous success. Not to the ultimate. When the series started, double Thomases in Town and Country Time with Dick Lovering.

The Investigation Not Happy Show About Happy People

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's broadcasts of The Investigation Friday night and again Sunday afternoon were about as far as possible away from the old television recipe of happy shows about happy people.

The adaptation of Peter Weiss' stage play was a reminder after more than 20 years of a horrible chapter in Nazi Germany.

Weiss took excerpts from testimony by survivors of Auschwitz extermination camp and of the defendants who ran the place like a production line of murder. Then he had a few witnesses in the box tell, in words uttered during the real trial, of the horrors that were perpetrated.

It was, for all its shortcomings in its dramatic form, a shattering experience to be reminded of the callous cruelty and brutality that preceded the mass killings.

The Smothers Brothers Show on CBS continued its high level of entertainment. It is one of the few variety shows in which the stars are more amusing than the guest stars.

CBS will put an unused series, Coronet Blue, in its late Monday hour starting May 29. The series was made with CBS underwriting a couple of seasons back when the "searching man" was a popular series hero — The Fugitive started it. The series concerns a man who has lost his memory and is hunting for his identity. It will replace To Tell the Truth and Password for the summer.

Recommended tonight: Saga of Western Man, ABC, 8.30-9.30 EST, retelling the story of explorer Robert Scott and his trip to the South Pole.

Rod and Gun Club Holds Annual Meet

NAPANEE — Despite other major attractions in the town the same evening, the annual banquet of the Napanee Rod and Gun Club found 150 members and their wives enjoying the turkey dinner prepared and served by the women of St. Mary Magdalene's Church in the church hall last Wednesday evening.

Mr. Frank Cheshire of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed gave an outline of the work of that branch of the department, not only of the actual field work, but also of the paper work which followed.

Robert Wilson, president of the club, spoke on the work of conservation the club is doing, and showed a film "Marsh Harvest," prepared by Ducks Unlimited. This film illustrated the fact that even predators are an essential part of nature's plan. Should all the duck eggs and young ducklings survive, the marshes would be overcrowded and could not support them.

Ducks Unlimited attempts to keep the water level in ponds high enough for marsh life to function naturally. This organization is most active in the West.

Fred Baker was master of ceremonies. An engraved lighter was presented to Sam Marks, past-president. No trophies were awarded, as no one had qualified this year.

A. Douglas Alkenbrack, member of the Federal house for Prince Edward-Lennox, and Mayor A. Lorne Smart were unable to accept the invitation to attend, as both were attending the annual meeting of the Napanee Progressive Conservative Association. Councillor William Charlton represented Mayor Smart.

Variety Night Well Attended

NAPANEE—Capacity crowds attended "Variety Night" presented by the NDSS pupils Friday and Saturday evenings of last week. The theme, "The Hundred Years' Drag" or "The Race Through Time" brought variety in type of numbers chosen, and was particularly noticeable in the dances, each with dancers in dress suited to the age. The minuet, the waltz, the Charleston, the square dance and modern dancing were all well received.

Plays, vocal and piano solos, and pantomimes added to the variety. The Glee Club presented three groups of much enjoyed songs, and showed careful training.

An exhibition of baton twirling, "The Dollies," a four-piece modern band, sweet singing girlish voices to the accompaniment of autoharps, all added to a well balance program.

Last year, instead of a variety program, the school presented "The Mikado" for two evenings.

Church Groups

DESERONTO — Ladies from Kingston and Morven were in Deseronto last Wednesday afternoon to enjoy the angel food cake and ice cream, and the game of bridge which followed. The event was presented by St. Marks' Ladies' Guild. Pussy willows were used as decorations and gave a breath of spring. Mrs. Margery Wood was the ladies' high prize for cards, Mrs. Gladys Gould wool second and Mrs. Nellie Robertson won the prize for lone hand. Mrs. Mabel Shelley was low.

The many good things which were displayed on the baked goods table found ready buyers.

The atmosphere was friendly and relaxed, with each lady in the small number of active members filling in for any sort of duty that appeared. There was no convener, but there was full understanding and cooperation. The result was a most enjoyable afternoon for members and guests.

FINDS WALLET

Eleven - year - old Michelle Hanna was $50 richer for a few minutes last week, but unexpected wealth made her uneasy and unhappy. On her way to school she picked up a wallet on the road and opened it to find a number of bills. She turned it over to her teacher, who, in turn gave it to the principal. A call to the police brought them to the school. The wallet contained the driver's licence of Joseph Smith of Deseronto, who rewarded Michelle for her part in his regaining his property.

To Your Good Health

Just Ignore Child Who Holds Breath

Dear Dr. Molner: We have, not tamper, but something organically wrong. He does it only when my husband or I am present. This began when I started work, but he never does this when my sister is taking care of him.

We plan to take him to a children's hospital for tests. What kind of tests will he have to have? — Mrs. M. J.

Children, like adults, differ in personality, quirks and habits. Breath-holding generally regarded as one form of temper tantrum, is a trick which some children stumble into. Why they do it the first time, I don't know, but when they get a lot of attention that first time, they keep on.

The eight pages of your letter (which I am not printing) do not contain a solitary thing which doesn't sound entirely normal for a child his age.

Ignoring a child who holds his breath is the best treatment, in my opinion. It is quite common for these breath-holders to keep on until they become unconscious. Then they relax and promptly begin to breathe autom atically. In other words, nature protects them from harming themselves.

A dash of cold water or an ice cold towel is all right if, for some reason you want to snap him out of this quickly. I have reservations against slapping which, in your case, does no good anyway.

Don't ask me what kind of tests he will have at the children's hospital because I'm not convinced that he needs any. The question, rather, is how many tests your husband will demand before he is convinced that this is an emotional quirk, not an organic trouble. Frankly I can't think of any organic ailment which causes a child to hold his breathe when his parents are around, but not when his aunt is taking care of him.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend who reads books on naturopathy advised me to do certain exercises on a tilted board to correct a mild hernia. About the time I purchased the board I learned that I also have a hiatus hernia. Do you think my exercises on the slant board are advisable? — L. M.

No, I don't think exercises will do anything to correct any type of hernia.

Note to J. H.: Infectious hepatitis would have no connection with gout. You ask why the blood bank will not accept donations even though the hepatitis no longer exists. It is a precaution — it is difficult to be certain that you may not have some hepatitis virus remaining dormant that could harm someone else, though you no longer are bothered by it. You can consult it (if you don't try to diver too close a smile) to a "cerrier" of various germs. You will not give the disease to anyone else by contact, but giving a blood transfusion might harm someone. So we play safe.

Hospital Group Plans Projects

NAPANEE — The Hospital Auxiliary meeting last week, made tentative plans for three more projects. May 12 a dessert bridge and whist party will be held in the Memorial building. June 2nd and 3rd a rummage sale and bake sale are planned with the town hall as the location. June was to have been the month for the garden party, but, unfortunately, too many other Centennial events are slated for June. The garden party will be held September 13 at the residence of Dr. E. P. Ellicott and Mrs. Ellicott.

6TH TYENDINAGA — On Saturday evening friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Arthur Shannon to honor Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon who were recently married. Allan Gibson read the address and the bride and bridegroom were presented with an electric clock and pole lamp. The couple expressed appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boyle and Kevin of Bracebridge spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baldrick.

Mr. Percy Lancaster spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wannamaker and family of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bedford of Redneersville were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie.

Soviet Union Space Flights Expected to Be Resumed Soon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) After a two-year hiatus, The Soviet Union will resume its space flights soon, U.S. officials say.

Given new hops in the moon race by the tragic Apollo 1 fire, which has forced delays in the United States' program, the Russians could launch two or three manned spaceships this year and regain much of the prestige they lost to the American two-man Gemini program.

Initial flights could be aimed at building a large space station in earth orbit or preparing for cosmonauts to orbit the moon and return to earth.

Either route would lay the groundwork for a manned lunar landing, although the Russians are not expected to have this capability until 1970 or 1971.

On this timetable, Soviet cosmonauts might beat American astronauts to the moon, depending on how long the U.S. program is delayed.

These conclusions are based on an Associated Press study of recent Russian publications and on discussions with U.S. officials who continually assess Soviet space programs.

The survey also shows:

—The Russians are emphasizing development of a strong military space capability, both manned and unmanned. So far they have launched 68 reconnaissance satellites.

—A series of space stations patrolling the skies and colonization of the moon, Mars and Venus, are in long-range Russian plans.

—Neither the United States nor Russia is interested in cooperating in a major space venture for fear that any advantage one might have in terms of military use of space be erased.

—There is no evidence to support reports, most of them from anonymous space operators, that Russian cosmonauts have died in space.

The U.S. Library of Congress, in a recent report for the Senate space committee, said the Soviet goal is to beat the United States to the moon.

"There is no evidence that the Soviet Union has diminished its space efforts," the report said.

The most recent indication of Russian plans came from Gen. Nikolai Kamanin, director of the Soviet cosmonaut corps. In an interview last month on a Warsaw radio station, Kamanin said:

"When the crews are ready for the flight, then we will give the order to take off. This might take place this spring or this summer. We must be fully convinced, however, that the flight will be a success. We are not hurrying the flights. Too much hurry leads to fatal accidents, as can be seen from the example of tragic death of the U.S. cosmonauts (in the Apollo 1 fire)."

Asked about American reports that the Russians were about to launch a ship with six to eight men, Kamanin replied: "It is only in the West that we are being credited with a capacity greater than we now actually have at our disposal. . . ."

When will Russians land on the moon?

"There is still a lot to be done," the general said. "But one thing is sure, in five years' time manned flights to the moon will be frequent and the rockets will speed to the moon along a well-worn route."

Kamanin said "we will need a rocket capable of carrying 60 to 70 tons into the cosmos" for the moon flight, and added that within 10 years, the Soviet Union will have rockets capable of launching 100- to 200-ton vehicles to Mars and Venus.

Despite Kamanin's attempt to de - emphasize reports of an eight-man spaceship, Soviet cosmonauts have mentioned that such a vehicle is being developed. Last summer, the Soviet news agency Tass inadvertently reported that cosmonauts were training for service aboard an eight-man craft, then asked correspondents to delete the words "eight-man."

Next fall marks two important Russian events—the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution and the 10th anniversary of Sputnik I.

Discrimination Charged By Manpower Centres

TORONTO (CP) — Discrimination against minority groups is being practised in manpower department offices across Canada, an official of the Jewish Labor Committee said Sunday.

Allan Borovoy, director of the committee, said civil servants in 11 of 21 manpower offices are willingly accepting job offers from employers stipulating minority groups unacceptable for them.

Mr. Borovoy said only four of the offices tested unequivocally declared an unwillingness to accept a discriminatory job offer.

Mr. Borovoy said committee staff and volunteers posed as employers and telephoned manpower offices requesting certain employees to fill allegedly vacant jobs.

In each case, he said, the tester specified a certain minority group — Negroes, West Indians, Orientals, Jews, French and Italians — as unacceptable to him as an employee.

The findings were the result of a survey of manpower offices in Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Toronto, Windsor, and Winnipeg and were presented Sunday at a conference on Human Rights in the Centennial.

Under the laws governing the offices, discrimination in race, creed or color is not permitted.

Mr. Borovoy cited an official at one Toronto branch who was asked not to supply any Orientals. The reply was:

"OK, it can be worked out."

In some cases, he said, the officers displayed an eagerness in screening out certain minority groups.

"When one Toronto officer was asked to bar West Indians, the reply was: 'No, they don't know what work is,'" Mr. Borovoy said.

Mr. Borovoy said the results of the survey together with the names of many of the officers involved have been enclosed in a confidential report to Jean Marchand, minister of manpower and immigration.

John Munro, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Marchand, said he was curious, the report would give the minister great concern.

The Red Knight

FIL. LT. Jack Waters of Peterborough and London, Ont., an RCAF officer at Portage la Prairie, Man., is this year's Red Knight. He's the ninth in the solo aerobatic program started in 1959 and faces the busiest schedule yet, performing in nearly 100 shows in the next six months. He gets his title from the color of his plane — a red-painted standard T-33 trainer jet.

Escaped Prisoners Attend Governor's Open House

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Among the throngs of well - dressed Georgians at Governor Lester Maddox's first open house Sunday were four shabbily dressed Negroes — escaped prisoners with a story to tell the governor.

The four said they sawed through bars at a Wilkinson County public works camp at midnight Saturday night and walked all night to complain personally to the governor about prison treatment.

They told Maddox of threats on their lives, of being put in solitary confinement for complaining and of going six to eight days with only one meal.

Clad in faded sports shirts and ill-fitting overalls, with prison garb underneath, the Negroes waited in a line of more than 4,000 Georgians gathered to greet the governor at the mansion.

But the prisoners' first pleas were unheeded. Maddox, busily shaking hands and chatting with visitors, missed the rapidly mumbled pleas of Mrs. Albert Hill, mother of one of the prisoners.

"They're prisoners, they walked all night," Mrs. Hall said. But the governor already had turned to greet other guests.

Mrs. Maddox, however, thought she'd heard the word "prisoner" and asked a nearby state patrolman to check. He did and called the governor.

After talking about 20 minutes with the men, Maddox said at a press conference later he was ordering the "most thorough investigation ever conducted by the department of corrections."

"They had planned two weeks ago to escape. They wanted to surrender to me. They sawed through bars and walked to Jackson from Wilkinson County. I'm convinced there's considerable truth to this.

"These men said they had tried everything else. They had even been put in a hole for complaining. I'm glad they did come."

Weekly Reports

Liberalize Birth Control, Pope Urged

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An American Roman Catholic weekly reports that a large majority of Pope Paul's birth control advisers have urged the church to liberalize its ban on artificial contraceptives.

But Vatican sources said the pontiff may not decide whether to change the church's birth control policy until after he consults with his first world synod of bishops next fall.

The National Catholic Reporter, an independent weekly edited by laymen, today published 25,000 words of textual excerpts it said were from the report made to the pope last year by his birth control advisory commission.

"The regulation of conception appears a necessary for many couples who wish to achieve a responsible, open and reasonable parenthood in today's circumstances," the commission's majority report said.

Although it did not discuss the birth control pill or other mechanical means of contraception, the majority report said:

"It is natural to man to use his skill in order to put under control what is given to physical nature."

However, the majority noted that the Vatican council has reaffirmed the church's ban on abortion and said sterilization, "since it is a drastic and irreversible intervention in a matter of great importance, is generally to be excluded as a means of responsibility avoiding conceptions."

The rhythm method or abstinence are the only methods of birth control now permitted by the church.

A dissenting report by a conservative minority on the commission said the church "cannot change her answer because this answer is true. . . . If the church should not admit that the teaching is no longer of value . . . it must be feared greatly that its authority in almost all moral and dogmatic matters will be seriously harmed."

The majority replied that the ban on contraception is not "an apostolic tradition or an attestation of faith but merely the tradition of a teaching formulated in diverse ways at diverse times."

The Catholic Reporter said the proponents of contraception cited social changes, the decline in infant deaths, gains in scientific knowledge and "a better, more profound and more correct perspective on married life and intercourse."

The weekly, considered progressive on church issues, is believed the first publication to publish textual excerpts of the birth control report.

The Catholic Reporter said it obtained the report from a source on the commission.

A Vatican spokesmen declined to comment.

Pope Paul appointed the commission of 37 priests and lay experts in 1964. A year ago he added 16 prelates to organize and review its recommendations.

LBJ Said Rolling Dice With Life

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said Saturday President Johnson is "shooting craps with the survival of the human race by escalating the war in Vietnam."

Mr. Douglas was the main speaker at an anti-Vietnam war rally at Vancouver's courthouse, attended by more than 1,500 people in driving rain and hail.

He said: "This is a continuation of the colonial exploitation experienced by the Vietnamese under the French. And escalation can only lead to world conflict."

The rally was generally orderly, but a few scuffles broke out between anti-war and pro-American demonstrators in the crowd.

City Immunized

Vaccine Gun Injects Serum

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Some 11,400 city children between the ages of 12 months and 12 years were immunized against measles Saturday during a one-day mass immunization program.

Five clinics were set up throughout the city and high-speed vaccine guns, which forces the serum into the bloodstream without breaking the flesh, were used in place of the traditional needles.

Dr. James Bowes, of Indianapolis, who came to London to assist in planning the mass inoculation, said the London program "should be the springboard that will stir the rest of the nation into action."

"There are at least 300,000 children in Ontario alone who are susceptible to measles," Dr. Bowes said. "There's not enough time to treat them in doctors' offices. Yet mass inoculations, held regionally, could be accomplished in six months and all of Canada could be virtually immune to measles by the fall of 1968."

A hole in the end of the gun, one-fiftieth the size of a human hair, ejects the serum by air under 1,200 pounds pressure. It is capable of administering 800 injections an hour compared with 300 an hour by needle.

Dr. Russell Scott Urges Ontario-wide Parks Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Establishment of a province - wide parks and recreation land use plan with special emphasis on the shorelines of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River was suggested Monday to parks and recreation officials.

Dr. J. Russell Scott, a Belleville alderman, called for the land use plan and suggested Ontario needs a provincial parks and recreation commission.

Professor E. G. Pleva of the University of Western Ontario called on the government to act immediately to plan the shoreline of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence.

He said water pollution of the lakes will be solved and their water quality restored but that unwise land uses of their shores is resulting in a form of land pollution which is preventing access to the lakes.

Both men were speaking at a conservation council of Ontario conference on parks and outdoor recreation.

Dr. Scott, who with his wife operates a tent - trailer park in North Hastings, said the time had come to take parks and recreation out of day-to-day politics and establish a provincial parks commission.

He said it was ridiculous that 15 provincial departments or commissions, such as Lands and Forests, the highways department, Niagara Parks Commission Conservation Authorities and Harbor Commissions, should plan and operate parks.

Even in small cities as many as four organizations operate parks. Those include city parks boards, harbor commissions, horticultural societies and school boards.

Dr. Scott felt five part interests should be consolidated.

At the same time he agreed with two United States officials that governments alone cannot meet the parks and recreation needs. These could be met only with a combination of government and private enterprise.

Dr. Scott submitted a list of six recommendations to the parks and recreation commission conference.

These included establishment of a provincial parks and recreation land use plan and consolidation of all provincial parks bodies, which he said would eliminate duplication of facilities and research.

He also claimed there should be a change in the assessment act which would allow private tourist resort owners to pay on a seasonal basis. He felt that if a tent and trailer camp operated for only five months of the year it would be assessed only for that period.

Another recommendation by the Belleville alderman called for the separation of tent and trailer parks from regulations which also cover motels and other tourist establishments.

He also said there should be an accurate appraisal of park needs, with expenditures justified to the public.

Also he asked that charges for the use of tent and trailer parks be more in line with the costs of operation and other recreational charges.

"If facilities at a trailer park are worth $3. per night, that is what the charge should be. If they are worth only 50 cents, then the charge should be 50 cents," he said.

At a panel discussion, experts differed on what should first be done to meet the park and outdoor recreation needs in the province.

J. W. Keenan of the department of lands and forests said meaningful decisions on recreation can only be made after the recreational need has been established.

Prof. J. N. Jackson of Brock University, St. Catharines, said the prime need is to reserve the land now for future needs to ensure it is not sold for private recreation or other use.

South Vietnam Ready to Use Canada's Plan

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnam offered anew today to talk peace with North Vietnam—this time along lines broadly paralleling a four-stage Canadian peace plan—and proposed that both sides pull back their forces from the demilitarized zone as a first step toward de-escalating the war.

The South Vietnamese government in a communique said it welcomes the plan outlined by Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, in Ottawa last Tuesday.

It also offered to negotiate "at any time" with the Hanoi government directly or through a third party such as Canada.

Martin said in Ottawa Monday that Ormond Dier, the new Canadian member of the International Control Commission for Vietnam, would visit Hanoi later this week to discuss the Canadian proposals with the North Vietnamese

Martin said that although Nhan Dan, the newspaper of the North Vietnamese Communist party, rejected the Canadian proposals Sunday, he had the impression the North Vietnamese had not had time to discuss the full text of his statement to the Canadian House of Commons.

Ministry sources said South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Do, now in Washington for conferences regarding Vietnam, might go to Ottawa to discuss Martin's plan.

Mafkin was due in London today for discussions with British Prime Minister Wilson on international issues, including Vietnam developments, which would almost certainly deal with the peace plan.

Montreal Thugs Get $400,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today continued hunting for four armed robbers who escaped with $400,000 they took from two Brink's guards who had picked it up at Simpson's Montreal Ltd. downtown department store Monday.

Police said no one has been arrested but they expected to come up with "good leads" and arrests soon.

The amount of cash in the loot was set at $130,000. The remainder was in non-negotiable cheques.

The four men pulled off the holdup in the store as the Brink's guards were taking the money, Saturday's receipts, for deposit in a nearby bank. They fired one shot into the ceiling and, although no one was injured, three women Simpson's employees had to be treated for nervous shock.

Casualties Heavy In Accra

ACCRA (Reuters) — A gunbattle between rival troops in the centre of this humid capital of Ghana caused heavy casualties during an attempted coup Monday, reliable sources said.

One of those killed was the commander of the armed forces, Lt.-Gen. Emmanuel Kotoka, the sky retiring man who led the 1966 coup that ousted Kwame Nkrumah and brought in the present military rulers, the National Liberation Council.

The battle raged while a 120-man army unit tried to seize power from the council. Shots crashed around Christiansborg Castle.

For four hours Monday morning a military junta was claiming in repeated broadcasts over Ghana's national radio that it had succeeded in taking over power.

But the National Liberation Council suddenly announced over the same radio that the coup attempt was foiled.

Catholic Synod Won't Discuss Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church's worldwide synod of bishops will omit the birth control question from its agenda when it meets next September with Pope Paul, the synod's secretary - general said today.

Bishop Ladislaus Rubin, the synod's organizing official, announced at a press conference the synod's five topics. None deals with contraception, priestly celibacy or any other moral issue.

Asked whether birth control might become a subject in the meeting of the approximately 200 bishops starting here Sept. 29, the Polish-born bishop replied: "Not at this first meeting, certainly. It is not included on the agenda."

Sources at the Vatican believe, however, that the pontiff will consult privately with many of the synod bishops on the unresolved issue while they are in Rome.

Pope Paul received a lengthy report on birth control last June from a papal commission of experts after two years of study.

Recent disclosures by an American Catholic weekly of the contents of the secret report showed 53 of the 57 working members recommended tentatively decided that censure of rebuke, these sources said.

Pay Freeze To Remain In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Britain's 25,000,00 breadwinners looked Monday for the end of the legal delays of pay raises even after a year-long compulsory pay freeze expires this summer.

The Labor government announced plans Monday to introduce a new law enabling it to halk pay claims for periods up to seven months. The new legislation to last for a year, but renewable—would be a milder substitute for present government power to block pay claims or price increases outright.

The government met the first angry assaults against its plan to prolong pay control at a meeting of its own parliamentary supporters Monday night.

Under growing pressure to ease the squeeze on low-income workers, the government issued an appropriately - timed announcement Monday night that pay claims involving up to 650,000 workers in various industries would be let through next month.

Tornado Rips Hensall

HENSALL, Ont. (CP) — Residents today began picking up the pieces left Monday by a tornado that wrecked buildings, tossed cars into the air, ripped trees out of the ground, knocked out power lines and killed one man near this southwestern Ontario farming community.

Eldorado was blocked by fallen trees and downed power lines as the tornado cut a path road from this village, about 25 miles north of London, to Dublin, 15 miles from here.

A Dublin area farmer, Joseph Donnelly, 80, died in hospital in London a few hours after the barn in which he was working collapsed in the wind.

The violent weather spread from a storm centre over northern Lake Huron which developed northerly gales of 40 to 55 miles an hour over Lake Superior earlier in the day.

A witness said the tornado, when first sighted here, "zigzagged" its way toward the village school where 200 children were about to leave, then at the last moment veered away and left the school untouched.

Mrs. Harold Elliott was in her husband's service station when it struck.

"I heard the wall crack at the back. Then the whole building fell down. It was just terrible."

OMSIP to Pay Increased Fees

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature gave third and final reading Monday to six government bills, including one which permits the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan to make payments on the basis of the current fees schedule of the Ontario Medical Association.

The amendment to the Medical Services Insurance Act of 1965 will permit OMSIP to make payments at 90 per cent of the fees listed in the OMA schedule that went into effect April 1.

Surveyor Off to Dig

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor III, back on the right track after a crucial manoeuvre in space, locked on the sun and stars for guidance today in the first U.S. try at digging on the moon.

The spacecraft, equipped with spindly, army-like shovels, is aimed at the moon's Sea of Storms, the probable lunar landing site for future U.S. astronauts.

Touchdown on the 2,238-pound moon device, the most complicated yet developed by the United States, is about 7 p.m. EST Wednesday.

A mid-course trajectory correction was completed at midnight Monday night by a series of rocket bursts and the spacecraft locked back onto the sun and star Canopus for guidance moments later.

After the spacecraft plunks down on the moon Wednesday night, a signal from earth will actuate Surveyor III's battery chargers and send them clawing at the moon's surface.

The handsized scoops, able to bite as well as dig, should show scientists whether the surface could support a manned spacecraft.

Standing on tripod legs, Surveyor III hopefully will dig and take pictures for two weeks.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fire broke out in a downtown Miami hotel early today killing one woman and severely burning an elderly man. Police said the top floor of the three-storey Haven Hotel burst into flames about 1:30 a.m., trapping more than a dozen sleeping guests in their rooms.

Astronaut Voices Faith in Apollo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the U.S. astronauts says they will have full confidence in their Apollo spacecraft when changes are made to prevent a recurrence of the launch pad blaze that killed three of their fellow spacemen.

"We're confident in our management, our engineering and ourselves," said Col. Frank Borman, one of five astronauts who testified Monday night before congressmen investigating the Jan. 27 Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

He said they are eager to get on with the program to land men on the moon.

Borman, told the congressmen:

"I think the question really is: Are you confident in us?"

The congressmen clearly are. But they—and the astronauts—expressed some reservations.

Testifying with Borman at the start of the second week of congressional hearings on the accident were Donald K. Deke Slayton, navy Capts. Walter Schirra and Alan Shepard and air force Lt. - Col. James McDivitt.

They appeared before a house of representatives subcommittee that oversees the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

While the astronauts had no doubts that the causes of the fire could be overcome, they indicated there may be future dangers that cannot be anticipated.

Slayton, now director of flight-crew operations, testified:

"I know of absolutely no case when we've compromised crew safety, knowingly.

"Obviously we may be doing so right now without knowing it."

The astronauts admitted they had failed to realize the hazard involved in the Jan. 27 tests.

"It's obvious that we goofed," said Schirra. Slayton said it was his responsibility to call off the tests on the spot if anything was wrong "but I wasn't that smart and we didn't."

Shepard said all five astronauts had read the April 2 final report of an Apollo accident review board and agreed with its findings.

Bar Association President Wants Change in Code

Percival Caegrain, president of the Canadian Bar Association reportedly said in Montreal on Saturday that the Criminal Code's "lofty principles" concerning confessions should be amended so that police can gather evidence effectively.

Mr. Caegrain said that current law enables professional criminals to receive kid glove treatment and sometimes accuse policemen. He said there was no reason why a person could not be interrogated not under oath and his answers used as admissable evidence later.

Section 440 of the Criminal Code allows a magistrate before issuing a warrant, to hear witnesses to ascertain the bona fides of the informant are sufficiently serious to justify a warrant.

Mr. Caegrain suggested that this section should be extended to allow the interrogation of the subject and that the subject and all the available Crown witnesses should be interrogated by the magistrate in all cases where an important indictable offence appears to have been committed.

After Belleville city court was over yesterday morning, Barrister Robert Temple said Mr. Caegrain's remarks that interrogations be in secret, "The implications of that are staggering," he said.

Mr. Temple said if they were strictly secret, people probably wouldn't know somebody was arrested.

"It makes me shudder," Mr. Temple said, the same as that in Nazi Germany and at one time in Russia people simply disappeared.

The Belleville barrister went on to say that trial and arrest here are public, and this is to protect an individual from false imprisonment.

"Our society has fostered a belief in the dignity and freedom of an individual, not a belief in the corporate state. I am most shocked that a president of the Canadian Bar Association should have and expound such views as Mr. Caegrain reportedly made in Montreal on Saturday," Mr. Temple said.

"It is a direct return to an inquisition," he added.

Asked by what is the answer to current law treating criminals with kid gloves, Mr. Temple said he is not of the opinion that it isn't so and doesn't believe it.

"I fully realize there has to be a balance between the rights of the individual and the rights of society, and the present system best assures that.

"The police have the absolute right, as should be, to interrogate an accused person, but an accused person does not have to give evidence against himself," Mr. Temple said.

No Remedy

Skunks Again Plague Trenton Town Council

TRENTON — Skunks are fast becoming a regular feature of this town's council agenda.

A Cedar St. resident, Mrs. Lois Richter, last night made her second appearance before council to complain of the skunk situation she claims has plagued her and her neighbors for as long as five years.

Mrs. Richter renewed her protests over what she terms council's looseness in dealing with the problem which has at times driven homeowners in her area from their dwellings. Several neighbors have had homes fumigated because of the presence of the striped intruders.

Some of the developments to date have been:

- planting the problem in council's lap by the health board;
- council, in turn, requesting a report from the health board into the matter;
- suggestions by councillors that enactment of a minimum housing standards bylaw would eliminate some of the conditions leading to the problem;
- complete failure of any proposed remedies to rid the area concerned of skunks.

In her submission to council last evening, Mrs. Richter said the health board's report had incorrectly attributed inadequate protective measures as the crux of the matter, and produced a sturdy piece of screening which she said the skunks had managed to penetrate. She rehearsed former charges that "shacks and sheds" occupied by some families in the Cedar St vicinity were luring skunks, rats, and vermin to the area.

Councillor Paul Trapp felt a review of the minimum housing standards bylaw proposed to council before Christmas was in order, but councillor Duncan McDonald disagreed.

"I don't think we should be misleading," remarked councillor McDonald. "I was given the impression in council's discussions last week with a solicitor that this type of legislation has proven difficult to enforce. I think we should get at the core part of the problem which comes under our jurisdiction, and that is the question of garbage accumulation."

Pending consideration of the minimum standards proposals and study of the town's garbage contract, council's protection of persons and property committee chairman Edward Todd will make yet another probe into the situation this week.

Meanwhile, notes Mrs. Richter, "Some of us who want to keep up our property are 'penalized' by higher taxes, while those who don't care at all about their homes get off easy".

Bruce Seames Sent to Trial For Breakin

Bruce Edward Seames, 23, of 70 Foster Ave. S., was committed for trial by judge and jury yesterday afternoon by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of breaking in at Cashway Lumber on March 30.

Seames faces eight other charges as well. Donald Richard Campolin, 18, of Coleman St., has also been charged with the Cashway breakin. He will not be tried until the Seames case is disposed off.

The court was told that police received a telephone call around midnight and Sgt. Sam Hall, detectives Donald Yearwood and Lyle Davis left in a cruiser.

Sgt. Cook got out of the car on Dundas and ran south on George St., while the other two detectives parked elsewhere and set out on foot for Cashway Lumber.

Sgt. Cook said he saw Seames and Campolin coming towards him on a service road along the CPR tracks. He said Seames told him they had just come from his home.

William Wayne Keiser told the court that earlier in a restaurant Seames asked to borrow his gloves, but he did not tell him what he wanted them for.

He drove Seames and Campolin to the CPR freight sheds area of Dundas St. Defence counsel Robert Temple asked Keiser if he knew that Seames and Campolin fell out of his truck near the freight sheds. Keiser said that they were moving at slow speed.

Scout Leaders Watch Demonstration

Scout leaders and representatives of the Guides and Ranger Company watched demonstrations of artificial respiration and displays of the official Jamboree Scout uniforms at their bi-monthly meeting at Camp Picton last night. The meeting was held to discuss summer camping, a trip to Expo, Apple Day, a Cuboree and Scout and Cub exchanges.

Hastings Council Rejects Bid To Seek Area Planning Board

Hastings county council by an 18-11 vote this morning turned down a planning committee report which recommended that a request be made for the setting up of an area planning board.

The recommended planning area would have taken in all of Hastings county, along with the city of Belleville, the town of Trenton, and the township of Murray.

The vote came at the close of the morning session of a special one-day meeting of council called to deal with the planning matter, which was tabled at the early April regular session of council.

Also to be dealt with at today's meeting are the reports of two consultative committees on education and she request for county approval to close the Stirling Rawdon District High School at Stirling.

This morning's meeting board P. J. Reavie, planning director for the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, outline the function of an area planning board.

Mr. Reavis said that area planning was an evolutionary process but the fact of the matter was not whether the county could afford to plan, but rather that "we cannot afford not to plan if we wish to direct our own destiny."

The Belleville planning director said the cost of area planning would be difficult to estimate, but suggested that after five years the annual budget could be expected to be about $100,000 or approximately $1. per capita.

Speech Contest Sponsored by Odd Fellows

MARMORA — Ricky Westworth, Marmora, took part in a public speaking contest on a centennial subject sponsored by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows from this area in Stirling on Friday evening. The five entrants, one each from Tweed, Stirling, Campbellford, Madoc and Marmora, were in the 16 - 17 year age group. Judges were from Belleville.

The winner, Dianne Gunning of Tweed, was given a tour to include Ottawa, the United Nations and Expo. All participants were presented with monetary gifts, and were congratulated on their well prepared addresses. Ricky spoke on Centennial Coinage and displayed a collection of coins to the audience.

Also speaking at the morning session was E. A. Gomme, head of the administration division of the community planning branch.

He emphasized the need for planning, but at the same time urged that full consideration be given to basic issues involved before any move was made.

Thurlow Reeve Carl Thompson vigorously objected to the formation of an area planning board at this time, saying that ever since he had sat on county council, councillors had been little more than "yes men" for everything suggested by provincial departments.

"Every time that we get bigger, the costs increase, and some day we'll be sorry," he said.

He said it had got to the point where it seemed that county councillors were expected to be yes men.

Noting that his township high school budget was up 40 per cent this year, he said it was taxpayers' wishes were taken into consideration.

ANAF News

What with the nicer weather and longer hours of daylight coaxing the comrades out to look at their summer cottages combined with others who will remain glued to their T.V. sets until the hockey finals are over activities around the club are almost at a standstill. However the ANAF Shuffleboard team emerged victorious in the Belleville District Shuffleboard League play-off last Tuesday evening, by defeating the Bayridge Inn team from Shannonville 3 games to one, championship once again. A nice team up for their matches against those ferocious Forty - Eighths.

Owing to the resignation of Cdr. Rushnell, Cdr. Ron Baker has taken over the duties as Membership Chairman.

"I'm not saying they're not exactly co-operating," says warden Ferguson. "They just don't want to become involved."

His estimates the run will last for about one more week.

Meantime, there is a further check on the poachers' activities in sources in the Quinte district this year.

For the first time, the department is making a study of pickerel during the spawning run.

Fish are being taken from the Napanee and Trent Rivers for marking, measuring and scale examination.

Marking helps trace its return next year. Measuring and scale-sampling determine the specimen's age.

Smallest pickerel marked in the Napanee River so far has been 12 inches long. The largest stretching to 31½inches, was netted in the Trent, weighing 16-18 pounds.

In this undertaking the department officers have gained enthusiastic support from two local groups.

Members of rod and gun clubs at Napanee and Frankford are helping out in the survey.

PERFORMERS DIVORCE

Pickerel Are Running, Poachers Are Active in Quinte District

The pickerel are plying up Quinte - district waterways; so are the poachers; and the public is being passive about the whole thing.

In fact, the only protest being heard comes from the anglers charged with safeguarding the future of fishing in the widest watershed of the Quinte district.

The dearth of public complaint against poaching has in turn drawn a grievance from the Department of Lands and Forests.

"We could use more public cooperation than we're getting," Everett Ferguson, officer in charge of the department's Napanee division, said yesterday.

With the annual spawning run of pickerel now at its height, his force of game wardens is now engaged in the yearly pursuit that, many rootless loyalty: Patrolling by night, sleeping by day.

The job calls for vigilance and energy. It also demands a fair measure of public consiment to back up the game wardens in their running battle of wits with poachers.

The department officers of the Napanee division is engaged in a territory area sprawling from Trenton to Kingston.

Its main waterways, the Trent, Moira, Salmon and Napanee rivers are favorite pickerel runs, along with spawning grounds at Melville, Consecon, East and West Lakes and Hay Bay in Prince Edward County.

To discourage poachers, in such a vast area the official agency must rely on a degree of citizen vigilance — something that now is lacking.

"There are 194,000 in this division," notes game warden Ferguson. "So far, we've only had two complaints from the public about poaching since the run started about two weeks ago."

"And we haven't illegal fishing going on. We've got 29 spears in my office that we've pick up in the last two weeks."

The spear is the weapon of the poacher, confiscated from them along with cards and nets.

Reason for the poor, public showing in backing up game laws at such a crucial time in nature's cycle, is not ignorance of the situation. It is just plain reluctance.

Rotarians Will Provide Some Equipment

Belleville Rotary Club is looking forward to the possibility of assisting with the supply of equipment to the General Hospital once the building program there is complete.

Science Fair and Hobby Show chairman, Bob Lanning, told members at their luncheon meeting yesterday the club had been approached by a member of the Hospital Board.

"This will provide us with another opportunity of helping others," said Mr. Lanning.

Arrangements are all but complete for the Science Fair and Hobby Show at the Armouries on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Lanning briefed members on this year's program.

Northern Here to Play Part In Experimental Satellite

It color television some day shows a better sales potential than refrigerators in Canada's Arctic, part of that appeal might be beamed back to Belleville.

It has to do with a new satellite communications pilot project now in the offing and linked with Northern Electric.

As agreement signed in Montreal Monday brings closer the day when the panoramic Northern Lights will lose its ratings to the synthetic showiness of color TV.

That agreement, between Northern and Canadair Limited, calls for completion of an experimental satellite antenna system in March 1968.

The antenna system, valued at $600,000, will form part of an elaborate experimental satellite communications ground station.

Initially, the station will control transmission tests between Bouchete, Que. - 70 miles north of Ottawa — and Canada's existing satellite earth station at Mill Village, Nova Scotia.

If the test prove their point, the Bouchette site could become the main control terminal for elaborate communications serving the northeast Arctic in 1970.

When completed, the Arctic communication system, will be capable of supplying high-quality voice and color television circuits through a single satellite system.

The new antenna is designed by Northern and Canadian aerospace scientists to challenge the harsh requirements of the Arctic environment.

Under the Montreal agreement, while Canadian is building the antenna, Northern will complete design of the ground station's equipment.

Manufacture of this equipment will then be carried out at one or more of Northern's plants.

Officials of the company's Belleville unit this morning confirmed that present plans call for part of the equipment to be produced here.

Since the project is still experimental it is not expected to mean any significant employment increase.

However, that could come later after the Bouchette project justifies itself and the entire Arctic communications scheme is launched toward reality.

Look Nanook, Here Comes Pa Cartwright--in Color Too!

Some day, at that, Canada's Arctic dwellers may know the challenge of timing it to the ice box during commercials. If so, it'll be caused by such electronic feats as this artist's conception of a synchronous satellite orbiting 22,000 miles above the earth. It will relay communications to and from earth terminals, including color television.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald's regular council last night the new Trent River bridge named in his honor may be open to traffic by the end of August. He said spring construction on the span was scheduled to get underway this week.

The mayor also noted a check of the existing bridge found it to be in excellent condition as an alternate route to the new structure.

The General Government Committee of town council will give further study to a Kingston proposal calling for the establishment of municipal central registry offices for voters.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said the resolution, brought down by Kingston city council March 28, "has some merit."

"It puts the onus on the voter — to get his name on the voting lists, he would have to register."

Mr. Larry also felt the plan would eliminate the last-minute rush by voters and that time an election is at hand.

Such a registry office could be used for obtaining voters' lists for elections at all three levels of government, he noted, and under certain circumstances, municipalities could receive sovereigns subsidies for setting them up.

---

Council reserved a resolution from the town of Orangeville, Ont., to the Board of Education concerning the proposed adoption of wage scales for high school teachers across the province in an attempt to meet "the alarming rise in education costs."

---

Two Trenton residents are to receive $1,000 each for two boat houses and the property they occupy on the bay shore.

Council resolved last night to offer Messrs. A. Hutcheon and A. Jack Waldron the sums provided the buildings be removed at no cost to the town before the end of May.

The boathouses are located on the site of the proposed town marina.

---

Two readings were given by town council Monday evening to bylaws concerning a pair of municipal public works projects.

Bylaw 67-2116 authorizes an expenditure of $73,500 for resurfacing, construction and widening of Front St., in the Elgin to Division area. A recovery of $22,000 from the department of highways is anticipated.

Town engineer Eric Aldersey said tenders have been called for the project and are expected to be in by May 1.

Bylaw 67-2117 allows for an expenditure of $44,000 (less an anticipated department of highways return of $11,000) for the reconstruction and widening of a portion of Ford St., near the new liquor store now under construction.

---

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry told councyil the L.C.B.O. has agreed to pay the town $4,000 as lease for a strip of land at the new store site to cover the next 20 years, and that a 12.5-foot strip of property necessary in the reconstruction of the street was being conveyed at no cost by the Board to the town.

---

Town council has authorized the purchase of a piece of property at No. 2 Dundas St. area property from the C.P.R. to meet requirements at the east end of the new Dundas St. James MacDonald Bridge.

Situated southwest of Ontario St., the land will be acquired for $1,130.

Public Works Committee of town council will study the advisability of purchasing a $18 acre pit area on Byron St.

A communication to last night's council meeting from L. C. Carr indicated the property would be made available to Trenton for $8,000, although with an assessment of $3,880, the normal market value would be $11,550.

The matter was referred to Public Works.

Build at Hillcrest

Initial plans for the construction of two additional classrooms at the Hillcrest public school, along with a general purpose room, principal's office and library, were approved last night by the Belleville Public School Board.

Detailed plans still have to be drawn and approvals received from provincial authorities but the hope is that the new addition can be ready for the opening of the September term in 1968.

The new addition at Hillcrest will replace the two temporary classrooms which, according to school board officials, will be required in other parts of the city. The temporary classrooms would continue to be used during construction.

The school board had plans a couple of years ago for an addition at the Hillcrest school, but these were shelved temporarily when the feeling arose that the area might eventually become an industrial area.

Accordingly the two temporary classrooms were constructed last summer to fill immediate accommodation needs.

Now, however, thinking is that the Hillcrest area will continue for the foreseable future to be both industrial and residential and plans are going ahead for the permanent addition to the school.

Construction of the new five-room Sir John A. Macdonald school in West Belleville is now virtually completed, and the board is waiting for the construction site to dry up to prepare the grounds and entranceways.

At the moment it is still too wet even for a bulldozer to operate.

Ambulance Service Assured

TRENTON — Town council was told last night a new agreement with ambulance operator Douglas Rushnell has still but been formally signed.

Councillor J. D. Kinney, whose written committee was appointed to investigate Mr. Rushnell's request for an increased town subsidy, told council Trenton's only ambulance operator had tentatively agreed to the proposed terms of a two-year contract.

Under the terms of the agreement, Rushnell Ambulance would receive a $7,200 annual subsidy to be shared by the town and provincial government.) The firm has been receiving a town grant of $3,600 for the past several years.

Mr. Rushnell also agreed, said Councillor Kinney, to supplying Trenton with a stand-by unit, and to dropping the charges for providing ambulance service to indigents within the town limits.

There was some indication that Mr. Rushnell will be asked by council to list set rates for out-of-town calls.

In the face of recently-enacted stringent provincial regulations, Mr. Rushnell had asked council to increase his annual subsidy to $10,000 (shared with the province) to meet the costs of new equipment called for by the legislation.

Among those items which are now considered standard equipment for ambulance vehicles are two-way radios.

Pyrotenax Workers Back on Jobs

TRENTON — Regular shifts are on the job today at the Pyrotenax of Canada plant here following yesterday's vote by the 80-member U.E.E. Local 537 to end their 15-day-old strike.

The plant production and maintenance workers, one-third of whom are women, ratified a contract proposal produced at a marathon 12-hour negotiation session Sunday between union and company bargaining agents. The meeting was attended by George Hutcheon, Canadian district president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America.

Mr. Hutcheon was appointed to the task by I.U.E. International president Paul Jennings of Washington, D.C., after other attempts to conciliate the dispute had failed. Recent talks reviewed by Ontario Department of labor officer W. J. McGuire broke down over major disagreements between Pyrotenax and I.U.E. representatives.

Female employees, who have been receiving wages starting at $1.22 hourly, will receive an additional 31 cents across-the-board under the terms of the new two-year pact.

Male workers will get a general hourly hike of 36 cents, with skilled tradesmen to receive an additional 5 cents. Male Pyrotenax employees were paid $1.76 and up per hour under the former contract, which expired Jan. 31.

Included in a bevy of fringe benefits stipulated in the new agreement are:

— payment for a ninth holiday, Boxing Day;

— a $10 weekly increase in sick benefit payments, to bring the figure to $45;

— posting of vacancies in job classifications in the plant, to be filled from among applicants on the basis of seniority and aptitude;

— lowering of the probationary period for new employees from 60 to 50 days;

— two weeks paid vacation after two years (formerly after three years), and three weeks after 10 years (formerly 12 years);

— company to pay PSI plan premiums in full;

— double-time to be paid for hours worked after 12 daily, for hours worked after 8 p.m. Saturdays, and for all Sunday overtime;

— a flat retroactive sum of $35 to the date of expiry of the old contract.

Local 537 president Cyril White said a major union objective — getting most of the benefits written into an actual contract — has been achieved. Company officials agreed to paying half the cost of printing future contracts in booklet form.

The strike was the second of a major nature at a Trenton plant in recent months. About 180 United Electric Workers walked off the job for three weeks here in February before a strike involving 8,000 Ontario Canadian General Electric employees was settled.

Commission Takes Up Membership

After working on its own for the past three years, the Belleville Industrial Commission this year is again taking out membership in the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council.

The Council formerly was known as the Lake Ontario Development Association.

The Commission dropped its membership in LODA in the belief that value was not being received for the $2,100 annual membership fee.

This year the Commission has changed its mind and now feels that the Development Council can provide valuable leads in enticing the city to locate new industry.

Peace Remote

It is all very well for the Rev. Martin Luther King and others to demand an end to the bombing of North Viet Nam, but that would cause a magical change of heart in the Communist North.

The United States some months ago halted air raids on the north for a period of more than a month. At the same time it stepped up peace feelers at the diplomatic level. To both these efforts to bring a halt to the fighting and engage in negotiations North Vietnam responded with a hostile silence.

Why does Mr. King think it would be any different today? During the period the United States refrained from bombing the north the Communists were busy infiltrating troops across the border into the south where the ground war continues to escalate.

In fact, infiltration by North Vietnamese regular troops in support of the Viet Cong rebels (who are the hard core of the action aimed at overthrowing the Saigon government and taking over the entire country) has reached new proportions. It is serious enough that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Ky has announced a fortified barrier is being built along the country's northern frontier in an attempt to halt infiltration.

Whether this will be effective remains to be seen. It is a strategy that has seldom achieved great results in previous conflicts. The Maginot Line was a classic example. The Germans simply bypassed it, ignoring national boundaries in the process.

Hanoi has just rejected a four-point Canadian proposal to end the war. At the same time, having ignored the previous U.S. halt in bombing raids, it has the effrontery to suggest peace talks might be possible if the Americans unconditionally stopped air raids on the north.

It is too much to expect North Vietnam to halt its aggressive moves against the south. All the evidence points to a continuation of hostilities and further escalation of the war, with indeterminate consequences for the security of the world.

Measles Clinic

It must have been quite a day in London, Ontario, last week when the city medical authorities conducted an immunization blitz on children in the 12 months to 12 years age group.

Some 11,000 youngsters out of about 45,000 in the age group received their virtually painless shot in the arm of live measles vaccine. Although the swift operation, administered by a doctor using a vaccine-gun, is virtually painless, the children were far from happy.

The waiting in line and the howls of those who had reached the moment of truth was quite an ordeal for them. Still, it was all in a good cause, for measles (and it comes as a shock to be reminded of the fact) is the country's leading killer and crippler of children.

The statistics are interesting — and frightening. Dr. James E. Bowes of Indianapolis, medical director of a U.S. firm which supplied the vaccine offered a comparison with the U.S. population.

Ontario, with a population of 7 million, has 300,000 children in the susceptible age bracket of 1 to 12. Of this number 40 per cent or 120,000 will get measles within the next year.

"Out of that 120,000," he said, "120 will get encephalitis (which can lead to mental retardation) and 12 will die."

Although the London program is a pacesetter, it conflicts with the Ontario Department of Health's province-wide program to be launched within weeks. The provincial program will use a vaccine that is dead before it enters the body and will also immunize against diphtheria, polio, tetanus and whooping cough.

Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond last summer announced his department was discouraging use of the live vaccine and would pay no grants to departments using it. The reason for this was the possibility of side effects from its use.

London, however, felt just as strongly about the live vaccine and spent $15,000 of city money to mount the program.

Madame Vanier

The appointment of Madame Vanier, wife of the late Governor-General, to the Privy Council is a fitting tribute to a gracious woman whose compassion and sensitivity were such complementing forces for good alongside the sterling qualities General Vanier brought to his tasks as the Queen's representative in Canada.

As a member of the Privy Council Madame Vanier is one of the select group of Canadian advisers to Her Majesty. How she has taken up residence in Montreal, but expects to return to Ottawa from time to time. And we may be sure there will be no more welcome visitor in the capital.

Rideau Hall's New Hostess Entertains With Magic Flair

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — So there they are, the Honorable Roland and Norah Michener, the new Governor General and his lady, spending their first day in Rideau Hall.

And what a switch just overnight for them.

Yesterday, all the pomp and circumstance, the protocol and punctilio, the glamor and glory of the swearing-in ceremony in the Senate.

Today, the getting down to the business of preparing for the long, hot and hectical summer old Rideau Hall has seen in 100 years and probably won't see again until 2067.

Nearly 100 kings, reigning queens, pachas, presidents and plain prime ministers, their ladies and entourages to bed, board and bar.

All, of course, at your taxpayer's expense, including the 12 new Cadillacs being bought by the Industries, Department to which them upstairs in the style to which not all of them are have become accustomed, despite all your munificent Pelican Aid efforts.

The will be much high level entertaining at Rideau Hall — where the hospitality routinely lacks for none of the finer touches — never before has land on such no knobby lavish hand.

Or on such a mess production loads.

Prime Minister Pearson as the nation's No. 2 — the new GG, of course, is No. 1 — will be standing in all this wining and dining at the exalted VIP knurry level, and has been heard to wonder out loud about what it might do to his weight and well-being.

He made a brave attempt at a wry little crack about it the other day at a press conference, and if you listened carefully the overtones of sadness came through over the gladness.

Imagine a whole six months of 12-course dinners for 24 — nearly over one — coz-an-vin, state dinners, to say nothing of official givernment functions, and that endless round of receptions, each veiled in on three sides by beer.

The whole bizarre gastronomical bit, fortunately is not beyond the imaginative talents of Norah Michener.

If ever the job was created for the woman — or the woman for the job, this surely is the time.

She was such the Hostess-with-the-Mostes' in her thousand and one days and nights here on Parliament Hill as Mr. Speaker Michener's chatelaine that she completely dominated the Capital's social whirl.

And that takes some doing, with nearly 60 Ambassadors Extraordinaire and Minister Plenipotentiary loosed on the old happy-hour merry-go-round spinning with cocktail parties every and-so-often.

Now, putting on a bash in the rambling old Centre Block of Parliament Hill isn't easy. Amid all the cut stone and cold marble, it is something like cutting in a manadarin.

But this best-of-all Parliamentary hostesses managed to thrawn up the austere pile of carved limestone and make it swing in finest diplomatic time.

She did it top-to-bottom anywhere you are lucky enough to sink your teeth into Rideau Follets", the thrill of the "Golden Centenaires", the excitement of the parades and fireworks and all the other festivities during Belleville's Centennial year are not to be forgotten at the close of 1967.

Looking to the future and preparing for the responsibility of the years ahead, I feel we must plan in such a way that the present Centennial is not lost. We can not afford nor would I intend that we set aside funds for extravagances such as we are having this year, but this does not mean to say that when the Centennial projects taking place this year can not be the beginning of a new Belleville.

Our own Centennial project, Zwick's Island Park, is an excellent example. We have not only Belleville, in the past few years, sufficient parks either in number or in quality although I am told that in years gone by Victoria Park and others were a credit to the community. By gradually increasing our Parks Budget over the past few years with a dedicated Parks Board and capable management and by putting a Centennial emphasis on Zwick's Island, we are now embarked upon a program which will, if continued, make Belleville a city once again proud of its parks. Certainly our costs will continue to increase for some time to come we have overcome the backlog of new expenditures our annual charges will gradually level out and with increased leisure time I'm sure our citizens will put these parks to good use.

This year we have already experienced the heady sensation of having internationally-acclaimed presentations of the Arts. Many will be viewed during the year. These have been made possible through the direct assistance of our senior Governments. When in the past we have been able to enjoy performances such as "Les Feux-Follets" and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra? When in the future can we expect to again? Only the National Ballet, and, more's to Judy LaMarsh) strongly urging that the program of assistance to the Arts continue this year, be carried on in the years to come, so that not only will Canadian people in communities such as ours to enjoy their works without driving to either Toronto or Montreal. Locally, I have agreed with and I will support the formation of an Arts Council which will be for the purpose of assistance in these endeavors.

Belleville will not always be a small city. We have 33,000 souls but I feel we can not wait until we are double or triple our size to offer our citizens and their children the privilege of participating in the wonderful heritage of Canadian artists. Our new arena will be designed in such a way that a large stage may be placed in one end and we will then be able to house the most ambitious programs imaginable in our community. Under the guidance of a Council of Arts, program such as "Arts Festival '67", which was extremely popular this year can look to a future of annual performances in our city.

There are many other ways, perhaps not quite so magnificent, in which our Centennial ideas can be carried over into the second century of our country and, particularly, in our community. For the past 18 months I have been discussing with the Central Ontario Commonwealth Association the possibility of making the City of Belleville cheese headquarters of Ontario and giving due and proper recognition to one of our finest exports in the form of a Cheese Festival. All of us who have been working on this project know that the Member Ex-Minister Henderson who was a guiding light. I am sure, however, that others will follow in his footsteps and the Cheese Carnival to take place in 1967 this year will be just a beginning.

I am personally very proud of being an honorary member of both the Royal Canadian Legion and the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association, and that these two fine organizations are cooperating this year in Veterans' Week services and, particularly, an All Services Combined Drumhead. What better way to start the second 100 years than with the unity of the men and women to whom this country owes so much.

This year we hope to bring back to a newly refurbished Zwick's Island Park and, perhaps, to some of the other parks a Sunday afternoon or Sunday evening band concert. This form of entertainment so popular a few years ago has slowly slipped away through lack of demand. We are much need for a few quiet hours in our hectic modern world with the desire to promote the family way of life, perhaps this also can be carried on in the years to come to the betterment of our whole community.

Much is being done in this Centennial Year by many people to the benefit of all people. Their efforts must not be used to create simply a memory but rather to create a new why of life for the most important people in the world, the people of our community, your neighbors and mine.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

April 15, 1947

The Second World War came to Japan for the first time 25 years ago today—in 1942—when Lt.-Col. James H. Doolittle led 16 Mitchell bombers from USS Hornet to bomb Tokyo. The aircraft took off at the limit of their range because the carrier had been detected by Japanese patrols. One landed in Russia and two in Japan but all but one man of the other 13 crews reached the Allies after reaching China. Doolittle was promoted to major-general and awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

1775—Paul Revere made his ride to Lexington, Mass.

1949—The Republic of Ireland was proclaimed.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917—the British defeated 10th Turkish Army Corps at Istabulat, Mesopotamia; Gen. von Bissing, German governor of Belgium, died; the French advanced in the second battle of the Aisne.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1942 — U.S. Army bombers flew from an aircraft carrier to bomb Tokyo; Free French headquarters announced the Surcouf, the world's largest submarine, was presumed sunk.

Mayor Ellis' Forecast

Belleville in 1967—and in the Years Ahead

What happens after the Centennial? How can Belleville maintain the momentum of its contribution to Canada's 100th birthday celebrations within the context of the city's available resources and funds?

These are questions posed by MAYOR JACK ELLIS in the following article in which he goes on to suggest some answers and points to programs already under way.

Mr. Ellis believes Belleville can move ahead with its Parks program with a view to restoring them to their former status and significance in the lives of Bellevillians.

Belleville as a centre of the Arts — this is another exciting prospect which has already been given impetus by Centennial Year performances by some of the country's leading cultural groups. Others are to follow.

Belleville as a possible headquarters of the Cheese Industry in Ontario — the role of the Armed Services and Veterans' organizations. These are other subjects touched on by Mayor Ellis in the first of two articles for The Intelligencer.

In the second article the Mayor will discuss the city's municipal structure.

When I took on the job of Centennial Chairman of the Centennial Celebrations Committee it was not because I wanted or needed the extra work. Frankly, I could not find anyone else to take it.

Fortunately, the members of the Committee are extremely capable and hard working and the results have been, up to the present time to be, worthwhile throughout the balance of the year. Our criticism will be able to look back on Centennial Year with a sense of pride and accomplishment.

While the work of the Committee will go on throughout the balance of the year the planning on my part is relatively complete and I must now look to the future again.

Centennial must be a warm-hearted review of our past and a salute to our founding fathers.

Centennial will be a lively celebration, a birthday party suitable for a growing community in an alive young nation.

Centennial can be a springboard to the future and may bring us to a new local and national awareness of ourselves and our abilities Surely the pomp and splendour of the "Military Tattoo", the sheer delight of "Les Feux-

War of Attrition

United States Nears Point When Reserves May Be Called

WASHINGTON (CP) — Today's rumors of additional American troop commitments in the Vietnamese war often have proved tomorrow's realities.

Unofficial estimates in the spring of 1965 for a manpower ceiling of 400,000 were discounted—and at that time appeared highly unrealistic.

Now, North Vietnam and the U.S. have settled down to a bloody test of attrition. Despite fearsome losses, the northern forces keep coming with their Viet Cong allies and new American troop ceilings are being bandied about.

This is one of the few avenues left for escalating the war on either side, observers here suggest.

The last official figure for American troop presence in the south was 433,000 with indications the year-end target was about 470,000. This compares with the peak Korean-war commitment by the U.S. of 450,000 men.

Several factors govern the future.

How long can the Communists keep coming—at least at the suicidal pace reported by the U.S. in recent days following the mutual step-up in the fighting?

Will the U.S. have to step in increasingly to handle the holding and pacification of cleared areas as well as the main-line fighting?

Finally, and perhaps most important, how many more men can President Johnson commit without calling up some reserves — a decision believed fraught with political hazards domestically?

The U.S. Marines has asked for another division. But, unless some of the 45,000 marine reserves can be called up, adding a third marine division to Vietnam, one of two remaining in the U.S. would have to be tapped.

Or army units could be used, drawing on conscripted men.

If the U.S. is drawn into largescale pacification work, the manpower ceiling may soon past 600,000 men, some estimates say. Already guaranteed evidence that their work can be finished for a decade.

Manitoba Underwrites Industrial Surveys

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba government this year will provide cost grants to companies wanting to have professional consultants for advice on technological change.

Sidney Spivak, minister of industry and commerce, announced the plan during a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association's Manitoba branch.

The minister noted that individual Manitoba firms are caught up in a system of constant technological change and scientific advance. In many urban and rural areas, he said, there are small firms that often are not able to afford the trained specialists they need to take advantage of change.

"Therefore, the government must act as a catalyst in introducing new ideas in management techniques, product design and production methods to our industry," Mr. Spivak said.

He added: "The department of industry and commerce will present this year a revised program of technical assistance grants to all companies."

The grants will amount to about one-third of the cost of retaining a consultant.

Those eligible for the grants are companies which retain consultants and advisory services to improve their products and develop new ones.

Mr. Spivak said the cost-sharing grants will be on a two-year basis.

Expanding on the announcement, he said government has an obligation to create a political and economic environment to encourage the economy to grow.

"The inmpiy of development in Manitoba is accelerating. One of the most gratifying aspects of this development has been the increasing number of our industries that are in a position to compete with confidence in the international field."

Mr. Spivak said about $1,000,000,000 worth of manufactured goods are produced in Manitoba each year and 55 per cent of these goods go outside the province. About 20 per cent is exported outside Canada.

Stelco Head Optimistic

HAMILTON (CP) — Earnings for the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. for the first quarter of 1967 were about the same as for the first quarter of 1966, F. W. Scully, chairman of the board, told the annual meeting Monday.

Although Mr. Scully did not disclose the 1967 figures, first-quarter earnings in 1966 totalled $11,067,000.

He also said the outlook for operations in the second quarter appear good based on the current order volume.

Mr. Scully said he opposed any radical change in Canada's tax policy towards the mining industry. Without the present tax benefits, many of the mines operating or being developed could not have been undertaken, he said.

CSL Warns Shipbuilding Jeopardized

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada Steamship Lines' main ship yards have fair order books but future orders are being held up pending settlement of wage disputes, J. W. McGREA, president, told the company's annual meeting Monday.

"The laws of Canada do not insist that ships be built in this country, he said, "and if the unions persist in their extraordinarily exorbitant demands, it may well force owners to build their ships abroad—and that also applies to ourselves."

Preliminary indications are that 1967 could be a "most productive year," Mr. McGillis said.

But "profits could be affected to a considerable extent by the result of labor negotiations."

J. Rombough Gets 3 Months For Breakin

John Rombough, 19, of Foxboro, was sentenced to three months in county jail yesterday for his part in a break-in at a Carnilton garage about midnight March 9.

Rombough has been in custody ever since March 10, unable to raise $600 bail.

Yesterday Magistrate T. Y. Wills ruled that a statment Rombough signed about a break-in at Percy Hook Shop in February was not admissible evidence and the charge against him was dismissed.

Defence counsel Robert Temple had claimed that Rombough was induced to sign it. The magistrate agreed that a statement by detective Lyle Davis that it would be better to get it off his chest was a form of inducement.

Rombough was convicted of a break-in last May and again in June. He was still on probation the magistrate noted in passing sentence. Magistrate Wills said that his hands to some extent were tied by what happened to the other part of the case against Rombough. He commented that three months was unusual for this type of offence.

Wife of Governor-General Looks Around New Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Roland Michener planned to relax and look around her new home Monday after a hectic days culminated by the installation of her husband as Governor-General.

The petite, blonde first lady attended the swearing-in ceremonies in the Senate chamber in the morning and was hostess at receptions for politicians, friends and diplomats in the afternoon.

Before they arrived in Ottawa Friday, the Micheners travelled 10,000 miles from New Delhi, where Mr. Michener was high commissioner. Their trip included a stop-over in Britain as guests of the Queen.

In his speech Monday Mr. Michener said the transition from India to Ottawa had been so quick "I have the sensation of having run all the way and arrived here among you somewhat out of breath."

Even after they reached the capital there was one more move to be made, from the official visitors' residence at 7 Rideau Gate where the couple spent the weekend, to Rideau Hall where they will receive more than 30 heads of state this year.

Also staying at Government House for a few days are the Micheners' three daughters and four of their four grandchildren.

Besides exploring the big stone mansion and consulting with the staff, the family will make birthday plans for Mr. Michener, who will be 67 Wednesday.

Except for the Governor-General's appearance at the annual parliamentary prom gallery dinner next week, no official engagements have been planned for the next few days.

"We have a few days time to breathe," said a Government House spokesman. "They haven't even unpacked yet."

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

MARMORA GUIDE TEA

MARMORA—An afternoon tea and bake sale sponsored by Marmora Brownies, Guides and Rangers was well patronized by the public Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall. Over $90 from this division contributed in making the event successful. Supervising were Brownie leaders Mrs. Doug Vilneff and Mrs. Tom Neal, Ranger leader Mrs. Tom Shannon, Guide Captain Mrs. Roy Frost, and Guide Lieutenant Mrs. David Reynolds.

Catering the main tea table was a butter bowl over 100 years old owned by Mrs. Frost, filled with yellow daffodils, and the small tables were decorated with candles and pussy willows. On the stage a camp site was set up and the girls looked after keeping tea pots filled from over an insulation fire.

Rangers were in charge of the bake table, the Brownies assisted by serving refreshments and Guides rotated duties so that each girl had a turn at every job.

The project was sponsored to assist financially in sending two girls from this division to Heritage Camp at Nairne and Morrison Islands, 18 miles west of Cornwall. Each unit is also responsible for holding fund-raising events with this project in mind.

A GIRL'S BEST FRIEND — Diamonds in a bib necklace, bracelet and a barrette to nestle in the hair are used by Harry Winston to accent this black gown. The diamond, April's birthstone, has been popular with women for about 500 years. (CP Photo)

Origin of Girl's Best Friend Goes Back Well Over 500 Years

Written for The Canadian Press By MARGARET NESS

The idea that diamonds are a girl's best friend may appear to be of recent vintage, having been popularized by the song of that name in the Broadway musical, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes.

But the reputation of April's birthstone actually goes back some 500 years to the days when women first began wearing it.

The gems are weighed in carats—one carat being equal in size to a small pea. Most valuable are pure white but several important ones are colored.

A green diamond belonged to the Sazan crown and no other is in a record handed to the Seraglio Museum in Istanbul. A pale yellow diamond was among the Medici crown jewels. The famous Orloff diamond is yellow, the Hope diamond a rare deep blue, a pink one was in a ring owned by the Empress Josephine and legend has it there is a cinnamon pink diamond in the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

The earliest diamonds came from India. Then Brazil became an important source, but wasn't until 1867 that the first diamond was discovered in South Africa, now the source of 95 per cent of the gems.

The yellow Orloff was originally stolen from the eye of an Indian temple idol and bought in 1772 for Catherine the Great of Russia by Count Alexey Grigory Orloff. It was later mounted in the sceptre of the Romanoff crown. It is said to be diamond treasury in Moscow.

The diamond with the longest history is the Koh-i-Noor or Mountain of Delight — first mentioned in 1304. It changed hands many times before being presented as a personal gift in 1850 to Queen Victoria by the East India Company.

Victoria willed it to her daughter - in - law, Princess Alexander, and since then it has graced the coronation crowns of Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother.

Three famous diamonds owned by the French royal family were taken during the French Revolution. The largest, so called because the stone belonged to a regent of France, corresponded in almost immediately and was later placed by Napoleon in the hilt of the sword which he wore at his coronation. Lost again, it was found in pawn in a tavern and now is in the Louvre Museum in Paris.

The French crown jewel up 26 years after the revolution and now is owned by a Dutch jeweller. Named after its original owner, a French mistress, it belonged to Jeanne and Louis XV of England before the latter took it in his pocket to France on his ebdication. There it passed into the hands of Louis XIV and on to Marie Antoinette.

The third diamond was a deep blue and is believed to be the Hope diamond. The stone, which weighed about 45 carats when it was stolen. Some 38 years later a piece of equal blue brilliance but weighing only 44½ carats turned up in London. Jewelers said it was only another piece cut to prevent identification.

It was bought by English banker Harry Thomas Hope whose family sold it in 1809 to the sultan of Turkey. On the eve of the Young Turks' revolution in 1911 he sent it to Paris, Evelyn Walsh McLean, wealthy American, bought it along with another of the sultan's diamonds, the Star of the East. It was bought in 1949 from the McLean estate by New York jeweler Henry Winston and in 1958 he presented it to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

The world's largest diamond, the Cullinan, is named after Sir Thomas Cullinan, vast wheat it was discovered in 1905. A gift to Edward VII, the stone of 3,000 carats—weighing 1¼ pounds—was cut into several small and large stones. The largest was incorporated into the state sceptre and the next biggest, usually referred to as the Cullinan, was placed in the imperial state crown.

New Woman Senator Is Jill-of-all-trades

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—Canada's newest woman senator is a jill-of-all-trades who lives in a household of her herself and whose busy life has included stretches as a concert pianist a shipyer and hockey player.

Mary Kinnear, whose appointment to the Senate April 6 restored the female membership in the upper house to five, is a Hotshot Liberal who got her first taste of politics in the daily conversation around the dining room table at home.

She has been an active behind - the - scenes worker since she joined the Port Colborne Women's Liberal Association in 1921, never thinking in those days that she would one day become president of the National Federation of Liberal Women.

Her success in the administrative side of the political scene was hardly surprising, however, to those who recognized her ability in the years after the First World War.

From 1919 to 1929 she held the position of shipper at the Canada Cement Co. plant here, a responsibility rarely entrusted to a woman.

She also headed the Port Colborne Girls' Club which sponsored university extension lectures, plays, concerts, dances and summer camps. During the Second World War she directed the Red Cross blood donor program, headed the Port Colborne Hospital Women's Auxiliary, the Women's Division of Community Work on's club and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

She was also active in sports, serving as secretary of the women's section of the Port Colborne golf club and organizing bowling for the town's women's hockey team. She also enjoyed swimming, skating and tennis.

In all these activities she performed with a quiet efficiency, sense of direction, a courteous but no-nonsense administrator.

Behind her array of activities lay the overruling conviction that women must play an increasingly larger role in public life. She has labored tirelessly to encourage them to accept the challenge.

"I value the effort of the Business and Professional Women's Association in assisting women to reach desired goals and I believe every citizen should be a student of politics."

There was a time, however, when she thought seriously of giving up her club and political activity. That was 17 years ago when her late husband, Robert Kinnear, manager of the Maple Leaf Milling Co., became ill.

Robert Kinnear knew how dedicated his wife was to public affairs and urged her to continue with her outside interests. He died in 1954. They had no children.

With an interest in Liberal party affairs inherited from her staunchly Liberal parents, Mrs. Kinnear advanced through various local, riding and regional organizations to become president of the Ontario Liberal Women's Association in 1962.

From 1959 to 1963 she was president of the national federation and now is an honorary life member of that body. She also served on the executive of the International Liberal Federation.

Senator Kinnear lives in a gracious two-storey brick home overlooking Lake Erie and the entrance to Port Colborne harbor. Visitors to the well-appointed residence are surprised when they learn that Mrs. Kinnear designed the home.

But it's not her only experience in home building. She designed and supervised construction of a beautiful summer cottage she and her husband had erected at Reeb's Bay in the Lake Bris summer colony.

Mrs. Kinnear discussed her appointment to the Senate in modest terms.

"The distinction recognizes the contribution of all women to public affairs, and particularly the Women's Liberal Federation of Canada," she says.

There were five women in the Senate until Marianne Jodoin of Quebec retired a year ago. Mrs. Kinnear likes Muriel Ferguson of New Brunswick, Olive Irvine of Manitoba, Josie Quart of Quebec and Elsie Inman of Prince Edward Island in the Red Chamber.

New Technique for Relieving Woman's Labor Pains Used

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new technique for relieving a woman's labor pains—she inhales a gas that administers a pain-killing anesthetic to herself through a face mask—was described Monday by a team of New Jersey doctors.

Promising results were achieved among 100 women with 96 reporting significant pain relief, including 21 who had complete relief. Dr. Leon J. Saval of South Orange reported to the 15th annual clinical meeting of the American Society of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

He said in his report, anything in the mixture made for technique allows elimination of expected reduction of opiates or hypnotic drugs customarily given to cope with labor pains.

There were no adverse effects on the mother or baby—no blood pressure, the progress of labor—or on the hearts of their bodies.

Saval, in a scientific exhibit reported developed by these colleagues, said the anesthetic used is methoxyflurane, a liquid that rapidly volatilizes into an inhalable gas.

The chemical has been commonly used in the past as a general anesthetic, administered by doctors to put a woman to sleep during delivery.

"But we thought it might be useful in a hand-held container, so that a woman could administer it to herself whenever she had a labor-pain contraction," the study told a reporter.

"When a woman feels uncomfortable, she holds the mask over her face, takes a few inhales, and quickly becomes drowsy. Her hand falls away and she is asleep—no danger of no danger of her getting too much — but the mask is active only when it is held by a cord so it doesn't fall to the floor. Presently, the woman wakes up spontaneously when she gets another contraction, she repeats the method."

Saval said 17 of the women—all of them among those having their second or third children—were able to deliver "with no further anesthetic."

White Cane Club Enjoys Recreation

The April recreation meeting of the White Cane Club held recently at Riwanis Centre was presided over by the president, Vi Wallie.

Mrs. Maude Rollins played for the opening songs. Twenty-six members and escorts responded to the roll call.

Helen Wardhaugh sold tickets on a gift donated by Mrs. Edith Miller, for the Centennial project fund and Doug Huffman was the winner.

The names of members having a birthday this month were read by Wallie Scott. The birthday song was sung and best wishes were extended to John Forrest, senior member of the Club who celebrated his 80th birthday that evening.

Table bowling was later enjoyed with Elizabeth Davis and Earl Chapman the top scorers.

A "radio quiz" conducted by Maude Rollins proved most amusing with Vi Wallie having the high score.

Members of the Riwanis Ladies' Auxiliary were thanked by Doug Huffman for a tasty lunch.

Will Address University Ladies' Club

On Thursday evening, April 20, at the Corby Public Library, Mrs. Margaret Pope, M.A., personal consultant of the Toronto region for the Food and Drug Directorate, Department of National Health and Welfare, will address the University Women's Club on the "Use and Abuse of Drugs."

Mrs. Pope, a graduate in Home Economics at Toronto University, served in the war as a tactical training officer for the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service. From 1946-66 she gave a daily morning course to food broadcast for consumers, and from 1956-66 was a regular panelist on the CBC Matinee Quiz.

In view of the present concern over the misuse of drugs and vitamins, and the interest in protective legislation, the U-W. Club is fortunate to hear such a well informed speaker.

This Season's Suits Take Many Shapes

NEW YORK (CP)—It's suit time, weather permitting, and this season's suit takes many shapes.

Most popular is the military-tailored, with epaulettes and shoulders or tab trim, and brass buttons. Some continue the Eisenhower jacket heading. But many of the suits have taken to short pants, a natural result of last season's trousered suit. The short pants are both skinny and culotte style. Newest is the jumpsuit with jacket. Jacket collars are often shawl and when shown are neat and unobtrusive. Sleeves usually end just above the wrist-bone.

Suits came into high fashion early this century and for years were identified with spring. Then the costume look of dress with jacket or coat overshadowed the suit. Lately the suit, on its own merit, has been revived.

Christian Dior - New York evaluates this spring's suit as "important" and designer Gaston Berthelot says: "It has a slightly wider shirt achieved by either an A-line skirt or by a flare of pleats. By a pretty short blouse or sack and a neat but ever-so-easy little jacket buttoned in the double- or single-breasted or the side-closing manner."

Militaire: The Dior suits in the military look include the tab trim of a putty wool with a black-and-putty silk blouse. Paris likes this look in Philippe Venet's clean red wool in a battledress style. Originals includes an Eisenhower type jacket with a knife-pleated skirt. Another almost battle-jacketed suit is Jack Sarnoff's, with matching navy shell and a back-and-front paneled skirt.

Safari: Another popular suit style is the safar, adapted from the belted jackets of the big game hunters. Most of these are short-pants suits but a few team up with straight skirts. At the Union Label fashion show in Montreal, Lee Parker presented the skirt style in a black-and-cognac window-pane check. In New York, Oscar de la Renta designed the safari in white linen, complete with short pants, vest and four gold buttons.

White for Spring: White is popular with most of the designers, often with a color contrast or print for the blouse. Christian Dior - New York contrasted a white wool with brown leather belt and the Dior-name print in brown on a white blouse. Norman Norell completely edged a long tunic-jacketed white suit in navy silk, even around both the tunic and skirt hems.

Spring Colors: But vivid colors are popular this spring, too. Junior Sophisticates likes the latest favorite, yellow in a mango liner suit with a paisley print blouse. Jacques Tiffeau thinks nothing of a tweed in robin's egg blue and yellow or shrimp and tobacco. Both combinations appear in his long - sleeved suits with short pleated skirts. And his short-sleeved suits with back vents.

Spring Silk Fabrics: Wool, of course, is always good for spring but as the weather warms up other fabrics take the spotlight. Included are skin, gabardine, cotton, linen and some of the man-made silk - and - worsted, shark-skin, gabardine, cottons, linen and some of the man-made fibres and blends. One interesting fabric appeared at the Union Label fashions in Montreal, a cotton corduroy suit by Irving Milgrom of Toronto, with a brinkly look. The skirt was laminated for a rounded effect. At the same show, Fit-well of Vancouver combined silk-and-worsted in a navy-and-white suit, with a crepe overblouse.

Pants Suit: The pants look is still strong for spring. Latest is the short version. Pacific Trigere introduces her own version, a cut-to-crotch skirt which she calls a hope-culotte. One, in khaki, even has its own vest.

Oscar de la Renta's knee-high pants outfits are distinguished with hip-length short-sleeved tunics that make the pants look minimal. These outfits in solid colors as white tunic and blue shorts or in prints. All have matching mesh stockings. Cuddlecoat has numerous pants suits, some with jackets shaped like a riding habit, others in gaucho styles.

The Bermuda length seems popular in the short version. Mary Quant introduced it in London in horizontal wide stripes and an open neckline with Deauville lapels. A Ben Reig suit combined pink-and-white-squares for the jacket with white pants and over-blouse.

Shelly the centre of admiration — the little girl whose mom sews her dresses as pretty as this smock style. Draw-string neck, raglan sleeves — couldn't be easier.

Italian Dish Using Pork

By MARY MOORE

This little substitution tickled me mightily.

Dea made Veal Parmigiana but before we sat down to dinner she said it contained a secret ingredient she learned from her mother, but she would not tell until we tasted.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Sausage Patties; Mushroom Sauce; Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Broccoli; Chef's Salad; Apple Crisp; Rosettes (see Monday); Coffee.

We ate our portions, went back for seconds and I asked her for the secret. "It isn't veal at all — it's lean pork. I sliced pork chops in half to make them very thin."

As I write, fresh pork is less than half the price of veal and so I know my cash counters will try this famous Italian dish.

PORK PARMIGIANA
A LA DEA'S MOTHER

1 lb. ¼" thick sliced fresh lean pork (or veal) (see below)
2 small eggs, beaten
1 tbsp. water
1 to 1½ cups fine dry breadcrumbs
½ cup salad or olive oil
SAUCE:
3 tbsps. salad or olive oil
½ cup minced onion
1 garlic clove chopped
2 cups canned tomatoes preferably Italian
1 tbsp. sugar
½ to 1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. oregano
¼ tsp. basil
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ lb. sliced Mozzarella cheese
Grated Parmesan cheese (from shaker)

If you are on friendly terms with your butcher ask him to slice boned fresh pork loin as thinly as possible and to trim off the fat and weigh you one pound. If you cannot get this service buy about 1¼ lbs. pork loin and bone it out, cut off fat and with razor-sharp knife slice it ¼" thick.

Make Tomato Sauce by sauteing onion and garlic in oil until limp — about 3 min. Add tomatoes, sugar and seasonings and bring to boil, stirring, then simmer covered, 10 min. Remove from heat.

Beat eggs with water and dip slices of pork in it then into crumbs and fry until golden on both sides in some salad or olive oil, adding more oil as needed. Have ready a large shallow baking dish. Cover bottom with one layer of fried crumbed pork slices. Pour half of the tomato sauce over. Cover it with half of the slices of Mozzarella cheese. Repeat these three layers. Sprinkle top rather generously with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden and bubbling at edges — about 25 min. Naturally we served this with Italian bread sticks and Caesar salad. Try it on your most critical cook friends and see if they discover they are eating pork instead of veal. But for good taste's sake remember it would not be funny to some of our Hebrew friends.

Believes Wearing Lipstick Personal Matter of Conscience

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: When I started to use lipstick at about 13 my father expressed his disapproval. He said that when he went to Normal School (more than 30 years ago now), the painted girl was known to be fast and wild. The decent girls did not wear lipstick. By the time I reached my teens, this view was no longer prevalent. This view was reinforced by the Bible which records that the wicked queen Jezebel painted so that more fundamental evangelical denominations do frown on it as uncivilized, but I cannot believe that the inner man is more important than outward appearance.

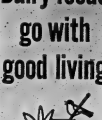
But we do spend time and money on our appearance. We like our eyebrows to be neat. We wear current styles in clothing and hairdos. We do believe a woman should look like a lady. Wearing lipstick is a personal matter of conscience. — Member of an Evangelical Church.

Dear Member: May I assume, then, that you would countenance a thin, not-too-artificial-looking tint to the lips?

Dear Doris: I have gained weight mostly on my thighs, hips and calves. I don't get into my good clothes now and we are supposed to go on holidays.

My husband will definitely not buy me any other clothes and says I must reduce in order to fit my old ones. He won't let me get anything to help reducing, so that is why I need your help. I wouldn't dare to enclose an envelope as he would find out what I am doing. — Desperate

Dear Desperate: Is friend-husband so blessed perfect that he can justify such cockily unkind edicts? I sense that your overeating can be directly traced to your unhappy and abiding fear of him. It is your marriage that needs treating. I can find you exercises and diet material if you will give me a box number or pick up mail at Courier Delivery.



Confidential to Let's Clean Up: The situation you describe is unthinkable. But a letter from me to you won't clean it up. The authorized agency is your local welfare department. You will have to throw your sensitivity to the four winds and take a hand to help the victim. I hope you have the courage.

Confidential to Married Woman in Love: It doesn't always work out that way. Many runaway wives and mothers find to their sorrow that they are not nearly as happy as they expected to be. The newly beloved turns out to be human, sometimes irresponsible. And the mother's heart of the runaway yearns for the children who formerly meant only drudgery to her!

You can't run from your problems; counselling might help relieve your present ho, physical abuse and all the rest. Try it first.

Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If you want her to help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dairy foods go with good living

Come springtime and good living, good fun and good food make every day a special event, in the good food department dairy foods go all out for busy homemakers.

Take milk. The refreshing drink for all Canadians does double duty in tasty soups, sauces and casseroles yet is capable of a quick about face in wholesome fun-to-make party drinks for the young crowd.

It takes but a shake or two to concoct a Tropical Cream Punch. For each serving combine a scoop of vanilla ice cream, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons frozen pineapple juice concentrate, thawed, and a small scoop lemon sherbet. A fresh pineapple spear adds the finishing touch to each glass.

For a hot snack accompaniment try this deluxe sandwich loaf, made with crunchy French bread and decorated with strips of matching cheese. Like all grilled cheese specials it's perfect with milk.

1 loaf French bread (12-ounce) can corned beef
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 tablespoon horseradish
8 slices processed cheese

Split loaf lengthwise and butter each half. Spread cut surfaces with a mixture of the beef, mustard and horseradish. Cut cheese into strips and arrange, checkerboard-fashion, over meat. Bake in a 375°F. oven about 15 minutes. Serve on a wooden board and let guests cut a slice to match their appetites. By the way, this makes a popular week-end special for the family.

See what maple syrup can do to the ever-popular milkshake. Combine 2 cups cold milk, ¼ cup maple syrup and 4 scoops vanilla ice cream. Blend well and pour into 2 tall glasses. A marvellous way to toast a warm spring day!

Ann Landers

Crossword Puzzles Dual Purpose Exercise

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have insulted a very important segment of American society, and we are a touchy group. I refer to the Crossword Puzzle Buffs of America.

What do you mean by saying the ability to work out a crossword puzzle is no proof of intelligence or general knowledge? You make it sound as though any idiot can work a crossword while walking in his sleep. And your description of the crossword buff, "sitting with a dictionary in his lap," indeed! Have you ever tried to sit with a 30-pound book in your lap? Well, be my guest.

ANN LANDERS

Working crosswords is wonderful relaxation and at the same time is a fine exercise in mental gymnastics. So, why don't you be a nice girl and give us a seven letter word for "I'm sorry"? — BUFFY.

DEAR BUFFY: Do you mean: "A-p-o-l-o-g-y"? Am I forgiven?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As the owner of a small motel, I am issuing a complaint against the way you repeatedly refer to motels as hideouts for immoral sex escapades.

In a recent column you said, "When a man takes a girl to a motel room — etc." Why didn't you say, "When a man takes a girl to his hotel room" or "to his apartment," or "for a ride in his car?"

We have rescued many stranded people who had automobile trouble. Frequently we provide a temporary home for out-of-town families who are unable to find a place to rest immediately. We have salvaged many shaky marriages by making housing available to an angry man or wife, so he or she could spend a night alone to cool off and think things over.

So, please, Ann Landers, don't use "motel" as a synonym for den of iniquity. Thank You. — MIFFED.

DEAR MIFFED: When a person writes "We went to a motel," I don't change it to read, "We went to a choir loft."

I am well aware that the majority of motel operators do everything they can to run a respectable inn. They don't want the two-hour customers. But when a person who writes to me says "We went to a motel" I print "motel."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After several years of marriage to a fine but dull man, I fell madly in love with a married man. We agreed to divorce our mates and spend the rest of our lives together.

Unfortunately, my husband twisted things around and left me. He charged adultery.

My lover has now decided he cannot leave his family and the future looks bleak. I seem to be living in the back street of his life. Suddenly he feels he must pay more attention to his wife for the sake of appearance. What should I do? Please give me your candid opinion. — MONTREAL.

DEAR MONTREAL: Your husband didn't have to do much twisting, the way I read it. My candid opinion is that you ought to wipe the egg off your face and ask your husband to take you back. If he agrees, consider yourself lucky and devote the rest of your life to making him happy.

Guillotine Inches Downward

OTTAWA (CP) — The guillotine to chop off the armed forces unification debate is expected to be lowered another notch today.

The government likely will report that all-party agreement cannot be reached in private meetings to restrict the length of the debate, entering the 12th sitting today.

The next government move would be a motion Wednesday to impose his own cut-off date under a temporary Commons rule called the "guillotine" that was passed two years ago.

This motion would be debated one day — Thursday — and the unification debate could end as early as next Tuesday night.

During Monday's debate, a bitter argument broke out between the Conservatives and H. A. Olson (SC — Medicine Hat), who accused them of conducting a filibuster.

Manpower Minister Marchand said he is "very concerned" about a report that 17 of 21 federal manpower offices have accepted instructions from employers that persons of certain races and religions are not acceptable. Government directives prohibit any such discrimination, he said.

Solicitor-General Pennell said he is giving active consideration to legislation which would wipe out a former criminal's record after a certain period of good conduct. He did not specify the period of time.

Mr. Pennell was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who referred obliquely to the statement of Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena), 42, that he served part of a two-year prison term for armed robbery as a teen-ager in the 1940s.

In the unification debate, Mr. Olson said it is an illusion that any stigma is attached to the application of closure.

Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal) said he supports the provisional "guillotine" rule but added that it was intended only for imperative legislation, which unification was not.

Mr. Fairweather said that if the rule against repetition had been applied in the current Parliament "we would have all been home four years ago."

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton Strathcona) said Mr. Olson had delivered a "hypocritical tirade." Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) added that Mr. Olson has political ambitions in his "divided, small group" and wants some publicity back home.

Later, Mr. Nugent said he had repeated outside the Commons his charge that Defence Minister Hellyer uses the "big lie technique" of Hitler.

He made the original charge in the Commons a week ago. Statement's made in Parliament are privileged and cannot be used to bring court action against MPs.

Mr. Hellyer said that if Mr. Nugent repeated the charge outside the Commons he would take him to court. Mr. Nugent repeated it in a speech in the Winnipeg area the following night.

Mr. Hellyer has declined all comment on the incident since threatening to take Mr. Nugent to court.

The Conservatives renewed their call for Prime Minister Pearson to enter the debate.

Roger Regimbal (PC—Argenteuil-Deux-Montagnes) said Mr. Pearson should speak because Canadians have lost confidence in Mr. Hellyer.

Speck Returned To Chicago - Jail

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — An armed convoy of police returned Richard Speck to Chicago Monday where he will remain for the duration of the legal proceedings planned to save him from the electric chair.

Speck, 25, was convicted Saturday of murdering eight nurses. The Circuit Court jury recommended that he be put to death.

Gerald W. Getty, public defender of Cook County (Chicago) who represents Speck, made an oral motion for a new trial Monday. The prosecution requested that the motion be made in writing.

It was stipulated by both sides that all further motions be heard in Chicago and Judge Herbert C. Paschen recessed proceedings until May 15.

Getty also asked for an arrest of judgment which, if granted, would postpone any action on the jury verdict.

He also requested, in closed chambers, that the court hear from six psychiatrists before sentencing Speck. Illinois law allows the trial judge the option to set aside a jury's death penalty and impose a prison sentence.

Assassin Kills Oilman

ADEN (AP)—Hamed Nabih, who fired six bullets, personnel manager of the British Petroleum Co., oil refinery in Aden, was killed while shopping early today by a gunman. The assassin was believed to be a member of the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen.

Most MPs Forgiving

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Howard's disclosure that he once served time for armed robbery has produced little alarm among his fellow members of Parliament, a snap poll indicates.

Four Progressive Conservatives and two Liberals were sampled on their attitude towards the NDP member for Skeena. The prevailing view was that his criminal record was a private matter.

Gordon Fairweather, Conservative MP for Royal, said the matter should be forgotten. "It's his own business and it happened 25 years ago," the former New Brunswick attorney-general said.

Of the six MPs polled, only Conservative Aldred Hales (Wellington South) suggested Mr. Howard should not be permitted to retain his seat. However, he said it is up to the NDP to decide that question, not Parliament.

"It's strange that one would be allowed to be an MP with such a record," Mr. Hales said.

Report True; Pope Stunned

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican officials appeared deeply distressed Monday about publication in the United States of the secret papal commission report urging Pope Paul to permit contraception for Roman Catholics.

Sources inside the Vatican confirmed the textual excerpts of the report, carried by the National Catholic Reporter in Kansas City, Mo., are genuine.

Its publication stunned many Vatican officials, who appeared to regard it as a breach of trust. The Vatican refused to make any official comment.

But an official in the Vatican's press office gave a clue to the feeling in the Holy See's official quarters with this private comment:

"Whoever made the report available has it on his conscience."

Some prelates in Rome who have worked with the birth control commission and want the Pope to allow contraception were happy that the commission's majority recommendations have finally come out into the open.

Others felt breaking the secrecy seal was a move to press the Pope into a decision he is not ready to make.

Deposits Now Insured

OTTAWA (CP)—The deposits of hundreds of thousands of Canadians in banks and trust and loan companies were placed under the protection of a federal insurance plan Monday.

The finance department announced that the Canada Deposit Insurance Corp. now covers individual accounts up to $20,000 in all chartered banks and all federally - incorporated trust and mortgage loan companies that accept deposits. More than $14,000,000,000 is involved.

The Ontario government has said it will require the transfer of its trust and loan companies from the Ontario deposit insurance plan to the federal plan.

Tax-free Election Pools?

BURLINGTON (CP)—Dalton E. Camp, president of the Progressive-Conservative party of Canada said Monday night that tax free foundations for political parties should be established.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Burlington Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Camp said such foundations would improve politics.

"If these foundations were established at maximum limits of $8,000,000 they might very well exist from interest, on investments," he said.

Mr. Camp said less money would go down the drain in the usual election orgies and more money would be devoted to purposes that would reflect thoughtful planning.

Open Court: Panel

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Juvenile court hearings should be open to press, radio and television—reporters, a study group on juvenile delinquency recommended Monday.

The group, part of a three-day conference on justice and the juvenile, said names of the accused or witness should not be made public and information media representatives should be limited by law to three.

Later, William T. Little, of Toronto, a juvenile court judge, said that because Metropolitan Toronto juvenile court no longer has a psychological clinic to advise it, judges must decide cases by guesswork.

Mr. Little, secretary to the legislature - appointed, select committee on youth, and other speakers, blamed departmental and government red tape for having a part in Canada's failure to launch effective youth programs.

'Slot-machine Unionism'

TORONTO (CP) — Slot-machine unionism by which union members pay their dues and expect their union to deliver the jackpot is a fundamental factor in strikes, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said Monday.

In the first major counter-attack against union power mounted to the one-man royal commission on labor disputes, the association's labor relations division also said unlimited picketing is an invitation to violence.

The association which represents 3,200 manufacturers in Ontario, also proposed:

1. A secret ballot vote of employees in every application for bargaining rights.

2. The right to sue unions by repealing the Rights of Labor Act.

3. The right of persons injured in secondary boycotts and recognition picketing to sue the union;

4. Complete freedom of employers to communicate with employees by eliminating an existing restriction against intimidation, coercion, threats or promises.

Dymond Rebuffed

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister MacEachen is making no commitments publicly to provincial demands for more money and fewer strings on federal payments to provincial medical care insurance programs.

Mr. MacEachen said Monday the federal government has given no thought to changing the basis of general payments to the provinces, scheduled to start July 1, 1968.

He also appeared to reject a bid that the federal government foot part of the administration costs of provincial programs. He said such costs now are excluded in the federal law "and that's our policy."

A two-day closed conference of federal and provincial health ministers, called to discuss medical care insurance, opened Monday.

Dr. Matthew B. Dymond of Ontario asked that Ottawa guarantee that "no province will receive less than 50 per cent of the cost" of its program.

He said the formula in the federal law passed last December means Ontario will get only 40 per cent.

Bill Would Hurt: SA

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—A bill before the federal government threatens to wreck the rehabilitation plans of hundreds of troubled teen-agers, an official of the Salvation Army told the conference on justice and the juvenile Monday.

Lt.-Col. William G. Poulton said Bill C-278, which has received first reading, bars the federal government's adult-training program to all persons who have been away from school less than 12 months.

He said boys and girls in 11 Salvation residential institutions in Ontario will also be affected.

The Giants in Miniature: Fathers of Confederation Exhibit Is Centennial Project

Dried Apples and Human Hair and Presto... ...18 Months Later--Fathers of Confederation

Many individual centennial projects are under way in Canada these days and Mrs. Walter Nind of Wellington has enthusiastically tackled her own personal project.

A middle-aged mother of two, she has been working patiently, for the last year and a half, on a model designed after the painting of the founding of Confederation.

Arduous days and nights have gone into producing the dolls — all hand made — for the setting. The dolls are made from apples, carved and dried.

Mrs. Nind was inspired by a visit to the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa some years ago when an exhibition of dolls, made by wives of the premiers, was on display.

She decided then that someday she would make some dolls in the same manner as the old pioneers, who in the early days of Canada's history had to make their own by carving in wood or apple.

In two years Mrs. Nind has evolved as a fine craftsman in the art of apple-carving.

The apples, which make up the head of the doll only, are first pecled, then carved and then strung on string or wire lines to dry. The curing process takes about six months.

Following the curing, heads, painted pin heads and tiny buttons are used to make the eyes. Coloring is added to the cheeks and lips (the apple dries almost to a natural flesh color) and hair is added.

Most of the hair used in the tiny wigs is real hair, some of it her own. In the case of one of the figurines, the hair is that of a dog.

The doll body is first cut from material and sewn. Stuffing follows and the authentic costumes are added.

The dolls are dressed in morning coats and Prince Albert coats, and the pants are either pin stripe or plain. The costumes are provided with shirt cuffs, shirt fronts and wing collars. Mrs. Nind has even made vest buttons. Shoes are made from 12 different kinds of kid gloves.

In the confederation group there are 24 sitting figures and 13 standing. All of the sitting figures have been completed and only the standing dolls remain unfinished.

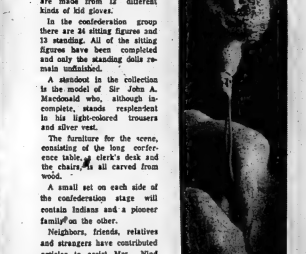
A standout in the collection is the model of Sir John A. Macdonald who, although incomplete, stands resplendent in his light-colored trousers and silver vest.

The furniture for the scene, consisting of the long conference table, a clerk's desk and the chairs, is all carved from wood.

A small set on each side of the confederation stage will contain Indians and a pioneer family on the other.

Neighbors, friends, relatives and strangers have contributed articles to assist Mrs. Nind with the costumes of her dolls.

Mr. Nind has assisted his wife with some of the woodwork involved in the setting of the group.



The only other model construction attempted by Mrs. Nind before was the building of three churches, one with loaf sugar, the others with paste.

At Grimsley, an insurance firm wanted to use the confederation models for their exhibit at Expo. However, Mrs. Nind could not meet the April 15 deadline.

Biggest Fair Ever Will Open Next Week

MONTREAL (CP) — The biggest world's fair ever staged, a $850,000,000 extravaganza that was four years in the making, will be officially opened Thursday, April 27, at a big private party attended by 4,000 invited guests and journalists.

Signal for a noisy salute to Expo 67 will come around 4 p.m. when Governor-General Roland Michener, speaking first in French and then in English, says:

"I declare the world exhibition officially open."

The man-made islands of the 1,000-acre Expo site will echo to the roar of guns from nearby Mackay Pier, church-bells will ring throughout Montreal, sirens will hoot from ships in Montreal harbor, colored fountains will leap, fireworks will soar and the RCAF Golden Centenaires aerobatic team will flash overhead.

Not until the next day will the public be admitted to the fair, the first of an expected 21,000,000 Expo visitors filing through the gates at 9:30 a.m. and heading for the 73 pavilions.

The program for the official opening Thursday is heavy with ceremony.

For Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of Expo, it begins at 11:40 a.m. when he welcomes Prime Minister and Mrs. Pearson, the premiers of the 10 provinces and commissioners of the Northwest Territories and Yukon, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal and Mrs. Drapeau and other guests personally invited by Mr. Dupuy.

Welcoming ceremonies will be at Helene - de-Champlain restaurant on St. Helen's Island. There at noon Mr. Dupuy will welcome the Governor-General and Mrs. Michener, then the VIPs will have lunch.

At 2:30 p.m. the action shifts to Place des Nations—a 4½ acre amphitheatre—with Mr. Dupuy, the Micheners and an aide-de-camp riding in a horse-drawn carriage escorted by mounted lancers of the RCMP.

A red carpet will guide them to the main dais—the tribune of honor. Already seated will be 250 diplomats and other dignitaries, 3,000 other guests of honor and 650 journalists.

A 100-man detachment of the Royal 22nd Regiment's 3rd battalion—the famed Van Doos—will give a royal salute as a military band plays God Save the Queen.

At the same time, the Governor - General's personal standard will be raised and a 21-gun salute will be fired by a troop of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery 2nd Regiment stationed on Mackay Pier.

The Governor-General will inspect the guard of honor before mounting the steps of the dais to join Mr. Dupuy and other guests.

Next will come seven-minute speeches by Mr. Dupuy, Mayor Drapeau, Jan Albert Goris of the International Exhibitions Bureau, Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec, Mr. Pearson and the Governor-General.

Mr. Michener will call the names of the countries participating in Expo, two boy scouts unfurling each country's flag as its name is called. Canada's will be the last flag unfurled.

A runner will appear in the amphitheatre carrying a torch lit from a flame that has burned for three years on the office desk of Robert Shaw, deputy commissioner - general for Expo.

The runner will pass through a line formed by two horsemen from each national pavilion. On reaching the platform he will hand over the torch and it will be used to light a flame that will burn during the six months of the fair.

The Governor-General will declare the fair officially open, touching off the booming guns, chiming bells and hooting sirens, including those of four visiting sea-submarine destroyers, Assiniboine, Chaudiere, Ottawa and Margaree.

Two trackings of the Expo symbol will appear in the sky as part of a fireworks display. And the two-hour ceremony will be capped by the flypast of RCAF jets and two biplanes in a diamond formation.

The following morning crowds are expected to form up early waiting for the fair to open to the public. Playing from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. will be the Expo band, 33 young musicians from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.

The band will be busy throughout the whole period of the fair, playing songs of participating countries on their special days and performing at special events for a total of 1,100 hours in the six months.

Visitors who haven't bought their reduced-price passports will pay $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children to enter the grounds. There will be no additional charge for admission to the pavilions.

Among the most popular pavilions are expected to be Canada's $21,000,000 complex of buildings, plazas, terraces and canals, the Soviet Union's $13,000,000 sweat-roof, glass-sided structure, the United States' $9,000,000 167-foot-high geodesic plastic dome, Britain's $7,500,000, 200-foot conical tower topped by a big Union Jack and surrounded by water, and France's $10,000,000 structure of seven circular silvery bases partly on land and partly in a lagoon.

That Montreal Canadiens huff with the County Cork musicbox who bet me even money before the playoffs started that his Habs darlings would grab the Cup, glory, gold and other accompanying loot hooked at me with a nasty leering look.

It was half a cat-that-ate-the-canary glance tinged with a needleam of sympathy that carried he message that his Hab cats were merely marking time to gobble the other kitty of the figurative-bird.

I merely shrivelled him with a glare that was intended to illustrate "He that laughs last, usually guffaws the loudest."

That may or may not be the case. Right now with the Leafs and Hawks in the death struggle for the final beanball, it appears my friend might have an edge. Or has he?

The Leafs and Hawks have at it again tonight in what could be the final battle of the semi-finals. If Terry Sawchuk repeats that herculean effort he staged Saturday afternoon when he herack-blocked the heavy guns of the Hawks and Stan Mikita is sidelined, I'd say the Imlachites squadron has a decided edge. Besides they're fightin' in their home happy hunting grounds.

But if by the grace of the hockey gods, chance and a reversal to their former shooting form, the Hawks capture the tilt to square the series, then the picture changes. Or doth it?

If the Black Falcons turn back the Leafs tonight then look for a battle royal in the Windy City with the rafters packed and some 19,000 loyal Chicagoans taking in the bout on closed television in a half dozen Chicago theatres.

With the Hawks and Leafs battling down to the wire and the Habs "resting" in a hideaway awaiting their foe's opponent, the hoary old question comes up, "Weariness versus Cool-off?"

The Canadiens riding the crest of a sustained victory wave in the latter days of the schedule then going on to sweep the semi-finals against the Rangers in four straight games, have been forced by circumstances to go into enforced idleness, competitionwise.

True, Toe Blake whirls them down to the Forum for daily workouts but will the rest have a cooling effect on the fire and desire that swept them into the finals?

Even now Blake is turning over in his mind how the "peaceful interim" will effect his playoffs shooting star John Ferguson.

On the other hand the Leafs or the Hawks will not break competition stride when they enter the Cup finals. True they could be weary etc., but one or the other will be at peak performance. Time will tell.

And another age-old query pops up in a letter from a lady hockey fan: — "Who are the real champions of the National Hockey League, the team that finishes on top of the schedule standing or the one that captures the Stanley Cup?"

Madam, regardless of what plumage the club that finishes atop the regular schedule wears, is, in my opinion, forms the true champions of the league.

Any club that plays hockey consistently enough to emerge tops in a hard-fought 70-game schedule should not be compared championship-wise to in-and-out clubs that finish second, third or fourth.

In this case the Chicago Black Hawks are the true 1966-67 champions of the National Hockey League, in my book at least.

The Stanley Cup is not symbolic of league championship. It is a hunk of silverware shrouded in history that brings to the winner of a short series certain greatness and in the main more gold to the already gilded cages of six millionaire owners and bonuses to the four participating clubs.

The Hawks won their first NHL championship this season finishing well ahead of the six-team pack. The Canadiens looked like a church league juvenile squad in the first half of the season while the Leafs at one time went into a twelve-game slump, and at one time were in fifth place. The surprising New York Rangers who made the playoffs for the first time in goodness-knows-when, happened to meet the Habs riding the crest of a comeback wave.

Leafs Favored To Enter Main Bout

TORONTO (CP) — George Armstrong is a bit worried about regaining his spot with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Armstrong, the veteran right winger who missed the third and fourth games of the Stanley Cup semi-finals against Chicago Black Hawks because of a knee injury, was declared fit for tonight's sixth game.

"But the toughest job is making the lineup again," the Leaf captain said Monday.

The Leafs, underdogs at the beginning of the series, have a 3-2 lead. If a seventh game is necessary it is scheduled for Chicago Thursday night.

The winner will meet Montreal Canadiens in the Stanley Cup finals.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach said Monday that Armstrong will be in the lineup tonight, but added that he will not make any line changes.

This apparently means rookie Brian Conacher will start at right wing on a line with centre Dave Keon and left winger Frank Mahovlich.

The Leafs have won two games with Conacher at that position since Armstrong was injured in the second game of the series.

Imlach admits the Leafs' success depends largely on how the line of Conacher, Keon and Mahovlich performs.

"Mahovlich will have to keep playing well if we are to keep winning," Imlach said.

The Leafs, apart from a few bruises, are in fine form physically.

The Black Hawks on the other hand, are ailing.

Troubled from the start by injuries to scoring ace Bobby Hull and left winger Doug Mohns, the Hawks Monday listed all-star centre Stan Mikita as a doubtful starter.

Mikita, the National Hockey League scoring champion, suffered a charley horse early in the series. Most observers claim he has played below par in all five games to date.

Mikita was unable to skate Sunday and, although he accompanied the club to Toronto Monday, "we'd had to list him as a doubtful starter," coach Billy Reay said.

The concensus was that Mikita, who retires the high-scoring Conner idol for the Hawks, will play despite the injury.

"But if he can't make it, we'll send Cyp Angotti on that line," said Reay.

The Leafs are expected to start veteran Terry Sawchuk in goal, while Denis Dejordy will start for the Hawks.

Meanwhile, the Leafs went through their pre-game exercises Monday, while the Hawks arriving from Chicago late in the day, did not practise.

The Leafs exuded confidence, but Imlach still was a pessimist.

"Now don't ask me about the sixth game. If I know the outcome, I wouldn't be a hockey coach, I'd be a fortune teller."

The Leafs, however, have been picked as 8-to-5 favorites to win tonight's game and move into the finals.

The game at 8 p.m. will be televised by the national CBC network.

Could Start Thursday

Habs; Poised For Cup Battles

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens have been waiting since last Thursday to find out who they will meet, and when, in the Stanley Cup final round, but that situation could be cleared up tonight.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks are still fighting it out to determine who will advance to the finals, with Toronto leading three games to two in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

The sixth game of the Toronto-Chicago series is scheduled for 8 p.m. EST tonight in Toronto.

If the Hawks win, it would force the series to the seven-game limit which would be played in Chicago Thursday night.

If the Leafs win tonight, the first game of the Stanley Cup final round will open in Montreal Thursday night. If the Leafs win in seven games, the opener will be here Saturday. Should the Hawks win the series, the Canadiens will travel to Chicago for the opening game of the final round Saturday.

The Canadiens advanced to the finals by beating New York Rangers in four straight games.

They went through a 90-minute workout Monday at the Forum and then returned to their resort hotel in the Laurentian mountains.

The Canadiens added defenceman Noel Price to their lineup but he is not likely to see any action unless another member of the defence corps suffers an injury.

Price appeared in 24 games with the Canadiens during the National Hockey League regular schedule. He had three assists and eight minutes in penalties.

Right winger Claude Larose suffered a slight charley horse in a collision during Monday's workout and had to receive medical attention.

Marlene Wins Medal

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Marlene Stewart Streit shot 72 Monday to win the qualifying medal in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

The 32-year-old mother of two from Toronto knocked two strokes off women's par of the No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club, shortened to about 6,000 yards.

She was one shot in front of Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla. Defending champion Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla., was third in the field of 36 with 74.

A score of 36 was the cutoff point for the 32 players who gained championship flight match play starting Tuesday.

Sandra Port of Oakville qualified with an 84.

In City And District

Softball Organizes

Softball meetings are coming thick and fast these days as enthusiasts of the popular summer sport prepare for the fast approaching season.

Here in the city, Commercial League president Bill Vallance has called a meeting for tomorrow (Wednesday) evening. It will be held at the Crystal Hotel, at 8:00 p.m.

Five teamen indicated entry at an earlier meeting but at least one of last season's main draws, the Point Anne Connection, are likely to be absent this year. The Connectionen have shown interest in the new Trent Valley League as well as the Belleville and District. Vallance asks all entries to have representation at Wednesday's meeting.

Also in Belleville, on Thursday night, the second meeting of a proposed girls' industrial league will be held, at the Recreation Centre, at 7:00 p.m. Three industries were represented at the earlier meeting and a four or six team league is hoped for.

In Trenton on Thursday, at 7:00, the Trent Valley League will meet again under president Clifford Belch. That meeting is slated for the Chamber of Commerce Building, at 7:00 o'clock. The league hopes to get confirmation of enough entries to round out a five or six team loop. Anyone interested in entering a team or assisting with the executive is invited to attend.

Little has been heard from the Belleville and District League but Belch, who resigned from the executive last year, said he was contacted Monday by Harold Langabeer, of Kingston, with the proposal of some of that city clubs playing inter-locking games with Belleville. Langabeer said Kingston was having difficulty securing enough teams for a league. "I referred him to B. and D. president Harry Rollins and to Dick Ellis," Belch said.

Fish and Game Plan Annual Fish Derby

An illustrated talk on Australia will feature the regular meeting of the Belleville District Fish and Game Club at Club Canada tonight.

It will be given by Mr. Burie Summers, principal of the Avondale school.

Lieut. Col. A. B. Duffy, the city EMO co-ordinator, will show a film "Alaska Earthquake." Sports films will also be shown.

The regular draws will be held.

Attention of members is drawn to the Annual Fishing Derby scheduled for May 6 and 7th. It is open to members only.

The Derby is restricted to the waters in the mouth of the Moira River and the Bay of Quinte to the narrows. All fish will be weighed in at Bland's Sports Shop.

The Derby starts at 12:01 a.m. May 6th and runs through to 6 p.m. May 7th. The first prize is $10; second prize $7.00 and third $3.00.

Prefers Jail To War

CHICAGO (AP)—Cassius Clay says if he loses his legal battle to stay out of the United States Army he will appear as his scheduled induction later this month in Houston, Tex., and "stand on my religious beliefs."

The U.S. Supreme Court denied Monday, without comment, Clay's reputation for an injunction to block his April 28 induction.

Clay, whose pleas for exemption as a Black Muslim minister have been rejected by draft officials, said that his religion forbids fighting and killing in wars.

"I will stand up for my religious beliefs even if it means I am put in jail for 50 years or am stood up in front of machine gun," he said.

"I am ready to suffer for my religion and take any punishment. I pray five times a day and am calling on Allah."

Asked if his appearance for induction would bring his refusal to take the oath, Clay replied: "I'm not saying that, but I've made my decision and I will give it at that time."

New Middle Champion

Italian Stops Griffith In Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing had a new Golden Boy today in handsome Nino Benvenuti, Italy's first world middleweight boxing champion on his decisive upset of Emile Griffith in a spectacular 15-round fight.

"Sure, I'm happy to fight him again," said the 28-year-old as he left Madison Square Garden Monday night with the resounding cheers of the pro-Benvenuti crowd of 14,253 still ringing his his ears after his unanimous decision victory.

Benvenuti, called The Intellectual in Italy because he likes to read books and talk about them, certainly had the book on the 29-year-old Griffith.

The Italian, punching Italian, taller by 3½ inches and heavier by 5½ pounds — 159 to 153½, dropped the 13 - to - 5 favored champion in the second round with a short right and was floored himself by a long right in the fourth.

Nino used his weight, height and reach advantages effectively, speeding his foe with stiff left jabs, snapping left hooks and fast and left uppercuts to the head.

The pro - Benvenuti crowd roared "Ne-no, Ne-no, Ne-no" as the challenger finished with a flourish, taking the final round with a determined attack even though he had the decision wrapped up.

Referee Mark Conn and judge Leo Birnbaum each had Benvenuti the winner on round-by-round 8. Judge Al Bert had it 9-6 for Nino. The Associated Press scorecard had Benvenuti in front, 10-5.

The challenger was pitched on the bridge of his nose in the second round and cut deeply in the same place by an accidental butt in the seventh round. Griffith's left eye was half closed and he was lumped under the right eye.

"I know I had him after the sixth round," said Benvenuti. "I trained for this like I never trained before. I wanted very much to knock him out but I'm very happy that I won. I wanted it so much."

"The kid was a beautiful fighter," conceded Griffith. "He's a wonderful champion, and I hope to fight him again. I enjoyed the fight. I really did."

Benvenuti surprised by taking the fight to the champion from the opening bell and he nearly brought down the house when he dropped the champion with a short right to the jaw in the second. Emile was up at four, in eyes glassy, and was given the mandatory eight-count.

In the fourth, Griffith caught his foe with a long right hand lead to the jaw. Nino bounced off the ropes to the canvas, pulled himself up at five holding onto the ropes and was given the mandatory eight count.

Griffith had won eight straight title fights as a welterweight and then middleweight champion.

He won the middleweight crown from Dick Tiger a year ago. His ever-all record is 53-6.

Benvenuti's record is 72-1. His only defeat was a disputed 15-round decision that cost him the world junior middleweight crown at Seoul, South Korea, last June 25. He was edged by Korean Ki Sim-Soo.

Oust Hamilton

Marlies Win Title

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Marlboros scored two goals in an empty net Monday night in defeating Hamilton Red Wings 6-5 to capture the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship.

Hamilton coach Eddie Bush pulled his goaltender in favor of an extra attacker in the final two minutes with his team one goal behind and Marlies scored twice to wrap up the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

Toronto now meets the winner of the Thetford Mines, Que., Canadiens - Cornwall Royals series for the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final. Thetford Mines leads the best-of-seven series 3-1.

Tom Martin scored two goals to pace Toronto's attack. Al Osborne, Bobbie Hayes, Terry Caffery and Gerry Meehan added the other Toronto goals.

Bush benched goaltender Gerry Gray at 17:44 of the third period, but the move backfired as Meehan scored at 18:40 and Martin added another at 19:23.

Ron Climie, Danny Lawson and defenceman Randy Manery scored for Hamilton.

NHL Officials Squabble

Blues' Owner May Be Reprimanded

TORONTO (CP)—Scotty Morrison, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, lashed back Monday at suggestions that the league does not back its officials.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing stories that there are plots to get any support and suggestions that the league should do more for them.

"We have done more this year for our officials than ever before and we'll continue to do them through any criticism. Officials this year received higher playoff increases, better pension benefits and more guaranteed bonuses."

Morrison was speaking at a news conference he called after announcing Sunday that NHL referee Vern Buffey will be fined for publicly replying to criticism from RBI Jennings, president of New York Rangers.

Buffey, a senior official in the league, defended the work of his colleague, John Ashley.

Mr. Morrison was upset over the work of Ashley in an April 1 contest between the Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs, a game that could have decided the final place in the NHL. Jennings was quoted as calling Ashley a "bush-leaguer" and "incompetent."

In his rebuttal, Buffey said: "It is ridiculous that Jennings can rap officials like he does. How dare he brand an official such as Ashley a bush-leaguer and incompetent? Ashley has forgotten more about hockey than Jennings will ever know."

Morrison said the fine will be handled internally within the league and denounced suggestions that this showed the NHL does not support its referees publicly.

"We do back our officials. Him (Clarence Campbell, president of the league, backs them all the way. These accusations, particularly from the owner level, do nothing whatsoever for the league."

Morrison said he agreed with Buffey's views, but disagreed with the way he publicly presented them.

Morrison was also asked what action the NHL planned against Jennings.

"Mr. Jennings is to be fined or reprimanded, it will again be an internal matter within the league and the league governors. It will be Mr. Campbell's decision and I do not know yet what action he plans.

"For myself, I will write a strong report to the NHL governors. It will show the damaging effects to officials and the league that Mr. Jennings' remarks produced."

Country Club Golf

Saturday Is Tee-Off Day!

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Bay of Quinte Country Club golf course will be open for play on Saturday April 22nd club pro George Baker announced today.

"But playing conditions won't be the best in the world", he added.

Water remains on many parts of the course and in some cases rubber boots won't come amiss.

Newly - elected vice-president and chairman of the greens committee, Jack Belanger stated today that "Non - members of the club are strictly prohibited from using the course. Many of these people have been playing in former years with no intention of becoming members."

Mr. Belanger also suggested that members using the course at this time of the year use discretion.

"Divots can be done by both types which is costly in repair bills and causes further delay in bringing the course to shape," he said.

Mr. Belanger also suggested that last year's members not intending to play this year, notify the secretary so potential members can be accepted in their place.

Mr. Harry Guertin the new course superintendent has taken over his duties and with an assist from the weather man hopes to have the course in good playing condition in the near future.

Work in the new pro shop is proceeding and it is expected to be in readiness in the near future.

The club stewards are reviewing their phases of the clubhouse facilities and them are expected to be available within the next week or so.

President George O'Brien is looking forward to another banner year for the club. Special events of the season will be announced shortly. Official Golf "on Civic Holiday and the Ontario Golf Association's "Centennial Event." In South-paw Tournament slated for Friday, August 25th.

Assistant superintendent will be vice - president Belanger with co - chairmen of greens Wilf Wyckoff. Games captain is John Gee with co - captain Doug Bennett, Norm Hender-shot and Ken Balsmen with Stan Armstrong looking after membership.

Heading the ladies section is president Phyllis Dybie with Barb Michaud vice president. Lillian Andrews is the secretary - treasurer.

Anne Acton is games captain assisted by Betty Ingram. Edna Henderson in the house convener with Florence Lennox the social convener. Press reporter is Connie Mahoney.

Social note - Betty and "Hock" Ingram spent some time in Florida this winter presumably to tune up on their golfing.

Mets' Cardwell Hit Homer

Ex-Pirate Whips Former Team-Mates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — New York Met pitcher Don Cardwell is giving his old Pittsburgh Pirate team-mates something to remember him by—headaches.

Cardwell, frequently the butt of jokes by Pirate fans for his inability to complete more than one game last season with the Bucs, went 7 2-3 innings Monday night and was credited with a 9-6 victory over the Pirates.

What's more, he stemmed a home run over the 406-mark in left centre, driving in two runs.

"It has to beat anybody, not only the Pirates," said the 31-year - old right - hander when asked if he received any particular kick in beating his former team-mates.

Cardwell expressed some bitterness when he was traded to the Mets last December after the Pirates signed the free - swinging Pirate manager Harry Walker didn't use him right last year.

Last year, Cardwell appeared in 32 games, started 14, completed one and wound up with a 6-6 record with the Pirates who finished third in the National league race.

Although it's early in the season, the veteran pitcher seems stronger on the mound as evidenced in Monday night's performance and in his season opener last Wednesday, also against the Pirates.

In that game, Cardwell pitched like a winner, but the Mets played like losers, committing five errors. He held the Pirates at bay until the ninth inning when they broke a 3-3 tie and won 6-3, handing Cardwell the loss.

The story was reversed Monday night with the Mets jumping off to a 9-3 lead at the end of five innings. The Pirates, tabbed by the oddsmakers as the National league team to beat this year, committed four errors in those five innings and over-all used five pitchers who gave up 11 hits.

Willie Stargell smacked a two-run homer in the eighth off Cardwell. Ron Taylor came on in relief to preserve the victory despite giving up a pinch-hit homer to Manny Jimenez with two outs in the ninth.

The game was the only one played Monday in the majors. The others, Chicago Cubs at Philadelphia Phillies, Washington Senators at New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians at Minnesota Twins were rained out.

Man Addicted to Cough Medicine

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person, now 85, drinks cough medicine, a four ounce bottle a day or almost every day, can it be harmful or damaging? He has done this for the last couple of years.

He is sleeping all the time. Has this anything to do with it? He doesn't have a chronic cough. He says he takes it for his sinus. Can he become an addict? — R. P.

Over last few words hit the nail on the head. That particular cough remedy contains codeine, a derivative of morphine.

At the rate he is swiping the stuff, there is little question that he already has become addicted, and I seriously doubt that he will shed this addiction without some help from a physician, giving him safer substitutes while he withdraws from the drug.

That syrup you mention (and there are many others) is safe enough if used according to instructions and only when needed. They become dangerous when the instructions are not followed — and someone becomes addicted to the extent of a bottle a day.

Get medical help for this man before things worsen.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a sound in my left ear like escaping steam. 24 hours a day. Could you tell me what to do for it? — J. J. M.

There are multiple causes, some curable, some not. The best advice I can offer is contained in my booklet, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for a copy.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: The doctor said my father passed away from acute myocardial decompensation. Would you explain what that means? — Mrs. F. P.

It means sudden heart failure — myocardial referring to the heart muscle, and decompensation meaning failure, or inability to adjust to the demands on it.

When this happens abruptly, it usually is the result of some prior disease of the heart muscle, or of a type of sudden disruption of heart rhythm. (This does not apply to the common variety of disturbed rhythm involving skips or palpitation.)

Some heart disorders may result in a congesting type of heart failure which is slow enough in its onset to allow time for corrective treatment. Acute myocardial decompensation comes too quickly for that, even though it may have been and probably was, preceded by some form of heart disease.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 14 and has developed quite normally in one breast but not at all in the other. Is it possible that this will close up by itself or can any specialist help her? — Mrs. M.C.

Unequal breast development does occur, but the reason is not known. A moderate inequality, in fact, is not uncommon.

There is no treatment I can suggest for the situation other than to seek appropriate padding until your daughter is past adolescence. At that time, if the discrepancy is great, plastic surgery might be considered if the inequality is minor, simply forget it.

• • •

Note. To W. J. K.: No, the cola drinks don't "cause cancer."

Broadcasting Restricted In Expression: Pouliott

TORONTO (CP)—Jean Pouliot, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said Monday he believes broadcasting is the only medium in the country which does not have the full freedom of expression allowed by the laws of the land.

Mr. Pouliot told the annual meeting of the association that he is in favor of limiting the powers of the Board of Broadcast Governors and expressed concern over the possibility of government influence on programming.

He said "in a democracy, the right to freedom of expression is well recognized, although there are some limitations aimed to protect other people's freedoms.

"That is why this right must always be subject to the law of the land," the Quebec City TV station manager told delegates. "There are laws concerning libel and slander, obscenity and possibly a few others, which are the only limits imposed on that freedom. . . .

"It applies to people writing in magazines or newspapers. In fact, I believe broadcasting is the only medium which does not have the right to freedom of expression. . . .

He said earlier that a year ago "broadcasters were going around with long faces, the talk was all of a czar of broadcasting, of the audience being made up of morons who . . . did not know what they wanted. . . ."

"The proposed solution was to have a Canadian broadcasting authority headed by a dem-god who, after having decided what was good or bad according to his own standards, would simply prevent broadcasting stations from broadcasting the bad ones . . .

"And then the government published its white paper on broadcasting. There was naturally a great sigh of relief and general approval of the principles.

"The idea of a czar of broadcasting is dead but I believe that the concept is still very much alive and has, in fact, simply been shifted from broadcasting to advertising . . ."

A would-be regulator or public protector would see something wrong in a free enterprise system spurred by the profit motive, said Mr. Pouliot.

Report Work On Park Progressing

DESERONTO — Since its appeal for funds with which to hire some of the work done to complet Centennial Park on time, the park committee has received substantial donations, with the promise of further help. Because of this backing, Arnold Kimmerly has been hired to erect washrooms and change houses. Work will begin as soon as weather permits.

The trees obtained through the Department of Lands and Forests are expected to be delivered soon. The Fish and Game Club has made arrangements for them, and will oversee the planting. The public school children are looking forward to helping put them into the ground, thus making a bit of the park their own, since they will help in creating this community project. Some of the trees will also be planted on the school grounds.

A meeting of the park committee was held Monday evening, when other donations were reported.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "unbelievable improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved, in actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief occurred in minutes of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.
The item accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured tissue and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Governor-General at Once at Work Preparing for Busy Centennial Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Michener planned to spend his first full day in office today delving into the mass of preparations for his heavy schedule of 1967 state visits.

He had two side items as well —taking over as chancellor of the new Order of Canada awards announced Monday by Prime Minister Pearson and preparing for his 67th birthday Wednesday.

The new Governor - General probably faces the busiest year of any head of state in the country's history.

The kickoff event is the official opening of Expo 67, just nine days away on April 27. Two days later Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is due at Rideau Hall, the first of almost 75 state visitors coming to Ottawa in Centennial Year.

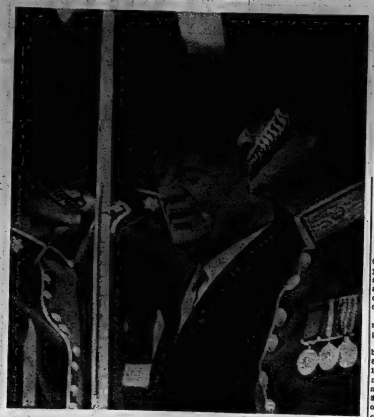
The Governor-General took office Monday in a glittering installation ceremony in the Senate chamber, conducted before a capacity audience of 700 politicial leaders, diplomats, military chiefs and wives.

A threatening overcast and a chill wind sharply reduced the crowds outside but did not mar the military pomp and pageantry of the occasion. The rain held off until later in the day.

The Governor - General took the three-part oath of office, replying with a firm "I do" and "Je le jure" as it was read by Mr. Justice J. R. Cartwright of the Supreme Court of Canada. Then he signed the oath book to become Canada's 20th Governor-General and commander-in-chief.

It was exactly a week earlier that he had left New Delhi, where he spent two years as Canadian high commissioner.

After the oath-signing, Prime Minister Pearson spoke briefly in congratulation. At one point he set aside his prepared text for a light-hearted reference to the days at Oxford University when he and Mr. Michener played hockey together. That was in 1918.



Governor - General Michener, wearing formal morning attire, looked at ease throughout the hour-long ceremony.

His nine - minute speech of reply, delivered alternately in English and French, began on a light note. He said he felt as though he had run all the way back from New Delhi.

Both he and Mr. Pearson had words of tribute for the governor - General's predecessor, Geo. Vanier, who died March 5.

Pearson Announces Creation of New Order

OTTAWA (CP) — Declaring that Canada must show Miles yet reward great merit and service, Prime Minister Pearson announced Monday the creation of a major honor—The Order of Canada.

The Order of Canada, confering no titles or other special privileges, will have three tiers: Companion of the Order, bearing the letters C.C. after their names, will be limited to 150 in number. A total of 50 may be appointed this year and no more than 25 every year thereafter. They will be selected on "the basis of merit, especially service to Canada or to humanity at large."

Medals of courage, without limit by number, may be awarded to persons who perform "an act of conspicuous courage in circumstances of great danger." They will carry the initials C.M.

Medals of service, limited to 50 a year, will be awarded for categories of meritorious service other than those applying to Companions. They will carry the initials S.M.

To avoid any suggestion of political interference or control, the Governor-General will be the principal companion of the order and will make the selections and confer the honor on recommendation of a six-man committee.

Members are the chief justice of Canada, the clerk of the Privy Council, the undersecretary of state, the chairman of the Canada Council, the president of the Royal Society of Canada and the president of the Association of Universities of Canada.

Changed Immigration Rules Will Open Doors for Unskilled

OTTAWA (CP) — A flexible new system for selecting immigrants was welcomed Tuesday by a parliamentary committee and will probably be in operation by summer.

One expected effect within Canada will be to reopen a source of unskilled labor for mass-hungry industries such as mining.

The special Senate-Commons committee endorsed the new system after being told it probably won't be able to report on immigration before the next session.

However, MPs said the system outlined by Manpower Minister Marchand means a good many of their grievances about policy outlined in a white paper on immigration.

The minister told the committee he hopes to have a new independent immigration appeal board constituted by July 1.

The committee also was told that immigration figures in the first quarter ran about 30 per cent ahead of those in the first quarter of 1966, a year in which 195,000 immigrants came to Canada. It was one of the heaviest inflows since the Second World War.

Mr. Marchand said the new system will open the door of sponsorship a bit wider, and also provide a path for unskilled immigrants whose they are needed.

It modifies sharply the emphasis now placed on skill and education as requirements for entry.

In their place is substituted a nine-point formula which immigration officers will assess the would-be newcomers.

Five factors are aimed at assessing the applicant's chance of "successful establishment in Canada."

They deal with his education, "personal qualities," the strength of demand for his type of occupation, his age, and his occupational skill.

The remaining four factors would affect "the speed and ease with which he is likely to get settled."

They are whether he has a definite job arranged, his knowledge of English, French, or both, whether he has relatives in Canada, and "the general employment situation in the area to which he intends to go."

Mr. Marchand said sponsorship of non-dependent relatives can't be a right but the new formula would open the way to those with other factors in their favor.

"A brother would not be admissible solely because he is a brother," he said. "But he would be admissible as long as he rranked even very modestly in the other selection factors.

"Provided he has good personal qualities, he would be admissible virtually without skill or education."

Heavy weight would be given the sponsorship factor in considering applications.

"This would provide a basis on which the range of sponsorable relatives could be extended.

"Hope sponsored by citizens would get greater preference than those sponsored by noncitizens.

Dependent relatives would come first.

Preference among non-dependent relatives would continue to go to sons and daughters, parents and grandparents, brothers and sisters, nephews and nieces under 21.

"As third and fourth groups, I would propose to add nephews and nieces over 21, uncles and aunts, and grandchildren," Mr. Marchand said.

They would not be admitted as freely as closer relatives but they could get in "with lower qualifications than are now required of them as unsponsored immigrants."

He said claims to sponsorship can't be placed ahead of the interests of the Canadian labor force.

Catholic Extremists Assailed By Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul made a scathing attack today on extreme liberals and extreme conservatives in the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope vented his displeasure at a meeting of the commission to carry out the Vatican ecumenical council's changes in liturgy.

It was one of the broadest denunciations the pontiff has ever made against trends in the church that he considers go too far in the question of modernization or flight too hard against the council's plans to bring the church up to date.

Pope Paul told the commission he could not "keep silent our bitterness over some facts and some tendencies that certainly do not favor the good results that the church expects from the diligent work of this commission."

He defended the commission's president, Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro, the liberal archbishop of Bologna, who has been accused by conservatives of using clerics of undermining the Church.

Then the Pope denounced what he called "episodes of indiscipline" and "wilfully arbitrary" practices in some liturgical services. This reflected his oft-expressed fears that some Catholics are modifying liturgical practices too rapidly and doing it without authority.

He emphasized, that changes in worship can be done only with the permission of the church. He expressed confidence that the various national and regional bishops conferences around the world would keep a close watch on changes and see that they are acceptable.

The Pope's defence of Cardinal Lercaro was in effect an attack on the Church's leading Latin specialist, Antonio Cardinal Bacci, 81, who wrote the foreword to a recently published essay that asserted Cardinal Lercaro was as dangerous for Catholicism as Martin Luther or Marxism.

"Such a publication obviously cannot have our consent," said the Pope. "It scished no one, and it brings no advantage to the cause that it would like to defend—that is, the conservation of Latin in the liturgy."

He said safeguarding Latin was a worthy concern but could not be done by going against the "great principle, reaffirmed by the council, of intelligibility of liturgical prayer at the people's level."

In his denunciation of unauthorized variations in liturgy, the Pope did not single out specific cases.

But he said: "Another cause of sorrow and apprehension is the episodes of indiscipline, that in various areas are spreading in the communal worship and that often assume wilfully arbitrary forms, sometimes totally deformed from the valid norms of the church.

"An even graver cause of affliction is for us the spreading of a tendency to 'dissociate,' as one might say, the liturgy—if it still merits keeping that name —and with that fatally demonic duty Christianity."

He appeared to be alluding to the holding of so-called dinner masses in private homes and the use of forms of music in services that the church has not approved.

Konrad Adenauer Dies

RHOENDORF, West Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer, former West German chancellor who led his country to prosperity from the ruins of the home here today after a week's illness. He was 91.

Adenauer's death was announced by a spokesman for his Christian Democratic Party. He said he died at 1:21 p.m. (6:21 a.m. EST).

The autocratic elder statesman, who was chancellor for 14 years, was forbidden for a week fighting bronchitis and influenza which weakened his heart and circulatory system.

Seven doctors attended him in his Rhinestate villa. Toward the end he had been in an oxygen tent.

His family was at his bedside.

Adenauer began the exhausting task of building up his war-torn country in 1949 at the age of 73, when most men are retired on a pension.

Throughout his long chancellorship, he never ceased to astonish Germans and foreigners by his extraordinary vigor.

He became chancellor with his country occupied by the United States, Britain and France.

But by early 1951, he had won permission to set up a foreign ministry and a year later the occupying powers gave his government almost complete sovereignty.

Under his stable government, the West German economy moved ahead rapidly and Adenauer was able to play a leading part in the establishment of the European Common market.

He took West Germany into a détente with France under President de Gaulle, a move which he regarded as a pinnacle of his chancellorship.

Adenauer bowed out reluctantly as chancellor in 1963 in favor of his economics minister, Ludwig Erhard, but remained chairman of his Christian Democratic party until last year, resigning after his 90th birthday.

Possessing LSD to Be Prohibited

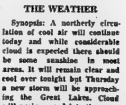
OTTAWA (CP) — The government Tuesday night unveiled its promised legislation to curb LSD, providing for prison terms of up to three years for possession of the drug and 10 years for trafficking.

The bill, introduced in the Senate by government leader John Connolly, is designed to curb non-medical use of the so-called mind-expanding drug.

At present, possession of the drug is not illegal.

The legislation, an amendment to the Food and Drugs Act, sets out a scale of penalties for possession ranging upward from a fine of not more than $1,000 and a jail term of not more than six months for summary conviction on first offence.



Conviction and indictment can mean a fine of not more than $5,000 and a prison term of not more than three years.

For trafficking, the penalty is 18 months in prison for a summary conviction and 10 years for conviction on indictment.

Sale of LSD has been banned for several years except under federal license to recognized institutions where qualified medical or psychiatric personnel use it in laboratory or clinical research.

The penalty for illegal sale has been two years in prison.

MiGs and Missiles Hamper Air Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senior U.S. defence official acknowledges that North Vietnam's MiG jet fighters and anti-aircraft missiles have cut down the effectiveness of U.S. bombing attacks, even though they have destroyed relatively few American planes.

Dr. John Foster, the Pentagon's research chief, also says that surface - to - air missiles force U.S. planes into evasive patterns that make them more vulnerable to concentrations of anti-aircraft guns.

Foster's statements were buried in an outline of defence research and development programs, submitted to a congressional committee two days ago.

Foster's statements tend to follow a different tack than those of his boss, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, who has discounted the importance of both the MiGs and the anti-aircraft missiles.

United Church May Bless Common Law Marriages

HAMILTON (CP)—The United Church of Canada is considering special church services to give blessings to some of Canada's 200,000 common law marriages, a Hamilton minister said Tuesday.

Last-minute Rush Underway To Complete Expo Pavilions

MONTREAL (CP)—As opening day for the six - month world's fair approaches, some of the 73 pavilions look as if they will not be completely ready in time.

A check of the pavilions Tuesday showed several of the minor pavilions have walls, roofs and floors but nothing else.

All major pavilions, however, should be ready for the early birds of Expo's expected 11,000,000 visitors.

Still waiting Tuesday for interior exhibits to arrive were the pavilions of the European Communities, Algeria, Kuwait, Morocco, Venezuela, Monaco, Ceylon, Iran, Ethiopia and Africa.

An Expo spokesman said, however, "exhibits are coming in at a fast clip and all pavilion staffs are putting in long hours to get ready. Probably the ones that look least ready will be all right on April 28."

Typical of the way in which problems had been solved was the case of the pavilion of France.

A $2,000,000 art shipment bound for the pavilion by sea had been held up by a strike last week. Within a few days the French government had moved to get the shipment aboard a plane for Montreal and it now was safely inside the pavilion.

The Expo spokesman said the pavilions of Canada, the Atlantic Provinces, the Western Provinces and Ontario were up to date and would be ready. Quebec pavilion spokesmen were "hopeful" that theirs also would be ready.

The theme pavilions and all industrial pavilions were on time and the Soviet, Czech, U.S. and British pavilions all appeared near completion.

A spokesman for Col. Ed Churchill, director of installations, said the pavilions generally are "in very good shape."

"It looks as if they all will be ready on time."

County Public School Area Approved

Hastings county coalfelt at a special session, yesterday moved to establish two larger areas of school administration as recommended by the Ontario Department of Education, but the approval is one instance fell short of a consultative committee request.

Following a discussion lasting nearly two hours council approved for the Stirling-Rawdon High School District and the Centre Hastings High School District to be dissolved and attached to the Bay of Quinte High School District.

In both cases the approvals would have to be okayed by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, by the city of Belleville and Prince Edward county, as well as by the Department of Education.

Also at yesterday's session councillors gave approval for the amalgamation of 11 peasant school boards in the central part of Hastings into one county school area.

Included in the new county public school area would be the municipal school boards in Rawdon, Huntington, Tweed-Hungerford, Mormora, Madoc, Elzevir, and Tudor townships and the villages of Marmora, Madoc, Stirling and Tweed.

The original recommendation from the county public schools consultative committee was for all of Centre and South Hastings to be amalgamated into one county school area.

This motion went out the window, however, with objection from the reeves of the three southern townships, Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga who said they had either completed or were in the midst of a school building program and were "happy" as they were.

Frankford Reeve Ray Moran also said his village wished to retain its present school board. Deseronto will also retain its present public schools set-up.

Thurlow township reeve said elves, Reeve Carl Thompson and Deputy Reeve Horace Casey were emphatic in their objection to being included in the proposed larger school area.

Reeve Thompson said his township was prepared to fight any move to include it in the amalgamation, stating they had had enough of the move toward bigness.

Mr. Casey felt it would be unfair if they were "railroaded" into the larger area, claiming "we are doing all right as we are."

Consultative committee members Deseronto Reeve Donald Armitage and Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers felt the larger school area taking in both Centre and South Hastings would be ideal.

However, the third member of the committee Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed, in view of the objection from the southern municipalities, said she was prepared to move an amendment to include only the 11 centre Hastings municipalities in the new county school area.

Last year all municipal school boards in North Hastings amalgamated to form County School Area No. 1.

Public School Inspectors Larry MacCrimmon of the Centre Hastings area, and R.A. Dunsmore for the Quinte area, outlined the advantages of the larger areas of school administration.

Mr. MacCrimmon said the larger area had a greater opportunity of training, attracting and retaining qualified teachers and teaching specialists, resulting in public schools achieving some of the advantages of district high schools.

Mr. Dunsmore said larger areas could offer special courses for all pupils and could afford teaching aids and special subject teachers. Possibly most important was the fact that through supervisory staff quality control of education could be achieved.

While reeves of the three southern townships voiced emphatic objection to the larger school area idea, reeves in Centre Hastings took the exact opposite view.

Reeve Goldie McInroy of Huntington township said his municipality had a public school enrolment of only about 220 which was too small for an efficient central school.

Marmora township Reeve John Wilkes said his township was ready to accept the larger area. Stirling Reeve Rodgers said that while he felt the larger area taking in both Central and South Hastings was desirable, his village would be happy to work with two or three other municipalities "or all of them."

Warden Shannon said his village was in favor of the idea of the larger area as promoted by the consultative committee.

Madoc township reeve Allen Ketchenson said his township was happy either way. The Madoc township went into the township school area set up 18 years ago and it has worked very successfully. However, he was still prepared to go along with the larger area.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen said she was a bit embarrassed as the Tweed-Hungerford school board had requested county council to be included in any larger school area. But county council had not been informed to this effect.

She admitted there would be advantages in the larger school area but asked whether there also might be serious disadvantages. She noted that the municipalities proposed for the new county school area were the same as were originally included in the Centre Hastings High School Area, which failed to carry.

Madoc village reeve said the problems of the old Centre Hastings High School Area were not the same as those in the public schools. He could see no reason why the proposed public school area would not work out.

There was some rather heated discussion on the larger high schools area question with southern reeves again wondering why Stirling-Rawdon and the Centre Hastings Areas wanting to be joined to the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

"Why can't Stirling-Rawdon and the Tweed-Hungerford areas rejoin with Centre Hastings as was the case originally?" asked Thurlow Reeve Carl Thompson.

The same thought was expressed by Tyendinaga Reeve Delbert Harvey.

Warden Shannon said the time had come for county councillors to do some soul searching, to leave parochial feelings out of their thinking, and decide in terms of what would be the best for the students.

High Schools Inspector J. C. McLeod said that with modern day transportation there were no longer any isolated communities and school areas should be on an enlarged basis.

He feels that the secondary schools consultative committee recommendation was for the

Stirling-Rawdon High School Area Approved

Stirling-Rawdon high school area has been dissolved and the area attached to the Bay of Quinte District. Centre Hastings high school area dissolved and attached to the Bay of Quinte area.

If three requests were approved by the county, a small addition would be required at Madoc.

"It might seem unfair to some that taxpayers in the Bay of Quinte Area be asked to help build an addition at Madoc.

He noted, however, that when the second high school consideration was required at Belleville the rural municipalities would pay their share of the costs.

Mr. McLeod noted that the # World Could Be Their Oyster Students Learn at Career Night

Most of the earth may be discovered, but there's still a big personal world to be explored for young Canadians — Belleville high school students learned last night.

And, if they explore the right paths, the world can be their oyster, the teenagers decided.

About 400 of them had the message underlined at Quinte Secondary School last night as local industries joined with public and professional agencies to stage a career-opportunity session.

More than a score — 23 to be exact — counsellors in various walks of professional life turned up at the school to lend an ear to any student seeking advice on possible careers.

The students reciprocated enthusiastically — streaming down school corridors and in and out of classrooms assigned to the various counselling sessions.

The sessions covered a wide sweep of careers — ranging from law, to nursing, to accounting and, even the armed services.

"It is intended to introduce the students to as many career opportunities as possible — and make them explore them," explained Mrs. Norma Grant, head of QSS guidance department.

"This dramatistically underlines what we 'try to do in school guidance for the student and helps create a better liaison between the student and business life."

It also is a smoother way of encountering students with the workings of the, work-day world in which they will eventually graduate.

Taking students around the businesses and industries was discovered a cumbersome way of striking up that relationship.

"You can't successfully take the students out to them in large groups. So here we bring the careers to the students," explains Mrs. Grant.

While the counsellors dispensed advice during the evening, the students also had a chance to talk with representatives from local manufacturing, public agencies like Ontario Hydro and Canadian National Railways who set up exhibits in the main QSS gymnasium.

There were two firsts:

The event was organized by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville, the first time an outside group played such a role in Belleville.

Students from public school grades 7-8 also were invited to attend — and did.

The whole attendance also heard pep talk from Arthur Duncan, of Bata Shoe, by way of a curtain-raiser.

Quinte Area Satisfactory

Reeve Thompson said the Bay of Quinte District was operating satisfactorily and suggested there was no reason why Centre Hastings could not do the same if the three areas Stirling-Rawdon, Centre Hastings and Tweed Hungerford, got back together.

"When it was originally organized Centre Hastings was supposed to be an ideal area. I wonder what caused the Department to change its mind," he asked.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen said the Tweed-Hungerford was prepared to re-think former meetings — on condition that the high school remained open permanently.

Reeve Beckett said he would be opposed to this. "It would be the second story" he said. "That's what caused the trouble in the first place."

Mr. McLeod said that if Centre Hastings remained as a school area the Madoc school would still be "only a school".

On the other hand if Centre Hastings was part of a larger area it would make for a good educational system with provincial-wide co-ordination and specialized instruction.

The larger area was all the more important in view of the possibility of the college of applied arts and technology being permanently located in the Belleville area.

"The whole area needs to be co-ordinated. We can't afford to think in terms of localized education any more," he said.

But southern Hastings were still fearful of increased costs if the larger area was approved.

Frankford Reeve Ray Moran said his village received an $11,000 grant which high school costs this year. "We don't want another next year," he said.

Mr. McLeod said the department of education guaranteed that a school area would not lose money.

Then let us get this cleared up and then vote" retorted Mr. Moran.

Baecrott Deputy Reeve Earl Hawley summed the matter up by noting that the larger school area in North Hastings had cut taxpayers a bit more money.

"But the children have benefited", he said.

At the morning session of yesterday's special council meeting councillor were given down a motion requesting the formation of an area planning board.

The proposal was that the planning area take in all of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton and the townships of Ameliasburg, Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Hungerford, Tudor and Elzevir, Madoc, Marmora, Huntingdon, Rawdon, Tweed, Stirling and Limerick.

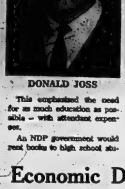
High School Students Pitch Questions at Quinte Candidates

Three politicians, standing firmly behind opposing party lines, had a head-on confrontation with the younger generation in Belleville this morning.

There were no casualties since the only objective to be gained involved education — acquainting tomorrow's voters with the shape of today's party politics in Ontario.

The future voters were represented by students of Quinte Secondary School who gathered in a pre-class assembly to hear from the trio of candidates contesting Quinte riding in the next provincial election.



On stage were Dr. Richard Potter (Conservative), Donald Joss (Liberal), and Ian Reilly (NDP).

Without overtly plugging their own platforms, each party personality managed to state the case for his allegiance to representative political philosophies.

The session, organized by the student service Key Club, also saw each candidate called on to answer questions.

Federal Administration Must Be Strong: Joss

The students were warned by NDP candidate Ian Reilly that future economic trends may necessitate they change jobs at least four times.

DONALD JOSS

This emphasized the need for as much education as possible — with attendant expense.

An NDP government would rent books to high school students as an introduction to totally free distribution.

"Fees for higher education would be picked up by the provincial government for every person who had the capacity to absorb an education."

Mr. Reilly said it was "unfortunate" that the Roberts government was opposed to free education.

The NDP party also would lower the voting age to 18 years.

"The other parties are talking about lowering the voting age and, since they both have been in power and done nothing about it, it then seems that only when the NDP is in power will the 18-year-olds get the vote which I feel they're worthy of."

Present insurance requirements leave motorcyclists open to law suits over passenger injuries, Mr. Reilly also noted.

"Since insurance companies refuse to sell motorcyclists passenger hazard protection, the government has left over 22,000 drivers in Ontario open to suit whether they choose to buy insurance or not."

Economic Development Before Welfare: Potter

The Ontario Conservative Party places economic development ahead of social welfare, Dr. Potter told the students, as he outlined his opinions on varying party philosophies.

RICHARD POTTER

"Our party has been based on the conviction that, while economics and politics are dependant upon one another, they should always be separate functions," he said.

Combining total economic and political power produces a state that controls its citizenry rather than working for it, he warned.

Frequent Job Changes Face Students: Reilly

No provincial government should work to undermine the essential powers of federal administration, Donald Joss warned the assembly.

IAN REILLY

"Anything that Ontario does to weaken the federal government weakens the nation," he said. "Any gains Ontario makes at the expense of the essential powers of the federal government, are no gains at all, but losses to us as Canadians."

"Whether we are involved in municipal, provincial or federal governments we must always think first as Canadians."

Mr. Joss said Canada must have a strong central government to equalize opportunity across the nation.

He called for the revamping of education costs which "can no longer be financed at the local level by real estate taxes."

"It must be progressively taken over by the provincial government. Education today is a provincial and national problem, and all Canadians must have an equal opportunity," said the Liberal candidate.

"In the early days of this country, free education was only at the primary level. Now it's at the high school level. In the future, we must move the program of free education to the university level, as greater technical knowledge is required by our youth."

Aids Study

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal contribution of $11,284 towards an urban renewal study in Prescott, Ont., was announced Tuesday by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. The study, to take six to eight months, will be made by David J. W. Little of Municipal Planning Consultants Co. Ltd., Toronto. The renewal town will meet the rest of the $15,045 total cost.

Students Throw Loaded Questions

Hughes Goldie, a student at Quinte Secondary School, asks what the provincial government plans to do about wolves being hunted and trapped in Provincial Parks. Other students line up to take their turns at questioning the three candidates for the legislature.

In The Hot Seat

Dr. R. T. Potter, left, Ian Reilly, and Donald Joss, right, Progressive Conservative, New Democratic, and Liberal candidates respectively, answer questions put to them by Quinte Secondary students after they had each given a five-minute talk about their policies.

Queries Are Penetrating

Quinte Riding's three candidates for the next provincial election faced penetrating questions from Quinte Secondary School students this morning.

Over half a dozen students threw queries at Dr. R. Potter, candidate for the Progressive Conservative Party, Donald Joss, candidate for the Liberal Party and I. E. Reilly, candidate for the New Democratic Party.

A grade 13 student asked Dr. Potter about the killing of wolf life in parks by hunting and trapping. He was speaking specifically of wolves with bounty on them.

The only answer Dr. Potter could give to the lengthy and involved question was "I don't know what you're talking about."

However, Mr. Reilly, had an answer. He stated that he agreed with the bounty on wolves which need to be kept down but he disagreed with the hunting and trapping of wolves in Provincial and National Parks.

The Quinte students, who were just getting warmed up, bounded right back with another question.

"Will the cost of the new educational facilities that are proposed affect the taxpayer very much?"

The question had been addressed to Mr. Joss and he replied that the taxpayer would not be affected a to greater degree. "The provincial pickup will rise from 65 per cent to 80 per cent. There are many areas of wastage of money that could offset this increase." Mr. Joss used as an example certain fringe benefits.

One of the students, asking a question about the ousting of Dr. Morton Shulman, Metro coroner, demanded to know whether the Progressive Conservatives "wanted a good coroner or a good Conservative?"

Mr. Potter stated that the matter was out of the party's hands now that a Justice of the Supreme Court was "already on it."

The diligent questioning continued. "Was the Progressive Conservative Party lax concerning the breakdown of Prudential Insurance?"

Dr. Potter again replied that it was out of the government's hands. He said that it was a Federal matter and that a Federal inquiry was in progress.

Mr. Reilly was asked if the radical changes in youth would affect the voting if the voting age was lowered to eighteen. The student wanted to know if the New Democratic Party would receive more support.

Mr. Reilly replied that if the youthful citizens were allowed to vote they would have to decide which party to vote for. "The responsibility of youth will decide," he said.

When asked if he thought the ratio of civil servants to population at present was costly and dangerous, Mr. Joss replied that it would be dangerous if we did not watch it. He used as an example the situation in Communist countries, where everyone is a civil servant in theory.

Again the students questioned the New Democratic Party's stand on the lowering of the voting age. "Would it help the NDP? Why are the other parties against it?"

Mr. Reilly suggested that the other parties were not against it but were slow in implementing what they had proposed to do. He said he didn't know if it would help the New Democratic Party.

The last student to ask a question wanted to know why he should vote Conservative.

Dr. Potter replied that he had already clarified this in his speech. "Vote Conservative because of the educational platform."

Four Million Extra Tourists Are Expected

Centennial year festivities will bring 4,000,000 extra tourists into Ontario this year, boosting the number of visitors to a record total of 30,000,000.

Those are the figures quoted by Patrick K. McGeachie, project officer of the Ontario Centennial Planning Branch, during a quick visit to Belleville, Wednesday.

"Will the cost of the new

Institutional Church No Longer Acceptable

"What the Modern Church is hopefully, although somewhat incoherently, trying to say is that the institutional church, as so many of us have grown to understand, is no longer acceptable to the age. That is, it needs renewal."

Rev. J. M. Soutter of Wellington made this observation, to a meeting of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club last night.

Mr. Soutter compared the former cut-and-dried life and businessmen to the cut-and-dried attitude toward church.

"Sunday," he said, "was a ray of mysterious certainty."

"The fantastic transition of society since the second Great War has catapulted us into an era that is becoming increasingly difficult for us to adjust to."

"The technology of today may be orbiting at 17,000 mph. but man's search for truth and his understanding of the nature and destiny of man still sits on the launch pad, awaiting the fuel that will orbit it into its proper place beside man's scientific and technological advances."

Mr. Soutter stated that there were men who are aware of the dangers of our technological advance but they were afraid to talk and think about it.

"Our search for truth has to be expanded to embrace other fields than just those of the physical and scientific world. If life is to be meaningful and not just an Orwellian existence we have to begin now to match meaning with existence."

"Why? This has to be the first and ultimate question asked of life. All others, home, possessions, salary, position, are secondary."

"We can no longer treat our world from a pre-determined point-of-view." said Mr. Soutter.

He stated that the ultimate question is still: "What is man? Answer that question and you will have a start on whether you ought to attend church or not."

Mr. Soutter deplored the fact that we are living in a humanistic society. "The difficulty with humanism is that it doesn't provide us with the truth about life. It bogs us down with half-truths about the goodness of man."

He argued that this cannot be so, with women being raped and race and creeds being discriminated against.

"As individuals within the city of Belleville we have to discover how we can uphold the corporate unity of man and retain a sense of personal freedom."

"To do such a thing will require a renewal of society and because it still remains an integral part of society, renewal of the church."

"We need to recognize in the knowledge explosion taking place around us a source of hope that can and will ultimately corrupt without the lament of love, without the unifying force of a common understanding of the nature and destiny of man."

"To do these things may mean not going to church as a Christian. It may mean making your whole life your church."

Warden's Medal Winner Has Spoken English For Only Four Years

A 12-year-old Armenian boy, who never spoke English until he came to this country from Egypt four years ago has won the warden's medal for public speaking in the South Hastings public schools inspectorate.

He is Vahe Parmakelian, grade 7 student at the Batawa Public School, who gave his talk on the late Walt Disney at yesterday's special session of Hastings county council.

Also heard at the council session was 13-year-old Vera Wickens, of Ivanhoe public school, whose topic was "Helps and Hindrances of Television". Vera won the Warden's medal for the Centre Hastings school inspectorate area.

Deputy Warden William Shannon complimented the winners on their public speaking prowess.

"Nothing has given me more pleasure during my term as warden than planning medals on these two pupils," Warden Shannon said. "Their parents have every reason to be proud."

The Batawa boy's father is a designer at Bata Shoe Company, while his mother has worked as a part time French teacher at the Batawa school.

Christianity's Expo Theme

The Christian pavilion at Expo by all accounts exposes visitors to a breadth of vision and experience that puts in the shade the degree of modernity and realism the various denominations are embracing only hesitantly in their routine day-to-day dealings and Sunday services.

The pavilion's theme — The Eighth Day or man's day on earth — says designer Charles Gagnon, is intended to represent life itself.

And that it does. The main impact comes from an exhibition of photographs ranging from a picture of a gogo dancer to the atomic explosion over Hiroshima, with the violence of ground battles in both world wars and the Italian campaign in what is now Ethopia depicted in other pictures.

In another area projectors show huge slides of people kissing and living happily. This section stresses human love and the hope of mankind.

Designer Gagnon put it well when he said: "There is no guide, no explanation. The visitor doesn't have time to stop, exactly as in everyday life. The pavilion has a message common to all religious denominations, that God is involved in everyday living."

If the Christian pavilion is a "shocker", that is what life is all about. If most people in western society manage to go through life without experiencing directly the trauma of famine, pestilence or war, and with no more than the normal anxieties associated with everyday living, it is well to realize that millions of others suffer grievously from all three evils, and that hardship of one kind or another is the lot of countless people in this imperfect world.

By its frankness the Christian pavilion at Expo performs a useful purpose. It affords a degree of realism which the Church at large might seek to bring to those who are groping for the truth and a sense of closer kinship with the Deity in whom they believe.

Scenic Route Hazard

A Brockville physician, Dr. Kees Kort, has drawn attention to the serious accident toll which may arise on his home-town stretch of Highway 401 between Long Beach (about five miles west of Brockville) and Gananoque this summer.

This 30-mile stretch long since has acquired the dubious distinction of a death strip for motorists. It arises from a combination of circumstances, among them the sudden merging of four-lane traffic into two, the scenic nature of the route overlooking the St. Lawrence, a factor that can easily distract drivers, and long straight stretches which in summer haze can lead to errors of judgment.

Not least among causes of accidents on this stretch are speeding and impatience on the part of drivers — especially drivers from Quebec, and it is just possible there will be more Quebecers than ever coming west this year, getting away from the Expo crush!

This all adds up to a potentially very hazardous traffic problem between Long Beach and Gananoque this year. The four lanes that would remedy this situation are under construction, but will not be completed in time for the huge tourist influx.

There is always No. 2 highway of course, between Long Beach and Gananoque, via Mallorytown. Though this route twists and turns and has many blind corners it has the merit of being in good condition. Moreover traffic on it is moderate. Those drivers who are familiar with No. 2 use it for this very reason. They know 401 is dangerous at this point so they take No. 2.

Meanwhile, Dr. Kort offers some suggestions for minimizing the dangers. He advocates police patrols on a 24-hour, seven-day week basis this summer, designation of the highway as a "no-stopping" and "no-passing" route, and a minimum speed limit of 45 m.p.h.

Twenty-four police patrols all week are all very well, even if the OPP can spare men for such all-embracing coverage, but the thought of cruisers chasing speeders on this highway sends a shiver up the spine. They would merely be making a dangerous situation even worse.

However, the no-passing and minimum speed limit suggestions have merit and if police patrols could enforce such laws without getting into dangerous speed situations themselves so much the better.

Plant Additions

The news that private builders in Belleville are considering erecting factory space on a speculative basis is encouraging.

This is one way Belleville can increase its chances of attracting new enterprises to the city.

Stephen's-Adamson recently announced it plans to build an addition to accommodate a machine shop. This too is indicative of a more hopeful climate on the industrial scene.

Strange Contrast

Men's Creations Upstage Own Personal Image

Orillia Packet and Times

In an increasingly automated age, man finds himself becoming more and more the slave of his machines. At once unnerved, and ever more subservient to the relentless commands of the robots which dominate his everyday life. He has learned in cars his impatiences to accord with the impersonal precision of the traffic lights. He entrust his life, without a single misgiving, to the mechanized mysteries of the automatic elevator whishking him aloft to dizzying heights, and to dutifully recite his name and his business to the recorded robot which answers so many telephones after office hours. He accepts the findings of the computer, the new god of a new age with an unquestioning faith fierce accorded the Delphic oracle, and displays a reverence toward a piece of perforated paper by which he would have unworthy of Moses' tablets of stone. In short, he has come increasingly to regard himself as a quivering mass of fallible flesh to be abased before the unfailing precision of gears and cams and microcircuits.

But a curious sidelight to man's increasing deference to machine is the resultant change in the appearance of both. For with each passing year, machines grow in size, in majesty, in beauty of line and colour, while man becomes ever more featureless, more indistinguishable from the robots of his own creation. Our car has become accustomed, of course, to be the most magnificent automobile, that glittering symbol of status in civilized society, with the paunchy little man in the elevator shoes and the big cigar but there is an even greater paradox than this amusing affliction of ugly little men for big beautiful cars.

To appreciate it at its fullest one should visit any large and busy airport at night. With the whistling screams and the fruitless flames of a shooting star, a great aircraft roars from the heavens, all winking lights and gleaming metal, and rolls to a halt before the terminal building up to the airport, towering high above its diminutive attendants, both men and machines, it seems the very epitome of mechanical perfection, its breath taking beauty more in keeping with the glittering stars of its natural element that the mundane commonplaces of this earth about it. As it wheels to a stop, one unconsciously awaits the opening of its door and appearances of its passengers with bated breath. What will they be like, these godlike people who have descended to our sordid city in splendid isolation from the boundless corridors of the sky? What soaring souls could create so beautiful a machine.

And then, out they tumble, the last human passengers of the Miami flight, rubbing the sleep from their eyes and the cramp from their limbs, with sun burn on their heads, and bottles of liquor under their arms. Here is man and machine, side by side in girlish and gaberdine, contrasted with canvas, bare midriffs and bowling shirts in the ghastly crew he all we can look for from the starry heavens!

Alas, alas, for the beauty is in the machine, not its use. The tiny satellite star that men first made and then, godlike, hung far in the shrieking void of outer space, is used to bounce the Beatles and Bonanza to the far ends of the world. The wonder that is the splendid a bubble from the boundless corridors of the sky? What soaring souls

Bankruptcy Issue in Quebec

Montreal Gazette

It becomes increasingly clear that the bankruptcy racket has flourished not only because of the skill and corruption of fraudulent bankrupts but by the fact that even the existing laws have not worked as they should.

Yvon Desloges, the bankruptcy registrar of the Montreal district, has told the royal commission inquiring into the administration of justice in Quebec that favorable proceedings and rulings could be bought in bankruptcy cases; "Justice was sold and regarded both proceedings and rulings," he said. "Irregularities were ignored and registrars who received starvation salaries had to resort to certain practices some tolerated, others ignored, to increase their income."

These statements by the bankruptcy registrar are all the more important because they bear out the conclusions of the specially - appointed commissioner, Lucien Mercier, who reported on bankruptcies in 1964.

The Mercier Report found that the trustees appointed by law in bankruptcy cases at times failed miserably, and not always unknowingly, to do their duty. One of the bankruptcy rings had operated with the knowledge of the trustee. He even hired one of the bankruptcy receivers to make the inventory.

Inspectors, as well as trustees, come under censure in the Mercier Report. Some of the inspectors, appointed to determine the value of the assets in a bankrupt firm, acted in connivance with the bankrupts. In fact, there were even inspectors who were former directors of bankrupt companies. Naturally, they looked after the interests of the debtor first, the creditor last. And it was established that some of these inspectors were paid under the table gratuities at the rate of 20 per cent of the trustees' fees.

After travelling across Canada, a conclusion is that 30 per cent of our people are political cads whose perspicacity penetrates no deeper than the thickness of a dollar bill. Another 40 per cent are mumbling Britishers who don't realize that God has been dead for a generation and no longer rules over a heaven called Empire in which Canada is a cosy corner.

Canadians—An Unprotesting People

Letter in Montreal Gazette

The plain fact is that except for an inarticulate ten per cent, nobody gives a damn what happens to this land. Ask a question like: Don't you care for your country? and an embarrassed mutter returns like: Just as much as the next guy. But the next guy's allegiance seems to be a personal creed centred on a cottage lot, a fishing boat, a mobile estate trite wagon or a few acres of wheat. It manifests itself politically in the smugness with which he congratulates himself on knowing a politician who can be the means of help for him inside a few more bucks.

We are a people — from what we believe is a safe unprotesting distance — as fascinated by the American war machine rolling over the last Vietnamese woman and child, that we cannot see the American money machine publishing up the last crumb of Canadian independence.

We are a mild, stupid people, unable to raise an articulate voice of protest; indeed, incapable of understanding when protest is necessary.

We are stumbling into a second century of uncertain existence without direction, without motivation, without enthusiasm.

And God, who is dead, cannot help us. When he died he not only took with him his heaven, but dynamic leadership and John A. Macdonald.

Older citizens like to recall the times when we had numerous boats making trips on the Bay to near and more distant ports, and the happy Saturday afternoon excursions. This boat was popular — From our file copy at this time in 1897: "The steamer Varuna commenced her regular trips to Trenton, Picton, Deseronto, this morning under the command of the genial Capt. Hicks."

Nationalism Obstacle to Latin American Common Market Plan

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

The economic integration of Latin America into a Common Market, as proposed by Western Hemisphere chiefs at Punta del Este, Uruguay, would be a tedious job requiring much self - sacrifice.

The sacrifice is considered worth it, though, for a big market in which many countries trade freely has great advantages in economy and efficiency over a fragmented market in which efforts are duplicated and wasted.

Free trade is profitable, and thus the lowering and even gradual elimination of tariffs . . . the biggest obstacle to free trade.

The problems are obvious, if only because economic integration leads inevitably to a certain amount of political fusion, an emotional area where co-operation can be stalled by a wall of ingrained nationalism.

Even the European Common Market has found nationalism difficult to surmount in the 10 years since its founding in Rome.

But there are other obstacles to a Common Market, depending on the degree of integration.

Small companies would disappear because of competition. Others might be absorbed. Some might find their sales and profits shrinking for a time. This, at least, has been the European experience.

Laws, institutions and customs in each country could come under attack. Business men will find they cannot obtain preferential help from their own governments so as to compete with goods "imported" from other members of the market.

Again depending upon the amount of integration, imports and exports within a Common Market may cease to exist as such; it would, instead, be just one big domestic market, a Common Market for all.

Two of these already are operating in Latin America: the Latin - American Free Trade Association and the Central American Common Market. These two systems would be joined, and by 1970 a Latin American Common Market created.

The best - known Common Market is the European Economic Community of France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Less well known is the European Free Trade Association of Norway, Sweden, Austria, Finland, Britain, Switzerland, Denmark and Portugal.

The European Common Market still is in the process of lowering tariffs step by step and won't have its job finished for a few years after it began the job. Still it is ahead of schedule.

"Bury the Hatchet" Call to Mayor

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We are distressed to note the extent to which the "David-Ellis" feud has developed. It is bad enough that two of our more forward-looking citizens should waste time and effort in such petty bickering. But we wonder whether they realize what damage is being done to the city of irreparable damage to the future.

While these two able men are sidetracked, lesser men in the council are able to wield added influence. While they squabble they leave the city dangerously unprotected.

The effect on municipal employee morale through dragging this battle on is beyond calculation. The city's public image is suffering. The effect on public opinion was predictable.

Would these men have brought provincial politics into the council, and have thus lowered themselves immeasurably in the public eye. Perhaps it is not too late for the two of them to join in what the rest of us would see as obvious — compromise. If they do it quickly, and without political flavor, perhaps we will be able to erase an unpleasant picture.

A Mushrooming Bureaucracy

Peterborough Examiner

There is nothing that your average taxpayer and consumer likes better than a good lecture on government bureaucracy and interference. Thus a Belleville alderman and manager of the Black Diamond Cement Company gave the Tweed chamber of commerce last week a rousing speech on the subject. If the government giving us value for our money? He pointed out that the national government spends 13 times the total assessment of Belleville in administering the one alone and said that a free democracy cannot survive indefinitely under a monstrous bureaucracy. The ratio of Dominion civil servants to population, he said, has increased from one to 97 in 1963 and to one to 76 in 1966. And he said he had no time for people who refuse to accept welfare governments with the spending of money; rather truly progressive government is the efficient spending of the taxpayers' money.

No one clearly is going to make a brief for government waste and inefficiency. Yet it is no longer true that the best government is the best government.

The complex and rapidly changing social and economic conditions of today in many cases require increased government activity if the national machine is not to run amok.

It is misleading, therefore, to equate a civil service that is expanding in relation to the population with waste and a threat to democratic freedoms. The chief problem of government recruitment and financial cutbacks is Governor Rowland Keegan of Columbia. The theme has been that Rome fell because of fiscal irresponsibility. "Th distance lends enchantment to the view." Have you ever noticed that if you tell people you are going to Hamilton, they simply yawn? If, on the other hand, you tell them you are going to Brisbane, Australia, they turn green with envy. "Aren't you lucky?" As though a faraway city were of necessity more interesting than a nearby one, as though a long trip were of necessity more glamorous than a short one.

I note that in my current contest for young Canadians ("Where in Canada do you want to go and why?"), the majority of entrants are nominating distant points of the country, especially Vancouver. I suppose that when the Vancouver residents kick in, they will nominate Montreal or Toronto or the Maritimes.

No Discrimination Evident Yet, U.S. Bankers Report States

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada is among nine countries considered to be closed to further U.S. banking, says a report prepared for the joint economic committee of Congress by the American Bankers Association.

It says Canadian restrictions on the American-owned Mercantile Bank of Canada is the "rule enjoying the most prominence at the present time" in the broad U.S. network of foreign banks and the associated regulations and restrictions they face.

The report adds, however, it is debatable whether the restrictions constitute real - American discrimination.

"Specifically, there are instances in which American banks appear to have been discriminated against because of their simply being American."

"Whether the present Canadian bank situation represents such a case is debatable. Undoubtedly, no foreign acquisition of Canadian banks would at the present time receive an unqualified welcome from the authorities.

"Whether Canadians would have moved to restrict the growth of the Mercantile Bank of Canada if its ownership had remained in the hands of nationals of The Netherlands, however, is not clear."

The report also suggests that any U.S. insistence on reciprocity for countries with banks doing business here may not always be in the best interest of overseas U.S. banking.

Privately - sponsored legislation now before Congress or pending would require the federal rather than the present state control of foreign banking operations in the U.S. Most of the 39 states ban foreign banking.

The U.S. government has taken no stand on the bills officially or publicly.

The report says there now are 244 bank operations abroad both assets of more than $2,000,000,000. Most of the growth came after the Second World War and continues.

"At the present time, major American banks believe at least nine countries by legislation or by discretionary policy are closed to further direct American affiliates or branches or to affiliates," it says.

It states cautiously over the controversy involving Walter Gordon as Canadian finance minister in 1963 when the First National City Bank of New York bought Marcantile from Dutch interests. It deals at long some length with Canada's special concern about U.S. domination.

"While the facts are in dispute, it was charged by Gordon that acquisition of the stock was consummated in spite of a request to await the new Bank Act revisions. His view has been that, if approved, additional American banks would inevitably be attracted to the Canadian market.

"While there is considerable Canadian political support for Gordon's position, the Canadian banking industry is said to favor elimination of the restrictions on U.S. ownership, in part fearing retaliation on the Canadian bank agencies in the U.S. and its possessions which do a large international money market business."

The report says Canada and Switzerland share special difficulties in seeking to ward off colonial penetration — where "protection of a unique culture seems to limit entry of foreign business firms."

Canada is a major producer but is "nevertheless dwarfed by the industrial might of the U.S. economy ... Canadians have deplored for many years the swamping of their markets by U.S. producers and the growth of U.S. corporations, in both natural resource industries and manufacturing and distribution facilities that once were entirely Canadian.

More Exports Needed Kiwanians Are Told

"If we are to endure as a nation we need a philosophy in exporting to world markets," J. J. Graham, Chief, Marketing Section, Ontario Department of Economics and Development, Toronto, said yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Graham offered statistics to substantiate his statement that Canada ranked seventh in world trade.

"In 1965 Canada's total exports exceeded $8,500,000,000 which was six percent of Free World trade."

"In 1966 the total exports exceeded $10,000,000,000 which was up 12 per cent."

Mr. Graham encourages all Canadians who look outward for business. "To be successful we must design goods that are needed in world markets."

He illustrated the importance of Canada to Canada's manufactured exports. He said that Ontario produces over 50 per cent of the total manufactured exports.

He told the Kiwanians that most of the steel that Canada now exports is located in Ontario. "Ontario must be responsible. The 1967 export goal is set at $11,000,000,000."

Mr. Graham discussed Canada's need for "new" trade. "The trade balance indicates that we are not successful as a nation."

"In 1963 the import-export figures were just about equal at $8,000,000,000 but Canada's interest payments on her national debts made the difference. There was a deficit of $37 per person in Canada."

Mr. Graham quoted figures from other countries. "The United States had a surplus of $5,000,000,000. The United Kingdom had a surplus of 250,000,000. France had a surplus of $5,000,000,000."

He suggested that Canada sell goods that have a high labor content. "We must produce more and be more aggressive."

"We must raise our level of efficiency to be more competitive. We must communicate more."

Mr. Graham related the programs of the Ontario Department of Economics and Development which attract more trade to Canada. "We have an encouraging exchange of technical information."

Assault Charge Is Dismissed

Mrs. Violet Travers claimed in city court yesterday that her son, Robert, had been beaten to the ground by three men and kicked in the head.

A doctor from Belleville General Hospital said that he had to give the Burton St. man a sedative to keep him quiet so other patients could sleep.

Other than a contusion on the back of his head and one on his chest, Travers was not found to be revealed.

The doctor said that Travers was brought in on a stretcher shortly after midnight on April 2, waving his arms without direction and wailing and calling odd names.

He said that at first he thought it might be a fear reaction. Defence counsel Robert Temple asked if it could be partly called hysteria. The doctor finally agreed.

Mrs. Travers told the court that Bob Bennett of Point Anne kicked her front door glass in, and he and Bob's wife went out onto the street to fight with Bennett.

Mrs. Travers denied that her son had chased Bennett down the street with a chain. She also claimed that she was beaten to the ground.

Mr. Temple asked Mrs. Travers if she had ever heard her son say he was going to kill Bennett's wife and daughter. She retorted that Bennett had threatened to kill her and family.

Mrs. Travers said that her son and Bennett "ran like mad dogs down the street."

Robert Travers said in the witness stand that he didn't know who started the fight, and that as far as he knew there wasn't anyone else beating him. He added that he probably picked up a chain but didn't know if he used it. Travers thought that he might have kicked the door in himself.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said the evidence was full of hearsay and dismissed charges of wilful damage and assault against Bennett.

Magistrate Will Give Ruling

Magistrate T. Y. Wills is going to take until May 5 to make up his mind about the status of a motor vehicle . . . Is it private or a public place?

Defence counsel Robert Temple claims it is a private place. He said yesterday that a female client was removed by police after the car she was a passenger in was involved in an accident.

Crown counsel R. L. Graham said that he has told the police not to arrest drunken persons if they are passengers in a car.

Mr. Temple based his claim on a ruling by Judge W. S. Lane in Picton in 1949 that a car was a private place. Mr. Wills quipped that he was not bound by it in the county of Hastings.

"I don't know if there is any basis for defying a motor vehicle. It is just a chattel that is there. It is not a house or dwelling," the magistrate said.

However, he enlarged it for judgment.

Panel Truck Hits Parked Cars, Tree

Two Belleville youths are in Belleville General Hospital today with injuries suffered shortly before midnight last night when the panel truck in which they were riding struck two parked vehicles and then slammed into a tree on Queen Street.

The youth, Robert Clark Potter, 19, of 105 Humewood Drive, and Richard Earl Swofford, 18, of 101 Humewood Drive, were in an Intelligencer truck, taken from a service station lot.

The Potter youth suffered a broken nose, cuts and abrasions and chest injuries. The Swofford youth was said thrown from the vehicle.

Belleville police said that approximately $1,400 damage resulted to the three vehicles, mostly to the truck which hit the tree. Police are still investigating.

Opinions of Female High School Students Differ From Those Given by Male Students

Dear Doris: We read the letter from the Group of Male High School Students. The boys said that if a guy likes a girl a little, the modern has only sex on her mind and that young girls ask for it.

How many girls ask a guy to go all the way? Truthfully, we don't think that there are many. As for the sex discussions at school "just encouraging loose morals", why? The school is teaching what is right; not what is wrong. Are we right in assuming that whatever these boys are taught, just to be rebellious they'll do the opposite?

Another part of the letter says, "Mostly we wait until we're married because your parents did and that's the right thing to do."

Why? Maybe because of society, but deep down we girls feel that our parents waited because they discovered that God put us on the earth for one main task: to raise another generation; thus concluding that this precious enjoyment should be given to the one guy or girl we love the most (our husband or wife) and not some teen-age kid not dry behind the ears.

We don't feel that all the boys are "sex maniacs" either, but if they were given a chance how many would refuse? — Concerned Female High School Students.

Dear Students: Glad to have you talk back, girls!

About our sole reason for being. But, I'd question that tidbit. Can't we settle down some time between generations and get something else done besides reproduce ourselves?

Dear Doris: We play a game called Senshe, also known as three-deck Canasta. But we have an argument over one play; some say it can't be done.

Say I start a sequence of hearts, Ace to Jack. Then can I later start another sequence of hearts say seven to four, or must the first sequence be completed and turned face down first? — Four Women.

Dear Four: I expect I have no one but myself to thank for some of the wild curses you throw my way, dear readers! O.K., I found a Senshe expert, and here is what she says: We have cities had two runs of seven in different suits. One would not have to be completed before starting the other sequence.

"But we prefer making a complete run in a suit, consisting of 13 cards from Ace to four — which counts 3,000 — where a seven-card run only counts 1,500. We do both.

"I really believe people make up a lot of their own rules, but we think the long run of 13 cards is fun playing."

Confidential to Troubled: If you go by me, you won't accept an engagement ring from anybody, at 16; let alone from a man 24. You are miles apart in outlook; you are memorized by the flattery of his attentions.

Finish school and find out what life is all about before getting your head in a mess.

To A Girl From Town: Tell the truth, Girlie. Tell Dave you have a pen pal; tell P.P. you have a steady. Then if it's O.K. with both of them, you're home free.

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYSON

Mother: "Denny is having trouble with his math again. He just doesn't seem to have the ability to work out complicated problems, but I guess we can't all be smart students."

Build on your child's strength, rather than his weakness. Label him a poor student, and he will tend to live up to the label.

Mother: "I think this is an excellent theme, Your English teacher says you have a real flare for writing. Your math teacher says you are working hard and improving, too."

Ann Landers

Neighbor's Deviation Is No One's Business

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Next door to us lives a divorced woman with her 16-year-old son. The problem is hers, but I'd like to do something about it if you say I should. My wife says, "Stay out of it."

The boy started to wear his hair very long about six months ago. Last week I was shocked to see that his hair had been dyed from a dark brown to a golden blonde. Also, he must have had a permanent because it was very wavy. This morning the boy was sitting on the front porch and seemed to be wearing a dress. I couldn't believe my eyes so I walked over to talk to him and, sure enough, it was a blue cotton jumper with lace on the pockets.

He said nothing about his outfit and neither did I. Don't you agree that I should report this to the authorities? Please advise. — NOT SURE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR NOT: I can't imagine to what "authorities" you are considering making a report, but I suggest you drop the matter because there is no law against a boy wearing whatever he wants to on his own front porch — or any where else, provided he doesn't create a public nuisance.

I don't know if the lad is a homosexual or a transvestite and neither do you. So take your wife's advice and mind your own business, unless he asks for help one day, in which case I hope you will suggest counselling.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was very happy to see the sound advice you gave to the woman who signed herself "Need A Boost." She wanted to know if it was all right to take pep pills that had transformed her cleaning lady from a dragged-out slow poke to a veritable ball of fire.

My sister worked full time as a waitress while raising four active children. She did all her own housework and laundry and even kept up the yard. I asked her many times how she managed to do so much and she said, "Pep pills. I couldn't get through the day without them." I pleaded with her to take it easy. I begged her to get help in the house (her husband could well afford it), but she said: "No, every time we don't have to pay out is money we can spend on our children."

The children are now grown and on their own. My sister is in a mental hospital. She is only 38 years old but she looks 80. She weighs less than 100 pounds and doesn't recognize any of us when we come to visit her.

The first question the doctor asked when she collapsed was, "Has she been taking any pills that you know of?"

My sister, unfortunately, acquired the pills from "a friend," without the knowledge of her physician.

Please print this story for the benefit of others for whom it may not be too late. Thank you. — CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND.

DEAR C.M.: Here's your letter and my stomks for the personal documentation. I repeat, No medication of any kind should be taken without the approval of a physician. A pill that saved someone's life could end yours.

Bavarians are elegant guest desserts. The Coffee Bavarian Mary Moore describes for you today may be made in advance. A variation — Vanilla Bavarian — is given too as an alternative for those who prefer it to the coffee flavor.

Made-in Advance Dessert

By MARY MOORE

For a showy but made-in-advance dessert I mated coffee with the bottled "cream" powder. (This powder was perfected for those on low-calorie diets to add to their coffee and tea instead of cream.) It resulted in the lovely creamy taste we all crave. For those of you who do not favor a coffee-flavored Bavarian I have given a variation below, where you use milk instead of liquid brewed coffee.

COFFEE BAVARIAN CREAM
(Serves 6 generously)

2 envelopes plain gelatine
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
3 eggs — yolks and whites separated
1 cup hot strong coffee
2 tsps. vanilla
1 1-3 cups powdered cream substitute (non - dairy for tea or coffee)
2 tbsps. sugar
2-3 cup cold milk

Chill beater bowl and beaters in refrigerator.

Into top of double - boiler measure the gelatine, ½ cup sugar, salt and egg yolks and mix well. Stir in hot coffee and put top of double boiler over boiling water and cook, stirring, 4 or 5 min. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cool until it just begins to congeal.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Pork Parmigiana (pee Tuesday); Buttered Parsnips; Italian Bread Sticks; Caesar Salad; Citrus Fruit Cup; Cinnamon Wafers; Tea.

In the chilled beater bowl mix the bottled cream-substitute powder, the 2 tbsps. sugar and cold milk. Beat at high speed 5 min. or until it will form soft peaks. Scrape down sides with spatula at half-time to be sure it is all mixed in. (This is delicious — taste a little.) Beat egg whites stiffly. As soon as coffee jelly is beginning to set fold in beaten whites then whipped cream mixture until blended. Turn into deep 5-cup mould and chill until set, overnight. I chilled mine overnight. To turn out, loosen sides with tip of knife, then dip mould in hot water and count steadily to ten. Invert on fancy serving plate and decorate with fruit in season. I used slivers of candied ginger and quartered maraschino cherries.

NOTE: If desired instead of using 1 cup hot liquid coffee use 1 cup scalded milk for the first step of the recipe which is chilled in double boiler. Then you have a vanilla Bavarian cream, which, in summer would be beautiful decorated generously with fresh strawberries.

Home and School Association News

The regular meeting of the Ameliasburgh Township Home and School Association was held in the gym of Kente public school, Ameliasburgh, on Tuesday evening, with a small crowd in attendance. President Mrs. M. Marshall opened the meeting and gave a report on the work of the Association during the past year, and also gave a brief summary of the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Home and School held in Toronto in March.

It was announced that the Township public school students in grades 1 to 4 had been invited to select colors to be used in all four area schools, and that grades 5 to 8 had been invited to design a crest to be adopted by all four public schools in Ameliasburgh township.

One of the projects for 1966-67 is the purchase of films, film clips and strips for the film library for Ameliasburgh Township schools. These will be purchased by a member of the teaching staff and presented in honor of the graduating class of Centennial '67.

The election of officers followed the brief business meeting with the following being appointed by the nominating committee and unanimously declared elected: president, Mrs. M. Marshall; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. Mann; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. E. Cooper; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Anthony; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Field, and treasurer, James Staveley.

Young People Lead Service At Parkdale

The Sunday evening service at the Parkdale Baptist Church featured a team of three young people from the Central Baptist seminary in Toronto.

The spokesman for the team was Mr. J. Hannah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hannah of Rossmore members of the church. He also led the meeting with a sing-song of familiar gospel hymns.

Mr. John Greb of Winnipeg, Manitoba joined Jack Hannah in singing three special numbers accompanied on the piano by Miss Coleen Brennan of Toronto.

Mr. Hannah is a member of the '51 seminary graduating class. The exercises will take place in Toronto on Tuesday, May 2, 1967.

Rev. Eric Penny gave an inspiring address entitled: "Why This Waste". He challenged his hearers to, like Mary with that precious treasure of ointment, "waste" their lives on complete commitment to Christ regardless as to where, when and how He might lead them.

The team returned to Toronto after the service to participate in the final examinations at the seminary.

Judy Predicts Big Changes In 100 Years

TORONTO (CP)— Steta Secretary Judy LaMarsh predicted Tuesday that in 100 years there may be no women lawyers or politicians and no women acting as "productive baby ovens."

She said there may be a system of ombudsman to replace the legal conventions of today, a single big brother head of state, and test-tube babies collected by their mothers like a package of fish and chips.

Miss LaMarsh was one of four panelists who looked at women's roles, past and future, at a centennial conference attended by 800 Ontario women. It was sponsored by the women's advisory committee of the Ontario department of economics and development.

Miss LaMarsh said "I think women ought to stay home when kids are young, but I don't think we'll have mothers in the way we have now."

Mrs. Ida Rose Betcherman, director of the women's bureau of the Ontario department of labor, said Ontario is already paying 30 per cent of the cost of day care centres.

She said the federal government will be adding help that will subsidize them a full 50 per cent. Setting up the centres is a municipal responsibility, and it is up to the public to bring enough pressure to bear to get more centres.

Women Make Bid to Get Better Deal

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bitter women, deserted by their husbands and without adequate funds, believe the cards are stacked against them and their children.

That's the common thread woven through the stories told by a group of these women who joined forces in Winnipeg recently in a bid to get a better deal for themselves and their children. There were 35 of them and some members of the Mixed One Club — who applied their troubles to a lawyer, a clergyman and two social workers before deciding to appeal to the legal aid committee of the Manitoba Law Society.

Said one: "I've been separated for 14 years and there's been a warrant out against my husband for 11 years for non-support. I went to court but he didn't show up and nothing more was done."

Said another: "I think our laws are rigged to help the men. I think they encourage men to leave families. If they skip out, there's nothing you can do to make them support you."

Kenneth Regier, a former Crown prosecutor, told them they were justified in many of their complaints but offered no solutions.

Dr. Donald Macdonald, minister of Knox United Church, said the group is preparing a brief which is to be presented to the political parties represented in the Manitoba legislature in a bid to obtain justice.

He said the women want better allowances, more day nurseries, improved support for children and changes in divorce proceedings.

Provide Economic Aid If Bases Close, Manitoba Urges

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Summary closure of armed forces bases can turn thriving communities into ghost towns if no provision is made for protecting the economy of the communities that depend on them, the Manitoba legislature was told Tuesday.

The Manitoba legislature was one of five in session. Others were Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

Gordon Beard (PC — Churchill) told the Manitoba house that, although there has been no official announcement, there is speculation that an armed forces base at Rivers, Man., will be closed.

Speaking on a resolution by Earl Rawson (L — Hamiota) which urged the federal government to maintain its base at Rivers and other Manitoba centres, Mr. Beard said that if the bases at Rivers and Churchill are to be closed, the government should at least keep them open until some comparable economic development is obtained to replace the economic drain on the community.

Manitoba's municipal affairs minister, Thelma Forbes, told the legislature she had telegraphed a request for a federal-provincial conference on fiscal problems of housing and urban renewal to federal Labor Minister Nicholson. In Ottawa, Mr. Nicholson said he had received Mrs. Forbes's telegram and would be happy to consider her proposal.

In other business the Manitoba legislature gave final approval to a five-per-cent sales tax, making the province the ninth in Canada to embrace a retail sales levy.

In other legislatures:

Fredericton — Patrick Guerrett (L—Restigouche) said educational television on a national basis "would be a great loss of time and money, with no effective results, as compared to educational television on a local basis." Mr. Guerette urged that educational TV planned for northeastern New Brunswick be undertaken on a local basis.

Quebec—The legislature gave first reading to a bill setting up a provincial system of family allowances ranging from $20 a year for the first child in a family to $70 a year for the sixth and subsequent children under 16. The provincial allowances are to be in addition to the federal family allowances already in effect.

Toronto — Premier Roberts told the legislature that Ontario Hydro has approved construction of three major projects which will add 1,500,000 kilowatts to Hydro's generating capacity by 1973.

The government also announced it will match local funds raised to help victims of tornadoes that swept through southwestern Ontario Monday.

St. John's — Premier Smallwood said Newfoundland Pulp and Chemical has placed an order for two paper-making machines capable of turning out 240,000 tons of newsprint annually.

Alberta Only Sales Tax-free Province

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba joined the sales tax club Tuesday with the government almost as reluctant as the opposition to introduce the new impost.

Fought every inch of the way by the three-party opposition, it took 10 weeks for the proposal to gain final approval. It will be implemented June 1.

It leaves Alberta as the only province in Canada without a sales tax.

A sales tax had long been avoided by Premier Roblin's Progressive Conservative administration and Provincial Treasurer Gurney Evans, when he proposed it in his budget, said the government adopted the taxing measure "reluctantly."

The tax is expected to raise $33,720,000 during the 10 months it will be effective in the current fiscal year.

Among the exemptions are food and rent, children's clothing and footwear, drugs and production equipment used for farming and commercial fishing.

During committee study, which lasted nine sitting days, 30 amendments were adopted for the bill and dozens more proposed by the opposition—were rejected. Loss—to exempt farm buildings — was defeated by a 34-to-23 vote.

Principal change was raising to 25 cents the minimum taxable from 21 cents.

The impost is to finance vast new expenditures in health, education and manpower development as the provincial spending estimates jumped to $354,000,000 this year from $301,800,000 in the 1966-67 fiscal year.

When he introduced the budget, Mr. Evans placed the blame for the sales tax at the feet of the federal government for failing to advance a plan to offset the disparities among Canadian regions. He said provinces are becoming increasingly hard-pressed for funds.

Major reason for the sizeable increases in Manitoba spending this year was a new education foundation plan which was designed to shift the burden of school taxation to a broader base. Under it, the provincial government will pay 85 per cent of the costs of basic education while the local school boards will be required to raise 35 per cent.

Howard Returns To House

OTTAWA (CP)—A few handshakes from fellow MPs marked Frank Howard's return to the Commons Tuesday after his public admission that he served time for armed robbery.

The NDP member for Skeena took his seat just before the start of the sitting. A former RCMP sergeant, Jack Bigg, Conservative member for Athabaska, came over and shook hands.

Later, Mr. Howard walked across the floor, shook hands with Privy Council President Walter Gordon, then sat next to Registrar-General John Turner for a chat. The two men shook hands and Mr. Turner patted Mr. Howard on the, shoulder.

Just after his return to the capital from the West Coast, where he revealed his prison record Sunday, Mr. Howard told a press conference the matter had "haunted" him for years.

He said nobody had ever used information about his 16-month prison term as a teen - ager against him.

Mr. Howard, a burly, 42-year-old former logger, said he had been told that Skeena Conservatives had thought of using it in the 1962 election campaign, but the idea had been vetoed from the top.

However, that was just hearsay, Mr. Howard said, and he could not confirm first-hand whether it was John Diefenbaker, then Conservative prime minister, who had stopped its use.

Mr. Howard said he had received a lot of telegrams and letters about his disclosure, which followed a blackmail threat. He had not seen them, but his secretary had said they were all favorable to his decision to make a clean breast of it.

J. B. Brien Remanded To Tuesday

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Benoit Brien, 51, of Thornhill, president of collapsed Prudential Finance Corp., was remanded Tuesday to April 25 on two charges of theft and two of fraud involving $472,180 in cash plus shares.

Bail was set at $25,000.

Brien, free on $40,000 bail in connection with his earlier fraud and theft charges which followed an investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission into the $20,000,000 Prudential Finance collapse, was arrested Monday night.

The warrants for his arrest were sworn out by an investigator with the securities commission, Gerald Gilman.

The new theft charges allege Brien stole 1965,365 and 11,000 common shares of Dominion Glass Co., worth about $15 at the time, from North American General Insurance. Brien is also charged with defrauding the same insurance company of $365,305 and $106,875.

TRAVEL BOOK RELEASED

MONTREAL (CP)—The first travel book produced jointly by Quebec and Ontario was released Tuesday. "This new publication will serve to symbolize the very real fellowship that has grown up and is continuing to develop between our two provinces," said James Auld, Ontario's minister of tourism and information. Mr. Auld spoke at the Ontario pavilion at Expo 67.

Portable Schools Sought

STRATFORD (CP) — Schools of the future will be built so they can be moved from site to site to meet changing student demand, an Ontario education department member was told Tuesday.

R. G. Robbie and H. J. Vallery of the Metropolitan Toronto School Construction Study said some of 70 schools built in the future will be portable.

Mr. Robbie and Mr. Vallery have been studying the possibility of building schools for Toronto with units that can be switched within a school's system or from one school to another.

The idea has been used with success in some American cities.

J. R. Sweeney, an inspector with the Kitchener Separate School Board, told delegates the era of schools with a corridor and box-like rooms is fading quickly.

A resolution from the Council of Lennox and Addington County calling on the Ontario department of education to prepare basic plans and price guidelines for school boards was rejected by speakers at the seminar.

Brian Garratt, a Stratford school architect, said most states in the United States which experimented with standard school plans found building costs reduced when they returned to the use of private architects to prepare individual plans.

Mr. Vallery told the seminar that too much emphasis is placed on teaching in Ontario schools and not enough on learning.

Mr. Vallery said it is the teachers who go through the real learning process and the pupils just memorize what the teacher presents.

J. R. Sanderson, superintendent of London secondary schools, told the seminar that all new schools should be wired for closed circuit television and have a TV receiving centre.

Grants Boosted

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature unanimously gave second reading Tuesday to a government bill boosting unconditional per-capita grants to Ontario municipalities, but only after opposition members complained that inequities in the grants system would be preserved.

Approval in principle for the bill came after Liberal Leader Robert Nixon declared that per-capita grants should be based on population alone.

At present, the grants range from $3.50 per capita for small communities to $7 for large cities. The government bill would raise each municipality's grant by a uniform $1.50 a head.

Mr. Nixon said taxation pressures remain the same whatever the size of a municipality.

Fred Young (NDP Toronto Yorkview) said the increase did not go far enough. Increasing property taxes in prosperous areas like Metropolitan Toronto were forcing people to sell their homes.

Truscott Decision Delayed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada is taking longer than expected to reach its decision in the widely-publicized Steven Truscott case.

The nine justices have been considering the case since final arguments ended Jan. 30 and there is no indication when they will announce their verdict.

The court originally was expected to take about a month but its deliberations may have been delayed by the absence of Chief Justice Robert Taschereau. He acted as Administrator of Canada from the departure of Governor-General Vanier March 5 until the installation of Governor - General Michener Monday.

The Supreme Court changed its rules last fall to hear new evidence by Crown and defence witnesses on the murder of 13-year-old Lynne Harper in 1959 at Clinton, Ont.

Truscott, then aged 14, was convicted of murder and sentenced to hang but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the Diefenbaker cabinet.

He has served eight years in Collins Bay Penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., and under present policy, could be released on parole in two years.

A national controversy over the 1959 trial boiled up last year after Toronto writer Isabel Le-Bourdais suggested in her book The Trial of Steven Truscott, that Truscott was the victim of public hysteria in the Clinton area and of a miscarriage of justice.

The Supreme Court rejected Truscott's appeal at the time of sentence, but it was asked by the cabinet last year to review the case and file an opinion.

The court can recommend three courses: Truscott's acquittal and immediate freedom, a new jury trial or confirmation of the original conviction.

Leafs: 'Bring On Habs!'

TORONTO — (CP) — Coach Punch Imlach won the Stanley Cup semi-finals hours before Toronto Maple Leafs took the ice for the sixth game of the semi - finals against Chicago Black Hawks.

He decided to leave Brian Conacher in the Leafs' top line instead of using veteran George Armstrong and the rookie forward scored two goals, including the winner, to lead the Leafs to a 3-1 victory here Tuesday night.

"I didn't do anything special tonight," Conacher said. "I just let them go. They went in. I didn't try to pick a spot or anything."

The win gave the Leafs the best-of-seven semi-final 4-2 and they now move into the best-of-seven final against Montreal Canadiens, with the first game scheduled in Montreal Thursday.

Peter Stemkowski got the other Toronto goal and defenceman Pat Stapleton scored for Chicago.

Coach Billy Reay was surrounded by gloom in his Chicago dressing room after the game.

Plagued By Injuries

Picked to win the Stanley Cup after wrapping up the National Hockey League championship and scoring a record 264 goals, the Hawks had been the victims of injuries from the beginning.

"It's a little one-sided, but I think the best team lost," Reay quipped.

"Injuries made the difference for our club. But . . . the Leafs outplayed us at centre."

The finals between the Canadiens and the Leafs will be the first all-Canadian playoff since 1960.

The club that scored the first goal won each of the six games of the series.

The loss by the Hawks marks the fifth time in seven years that the league champions have failed to win the Stanley Cup. The Leafs won the championship and the cup in 1962, and the Canadiens won both titles in 1966.

Plays For "Army"

Conacher, the hero of the final game, was moved to right wing from his regular left wing position to fill in for Armstrong, injured in the second game of the series.

He said after the third game that he felt "good at right wing and I seem to get more opportunities there."

Armstrong was ready to play Tuesday night, but Imlach decided to go with Conacher. Armstrong did play sparingly late in the third period.

Conacher gave the Leafs the first goal of the game, blasting a waist-high slapshot past Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall after taking a pass from linemate Frank Mahovlich.

Stapleton scored against the Leafs power play just as Chicago defenceman Pierre Pilote stepped out of the penalty box late in the first period. The Chicago defencemen took a pass from Eric Nesterenko and beat Toronto goaltender Terry Sawchuk with a sizzling drive.

Conacher scored the winner early in the third period, knocking over Chicago defenceman Ed Van Impe at the blueline and grabbing the loose puck.

He broke in on the Chicago goal, scooted around Stapleton and beat Hall on the screened effort.

Conacher is the son of Lionel Conacher, Canada's athlete of the half century who played in the NHL in the 1920s.

"Stemmer" Scores

Stemkowski's goal came late in the game, beating Hall with a low 30-foot slapshot.

Sawchuk, who had almost single - handedly won the fifth game of the series in Chicago Saturday, was a standout once again in the Toronto nets.

He handled all but one of the 35 shots fired by the Black Hawks with ease.

Imlach skipped out without discussing his strategy for the upcoming finals with newspaper men. The Leafs will hold a practice today before travelling to Montreal.

Saturday's game, scheduled for 8 p.m. EST will be televised in its entirety on the CBC national network.

Sullivan; Calls Leafs In Six!

Red Sullivan is coach of Pittsburgh Penguins, a new entry in the expanded National Hockey League. When interviewed twitter by The Canadian Press, he said Toronto Maple Leafs would eliminate Chicago Black Hawks in six games. He was there Tuesday night as the Leafs did it.

Written for The Canadian Press
By RED SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—Now let me make another prediction. Toronto Maple Leafs, if they play the way they did Tuesday night, will win the Stanley Cup in six games.

The Leafs can beat Montreal. The victory Tuesday night was the shot in the arm they needed. They've come a long way for a club that at one time wasn't even picked to finish in the top four.

They've beaten the Hawks and that really was the series they needed. I don't think a week's rest will help Montreal. At 46, The Leafs are ready and they can win, but it will take six or maybe even seven games.

Now, about Tuesday night's game. First of all, I have to give the Leafs full marks for a total team effort. The play of the game was when Conacher came up with the puck in the third period and scored the goal.

Conacher body-checked Van Impe and ended up with the puck. And the big kid didn't make any mistakes. He played it like a pro and he showed he isn't a rookie all the way.

But I did think the Toronto defence played extremely well the whole game. Chicago didn't have any real chances to move the puck.

Terry Sawchuk in the Toronto nets was also the big margin of victory for the Leafs. He played well throughout the game and made a couple of fantastic saves. I don't know how, but whenever he stopped the puck, they stayed stopped and couldn't seem to come up with the puck.

I was really surprised the Leafs finally pulled out the win because they missed so many golden opportunities in the first period.

Usually when a team misses so many scoring chances, they can't pull the game out. But the Leafs didn't lie down. They came back.

I thought Allan Stanley, Tim Horton and Larry Hillman were wonderful on defence. They kept the Hawks off balance and moved the puck.

Bobby Hull, always Chicago's big scoring threat, was kept off balance all night by Ron Ellis. He did a whale of a job on Hull and the big guy never got a chance to break into his stride.

Marshall Sets Record

Clippers Clip Amerks

ROCHESTER (AP) — Willie Marshall scored two goals and set up another Tuesday night to cut an American Hockey League playoff points record as Baltimore Clippers defeated Rochester Americans 5-3.

The victory evened the best-of-five semi-final series at one game each. Next games are Friday and Sunday in Baltimore.

Marshall's points gave him 107 in 85 AHL playoff games. Prior to Tuesday night, he had been tied with Cleveland's Freddy Glover for the all-time lead with 104 points.

The veteran centre was credited with Baltimore's first goal when an American poked the puck into his own net at 1:36 of the second period.

Dick Gamble evened the game at 3:18 for Rochester but Jimmy Bartlett put the Clippers on top again a minute and 20 seconds later. Eddie Joyal tied it up for the Americans at 11:18.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

There are some strange aspects to the current situation anent the National Hockey League referees and the gold-crusted coterie of owners.

It is the inalienable right of an owner or partner of a firm, company or organization to criticize or even fire an employee if his work does not meet with the firm's approval.

But what would happen in the realm of industry or business if an employee suggests taking one of the brass over the coals or fires him for shooting off his mouth over the alleged inefficiency of a fellow employee.

That in a nutshell is what is happening in the realm of the National Hockey League.

Bill Jennings, president of the New York Rangers, dissatisfied with the work of Referee John Ashley after games with the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, shot off his mouth about the work of the official and blasted he (Ashley) would never referee in New York again.

Referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison dashed down to New York and defended his hireling's name. Jennings had called Ashley "incompetent and a bush-leaguer."

Morrison assigned Ashley to "do" the third game between the Rangers and Canadiens and after the Habs 3-2 victory, the Jennings tomalls sounded off again."

"Tonight proves me right," he roared. "He is a bush leaguer and incompetent." During the game some 16,000 roused New York fans rose and chanted in chorus to Ashley, "You're a bum."

Vern Buffey, another NHL referee came to Ashley's aid and stoutly defended his whistle-blowing buddy in the columns of the press.

Morrison threw down his guns on Buffey since his defence of Ashley was a breach of contract and ordered a reprimand and a fine. In fact Buffey is an employee of the Rangers' boss and it is common knowledge what happens when an irate employee talks back to the boss.

Can you imagine also what would happen if an NHL referee during a game, picked up a tossed program and fired it at one of the NHL minted millionaires sitting like a king in the royal box.

Yet nothing happened when Toronto's Stafford Smythe because so incensed at Referee Art Skov he hurled a program at the official on the ice.

"I agree that public abuse at the owner level must stop," Scotty Morrison stated. "If Mr. Jennings is to be reprimanded or fined it will be an internal matter within the league and the league governors. It will be Mr. Campbell's decision and I do not know yet what action he plans to take."

So here we are at the employee — bosses level again.

The truth of the matter is Campbell has not the power to either fine or reprimand any of the six exalted Maharajahs of the National Hockey League. And Morrison may be in hot water for suggesting it.

Because when you come down to brass tacks, both Campbell and Morrison are employees of the forementioned sacred six.

Both Campbell and Morrison should be given full powers to execute their respective duties especially in the sphere of fine and reprimand. And that includes all or any of the six Grand Viziers who think their exalted positions carry immunity from punishment if they blow off at half-cock.

The Canadiens president David Molson may start the ball rolling at the next league meeting.

Molson was quoted as saying in Montreal recently, "At the owner-governor level you can hardly expect censure to be necessary. Common sense should prevail in complaints about officiating and other things and there's a proper procedure to be followed. It hardly includes public censure of our employees which can be only detrimental to hockey. There is no form of censure at present but maybe we need something like the fine we have for gamesmship."

As Pat Curran of the Gazette says: — "Maybe the reprimand of an owner or governor could have him skate in centre ice and let 18,000 fans call him a bum. What's $1,000 to a millionaire?"

ANDY CAPP

THE ACTION IS IN THE GOALMOUTH, BUT THE FUCK ISN'T—Members of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks clutter the Chicago goalmouth during the first period of Tuesday night's Stanley Cup semi-final game in Toronto. ## Will History Repeat?

1960; Habs Beat Leafs 4 Straight

MONTREAL (CP)—The Stanley Cup final series will be all Canadian this year for the first time since 1960.

That was the last time Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs—the only Canadian—based clubs in the National Hockey League—met for the prized trophy.

The two clubs renew their rivalry in Montreal Thursday night in the first game of the best-of-seven final series.

The long wait by Canadiens ended Tuesday night when the Leafs defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1, winning the best-of-seven semi-final series four games to two.

The Canadiens entered the final last Thursday by defeating New York Rangers in four straight games in a best-of-seven semi-final series.

When the two clubs met in the Stanley Cup final in 1960, the Canadiens won four straight games.

The Canadiens have won the cup the last two seasons—over Chicago in 1965 and Detroit Red Wings last year.

The Canadiens have been holding regular practice sessions while waiting to resume Stanley Cup action, commuting between their Laurentian mountain lakeshore and the Forum for each workout.

After Canadiens 90 - minute scrimmage Tuesday, coach Toe Blake said:

"Everybody looked good out there today. Everybody's healthy. All I have to do now is figure out who to play and wonder when and where."

Claude Provost showed no ill effects from a thumb injury that forced him out of the fourth game of the semi-final series against the Rangers.

Rogatien Vachon, the rookie goalie called up from Houston Apollos of the Central Professional League late in the regular schedule, is expected to start in net in the first game of the final round.

Veteran Gump Worsley, backup goalie to Vachon, feels the youngster has all the credentials to be a major league netminder.

"Rogatien's greatest asset is the way he plays the angles," Worsley said. "He's got all the reflexes of a Ken Dryden. The only thing that might hurt him now will be overconfidence."

Vachon had 15 wins, five ties and only three losses in 23 games during the regular season for a 2.64 goals-against average.

New OHA Entry

Ottawa Jrs. Sign Long

OTTAWA (CP) — Starting a hockey team from scratch, even without a name, experiences "instant experience," says Howard Darwin, Ottawa jeweller who heads a local group with a new franchise in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A loop.

The team obtained the instant experience Tuesday when it signed William (Bill) Long of Niagara Falls Flyers to a three-year contract as assistant general manager and coach.

"In complete charge of all hockey aspects of one operation" as Darwin put it.

Long, a 35-year-old native of Barrie, has been around OHA Junior action for the last 17 years after a brief fling with the Pittsburgh Hornets in the American League and a couple of seasons as a player-coach in senior hockey.

He started junior coaching with Barrie Flyers, then went to Niagara Falls Flyers to the Barrie franchise was moved south. He won a Memorial Cup with his 1963-64 Niagara Falls edition of the Flyers.

Boston Marathon

Japanese Favored!

BOSTON (CP)—If you can believe those stories about the crowds on the Tokyo subways, the favored Japanese team in today's 71st running of the Boston Athletic Association marathon should feel at home.

The four-man Japanese contingent heads a record 735 entries for the 26-mile, 385-yard run from suburban Hopkinton over a hilly course to the historic Back Bay section of Boston.

Race director Will Cloney says this is about 195 more entries than last year and "about 400 more than normal."

The starting gun was due to be fired at noon EST. The weatherman forecast overcast skies with a good chance of showers and a temperature between 40 and 45 degrees.

The top candidates for victory in the event are given favored positions up front at the starting line. Back of the top runners, there will probably be as much shoving for positions as takes place at rush hour in the Tokyo subways.

However, favored Japanese—in spite of sending a "second team" to the U.S.—don't seem to be among the chosen few up front.

The Japanese took the first four places last year—with an American fifth and a Canadian sixth—after placing 1-2-3-4-5 in 1963.

Koufax And Rain

Dodgers Find Winning Formula!

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles finally has come up with a winning formula: Start off with Sandy Koufax pitching and take a long seventh-inning stretch.

But don't bet on the same combination clicking again-and in balmy California, anyway.

The Dodgers whipped Cincinnati Reds 7-2 in their home opener Tuesday night—scoring four wrapup runs after a 78-minute rain delay in the seventh inning — and snapped a four-game losing streak.

Koufax the great left-hander who has a shifted from the mound to the broadcast booth, was on hand to throw out the first ball during pre-game ceremonies.

Claude Osteen, the Dodgers' current southpaw ace, then took over and carried a 3-2 edge into the seventh. With two out and two Dodgers on base in the bottom of the inning, the rains poured down and time was called.

The Dodgers waited patiently — they had never lost an inning to the elements in 734 home games since moving from Brooklyn to Los Angeles nine years ago. When play finally was resumed, John Roseboro, Bob Bailey and Gene Michael slid, drew successive walks, forcing in two runs, and Jim Hickman, pinch hitting for Osteen, delivered two more with a single.

The rain had the crowd in 17,047 — smallest turnout the Dodgers have drawn for a Los Angeles opener.

While the Dodgers broke into the victory column, St. Louis' unbeaten Cardinals posted their fifth victory, edging San Francisco Giants 2-1 on an unearned run in the 10th inning.

Orlando Cepeda singled the winner across after a two-base error by center fielder Ken Henderson. The loss was the Giants' sixth in seven games.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs downed Philadelphia Phillies 8-4 and Atlanta Braves nipped Houston Astros 3-2. The New York Mets' night game at Pittsburgh was rained out.

The United run that lifted St. Louis past the Giants marred a strong pitching effort by San Francisco's Gaylord Perry, who went the distance and yielded only five hits. Reliever Hal Woodeshick was the winner.

Adolfo Phillips drove in two runs with a homer and triple as the Cubs, who had blown a 5-0 lead, scored back in the late innings. Phillips' two-run homer sent them ahead 5-4 in the eighth and they added three more runs in the ninth, two on Byron Browne's bases - loaded double.

A bases - loaded sacrifice fly by pinch hitter Jim Beauchamp in the ninth gave the Braves their fourth straight victory.

Tigers Win

Chisox, Howard 3-Hits Bosox

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bruce Howard is pitching backwards in an effort to move forward.

And the Chicago White Sox right - hander took a step in that direction Tuesday, shutting out Boston on three hits through eight innings and beating them in the sixth, two of them on an error by third baseman Joe Foy.

The victory was Howard's first. In his initial 1967 start '13, he gave up four runs, only one earned, in 5 1-3 innings against Boston. Chicago eventually won the game 5-3.

Al Weis's homer into the teeth of a strong wind in the sixth inning broke a 1-1 tie and started the Tigers to their victory at Detroit.

Jimmie Hall put California ahead 1-1 with a homer in the second, but the Tigers came back to tie in the bottom of the inning when Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice fly scored Bill Freehan who had doubled.

Earl Wilson went the distance for Detroit and evened his record at 1-1.

Larks Trade Peter Kempf To Eskimos

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced Tuesday night that Peter Kempf, a field goal specialist, has been traded to Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference for end Stanley Sarnowsky.

Sarnowsky, 25, is a six-foot-three, 205-pound native of Edmonton who completed his college football career at Notre Dame University in Des Moines, Iowa.

Sarnowsky was Drake's all-time top field goal kicker as well as the team's all-time top pass receiver from his offensive end position.

Quinte, Trenton Umpires Form Association

Trenton and Belleville umpires have come together to form the Centennial Umpires' Association, it was announced by Bruce Nickle last night.

Nickle has been president of the Quinte Umpires' Association, one of the groups in the new Centennial Association, along with members of the Trenton Umpires' Association.

"Members of our body (Quinte) approved of the amalgamation to a man and the Trenton umpires are also happy with the move," Nickle said, adding that "the union gives the new association a large number of competent officials capable of handling any league."

Earlier, members of the Quinte Association had co-operated with local high men when an attempt was made to re-group members of the Belleville and District, and Quinte umpiring groups. The Belleville and District Association rejected all efforts flatly.

The Centennial Association will hold another meeting on Tuesday, April 25, at the Trenton Fire Hall, at 6:45 p.m. An election of officers will be held and any umpires interested in joining are invited to attend.

Ho-Hum Another Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cassius Clay, unbeaten in the ring as the world heavyweight boxing champion but almost down and out in the courts, makes another appeal today to the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to prevent his induction into the army in Houston April 28.

Clay's attorney, Hayden C. Covington of New York, said he would ask the nation's highest court to reverse its decision of Monday in which it denied the 25-year-old champion's request for an injunction to stop the induction.

Covington said he would file three separate briefs and if they all are turned down, there would be more appeals and possibly a new suit in Houston against the national selective service board.

Clay is fighting his pending induction on various constitutional grounds he has raised in lower courts.

In addition to losing his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, he also lost a battle in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans which also turned down Monday his request for an injunction to halt the induction.

FIVE PINS

Would you believe you can collect 11 strikes in one five - pin game and not break 400? Madeline James, of the Ladies' Thursday afternoon league, proved it could be accomplished last week — and then crowned out the feat with Madeline spared with eight strikes but Chester struck in the ninth which she scored only 13. She came right back with three consecutive strikes to end her game with a 399 and three more and she settled for 412.

Walter Bailey had the most success in the Quinte Classic League Friday night when he put together two strikes, a spare, eight consecutive strikes, for a concession on the final ball for a nice 406 game. It is the only current bowler in the league to top the 400 mark. Jim Nicholls having 417, Harry Bedore 410, Les Lovelace 409, Jack Calnan and Jack Canning 400 each. Other top scores in the city belong to Kay Wilson (Ladies' Business League) 400, Ken Rayner (Major "A") 406 and Len Wilson (Men's Commercial "A") 406.

The city "Big 7" average race is still undecided despite three of the top 4 having completed their play. Jim Nicholls has moved into the lead by one, Harry Bailey has the list right now with 257.3 and Bill Redmond second with 256.5, both are Major "A" bowlers and have completed their schedules. Jim McKenzie made third with 256.2 and has one game to go. Art Hall who is the Classic League schedule ends this Friday. Jim Bailey (Major "A") has a 252.8 mark while Chester bowlers Lee Smith and Jack Canning 250.2 and 250.1 respectively complete the list. So, it is either Nicholls or Redmond for the honors.

A two week, total pinfall project is under way in the Ontario Hydro Mixed League with Hedge's Marrs defending champions. They are not eligible. ## Order of Canada Medal

Prime Minister Pearson Monday announced the creation of the Order of Canada. The award for courage is the second of three levels of the order. The solid gold medal bears a maple leaf on the front—and the one word "courage" on the back. It is suspended from a red and white ribbon. The third award for service is similar, but in silver, with the word "service" on the back. The first award, the companion, is worn around the neck. It carries the motto "desiderantes meliorem patriam" around the maple leaf on the front and the word "Canada" on the back.

Council Approves Three Recommendations at Meet

DESERONTO — All members were present for Monday night's quiet meeting of the Town Council. Several more or less routine matters came up for report and consideration.

With regret, Council accepted the resignation of streets' foreman, Keith Sharpe. Mr. Sharpe has recently been hospitalized and is retiring for reasons of health.

Various tenders had been received at the previous meeting, and had been given to the committees concerned, to bring in recommendations to this meeting. Councillor Clayton Brooks recommended for the police committee, that the tender of Kennedy, Chrysler Plymouth of Belleville for a 1967 Plymouth for a police cruiser be accepted.

Speaking for the property committee, Councillor Robert Huffman recommended the acceptance of the tender of K. W. Spafford of Kingston for the tile floor in the town hall, and of Arnold Kimmerly of Deseronto for the fireball roof be accepted. Council approved of all three recommendations. The floor will be installed in the town hall after the decorating has been completed by Gerald Thompson of Deseronto.

Permission was given to the Victorian Order of Nurses to hold a tag day May 12 and 13.

Approval was given for an increase of $540 per annum to Police Chief L. W. Thomlinson. Council also made plans to set up sick leave benefits for all town employees.

Councillor William Higgins gave a report on progress in the work on Centennial Park. Various donations have been received to hasten the work he reported.

UCW Unit Holds Meeting

DESERONTO — Mrs. James A. Dawson of Fourth St. opened her home Tuesday of last week for the meeting of the afternoon unit of the UCW.

Mrs. Rockwell Hawley, who was in the chair, conducted the opening devotional period. She was assisted by Mrs. Norman Davis, Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. W. C. Cochrane contributed a duet, and the meditation was a brief history of the people of Israel.

Mrs. George Stuart, Mrs. Thomas Jackson and Mrs. Hawley presented a skit which had been prepared by Mrs. Russel Finley. It dealt with betterment of community life.

During the business meeting, the minutes, read by Mrs. Jackson, and the treasurer's report, presented by Mrs. Stuart, were both accepted. The 15 ladies present reported 30 visits to the sick and shut-ins.

Plans were made to cater for a dinner May 30 when Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. A committee was set up to assist with the combined bake sale and rummage sale to be held April 29.

At the close of the formal meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Cochrane, and Mrs. Hawley during the social hour.

Trinity UC Marks 124th Anniversary

NAPANEE — Speaking at the 124th anniversary services in Trinity United Church last Sunday, Dr. Stanley L. Osborne twice presented a challenge to the christian of today. "Unless we become less complacent and more active as Christians, the day is not far distant when Christians, even in Canada, will be in the minority," he warned.

Mrs. Robert Reid, soloist of Bridge St. United Church in Belleville sang both morning and evening. The choir, under the direction of the organist, Mrs. William Aylsworth, offered appropriate selections. During the morning service the junior choir sang a selection.

Grace United Church cancelled its evening service in order that its members could worship with their sister church. The minister, Rev. Guy W. Case, assisted with the service.

The minister, the Rev. E. Levise Johnston extended the welcome of Trinity Church to all joining its members in commemorating that day 124 years ago. He had a special word of welcome for the Rev. Dr. Osborne, Mrs. Reid and the Rev. Mr. Case.

During the hour of fellowship following the evening service, Dr. Osborne had an opportunity to greet many old friends. Now the principal of the Ontario Ladies' College in Whitby, he was once the minister in the Bay charge, just south of Napanee. He was especially active in his work with young people when he was there.

Open Housing Demand Is Met With Tear Gas

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — About 150 open housing advocates attempted a march in defiance of a court order Tuesday night but their demonstration was marked by frequent arrests and the use of tear gas to disperse a jeering, cursing crowd of 600 hecklers.

Police Chief William Dickinson stepped down on the open housing supporters immediately after they assembled in the city's all-white South End.

Within two minutes, the chief arrested Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, for parading without a permit. He was released on bail. The marchers, most in the early 20s, sat on a sidewalk and refused to move.

Police kept the hecklers at bay. When the crowd became unruly, 13 canisters of tear gas were fired.

About 40 demonstrators and 18 hecklers were arrested. Two marchers were injured.

Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay was an unexpected speaker at an earlier rally of housing supporters, telling them he was upset to hear about a pregnant girl being hit by a rock thrown by a white heckler during an earlier demonstration.

"While I am sympathetic to the open housing cause here," Clay said, "I hate to see so many women having to confront the enemy.

"We will never be respected as a people until we respect our women."

Fag-smoking Veterans Have High Death Rate

TORONTO (CP) — Cigarette smokers among Canada's ex-servicemen are dying at a rate 54 per cent higher than was usually expected for non-smokers, a federal department of health and welfare study reveals.

The six-year study of 92,000 veteran pension recipients found the death rate for heart and circulatory diseases, the biggest killer among the veterans, to be 68 per cent higher for cigarette smokers than for non-smokers.

However, the study found that the death rate for pipe and cigar smokers was not appreciably different from that of non-smokers.

The study, carried out in cooperation with the department of veteran affairs and the Canada pension commission, is reported in the current Canadian Medical Association Journal.

It investigated the relationship between residence, occupation and smoking habits and mortality from chronic diseases, particularly lung cancer, in 78,000 men and 14,000 women.

The most striking statistical finding was the figure of 853 deaths among the 7,764 non-smoking veterans—exactly the figure expected.

But the 4,133 deaths among the 35,190 cigarette smokers was 1,452 higher than the 2,701 deaths expected.

Niagara Planning Accepted

TORONTO (CP) — Planning consultant Norman Pearson said Tuesday that the importance of the Niagara escarpment has been recognized by Premier John Robarts and the public is ready for bold preservation planning.

Speaking at a conference on parks and recreation sponsored by the Conservation Council of Ontario, Mr. Pearson said vast areas of land adjoining the escarpment must be acquired to make its preservation a reality.

He said the speculation hurdle must be attacked on many fronts, including large federal and provincial financial participation, conservation and scenic easements and encouragement of tax incentives or trust funds for individual and corporate involvement.

The reorganization of the Niagara Parks Commission suggests it can play a fine role in the preservation of the peninsula, Mr. Pearson said. He said several thousand acres should be acquired in the Dundas Valley, in the Edingbeen area around Welland, the forks of the Credit River, the Hockley Valley, Devils Glen and Beaver Valley as well as acres along the Nottawasaga, Mad and Pretty rivers and around Zugzuis Lake and in the Bighead and Sydenham valleys to make escarpment preservation real.

Mr. Pearson said the escarpment assumes importance because of its closeness to the heavy populations of the northeastern U.S. and because it is the focus of the need to provide enough parkland near to great urban populations.

E. S. Fellows, a forestry consultant, said large areas should not be set aside for recreation since they conflict with the best interests of current and future generations.

He said all wilderness proposals serve as threats to commercial forests. Mr. Fellows said such areas act as breeding grounds for fire, disease and insect pests.

M. D. Kirk, resource manager of the Saulte Valley Conservation Authority, said the present 700 acres of public land are over-run.

"We are witnessing the final over-running of the wild areas in southern Ontario," he said. "We must act immediately."

Prof. Douglas Pimlett, of the University of Toronto's zoology department, said those who present the strongest opposition to wilderness preservation are the forest industries and the forest profession.

"Those who support it are called dreamy visionaries, dicky birders and selfish nature-lists."

It is difficult to bring timber operators under control, he said.

They constantly victate the codes which regulate them."

Erase Record By Behavior

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Ontario Magistrates Association Tuesday spoke out in favor of expunging criminal records after a specified period of good behavior, but said the records should not be destroyed.

Magistrate W. J. Tachtie of Hamilton said people should be able to apply for a certificate stating that they have no criminal record, but if they do turn to crime again they should be treated as second offenders.

Magistrate Tachtie told the Commons justice committee such a certificate would be an added incentive to the person to continue in "no straight."

The committee is studying a bill introduced by Donald Tolmie (L—Welland) which would provide for the destruction of criminal records after 12 years.

Magistrate F. C. Hayes of Toronto disagreed with the provision in the bill that would expunge the records of youthful offenders at age 21.

He said there was no particular magic in age 21 and suggested the same period of good behavior be required for people at all ages.

MacEachen's Optimism Not Shared

OTTAWA (CP) — Bursting with confidence, Health Minister MacEachen emerged from talks with provincial health ministers Tuesday to forecast participation by all provinces in a federally - supported medical care insurance plan.

"My prediction is that all provinces will be in at July 1, 1968," he told reporters. He sounded more optimistic than at any time since the federal medical care bill was passed last December.

But Ontario Health Minister Dr. Matthew B. Dymond went away with unresolved doubts. He said the meaning of some features of the federal law are not clear to him and the provinces are left to figure it out for themselves.

The federal government last fall set back start of the plan by one year and Mr. MacEachen said only Saskatchewan asked for an earlier start than July 1, 1968.

Mr. MacEachen said federal police "is to start July 1, 1968," paying half the national average per capita cost to qualified provincial plans.

Current estimates are that, with all provinces participating, the cost will be between $720,000,000 and $740,000,000 a year, with Ottawa covering half the cost.

To qualify for the federal money, the provinces must launch plans meeting four conditions. All have agreed on two of them—that benefits be portable from province to province and that each provincial plan at least insure the cost of all physicians services.

The main stumbling blocks appear to involve two other federal conditions. A provincial plan must cover 50 per cent of the province's population at the start, rising to 95 per cent in three years.

This condition alone would create no trouble if it were not for another which requires that the plan be operated by a non-profit agency of the provincial government whose books are open to public audit.

Experimental Rule Will Terminate Debate on Armed Forces Unification

OTTAWA (CP)—An "experimental" rule adopted in 1965 to set time limits on Commons debates on government legislation will be invoked for the first time Thursday to force a final vote on unification by next Tuesday night.

The closure-by-clause stage of the March defence debate enters its 12th day today with Conservative MPs still talking on the first of 85 clauses in the bill to merge the army, air force and navy.

Government House Leader McIlraith announced Tuesday that the parties had failed to settle voluntarily on a time limit and a government motion will be brought in Thursday calling for a restriction to three more days debate.

This motion likely will be debated all day Thursday. The Conservatives are expected to be given no voting against it.

The "guillotine" thus would fall a week from today, April 25, on the 24th sitting day of the session—tying the 1964-65 parliamentary session as the longest on record.

Further business guarantees the record will be easily broken.

The government must ask the Commons and Senate for a further month's spending authority before adjourning briefly—perhaps over a weekend—and starting on a new session.

Current plans are to pass two other items as well before prorogation. They are a supplementary estimate of $750,000 to launch a Crown corporation providing educational television facilities, and a bill that outlaws use and possession of the drug LSD.

The LSD legislation was introduced Tuesday night in the Senate, providing for prison terms of up to three years for possession of the "mind-expanding" drug and 10 years of trafficking.

The Senate, resuming work after a month-long Easter recess, also gave first reading to a bill removing certain restrictions of language and domicile applying to immigrants seeking Canadian citizenship.

Four new Liberal senators were installed and took their seats. Signing the formal oath as senator were Maurice Lamontagne, former state secretary; Andrew Thompson, former Ontario Liberal leader; Keith Laird, a Windsor, Ont., lawyer; and Mary Elizabeth Kinnear of Port Colborne, Ont., former president of the Liberal Women's Federation.

The Commons devoted much of the afternoon to a wrangle over parliamentary language and proprieties.

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton - Strathcona) discussed at length details of his charge that Defence Minister Hellyer employs the "big lie" technique developed by Adolf Hitler.

Liberal Grant Deachman, chairman of the Commons defence committee, said Mr. Nugent's language was despicable, dirty and filthy. Mr. Nugent replied that Mr. Deachman's language was intemperate.

Deputy Speaker Herman M. Batten finally asked both Liberals and Conservatives to take a little more care in the choice of expressions and phrases.

NDP Wants Second Pipeline

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government was urged Tuesday to build a second natural gas pipeline through Northern Ontario if Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will not.

Donald MacDonald, New Democratic Party leader, told the legislature that the Progressive Conservative government could both make money and develop the northern portion of the province by seeing that a second pipeline was built.

E. G. Freeman (NDP—Fort William) said conversion of the route through the U.S. would mean a loss of $750,000. Ontario Hydro has approved contracts for $1.50 a head.

2. Premier Robarts said Ontario construction of three major projects ,which will add 1,500,000 kilowatts to Hydro's generating capacity by 1973.

Largest of the three projects will be the doubling of Hydro's nuclear power station at Pickering to more than 2,000,000 kilowatts.

3. Amendments to the Police Act introduced by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart will permit the Ontario Police Commission to eliminate police forces in small communities Provincial police would take over policing in villages and small communities.

Conference Opens

LONDON (CP)—Topics ranging from the European Common Market to the Vietnam war were open for review when Prime Minister Wilson today addressed the first meeting of a new British-Canadian ministerial committee.

Wilson presided at the first closed session at 10 Downing St. before official opening speeches were made at an afternoon session at Marlborough House.

Tornado Victims Will Receive Help

HENSALL, Ont. (CP) — Victims of Monday's tornado, the worst to hit the area in 21 years, received some good news Tuesday when the Ontario government promised to match dollar - for - dollar the funds raised locally to rebuild property damaged or destroyed by the tornado.

Joseph Donnelly, an 80-year-old Dublin farmer, was fatally injured when the barn he and his son were working in collapsed. The son, Lou, 50, suffered minor injuries. Tuesday, hundreds of sight-seers in cars blocked narrow concession roads for miles.

There were no reported cases of looting anywhere in the wrecked area.

The tornado's erratic, zigzagging path narrowly missed all of the surrounding populated areas.

Hensall's main street was just a quarter of a mile north of the tornado path. The village school, from which about 200 children were leaving when it struck, was less than a hundred yards away.

As many as 40 barns and 20 houses were damaged or destroyed.

Several schools in the area remained closed Tuesday because of a power break caused when the tornado toppled hydro towers. Goderich, Clinton, Blyth, Walton and Bayfield were all affected by the blackout which began about 4 p.m. It was late Tuesday before full power was restored.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

You've got your passports to Expo. Now all you need is somewhere to stay in Montreal. But there are no rooms left, you've heard, and the prices are sky-high. Nonsense:

The Canadian Automobile Association, with which the OML is affiliated, has already made more than 30,000 reservations for its members. More important, reservations are still being made at the rate of hundreds a day and this motoring organization expects to continue making them throughout the period of Expo.

The secret lies in the planning started early in 1966 and blossomed into a fully - staffed accommodations bureau that was set up to serve the 11 million members of CAA and the American Automobile Association clubs.

As a basis the bureau has the CAA Eastern Canada tour book which contains a listing of all CAA approved hotels and motels in Montreal. All were re-inspected and rates were confirmed. All rates in the 1967-68 edition, which appeared in February, will remain as quoted throughout Expo.

Moreover, these approved accommodations represent the best in the city. The OML-Eastern Ontario Club admits that, particularly in the downtown areas, there are few vacancies available. Anticipating this situation, the CAA conducted an inspection program of apartments, trailer motels, private homes, as well as older hotels and motels. While none meets the standard required for CAA official appointments, they all have very satisfactory accommodations.

Now, what about those stories of sky-high rates? The OML-Eastern Ontario Club, after a survey of all types of accommodation, reports that while it's true that a few of the smaller hotels and motels have raised their rates as much as 25 per cent, the increase for most Montreal establishments has been about 20 per cent.

Lynn Hoselton, the club's domestic travel service manager, points out that the CAA does not govern rates.

"However," she adds, "we obviously have no intention of permitting our members to be victims of inordinately high prices."

Going rates are, private homes: single $6.50; double $8.14; three persons $10-18; four persons $12-22. Tourist homes: single $6.5, double $12-18.

Efficiency Apartments which include kitchen facilities and maid service: $18-24 for two persons plus $3 for each additional person.

In addition there's dormitory accommodation available at colleges and schools for $3-3. Camp sites run $2.50 to $3.50.

"Don't expect to get a room at any major downtown hotel," concluded Miss Hoselton, "they are booked solid and have been for months. But there's still plenty of other accommodation available — and at rates that most people can afford."

---

Your car could be seized if you're involved in an accident in Quebec, while visiting Expo, Toronto insurance agencies are warning their customers.

Quebec citizens can serve writs on persons damaging their property if they fear the damages won't be paid.

But outside motorists who carry their proof of financial responsibility certificates — issued when they take out insurance — have evidence Quebec courts accept as proof any liability will be made good.

Birthday Cake and Libby Morris Brighten Dull Mayfair Event

LONDON (CP) — An apparently self-propelled birthday cake and comedienne Libby Morris lit bright spots in a somewhat staid celebration of Canada's centennial at a lavish Mayfair ballroom Tuesday night.

The cake and the Winnipeg-born singer managed to rouse more than 1,000 Canadian and British celebrants — including somewhat bored - looking Princess Margaret — where much else in the dining, cabaret and crowded dancing seemed to fail.

The appearance of the 100-candle cake literally lighted up a program that for the most part failed to swing. The cake, three tiers tall and four feet across, rolled on a trolley between diners' tables right up to Princess Margaret, the guest-of-honor, without a hitch.

It was another success for Alan Whibley, a dedicated television special - effects man, who piloted the cake faultlessly from his hidden cockpit inside the trolley.

Libby Morris also succeeded in arousing the party with her best late-night exuberance, a string of songs and a command that the audience perk up and join in the fun.

The restrained celebrants seemed to take their cue from Margaret and husband Lord Snowdon, who respectively toyed with the ceremonial cake-cutting knife and poured over the printed program through much of the cabaret.

When dancing time arrived shortly after midnight—an hour behind schedule—the royal couple started off somewhat reluctantly, Snowdon gesturing for others to join in.

The centennial ball, a year in the planning, was the biggest gathering here of expatriate Canadians that could be recalled in London, although the crowd was liberally stiffened with Britons.

Toronto Auto Mechanic Prize-winning Director

TORONTO (CP)—A room at the back of a service station doesn't seem quite the right address for an award-winning maker of movies.

But that is where you find Julius Kobanyi, wearing a mechanic's smock covered with grit and grime. He is half hidden behind the hood of an old but immaculate sports car, on "My car," says Kobanyi proudly before launching into a detailed description of his Italian radial-ply tires, tuned exhaust system and cream paint job. He is installing a racing coil.

Three customers' cars are parked outside to be serviced.

"They will have to wait. I don't think I can do them today. I love this kind of work, but shoestring budgets to publicly-raised money—Teddy is paid for by $10,000 worth of $30 shares sold to persons living as far away as Winnipeg.

Now, Kobanyi and his producer, Victor Solnicki, are already raising money and planning for a bigger venture again — a full-length feature to cost about $100,000.

SENT FOR MENTAL TEST

ORILLIA (CP)—Cpl. Ray Jerome Micks, 36, of SCAP station, Trenton, charged with attempted murder in the shooting Saturday of his father-in-law, James Knight, 66, has been ordered to undergo a 30-day mental examination. Mr. Knight was shot in the stomach with a shotgun. He was in critical condition in hospital Tuesday.

Theory Moon Wrenched From Earth Is Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space satellites have gathered evidence that suggests revival of a long-abandoned theory that the moon was formed by being literally wrenched away from the leaving a still gaping "wound."

This was reported Tuesday by a U.S. Navy scientist who said the new evidence, showing regional earth gravity variations unrecognized before satellites started scanning, suggests this possibility:

That the moon was created by a violent eruption of matter from the area of the planet that now constitutes the lowlands of India, Turkestan, Siberia and China.

Researcher Ernst Schwidarski of the naval weapons laboratory, Dahlgren, Va., told about it in a report to the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Society.

He said some American satellites, in orbit at altitudes of 125 miles or so, alternately dip and rise slightly in response to changes in the earth's gravitational pull at different spots on the planet.

He declared these wiggles reflect "real regional changes in the earth's mass or density—with gravity's pull lessening in areas where the earth crust is relatively thin.

A specific area of Asia, especially at the southern tip of India, shows a notable deficiency of mass, compared with other areas of the world at similar or even greater geographic distribution. He indicated that forces exerted by the mascle underlying the earth's crust may play some role, but not enough to account for the entire deficiency.

"If you discount the mountains in the area then the Indian, Turkestan, Siberian, and Chinese . . . lowlands . . . make up a form a circular hole which reaches roughly the dimensions of the moon.

"Then one may be tempted to return to the abandoned theory of G. H. Darwin (son of the evolution theorist) that, perhaps the earth's natural satellite, the moon, may have once been ejected from here and left the earth behind it, with this tremendous wound which is still not closed."

He said the satellite evidence gives new support to the concept that crustal thickness variations, and many of the tectonic - caused changes in the earth's surface over the millennia are largely traceable to capricious currents in the earth's mantle.

The mantle is an area 1,800 miles deep, underlying the crust, which varies in depth from about three miles beneath oceans to about 20 beneath continents.

He said the satellite-grooping researchers the view that the mantle is fluid, rather than solid as some scientists believe.

Travelogue to Feature Views of the Bahamas

A most impressive travel - adventure motion picture "Wings to the Golden Bahamas" by James W. Metcalf will be next in the Belleville Kiwanis Club 16th annual Travel and Adventure Series which will be shown Thursday evening in the B.C.I.V.I. auditorium at 8.15 p.m.

Mr. Metcalf, a native of Michigan was educated to be a chemist. He attended the University of Michigan and earned his way through school in the field of photography. Shortly after leaving school he won a scholarship to the Professional School of Photography at Winona, Indiana. During the years he detail travelled extensively for the Army Ordinance Corps producing training films, after which he operated a commercial and portrait studio in Detroit. He has since produced a series of lecture films on various countries of the Western Hemisphere. Today he flies his own aircraft to his many lecture engagements and filming assignments.

Views will be shown beginning just 85 miles off the United States Mainland where 800 exotic tropical islands dot the Atlantic for an area of 4,400 square miles. Pirates, gold - laden galleons, conference pinshoots, and 1920 vintage rum runners are but a few of the characters that have peopled the Bahamas for over 300 years to add color, interest, to Ra fascinating bits of sea - bound real estate.

Jack Valenti Impresses Film Crowd With His Earnestness

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Said comedian Stan Freberg at a luncheon this industry banquet:

"I sleep a little better through movies, knowing that Jack Valenti is my president."

When Jack Valenti followed on the speaker's platform, he commented:

"Stan Freberg used to say he wanted to be a comedian in the worst way—and he succeeded!"

The exchange brought laughter from the industry listeners who have learned that Valenti can give as well as take. Now approaching the end of his first year as president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, he has impressed the film crowd with his earnestness.

Not that he has been totally successful in tidying up the disarray of the movie business. He still hasn't licked the thorny problem of how frank—and nude —movies should be.

"Here you are dealing with the freedom area of humans endeavor," he said. "We are doing the best we can, and I think that we have been right 95 per cent of the time."

Valenti came head-on to the issue early in his terms of office with Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Despite the fun-and-gooey dialogue, the film was approved, but with a new designation "suggested for mature audiences."

Two of his recent problems have been Michaelangelo Antonioni's Blowup and Otto Preminger's Hurry Sundown. The former was finally passed and is being released by an MGM subsidiary — a common device when the major companies can't get seals for their films. Hurry Sundown was approved, but for "mature audiences."

"Some of my staff were against passing Hurry Sundown, I myself finally made the decision to pass it, on the theory that the unsavory implications would pass over the heads of most of the audience."

Soviet Scientist Suggests Saucers May Be From Space

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist says there may really be such things as flying saucers from outer space.

Soviet radar screens have detected unidentified flying objects for 20 years, he says.

But Soviet scientists, like their colleagues in the West, are still puzzled about what such UFOs really are.

The scientist, identified only as F. Zigel, was writing in the current issue of the illustrated Soviet youth magazine Znanie.

He offered five possible explanations for UFOs, including visitors from outer space. He called this alternative "extremely speculative."

Zigel was identified as one of the editors of a book, Inhabited Cosmos, being prepared for publication here. The book will discuss the possibility of living beings in space and efforts to communicate with them.

In his magazine article, Zigel said the Angel Echo, a UFO detected by radar, is constantly observed by scientists at the Central Aerological Observatory near Moscow.

Similar observations, he said, have been made in the United States, Australia, India and Japan.

He rejected the idea that birds, insects or plant seeds could cause such reactions on radar screens.

Zigel said there could be no doubt that UFOs exist "but the nature of these objects is still not understandable today."

Then he listed these five possible explanations:

1. Nonsense or invention. He said there was some untruth here, citing reports of people who claimed to have ridden in flying saucers and others who threw hats in the air and then photographed "saucers." But he rejected this alternative as killing the question rather than solving it.

2. An optical illusion related to the distribution of light in the earth's atmosphere, such as a rainbow. The UFO, he said, is more complicated than that, however.

3. A new secret flying apparatus of one of the military powers on earth. "No one holds this view now," he said.

4. An unknown phenomenon of nature, just as radioactivity was unknown until the end of the last century. In this context, ionized particles and charged particles of dust in the atmosphere were given as a possible explanation. But, Zigel said, this does not explain the color or maneuverability of UFOs or the appearance as in good weather.

5. Space ships from an advanced civilization on another planet. Zigel said the speed of UFOs supports this theory. So does what he called "the fact" that no UFOs were ever reliably reported to have landed.

Zigel called for "an all-sided, thorough, scientific exploration" in order to solve the origin of UFOs once and for all.

Diplomatic Kid Gloves Are Used on de Gaulle

OTTAWA (CP) — The diplomatic kid gloves are much in evidence for President de Gaulle's visit to Canada this summer.

Government officials, still smarting from suggestions of a faux pas over recent ceremonies commemorating the battle of Vimy Ridge, are keeping quiet about reported plans by the French president to stop at Quebec City before visiting Ottawa.

An official at the special commission for state visits said plans were to have the visitors come to Ottawa as their first official stop wherever possible.

But it was noted that at least two will arrive in British Columbia and departures from the normal plan could be made when necessary to accommodate the visitors.

Quebec's Premier Daniel Johnson said Tuesday that Ottawa already has made four exceptions to the "rule" that foreign visitors must go to Ottawa first.

"... But now that President de Gaulle is involved there will be no exception," he added.

The premier said he thought Gen. de Gaulle should be "allowed" to stop in Quebec and that he could not see why there should be "such a bias and cry in the rest of Canada" on the question.

Federal officials say only the French president will arrive late in July.

Paris newspapers have reported that the general will leave France July 18 aboard the cruiser Colbert, stop at the French islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon off Newfoundland and arrive at Quebec City July 24.

Surveyor Sets Down In Crater

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor III's first blurred pictures hint it may be resting in a lunar crater older a gentle touchdown in an area astronauts may someday explore.

While the three-legged craft kept its moon-scratching claw retracted, spacecraft controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said photographs radioed during the 10 hours following the landing Wednesday showed less detail than those from Surveyor I last June. But they theorized this was due to sunlight reflected into the camera.

A spokesman said the horizon around the vehicle was about five degrees higher than it would be if Surveyor III had landed on a flat plain.

Diameter of the crater and the height of its rim were not known.

First operation of a scoop designed to extend from the spacecraft and dig in the lunar soil was scheduled for late tonight or early Friday. The shovel, on the end of a five-foot arm, can dig as deep as 18 inches, pick up small rocks, or hammer hard enough to break a brick.

The amount of power needed to move the shovel through the soil is expected to indicate if the surface is strong enough to support manned landing craft. Pictures taken after each of its jerky movements should show whether the soil is sandy or gravelly.

Queen To Speak On Lawn

OTTAWA (CP)—Weather permitting, the Queen will address an open air meeting of Parliament July 1 on the lawns in front of the Parliament Buildings.

The plan was revealed Wednesday at a briefing on arrangements for ceremonial visits to Canada by members of the royal family and foreign heads of state.

Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham, federal co-ordinator for the royal visits, said the Queen's Parliament Hill program will begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, July 1 and last until 11:45 a.m.

It will include a display of folk dancing, a religious service and addresses by the Speakers of the Senate and Commons in the Senate chamber.

If the weather is unsuitable, the Queen will address a joint sitting of the Senate and Commons in the Senate chamber.

Tragedy in Cyprus

128 Killed as Plane Struck by Lightning

NICOSIA, Cyprus (CP)—Rescuers collected 128 burned, broken bodies today on the slopes of a hillock where a chartered airliner crashed during a thunderstorm. The airline said two of four survivors died in hospital, bringing the total dead to 128.

In one of the worst crashes in aviation history, the four-engined turbo-prop Bristol Britannia airliner, known as the Whispering Giant, crashed near Nicosia during the night as it attempted to land. There were reports the plane had been hit by lightning.

Most of the dead were Germans and Swiss tourists returning from a trip to the Far East. The plane's crew included four Britons, all killed.

"This is the most terrible sight I've ever seen," said one of the first persons on the scene. "There are bodies all over the place, some of them in pieces."

The survivors were in the plane's tail section, the only part which remained somewhat intact.

"We kept hoping but all we could find apart from those lucky few in the tail were dead people," the rescuer said.

Greek and Cypriot policemen and soldiers, British airmen and UN peace force members worked in a downpour under spotlights beamed down by hovering UN helicopters.

The plane was flying from Bombay, India, to Cairo, Egypt, but was diverted to Nicosia because of bad weather.

The owner, Giovair of Switzerland, said it heard from the air control tower in Nicosia that the plane was struck by lightning and burst into flames.

Evidence at the scene indicated the plane hit a bump in the ground, then bounced a few hundred yards into the slope of a hillock less than 100 feet high.

Rescuers struggling to reach the crash scene were hampered by the deep mud of the hillside.

A helicopter directed fire engines and ambulances to the scene. Pieces of the wings and engines lay scattered in a square - mile area around the main sections of the broken fuselage.

The survivors, all young, were taken by helicopter to an Austrian field hospital. The hospital director said one man, a Swiss, was in "relatively good condition."

The other survivors were a Swiss air hostess, a German woman and a German man.

Globavair, a small Swiss charter firm, said the flight was organized jointly by the travel bureau of a Frankfurt, Germany, department store and a Swiss bureau in Zurich.

Nicosia Airport employees said the plane made one low run over the runway and then turned, apparently to make a second landing run, before it crashed.

Aviation's worst disaster was the collision of a United Airlines DC-8 jet and a Trans World Airlines supercontellation over Staten Island, New York, Dec. 16, 1960. It killed 134 persons, including six on the ground.

NATO Okays Ban on Spread Of Atomic Arms

PARIS Reuters — Fifteen NATO allies today approved a United States proposal for a draft East-West treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons, NATO sources said.

Approval came during three-hour discussion by the NATO permanent council, which met here today to resolve the allied stand on the nuclear control issue.

The proposed treaty also is backed by the Soviet Union. The last hurdle in NATO agreement was overcome Wednesday when the Bonn government decided not to oppose American plans to join Russia in the draft treaty.

West Germany was the most apprehensive of the allies about the treaty's inspection controls, but decided at the last minute not to oppose American plans.

Haiphong Power Plants Bombed by Navy Planes

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. Navy planes attacked thermal power plants slightly more than a mile from Haiphong today, the U.S. command announced. It was the closest raid so far to North Vietnam's major port and second-largest city.

A U.S. spokesman said two power plants were hit by planes from the U.S. carrier Kitty Hawk just before noon. One plant was located 1.1 miles from Haiphong, the other 2.1 miles from the port city.

Wednesday American pilots flew through the heaviest defences ever thrown up by the Communists to attack an army camp southeast of Hanoi.

In 17 aerial dogfights over North Vietnam's heartland, the U.S. pilots downed one Communist MIG and probably got four more, the U.S. command said. The closest previous raids to Haiphong were last June 29, when U.S. planes bombed an oil depot two miles from the city. The same day they hit an oil depot three miles from Hanoi.

The raids today on Haiphong's outskirts must have had approval from Washington and possibly from President Johnson himself. All raids within a 10-mile radius of the port city have to be cleared by Washington.

Green Berets Sent To Bolivia -- Castro

HAVANA (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro charged Wednesday night that the U.S. government, in a panic over revolutionary activity in Bolivia, Guatemala, Colombia and Venezuela, has sent in 1,000 Special Forces troops.

He said U.S. special forces are pouring into Bolivia from Panama disguised as tourists. But he said the lesson of Vietnam was that imperialists have been unable to destroy revolution.

For every Green Beret the imperialists send, revolutionary movements will answer with Red Berets," the Communist leader declared in a two-hour speech celebrating the 10th anniversary of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

"The only road for the people of Latin America is that revolution has started this very day," Castro called the summit conference of Western Hemisphere presidents at Punta del Este next week "a tremendous failure." The conference's plans for a Latin American Common Market were a U.S. plot to get more raw materials at cheaper prices, he charged.

'Preventive Detention' Advocated in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean-Paul Gilbert, director of the Montreal police department, Wednesday recommended that Canada adopt a French legal system whereby judges preside over the interrogation of accused persons before formal court proceedings are started.

Mr. Gilbert also said that "preventive detention" is a sign of the times and a vital need in a forward-moving province to protect the public from the possibly harmful effects of demonstrations.

He was addressing a continuing royal commission inquiry into the administration of justice in Quebec.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Gilbert told the commission Quebec is experiencing something called "a quiet revolution" but, he said, there is a fringe that doesn't want it to be quiet.

"It wants violence."

Preventive detention — the temporary removal of ringleaders to avert an impending crisis or riot—was not necessary a few years ago.

But today it is, he said, even though it means subordinating individual freedom to the general welfare.

Compensation Board Hospital Shoddily Built Says Shulman

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, testified Wednesday night that the Workmen's Compensation Board hospital in suburban North York was a shoddily built institution with no working fire alarms, lucky among its staff and drunkenness among the patients.

Dr. Shulman was testifying at an inquest into the death of Francesco Gualtieri, 36, who died in a fire at the hospital March 30.

Dr. Shulman said testimony from a former fireman, a heating inspector, a construction man and from patients would support his description of the hospital. He gave their names in his testimony.

Dr. Eli Cass, the coroner, adjourned the inquest to May 29 after hearing Dr. Shulman's testimony.

Jurors toured the hospital building before the hearing was adjourned.

Ontario's supervising coroner, Dr. H. B. Cohoon, ordered April 5 that the inquest into the Gualtieri death be postponed, but Dr. Shulman insisted that it go on.

Two days later, Dr. Shulman was fired by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart. Dr. Shulman charged in reply that the government was covering up evidence, and a judicial inquiry was ordered later by Premier John Roberts.

Dr. Shulman Wednesday night suggested the names of witnesses who should be subpoenaed when the hearing resumes:

First, Fred Jackson, a former construction man "who will testify that fire dampers at the hospital had not worked since the hospital was built."

Secondly, Mr. Samuel Bennett, 4 building and heating inspector of Brampton, "who will testify that unsafe construction methods were used at the WCB hospital, including hollow-core doors, improper burrows, excessive glass partitions, too-narrow exit doors and probably no fire dampers where needed."

Thirdly, Mr. D. A. Dunlop of Lindsay, a retired special inspector of hospitals and a retired platoon chief of the Toronto fire department, "who will testify that the Ontario government failed to appoint fire inspectors for the hospital as required under the Ontario Hospitals Act."

Fourthly, Mr. Orval Subject "who will testify that there was no working fire alarm or sprinkler system on the night of the fire."

Dr. Shulman said he would go on to name seven persons who had informed him they would give evidence regarding laxity within the hospital itself, and drunkenness among the patients.

Picton Teachers Get $1,000 Hike

PICTON — Picton has put an end to the competitive basis with surrounding public school areas by sharply increasing teachers' wages.

Carl Reid, supervising principal of Picton's three public schools says that there will be an across-the-board increase of $1,000.

A beginner just out of teachers' colleges will now get $4,500. A teacher with 11 years' experience and a degree will start at $9,000.

Board of education manage-committee chairman Dr. George Powers noted that formerly the central township school area could attract better teachers than Picton since it could offer higher salaries based on larger assessments.

Prior to the amalgamation of the other school boards, Picton was in a favored position in the county.

Still to be negotiated are salaries for music teachers and custodial staff.

The new agreement retains the same annual increment factor of $300 to $300 depending on experience ,but the increment does not apply this year.

Pistol-Packing Major !

House of Concord Missing Link In Chain of Social Stability

A gun-toting major came to town last night arming only at an after-dinner speech.

But his quiet, verbal shots revealed a missing link in the anchor chain of social stability.

Salvation Army Major Archie MacCorquodale is superintendent of the Toronto Concord.

That's the rehabilitation centre for problem youth in Toronto run by the Salvation Army.

It has to be. For, as its superintendent explained last night in a speech to the Belleville Sirdar Club, Ontario has no similar social agency to handle such cases.

And, to emphasize the fact that Concord indeed is no collection of limp minds, the major produced a vicious little arsenal of weapons taken from its inmates.

These ranged from a homemade blackjack to a heavy-calibre automatic pistol, with an assortment of daggers, knuckledusters and even a butcher's hatchet, thrown in for good measure.

But, the last they are without ownership makes them symbols of Concord's success.

The Salvation Army Concord was founded in 1950 to help convicted youths between 16 and 20 years whom the courts deemed insufficiently delinquent for prison institutions.

These usually include young offenders whose social hostility was considered a product of labor-camp cooking, grinding and school courses in grades 9-10.

Significantly, claims the major, the school courses now dominate service station classes.

However, Major MacCorquodale readily admits the program is not 100-per-cent successful.

"We have a loss — about 30 per cent of those who come to us do not go through and finish the course."

IN MEMORIAM

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away April 20, 1956.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, free and warm,
To have and hold once more her smile.
And hear at my door
But all I can do, dear mother,
Is go and lay flowers on your grave
And leave behind tokens of love,
Which memories could never make.
I like to think you're not far away,
Wherever you may be,
And that you're always with me
Up there to welcome me,
Sadly missed and remembered by daughter Beverley and family.

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away April 20, 1956.
There's a silent place in each one's heart
A smile we'll remember forever,
A voice we'll always treasure,
And
There's one but sweet remembrance,
Each day.
There's memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, too,
And heartache still for you.
Sadly missed and remembered by husband John.

Construction and leasing arrangements for the building were completed through the offices of Dr. J. Whalen Real Estate Ltd.

Several unsuccessful attempts and as many different plans have been forwarded for reconstruction of Front Street area since the West Robertson Block was destroyed by fire more than two years ago.

Destroyed in the fire was the Latimer Shoe Store, Sam's Men's Wear, T. E. Schwab's stationary store, Georgia Salon and the Reward Shoe Store.

Reports are that the Reward Shoe store will be eventually rebuilt on the east lot, leaving only the central area unoccupied. This central area is now being used as an entrance and exit for the off street parking area south of the footbridge.

Interesting Things to See at Fair

By CHRISTOPHER ALMEY
(Staff Reporter)

Will there be a corpse on display at the Science Fair Hobby Show being held in the Belleville Armouries this weekend?

One student is going to have an exhibit on cryobiology . . . a study of the possibility of freezing human bodies!

The event is sponsored by the Rotary Club. Times are 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday. Students will be admitted free from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday only.

There will be some special events of considerable interest as well.

One will be able to match wits with a highly sensitive telephone switching equipment in the game of Tic Tac Toe. The equipment has never lost, Bell Canada says.

Another interesting feature will be the regular daily strength testing of blocks and concrete samples from the prestressing facility by Wilson Concrete Products. Their 200-ton hydraulic compression tester will put these items right before your eyes.

This year, the RCAF's 6 Repair Depot will be displaying Facsimile Equipment originally built during World War II. This electronic equipment, a military version of what used to be referred to as a wirephoto in newspaper circles, transmits a copy of a picture over telephone lines. Usually, this machine is used to transmit weather maps.

Northern Electric will display the workings of a logic data processor. This is the new electronic switching system for telephone exchanges, the first of which is being installed in Montreal, and is expected to be in universal use by the year 2,000.

Also under special events, some William Tell or Robin Hood types will be on hand. They won't be shooting apples from your head or robbing you, but they will be demonstrating some mighty fine archery.

Some of the other science exhibits will be a nuclear reactor simulator, the effect of high frequency sound on living cells, the learning rate of rats under certain various physical conditions, and an electronic combination lock. There will be 35 displays in area students in total.

Fifty hobbyists or clubs will add to the flavor of things.

Outstanding nature photographer Jack Austin of Wooler has consented to come. He is the Grey Wolf of the bird world, spending many hours in capture feathered friends on film.

For the first time, Belleville's internationally known Charles Dueaberry will show his complete set of all river and pond ducks native to North America. He has spent a lifetime, studying, carving and painting his lifelike replicas.

New Block Will Be Built On Burned-out Front St. Site

A first actual move to begin reconstruction in the former West Robertson block burned out area on Front Street, was underway this morning with excavation commencing for a new $75,000 shop and office building.

Scheduled for construction is a two-storey office building on the site formerly occupied by Lattimer's Drug Store. The storeowners are Michael, Lawrence and Carmen Guerrera, jewellery beauty salon operators.

Dimensions of the new structure will be 23 feet in frontage with a depth of 120 feet. Maurice H. Rollins Construction Company of Belleville will erect the building. Completion is expected in mid August.

Current plans call for the Guerreras to operate a modern beauty salon in the rear section of the first floor with a local finance company having leased the front section of the building. It is expected the second floor will be occupied by the legal profession.

Driver Stuck Head Out, Fined $10

James Rivers of Victoria St., Tweed, must his head out and it cost him $10 today.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county court board evidence that on March 29 an O.P.P. officer saw Rivers driving with his head out the side window. All the glass was covered with frost.

The officer said that Rivers complained he would be able to see in a short time. The case was heard in absentia.

Second Liquor Store Will Be Opened

Belleville's second liquor store will beopened sometime in June by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

The new outlet will be located in the main mall of the Belleville Shopping Plaza and will serve the large urban east end area.

Negotiations between the LCBO and owners of the site have now been completed and renovations of the proposed store area are to begin immediately, Clarke T. Rollins, MPP Hastings East revealed today.

Establishment of a liquor sales outlet was first approved by plebiscite among east end residents in November, 1965.

The vote in favor was 2,200 against 875.

Cable Television Will Soon Start Construction in Trenton

Cable Television is coming to Trenton.

Officials of Cablevue Belleville Ltd. now serving hundreds of customers in Belleville, announced yesterday that Cablevue would commence construction this summer in the town of Trenton and that by early fall it was hoped the first service would go into operation.

Dr. G. A. Morton, president of Cablevue, said that approximately 45 miles of distribution cable would be strung in four Trenton areas and that customers would receive interference free reception from nine set-TV channels and five FM stations.

Television Channels to be received are WBEN channel 4 Buffalo; CBLT channel 6 Toronto; WWNY channel 7 Watertown; CFTO channel 9 Toronto; WHEC channel 10 Rochester; CKWS channel 11 Kingston; CHEX channel 12 Peterborough; and WOKR channel 13 Rochester.

The signals for Trenton Cablevue will' come 'from the firm's present 200 foot high H-Tower on the 4th concession of Sidney township west of Wallbridge to which is affixed a total of 49 individual antennae for picking up reception from the nine channels.

The signals will be carried by transmission cable down the Wallbridge Road and across the CN double track, then along the Jones Creek sideroad to No. 2 highway and west to Trenton.

Bell Telephone workmen will string the cable along Trenton streets with Cablevue installers doing the actual house installations.

The most modern type transistorized equipment is being used in the installation. Insulated cable ranging down from three quarters of an inch in diameter is used for signal transmission with a small wire less than the size of a lead pencil being used for the actual house leads.

Cablevue gives perfect picture clarity in, both black and white and in color with reception being free of ghosts, shadows and snow.

And that unsightly antenna on the roof is no longer necessary..

Jack Ireland Heads PC Assoc. For Federal Riding of Hastings

MADOC — A Belleville merchant last night defeated Alderman Dr. J. Russell Scott for the presidency of the Progressive Conservative Association in the new federal riding of Hastings.

Winner of the contest which saw about 400 delegates voting by ballot in the armoury here was Jack Ireland, veteran organizer in Quinte-district Conservative politics.

The Conservatives are the first political party to regroup their organization in the new constituency, created by redistribution.

Covering an area from Belleville to the northern limits of Hastings County, the new riding mainly succeeds Hastings-South and part of Hastings-Frontenac in the new electoral distribution.

Its main population centre is Belleville, which sent nearly half the delegates to last night's meeting.

Other officers named to the new executive were: Raymond G. Gunsolus, secretary; Barton Haggerty, treasurer; Jack Spence, auditor; Carl Bateman, chairman of finance; Gerald Joyce, public relations.

A total of eight vice-presidents will represent important voting units throughout the riding.

They are: R. Hawley, Bancroft; Thomas Burnside, Madoc; Mrs. Reds. Grey, Belleville; George Fox, Marmora township; Mrs. Audrey Sexsmith, Bancroft; Ait Wickett, Thurlow; Arthur McCready, Tweed and Mrs. Allen Frankis, Madoc.

Leading Conservative politicians were among those formally approved as honorary presidents of the new association.

They are Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker; Treasury John Robarts; Senator George White and Elmer Sandercock.

Others named were John Wesne, Dorothy Tugwell, Stanley Hatton, Bertha Atkins, Harold Vardy, Clarence Graham, Verne McEttrray, George Welch and J. Maxwell.

Per Capita Grants Increased

TRENTON — The town's unconditional per capita grants from the provincial department of municipal affairs have been increased.

The grants, which are taken into general revenue and partially account for residential mill rates being lower than commercial, will be raised in 1967 from $3.75 to $5.25 per capita.

This increase the overall unconditional subsidy to $92,000 for the year, a jump of $20,000.

The Ontario Legislature this year has approved additional grants.

Marmora Art Festival Attracts Large Crowd

MARMORA — Gordon Bennett, bearded chairman of Marmora Centennial Committee responsible for the idea, welcomed artists and others, who admired the work of 31 amateur artists of the mining village and township of Marmora and tourist area of Crowe Lake.

Oils, pastels and water colors were among the 162 art exhibits. The display was in the town hall.

Highlighting the showing was a demonstration by artist Jim Winter of Toronto. Mr. Winter studied under LeMoine Fitzgerald at the Winnipeg School of Art, is a member of the Royal Canadian Academy and has exhibited in many exhibitions throughout Canada, U.S.A. and Australia. He has painted murals for the National Gallery and teaches amateur classes through the art-ists' workshop in Toronto.

In his demonstration Mr. Winter said one has to be generous with colors — each color has a different value, which becomes a sort of key board. He said "only amateurs buy expensive canvas."

He said "only amateurs buy expensive canvas."

He said "only amateurs buy expensive canvas," and recommended a coat of white shellac on cheap paper "so you learn to like the texture of your materials, thus creating a free swing to the figures. If painting is to be fun, it should always be lively over complexity, in comparison with the violin or French horn."

He said painting should be exciting, and bore this out, when with a few strokes, he had depicted bows on a dock, a ballet dancer in beautiful shade and a seven scene of water, sky and distant hills.

Mrs. Winter was introduced by Warden William Shannon, reeve of Marmora village.

Prizes, each of centennial spoons, were presented by Mr. Winter for exhibits in the following originality. Winners were Mrs. Alma Rogers, Marmora, for a painting of the town hall of the first Marmora church, Mrs. Florence McKeown, senior citizen, for her depiction of the collection of apples, Ron Gray, Marmora student, for pruning stock and Mrs. Sylvia Martin, Marmora, for a landscape.

Serving tea and cookies throughout the evening were centennial chins were Mrs. H. Mainer, Mrs. Jack Jones and Jack Jones and Mrs. Ray Bedner. Mrs. Ritchie Wells did a flourishing business in pies and cook books. As the show neared Mr. and Mrs. A. Lorenson and Mrs. J. C. Mckleljohn.

Annexation Application Approved

TRENTON — Ontario Municipal Board approval of Trenton's application to annex 8.64 acres of Murray Township land may lead to a remedy for one glaring instance of Bay of Quinte pollution.

Included in the property concerned is that occupied by Knox Cafeteria of Canada Ltd., located at the town's westerly boundary.

Both company and municipal officials had agreed in recent years that the discharging of waste material into the bay from the plant was becoming an acute problem.

When it became obvious that it would be virtually impossible for the township to supply the plant with sewer services, efforts to connect the installation failed.

'Instant' Anything Spells Disaster to Stable Cabinet

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It is going on three years since the "Youth Wave," as they called it, swept in on all those old greybeards of Prime Minister Pearson's Cabinet.

And nothing much, really, has happened.

Except that the new Justice Minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau has put on a pair of black laced shoes, a shockingly conservative navy blue business suit, a white shirt and dark blue four-in-hand tie.

Looks like just about anybody else now.

Justice Minister Trudeau and his new fellow Cabinet freshmen, John Turner, and John Joseph Jacques Chretien, were the "Swingers" of what was politically advertised as the bright "New Era" in fusty old Liberalism.

You might have thought, from listening to all the wonderful word-noises about that "Swinger" were supposed to do, that the Cabinet was a collection of Old Age Pensioners when, in fact, the Prime Minister doesn't reach 70 until Sunday.

As it seems to be working out, there is less swinging now than when the new Justice Minister, in sandals, open-throat sport shirt with gay ascot tie, and stove-pipe-style slacks, was giving a new and different look to the Prime Minister's office and Mr. Pearson's Parliamentary Secretary.

Nothing apparently slows down a "Swinger" like having to get into shoes, shirt and suit.

Nothing except perhaps the realization that it takes time, and more important, the know-how that comes with time, to get things done.

Those 18 months since his election to the Commons and for a long time before that in his native province, Quebec, Pierre Elliott Trudeau was talking about constitutional reform, and its urgent need, as the subject he'd like to put it, of "getting with it."

So the Prime Minister gave him the Justice Department, which makes constitutional reform his baby.

And his friends and supporters credited that now there would be instant action.

But when they asked the new conservatively - attired Justice Minister about it in the Commons, he immediately, because as much the conformist in his Cabinet posture as he so suddenly had in his dress, said he would have to take a long hard look at it. He must be in no hurry. He would have to study it, to listen and learn, to confer and consult.

Whereas Prime Minister, Paul Martin, Jack Pickersgill, and other old Cabinet hands beamed.

The new recruit was learning fast.

In the high altitude levels of federal responsibility there is instant nothing.

THE REASON WHY

It just might have been the Prime Minister himself who slowed down Pierre Elliott Trudeau, informing him not so gently — and in public — that swinging is not for Cabinet.

For when he trotted in his new Justice Minister to the press conference at which he announced Cabinet appointments, the PM grinned that he had heard somebody say Pierre Elliott Trudeau would have to make instant circle of power "because today he's wearing a tie."

Whereas, when he left a bode erected, and there were chuckles all round.

Is the Youth Wave" is not going to take over, although there are many others like John Turner, Jean Joseph-Jacques Chretien and Pierre Elliott Trudeau who are changing at the old and relishing out loud the PM would hurry and get rid of all those old codgers in the Cabinet.

It is not going to happen because what the younger generation in the Commons is great on what it calls "reform" and what the Prime Minister proves not so long ago himself "the new politics," he, better than anyone else, knows how urgently this administration needs the old golfers of the Cabinet to keep it parliamentary sane.

It was just like Transport Minister Pickersgill said — in speaking from what he said the other day was "an absolute association with three Prime Ministers" — "reformers" and Bright Young Men — that Harry are just dandy, but what a Cabinet needs most are ministers with "what most essential quality of all," the know-how to do the day-to-day business of the country without a hitch.

And that was why, said Pick, the new "Youth Wave" didn't—as the TV commercials put it — "wash that old Cabinet grey away."

Beyond Expo

Rome was not built in a day. Nor was Expo 67 — the fruits of man's creative genius in 70 countries of the world — which took four years.

And while Rome and such eloquent tributes to its early citizenry as the Colosseum still stand as monuments to mankind, Expo — we are reminded — is but a passing phase in the onward march of events. True, the inventiveness it represents, and the business it generates are investments in the future and contain the seeds of further progress. Essentially though, while we all take pride in what is about to enfold in Montreal, six months hence it will be over. And then it will be somebody else's turn. The Japanese, to be precise.

Japan is preparing for Expo 70, on an 815-acre site in the Senri Hills near Osaka, the country's second largest city and important business centre.

Invitations have already been sent to potential exhibitors and promotion of the event is under way. Japan Air Lines for example carries the legend "Expo '70" on the tail section of its planes.

Like Canada, Japan is a country of the future. It is the business giant of the Orient — a symbol of progress and stability close to the uncertainty and restlessness of mainland Asia.

Canada's moment of truth is about to dawn, when its own wealth and creativeness in a host of spheres, and the products and artistic endeavor of more than three score competing countries will be presented to visiting millions.

Canada now . . . Japan tomorrow. From 1967 to 1970. It is good that we are leading the world today in such a peaceful and progressive endeavor, and that Japan, which has put away the warlike aspirations of a few years ago, will carry the torch when the exhibition here is over.

Mr. Michener

From the heat of New Delhi to the cool spring days of ceremonial in Ottawa — all in the space of a week. That has been the experience of Governor-General Roland Michener and Mrs. Michener.

Observing a man like Mr. Michener and bearing in mind he is 67, younger men who feel the years are catching up with them can take heart. His predecessor, General Georges Vanier, was active into his late seventies and of course there are those hardy perennials, Prime Minister Pearson, 69, and Opposition leader Diefenbaker, 70.

For all the rigors of their political lives age does not weary such stalwarts.

Consider the task of moving alone, from one country to another. For men in Mr. Michener's position, house staffs of course are there to facilitate such a move. And a Yukon aircraft of Transport Command took care of the actual transportation. But even a High Commissioner has personal effects, mementos and so on of years in a foreign land. Even in his position must take care of at least some of the sorting and packing. The same goes for wives of diplomats.

Anyway, there was Mr. Michener, looking fit and well at the greeting-in-ceremony in Ottawa the other day. The only clue he gave to the jet-age swiftness with which he had made the transition from India to Ottawa, by way of London and an audience with the Queen, was his comment that he felt as though he had run all the way back from New Delhi and was feeling somewhat out of breath.

But not for long. Even amid the manifold responsibilities and affairs of state that he now faces, Mr. Michener says he still hopes to find time to indulge a favorite sport — tennis — and to play the piano.

Plain Speaking

The British have a knack of speaking their mind without fear or favor.

Wasn't it Lord Palmerston in an earlier time who demolished a rival with the comment: "I don't know your face but your manners are familiar."

And Jeremy Thorpe, Liberal leader at Westminster, who said recently that the House of Lords "proves there is a life after death."

I have always been able to say my piece," Mr. Thorpe has been quoted as saying.

On the distaff side, too, there are some formidable exponents of the biting word — Lady Evelyn Sharp, a former British deputy cabinet minister, is one. She told an Ottawa audience the other day that women whose children have grown up should be encouraged to enter the civil service.

Of Canada's royal commission on women, Lady Sharp said: "It won't solve the problem of employers not hiring women simply because they are women."

Then she added: "The solution to that problem is for women to damn well go out and get the jobs."

Understand the message ladies?

Working Women

Letter in The Globe and Mail

I was interested but not surprised when watching The Public Eye program on the equality of women to note that the approach was, as usual, coy and not too searching.

In all the discussions I have encountered on the subject nobody has raised the point that women are just as varied in their outlooks, interests and capacities as men. To say that all women, when they marry, should stay home and be happy housewives is as ridiculous as expecting that all men, once married, should be contented bank clerks. Some are suited for it and some are not, and a love of housework should not be a predicate for marriage.

Once a woman's children are old enough to need her full-time presence in the home she should be free to make a choice as to whether she will remain at home all day, or take outside work. Criticism of her choice in this case is inexcusable interference.

The other point I would like to raise is this: there is a widespread feeling that a woman who goes to work for other than sheer financial necessity should not be paid as much as a man who is working to provide for himself and his family. This argument carries a certain conviction but if it were valid the bachelor who supports only himself should also be paid less than the family man. I have never heard this suggested.

Brain Drain In Africa

Milwaukee Journal

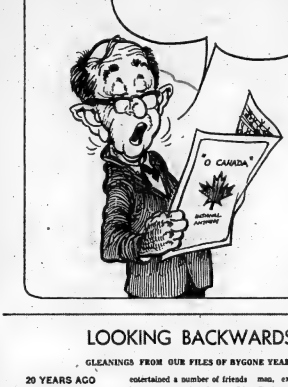
Students of many underdeveloped countries go abroad to receive educations and then refuse to go home. It's part of the "brain drain" problem. Another problem is that, once educated, many students do not use their new techniques and training when they return home.



An African expert lecturing at a midwestern university got to be a conversation with one of his students, a student from a small and newly independent African country who had just been graduated from medical school. The conversation went like this:

"Are you going home?"

"Of course."

"Wonderful! Last time I checked, your country had just two native born doctors. You'll increase the corps by 50 per cent. — and your work can be vital."

"Oh," protested the medical graduate, "I'm not going to practice. With my education I'm going into politics."

More Uprisings?

Guevara Legend Is Revived by Havana Statement

By KEN PRITCHARD

Hard on the heels of last week's Latin American summit conference, Ernesto (Che) Guevara has emerged by way of the printed word to put an exclamation point to the decisions made at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

In Havana Sunday, a Communist organization born at a three-continent conference of revolutionaries 13 months ago, distributed a pamphlet containing a 5,000-word message allegedly from the Argentine-born guerrilla expert, urging world revolution against imperialism.

The pamphlet contained apparently-recent photographs of Dr. Guevara—he's a physician but seldom has worked at the profession—but did little to clear up the mystery of where he has been and what he has been doing for the last two years.

Guevara was one of the small band of guerrillas who trained in Mexico with Dr. Castro brothers, Fidel and Raul, and invaded Cuba in 1956. He soldered Batista in triumph two years later with Premier Fidel, who gave him Cuban citizenship and made him economic czar.

But Che—a name that in Argentine slang means "Hey Mac" —was a disaster as an economist. Soviet advisers to Castro complained for years that Che—he signed Cuba's banknotes with the name—was to blame for b - gling and waste.

The cigar - smoking, bearded physician was last seen in Havana in March, 1965, about the time Castro began having differences of opinion with Communist China over aid.

Guevara has been reported since then in Latin America, in Vietnam and dead. He was reported recently to be leading Communist guerrillas in Bolivia, but Bolivian officials discounted it.

The message released Sunday called for "two or three Vietnams" in the Western Hemisphere. It added:

"New uprisings shall take place in those areas where countries still have a wide gap between the underprivileged masses, although a little progress has been detected in creating a responsible middle class.

"The underprivileged are the recruiting ground for revolutions. The mere invoking of revolutionist Che Guevara's name in Latin American context should be a reminder of the urgent need for massive social and political transformations.

The Garden—An Act of Love

Hartford (Conn.) Courant

Rarely is the act of loving rewarded as dramatically as it is when flowering plants burst into bloom. The cyclical revelation of luminous beauty, unfolding from bud to bloom, exists for no reason other than to be beautiful, to become fully what it always was. The sight must fill its beholder with wonder, joy and contentment.

People who work in the gardens they love find for themselves a relationship to new planet that they could never achieve through the intellect's philosophies. The garden is a prime source for revelations. Making a small island of beauty — in a window box or on a hillside — can be an affirmation of faith in yourself, in God, and in the premise that the only thing we truly have is that which we share.

It is impossible to pass a garden without feeling a surge of gratitude to that stranger to you who stands barefoot behind it. A circle of tulips, a bed of poppies, a pot of geraniums all satisfy you on behalf of the unmet friend who loosened the soil mixed the loam, planted the seed . . . the bulb . . . then watered the thirsty roots, plucked off the hungry insect and kept back the encroaching tangleweed. An act of sharing unparalleled . . .

There is nothing more touching than a tiny child in a gardenware for the first time that each blossom is a miracle; unaware that the pleasure of seeing the blooms in their maturity is akin to watching a child grow to similar blossoming maturity. That pleasure will be theirs when they have grown and can watch children of their own bending over a flower, discovering its delicate secrets and inhaling its perfume for the first fully aware time.

City children, who may never see flowers growing in their natural environment, are deprived of that part of the soul that responds to the interlocking nature of all living things. To the child who plants a seed, watches the first shoots push up through the sun-warmed earth, waters and cares for it until the frail stem can support its growing burden of beauty, a shattering simple truth is revealed.

The great secret of nature is simply: All living things thrive on love and care. It is the kind of secret that informs life and gives it meaning. It is that feeling for life that moves so many to attend lovingly to the fleeting, perishable, momentary thing a garden is.

B.C. Leader Flays Pearson

Vancouver Sun

Premier Bennett's hysterical abuse of the prime minister of Canada leaves a bad taste in the mouth. Even had Mr. Bennett been right in his figures — and this is not easy to believe — he chooses an unpleasant and undignified time in trying to set the record straight. The people of British Columbia do not lack intelligence if they expect reasoned debate from their public men.

Mr. Pearson, when he was in Vancouver recently, made a appeal against separatism in all its forms and wherever it shows itself (which it not always and solely in Quebec). His remarks were not jingoistic or in his countrymen will concur. At this great year of celebration in that nation is greater than its parts, singly or all together.

This is a proposition to which Mr. Bennett himself has paid tribute from time to time — but is something that has to be suggested in deeds, as well as words. It is difficult, no doubt, for Mr. Bennett to see it in others—to discover just where Mr. Bennett and his government stand; they are such many conflicting statements. To quote the Victoria Times of April 3:

"It was only recently, in an interview with a British nationwide publicity, that Premier Bennett had the effrontery to suggest that 'if Quebec goes out of Confederation I'd try to hold it in. but I don't know if I could'. He also threatened that 'some day . . . we'll say we don't need Ottawa and Canada either'."

Surely most British Columbians were astonished to hear Mr. Bennett talking that way. Surely they love their province they would, almost one-and-all, be prepared to say that they were Canadians first. They will not recall Mr. Bennett's having asked for or received a mandate to talk like this. Nor any of his ministers, several of whom, as The Sun has pointed out before, make a point of baiting Ottawa, exaggerating differences between B.C. and Canada, and implying that this province could do much better on its own or as a satellite of the U.S.

No Domestic Demand

Dogfish Shark May Be Through as Export Item

VANCOUVER (CP)— The demands of German beer drinkers and English fish - and - chips lovers will determine whether the dogfish will survive as Canada's latest export.

So far a federal subsidy—the fisheries department calls it a "market assistance plan"—has kept Canadian shark meat in the German and English markets in small quantities.

A pilot program in which Ottawa provided an 11 - cent - a - pound subsidy to five West Coast fishing companies for processing and selling Pacific dogfish to Europe ended two weeks ago.

A fisheries department spokesman said Wednesday the government is considering whether to continue the program in the next November-to-March shark fishing season. But he said its ultimate success as a foreign money-maker depends on demand.

There is little domestic demand for dogfish, though some stores do stock Japanese canned shark. But smoked dogfish "belly flaps," the tender belly portion of the boneless shark, are a delicacy in German beer halls and fetch 32 cents a pound. England pays 18 to 18 cents a pound for whole dogfish, used in fish-and-chips.

The problem facing Canada is that Norway supplies much of the European demand at current prices; and at those prices Canadian fishermen cannot compete without a subsidy.

Officials added, however, that the Norwegian shark catch has been declining lately and this could push the price, since the German demand at least appears unabated.

Those pushing the pilot project on the West Coast insist the dogfish is a tasty morsel despite its ugly appearance. It rows of razor-like teeth and scavenger skin so rough that some fishermen have worn out five pairs of gloves a week skinning the shark.

Blake Campbell, fisheries department official in charge of the dogfish program here, said he considers the dogfish edible, though somewhat bland.

He said the federal program has another purpose besides finding new markets. It will help cut down the mushrooming dogfish population.

Though largely a scavenger, the dogfish will attack and devour valuable salmon and herring. Dogfish, one of 10 species of shark found off the B.C. coast, attack in a knight of about five feet and frequently swarm in packs, eating salmon caught in fishermen's nets.

Mr. Campbell said about 700 tons of dogfish and belly flaps were processed during the 1986-87 program.

Studies have shown the west coast could yield 20,000 tons of dogfish annually, he said.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said in Belleville today that was the equivalent of an accident. Crown counsel R. L. Graham said it could have been a disaster. Flindall was fined $125 or 21 days for impaired driving.

New Betting Booth Will Be Built

The Quinte Riding and Driving Club which each summer stages harness racing meets in Belleville, Fairgrounds track, plan making things a bit more convenient for the bettors.

Planned is the construction of a new betting booth at least 48 feet long and 12 feet wide which will be built in the same general area as the present booth. The present booth is owned by the fair board and will remain.

Driving club officials say the new betting booth is compulsory under racing commission rules.

Also planned by the driving club is application of another 200 tons of rock dust on the racing track and the erection of a tote or odds board 12 by 8 feet on the infield apps opposite the grandstand.

Rowntree Says Ontario Welcomes Investment

TORONTO (CP) —Leslie Rowntree, Ontario's minister of financial and commercial affairs, said Wednesday that foreign investment should be welcomed in Canada.

Mr. Rowntree told the Kingsway chapter, Association of Professional Engineers, that the Ontario government views "with alarm those who tend to make a whipping boy out of foreign —and particularly American — investment in our country and our province.

"And I personally think that it is regrettable that the attitude of the federal government has created such confusion with respect to Canada's position to our good neighbors to the south.

"We cannot improve our capacity and our productivity without a high rate of increase in business investment."

"And, if we are realistic and honest with ourselves, we will recognize that both our insurance capacity and our financial market — strong though they may be — are insufficient to meet our needs if we are to sustain our current growth rate."

"As for manufacturing, most of the foreign ownership is in Ontario and it is difficult to see how it has been detrimental to this province."

The text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Bankrupt Firm Got Loan Before It Was Incorporated

TORONTO (CP)—Five weeks before Beifield Investments Ltd. was granted letters patent as an incorporated company, it applied for and received a loan of $925,000 from Hillcrest Mortgage and Trust Co. of Stratford, Ont., a royal commission was told Wednesday.

Hugh Walker, commission accountant, was testifying before Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes, the royal commissioner examining the June, 1965, collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. It has been disclosed that British Mortgage made large loans to Atlantic Acceptance.

Mr. Walker said Beifield which went into bankruptcy in 1966, along with eight companies it controlled, was incorporated Oct. 26, 1961. The application for the loan was made Sept. 20 and was granted 10 days before the company received its letters patent.

Three details of another loan, this one for $550,000, were given by Mr. Walker, Mr. Justice Hughes said:

"Here again the company apparently applied for a loan before letters patent were granted."

He said the signature on the application was that of R. G. Callahine, company president, indicating he was probably the company had not been incorporated.

Under cross - examination by Ian Cateright, assistant commission counsel, Mr. Walker gave a detailed account of construction loans made by British Mortgage to H. R. Elmore Investments Ltd. of Hamilton and Interim Building Credits Ltd., an Elmore company with extensive land holdings in the Ottawa district.

Mr. Walker said all but one of the half dozen Elmore mortgages involving building projects in the Toronto suburbs of Etobicoke and Rexdale were foreclosed by British Mortgage for non - payment of principal and interest.

In several instances, the subsequent resale of the properties brought British Mortgage a profit, but the overall picture was one of losses.

The commission was told that W. A. Pike, formerly mortgage manager of British Mortgage and employed for a short period by Victoria and Grey Trust Co., which took over British Mortgage, became manager of Interim Building Credits Ltd.

Mr. Walker said that when the Beifield companies and its subsidiaries went into receivership, the accounting methods of all the companies were "severely criticized by the receivers, the Clarkson Co. Beifield had an apparent deficit of $628,719.

The hearing continues.

Inco Net Earnings Continue Decline

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd., the world's largest producer of nickel, reported Wednesday its decline in earnings of the last two years continued into the first quarter of this year.

Chairman Henry S. Wingate told the annual meeting the company's earnings for the first three months were $33,000,000 or $1.11 a share, compared with $38,832,000 or $1.31 in the similar 1966 period.

He predicted, however, an improvement in the second quarter.

He also told shareholders:

—Inco's capital investment program in Canada this year to develop new mines and expand existing operations will total more than $100,000,000; —Another $25,000,000 would be spent on projects outside Canada.

—By 1970 production from announced projects in Canada would add 100,000,000 or 150,-000,000 pounds of nickel to the company's output, which totalled more than 400,000,000 pounds last year.

—Further projects, including the possibility of a new mine in the Sudbury district, could be announced shortly.

—The recommendations of the Carter commission on taxation concerning the listing of a three-year; tax-free period for mines "would seriously retard industrial growth in Canada and, most particularly, they would retard the mining industry's ability to continue in the future to make as substantial a contribution as in the past to Canada's development and growth and ability to provide a progressively better life for its citizens."

Mr. Wingate said Inco's nickel deliveries in 1966 were a record 300,300,000 pounds, but 700,000,000 pounds of that came from stockpiles of the United States government.

Treatment of Mental Health Problems Should Begin With Family Doctor

OTTAWA (CP) — Treatment of mental health problems should begin with the family doctor, says Elizabeth McCue, nursing consultant with the federal health department's mental health division.

Unusual behavior or attitudes should be brought to the attention of the family physician "in the same way as any other symptom." The doctor may then refer his patient to the proper mental health service.

Mrs. McCue, 53, is a tall, white-haired woman who has travelled Canada from coast to coast discussing mental health techniques with staff of hospitals and clinics.

Born in Shubenacadie, N.S., she received her MA in nursing from Cornell University and for 25 years served as director of Nursing in large American mental hospitals.

She and her husband, now retired, returned to Canada in 1954 when she began her present job. Her married daughter is a doctoral student at an American university.

Mrs. McCue says the biggest recent development in the mental health field has been the movement of treatment out of hospitals into the community through day and night clinics.

"This depends on the patient, but it is usually better if he can stay in his own home, in the community he is accustomed to.

"There are many people with problems who can be given supportive care in clinics and still retain their jobs."

This trend would probably continue to grow.

"The large mental hospitals as we know them will become the teaching centres, as many are already."

During her career Mrs. McCue has seen great advances in treatment facilities for the mentally retarded. She says Canada has many good centres for care and training of the retarded, who make up three per cent of the population.

More of them are growing into adulthood—"it's the same with all of us, our health is better"—and Mrs. McCue emphasizes they can be self-supporting as adults.

"There has been real progress all over the country in getting jobs for these people. They can do hundreds of jobs in industry, especially repetitive work which others might find boring."

One of her favorite jewelry pins was made in a Toronto workshop for the mentally retarded.

Mrs. McCue says the public attitude toward mental illness is improving but still leaves something to be desired.

"There is still a stigma attached to overt mental illness though education of the public through schools and the news media has greatly broadened their understanding."

This education had resulted in increased numbers of patients receiving treatment.

"People no longer segregate members of the family who exhibit strange behavior. They realize that some problems are too big for one person to handle by himself."

For those needing help, Canada offers some of the best mental health services in the world in terms of programs and availability, Mrs. McCue says.

"Canadian psychiatrists and other members of the treatment team have world-wide renown."

Jubilee Tea Held to Mark 60 Years of Scouting Movement

Sixty years of Scouting in the Belleville district was celebrated by Scout members Wednesday afternoon in typical fashion. They staged a Jubilee Tea and Bake Sale to mark the occasion and aid the movement financially at the same time.

The event, sponsored by the Belleville District Committee of all Ladies' Auxiliaries, was held in St. Thomas' Parish Hall. Over all convener was Mrs. R. E. Berry, assisted by Mrs. E. Bluitt.

A display of Cub, Scout and Venturer projects was in charge of Mrs. A. J. Fort and Mrs. B. Sannan. Guests were invited to inspect blanket pooches, camping souvenirs, knot exhibits and crafts in a room set aside for the purpose. Attention was drawn to the used stamp venture to raise money for handicapped Scouts. Through the sale of collected stamps $3,000 was raised in Canada last year.

Flags were in the foreground in the tea room, where all Packs and Troops had raised their banners for the occasion. The flags separated the tea room from the bake table, and two miniature flags, one with the centennial symbol and another with Scouting motifs, decorated each individual table.

The tea table was centred with a log cabin, the symbol of Belleville District. The model was a project of John Reynolds. It was flanked with golden fleur de lis candelabra holding yellow and green candles. Swags in the Scout colors of yellow and green decorated the ceiling and walls. Motifs of the Cubs, Scouts and Venturers completed the decor. Mrs. I. A. Collyer and Mrs. Pat Grant were in charge of decorations.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. J. Gadd, Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Mr., and Mrs. Bud Bateman and Mrs. A. McDowell. Hostesses were Mrs. D. Shaw, Mrs. M. McLaren, Mrs. J. Gadd, Mrs. R. Berry, Mrs. Dorothy Schermerhorn, Mrs. F. Reynolds, Mrs. Sheila Wright, Mrs. H. Reinhard and Mrs. S. Krusenwski. Those pouring were Mrs. T. Colclen, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. L. Andrews, Mrs. C. D. Ashley, Mrs. L. Blaker, Mrs. D. Hawes, Mrs. P. Allcorn and Mrs. A. Fort.

Others who assisted in making the event a success were: Mrs J. White and Mrs. Joyce Goldie, tea room; Mrs. L. Reynolds, kitchen; Mrs. John Corpan, bake table; Mrs. J. M. Farrell, candy table; Mrs. Ross Taylor, nursery; Mrs. A. C. Whitney, treasurer, Mrs. R. Bowen and Mrs. W. Williams, tickets, and Mrs. G. V. Gallivan, publicity.

Buyers From All Over World Flock to Irish Fashion Show

DUBLIN (CP)—Fashion buyers from the couture capitals of the world are flocking this week into the city of James Joyce and Brendan Behan, now as firmly on the map for its gifted dress designers as it is for its locally - brewed Guinness and good talk.

The fourth annual Irish export fashion fair, biggest such showcase of native talent Ireland has yet mounted, is expected to attract more than 1,000 store buyers from as far afield as Montreal and Milan, Sydney and San Francisco, pumping an estimated £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) into the Irish economy.

Canadian, French, German and Marjole - London accents mingle with the Dublin brogue at the Intercontinental Hotel as the cream of Irish fashion, from traditional handwoven tweeds to trouser suits, go on parade as the 'week-long' fair.

George Colley, minister for industry and commerce, says in terms of money, initiative, energy and skill, the fashion industry is a pacesetter for the whole Irish export drive. In 1966, it contributed nearly £8,000,000 ($24,000,000) to a total export revenue of £170,000,000 ($51,000,000), the highest yet recorded.

Britain is still Ireland's biggest customer in fashion as in everything else, especially since the Anglo - Irish trade agreement of 1965 relaxed British import duties. The United States has responded keenly to a variety of sales drives. Canada ranks about fourth.

Canadian Ambassador Evan Gill was one of the first official visitors to tour the fair when it opened Monday.

While the Irish fashion scene can hardly compete with London for the swinging image—not a mini-skirt is to be seen among the offerings of the 9 designers at the fair, let alone on the Dublin sidewalks—or with continental centres for high-style influence, it has an inimitable charm and quality recognized the world over.

Its appeal is still primarily based on fine, hand-woven cashmeres and imaginative dyes inspired by the soft Irish landscape. It has come a long way in 14 years from a cottage craft which happened to produce two superb couturiers — Sybil Connolly and Irene Gilbert—to a booming, dollar-earning industry bursting with new young talent.

David Keane, 21, is probably one of the youngest designers working in Europe. He has been turning out his finely tailored, for Eire clothes, brilliant - colored suits and dresses for two years.

Spurred into competitive action by the government-backed fashion fair, first held in 1963, a whole new generation of designers has emerged in Ireland, intent on creating an "Irish look."

Clodagh O'Kennedy, who designs for young married women such as herself and at 32 is the oldest-established of the "new wave" designers, defines her idea of the Irish look as "active superb contrasts — Irish tweeds, color, sculptured simplicity—perhaps influenced by our Georgian background."

Clodagh exports up to 85 per cent of her output. Ireland's 4,000,000 population, many still emigrating with subsistence-level incomes, offers no real market turning out his finely tailored, for Eire clothes.

PC Women Plan Many Future Events

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Progressive Conservative Women's Association was held in the Riverside Centre on Monday evening, with a large number in attendance.

Mrs. Cliff Randell, vice - president, chaired the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Shewell, and expressed a welcome to all the club as well as the new members and a special welcome to friends from Trenton.

Mr. Jack Ireland, president of the South Hastings Riding gave a talk on the formation of the new Federal Riding of Hastings. A committee of nine from the different parts of the riding have been hard at it for the few months drawing up the new constitution. This new riding takes in Bellevile south to Jamesrod, but does not include Trenton, Stirling, or Sidney Township. The first nomination takes April 19th, at the Madoc Armouries to form the new executive.

A letter has been sent of the group's endorsement of the recommendation sent from the National Association that two men, two women, and one Y.P.C. represent each Federal Riding at the Provincial convention to be held in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto on September 7, 8 and 9.

Mrs. Rendell discussed the plans for the dessert bridge and euchre, to be held in St. Thomas' Parish Hall in May. Mrs. Harry Rollins gave a resume of the plans for the centennial garden party to be held May 21st.

Mrs. Morley Thomas presented Mrs. M. Haggarty with a gift of appreciation on behalf of the association for her work as secretary for the past three years.

The ladies of Ward five, under the convenorship of Mrs. H. Yorke and Mrs. A. W. Jordon held a successful auction, after which lunch was served to conclude a most enjoyable evening.

U.C.W. Meetings

PLAINFIELD UCW

Plainfield Unit of Trinity Roslin UCW held its April meeting in the Orange Hall, Plainfield, with Mrs. Frank Hodgen presiding. Guests were 24 members of the CGIT and Explorers groups of Trinity Church, Roslin, with their four leaders, Mrs. Earle Thompson, Mrs. Charles Dickens, Mrs. Percy Ray and Mrs. Laureson Ketcheson.

Mrs. Frank Hodgen read the theme for the evening, Growth in Many Things. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Charles Beatty and Mrs. Ray Sullivan.

The two visiting groups sang three popular centennial songs. A film strip was presented, A Bear in the Road which portrayed the growth of the church in Canada in an interesting way. Refreshments were served after which Miss Ann Ketcheson, on behalf of the CGIT and Explorer groups, thanked the UCW group for the enjoyable evening.

An invitation was read to attend the Gay Nineties Tea, at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin. A quilt was donated for the sale, to be sent in May. Further donations may be left with Mrs. Howee Palmer or Mrs. George Southall. Arrangements were made for drivers for the Young at Hearts' Club, April 29.

Mrs. Garnet Denyes gave an account of the Baptists in Upper Canada with brief mention of other sects. Mrs. Clarence Marshall gave an informative talk about the United Church crest.

Teacher-turned-diplomat

Canada's Man in Viet Nam Masks Tough Mind With Light Touch

OTTAWA (CP)—Ormond Wilson Dier is Canada's unstoppable, light - hearted man in Hanoi and Saigon.

His personal likes and dislikes are rarely anchored and many tend to describe him—deep.

But his imperturbable approach and acute sense of the humor of a situation masks a tough mind that never loses sight of the objective.

The objective at present is an end to hostilities and a peaceful settlement in Vietnam, where the 61-year-old school teacher-turned-diplomat is the senior Canadian representative on the three-nation International Control Commission.

A visit this week to the North Vietnam capital of Hanoi places him in an almost unique position to use his talents and braking to further the peace objective.

He knows war from frontline experience in the Second World War and he has a proven ability with a delicate political situation, such as surrounds negotiations towards an end of the Vietnam conflict.

His insight into political situations arises partly from his diplomatic postings to Europe and South and Central America during a 30-year career as foreign service officer, and partly from serving two Canadian prime ministers as foreign affairs adviser.

Born at Vancouver March 31, 1910, he put himself through the University of British Columbia in the late 1930s and early 1940s by working in logging camps and writing for Vancouver newspapers as campus correspondent.

Even in those days he showed a reporting ability that proved useful later in diplomatic service.

"He mastered the art of picking out the key elements of a situation and stringing them together in readable fashion," said one longtime friend.

Active in students affairs and sports, he remains a first-class left-handed golfer and a strong swimmer.

He was never a failed but either a keen or chief of Canada's mission in Finland, he returned home with a passion for curling.

Mr. Dier enlisted in 1942 as a captain flying small artillery observation planes.

Later he returned to British Columbia to launch a teaching career. He taught high school at Duncan, B.C., for two years before he followed a number of college classmates into the foreign service.

Mr. Dier served as a vice-consul in Chicago, moved up to third secretary in Mexico, second secretary in Venezuela, first secretary in Denmark and then charge d'affaires in Finland.

His college and space - rate newspaper experience from UBC days helped in his next assignment—press liaison in Ottawa.

After about two years as special assistant, covering the final period of Mr. Diefenbaker's term of office and the first months of Mr. Pearson's, he was appointed ambassador to Colombia and Ecuador. From there he was named early this year as senior Canadian representative on the IDC.

His wife, the former Sheila Nesbitt of Vancouver, accompanied him to Saigon when he took up his post there in February. Their three children are at school in Canada.

1867 1967

it started 90 years ago...

90 years ago this fall, Canada's first commercial telephones were installed in Ottawa. Canada's second Prime Minister, The Hon. Alexander Mackenzie (who was also Minister of Public Works) had one set installed in the Public Works Department; the other was at Rideau Hall, residence of the Earl of Dufferin, the Governor General. These phones were used for government business and 'for musical concerts to demonstrate the miracle of the telephone to guests at Rideau Hall'.

And from that beginning grew Bell Canada! Today, there is probably not a single person in Quebec or Ontario who does not, in one way or another, 'use' the services we provide:

Radio and TV programs are relayed through our microwave network; businesses communicate by voice or teletype, or transmit data through our facilities; so do newspapers and the government, police and fire departments; there are 4½ million Bell Canada 'phones' in homes and offices, and thousands of public phones. Like Canada, we of Bell Canada have come a long way. And one more point: we're proud that nearly 95% of our shares are owned by Canadian residents.

Neutral Zone Urged

Shaded areas on map indicate proposed extension of Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam. Proposal was made in Washington by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. It was based on plan put forth earlier by Paul Martin, Canadian foreign minister. Plan would create 26-mile wide belt to be inspected by an international control commission.

Commons Will Get Taste of Guillotine Today

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gets its first taste of the provisional guillotine rule today and Conservative MP's plan "substantial protests" over its use to end the unification debate.

Under the rule, adopted in 1965, the House may spend the entire sitting day debating the talk-limiting motion but it must come to a vote tonight.

Then a minimum of two days must be spent on clause-by-clause study of the 65-clause defence bill plus a third day for third reading. The House ended its 12th consecutive day of clause-by-clause study Wednesday without passing any clauses.

If the guillotine motion passes, and there is every indication it will, the debate will end Tuesday night. The bill then goes to the Senate.

Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre), former Conservative defence minister, said in an interview he has "always opposed" the experimental debate-limiting rule.

He said Conservatives plan substantial protests and, if the guillotine passes, his party plans "one or two amendments" to a clause in the bill setting out the transfer of army, navy and air force personnel to the new unified force.

"That section gives personnel no option," he said. He believes present servicemen should be allowed to resign or fall pension, if they do not want to remain in the unified force.

During Wednesday's debate, Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said his eight-member group will support the government motion today to end the debate.

A bid earlier this week by George McIlraith, government House leader, to get all-party agreement on a time limit for the debate, was reported to have drawn agreement from representatives of all parties except the Conservatives.

Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) said some speakers in the debate have indicated that the principle of uniting the three forces is "so revolutionary that it can only be compared with the great leaps forward which are taken by totalitarian regimes from time to time."

He attacked the government for using a "bulldozer approach" to get the bill passed and said Defence Minister Hellyer wants a blank cheque to proceed with unification.

Mr. Dinsdale, a Second World War fighter pilot, said that this can only be compared with the great leaps forward which are taken by totalitarian regimes from time to time."

He attacked the government for using a "bulldozer approach" to get the bill passed and said Defence Minister Hellyer wants a blank cheque to power unto itself.

He said the 23,000-man Mobile Command headquartered at St. Hubert, Que., would become a

Unemployment Figures Down

Unemployment figures in the Belleville - Hastings area for March are down from February's. In February there were approximately 1,134 unemployed males and about 663 females out of work.

In March the male figure had dropped to 1,046 and the female figure to 588, a total difference of 193 people.

If these figures seem a little high it must be understood that they are tallied not from the city of Belleville alone but from an area of 2,250 square miles including villages like Stirling, Tweed, Madoc and Bancroft.

It was found in a residence count that approximately 50 per cent of all the unemployed in the large area handled by the Canada Manpower Centre in Belleville were outside the actual city.

The percentage of unemployed in the Belleville area is about the same as the national average which is around five per cent. The labor force in the Belleville area at last count in 1965 was 21,200 which has risen.

The number of unemployed usually rises in the winter due to the task of construction jobs. In the spring these workers usually find employment.

However, there are vacancies for which there are no skilled tradesmen. Students who are willing to stay in school can easily find jobs.

H. W. Kerr, Manager of the Canada Manpower Centre, says that "employers are interested in what you have to sell, your knowledge."

"Qualified laborers are employed only if there is any on the job training vacancy."

Most of the industries in Belleville, such as Mead Johnson and Northern Electric prefer at least a grade twelve education, and there is every indication that this trend will continue.

In Belleville there are approximately 1,195 workers with grade 12 or 13 working in industries. There are 389 over grade 13 and 3,919 under grade 12.

In the summer the working market will be swamped by about 128 undergraduates and an army of high school students looking for work.

Bequest Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the will of a Toronto man who left his $45,000 estate to the Hospital for Sick Children there, cutting out his former wife and their daughter.

Frederick Victor Burden, 69, made his final will in January, 1961, two months before he killed a male friend of his former wife and then killed himself in his winter residence in Tucson, Ariz., the court was told.

Rotting Eels as Bad As Raw Sewage Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP)— Rotting eels are just as serious a pollution problem on the St. Lawrence as the lack of sewage treatment plants in some river communities, Cornwall Mayor Nick Manob complained Wednesday.

"You have to smell the stench to believe how bad it can be on a hot summer day," he added in an interview after bringing the eels up at a meeting of the Eastern Ontario Development Association.

West Germany Mourns Adenauer

BONN (Reuters)—Flags flew at half staff throughout West Germany today as the country mourned former chancellor Konrad Adenauer who died Wednesday at the age of 91.

Doctors fought in vain for 10 days against an influenza infection and bronchitis that gradually sapped the statesman's strength as he lay in his Rhöndorf home at Rhoendorf.

President Johnson, French President de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Wilson were among the first world leaders to announce they would attend the former chancellor's state funeral in Cologne Cathedral Tuesday.

Tributes to Adenauer flowed in from much of the world, but his death was treated coolly in Eastern Europe and the official East German news agency said his life "was counter to the interests of the German nation, devoted to the preservation of old and doomed principles and to bitter opposition to anything new."

Soviet newspapers ignored tributes paid to the former chancellor and reported his death in a single sentence.

De Gaulle said in a telegram to West German President Heinrich Lueble "the disappearance of chancellor Adenauer, to whom I was tied by a great friendship, causes deep sorrow to me."

Wilson said in a telegram that Adenauer rendered outstanding services, not only in the reconstruction of his own country . . . but also in the cause of European unity.

In Tel Aviv, former Israeli premier David Ben-Gurion described Adenauer as the man who raised the German people from the deep mire, abyss into which they were thrown by the Nazis.

Adenauer's body was to be taken from Rhoendorf to Bonn Saturday to lie in state for two days in the cabinet meeting hall of the chancellery.

Monday the coffin will be taken to Cologne Cathedral. Adenauer was lord mayor of the city from 1917 until the Nazis deposed him in 1933.

An official remembrance service will be held in parliament here Tuesday morning and the funeral will be in Cologne Tuesday morning.

After the funeral his body will be taken up the Rhine in a naval launch to be buried beside his two late wives near Rhoendorf—his adopted home for more than 30 years.

CN Previews Expoliner To Provide Fast Runs Between City, Montreal

By HARRY MULHALL

How modest can you get? Even in Centennial Year your budgeting can't be modest enough to include a trip to Expo — if Canadian National Railways have anything to do about it.

In its seemingly - unceasing bid to boost passenger sales, CN yesterday broke out its latest inspiration in Belleville — the Expoliner.

The idea isn't new for CN, but it's novel enough in its application to probably win approval the way the railroad likes best — in bigger passenger bookings.

Starting May 1, the Expoliner will provide daily rail return transit between Belleville and Montreal — the site of Expo.

It's patterned for passengers in a particular hurry. But it also could be tailored to the thinking of those mediating an Expo visit on a mini - budget.

This latest CN venture can get Expo - bound Bellevillians there and back in 12 hours.

Between train - times there's a 10 - hour chance for taking in the sites of Expo.

The service is an adaptation of the Railiner introduced about 18 months to provide fast, daily transportation for Eastern Ontario from Brockville to Toronto.

That service is now beginning to prove its point, say railroad officials hopeful the record will repeat itself on the new east - bound run during Expo.

To state its case, the CN filled a train-load of newsmen, local officials and politicians streaming down to Montreal yesterday in a pilot run of the new Expoliner.

After the coffee-and-corsage treatment railroad's salesmen came through with their claim for the Centennial service run.

The Expoliner lived up to its trim, streamlined looks on two basic customer counts: It's fast; it's comfortable.

Its diesel unit whisks away the track between Belleville and Montreal in well under four hours.

It's the same on the return trips.

As in the Daylimer run a snack bar is in operation to serve light refreshments.

Departure schedules call for the Expoliner to leave Belleville daily at 6.45 a.m., arriving in Montreal at 10.24 a.m.

. It will depart Montreal at 8.35 p.m., arriving back in Belleville shortly after midnight.

Recognizing the extra-time availability to most passengers on weekends, Saturday departures from Montreal will be at 11.55, arriving in Belleville at 4.50 a.m. Sunday.

There will be six between - point stops, Napanee, Kingston, Cannanoque, Brockville, Prescott and Cornwall.

By the time Expo is over — in October — Expoliner's passenger ratings will have added to what CN officials say will be an unprecedented record.

By the time the year ends, what with Expo and the Pan American Games, the railway estimates it will have carried a record 21 million passengers, 25 per cent more than the previous high of 16.8 million in 1966.

Readying for the record, CN officials have accored North America to buy or lease extra passenger cars from other rail systems.

. The search already has added several hundred cars to CN's fleet, bringing its total size to 1,200 passenger cars and 600 sleepers.

Smiling Service

Comfort of passengers on test run yesterday was concern of railroad officials. Above, conductor Paul Venne, St. Brunot Que., checks service and chats with Mary Doracka (left) and Mr. and Mrs. Brad Bradley, all of Belleville.

Ready to Roll

All set to sweep down the tracks to Montreal, Expoliner liner gets little bit of extra polish from engineer Donald Brown of Belleville.

Driving Made Easy

Modern railroading is stark contrast with tradition built by steam. Operation makes for a neat, clean job of engineering — as seen in control cab of Expoliner in yesterday's test run.

Passage of Time Is Theme Of CNR Pavilion at Expo

MONTREAL (Staff) — Time is of the essence — and no organization knows this better than a railroad.

Time is a yardstick which no enterprise has yet unravelled — not even a railroad.

However, it also is a topic which a dash of enterprise can turn to unique effect — as Canadian National Railways shows in its Expo pavilion here.

Outwardly the CN showpiece seems a modest undertaking, a startling contrast to such soaring neighbors as the Expo centrepiece, Canada's pavilion boasting the big show's theme of Man and His World.

Reason for the contrast is an obvious one of budget — with the notionally - owned railroad bolding its total costs to something over $1,000,000.

However, the results are a tribute to artistic ingenuity.

Outside, the exhibit may seem unexciting.

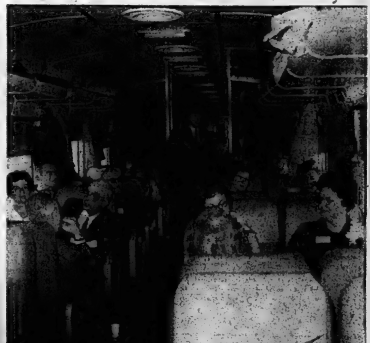
Within, it can be as perceptibly startling as a closed horn on a dark level - crossing.

For its theme, the CN chose — time. It then set a team of artists, designers and architects to work on the idea.

If the subject seems too abstract, then even a passing glance inside the pavilion will quicken personal responses — in no time at all.

The creative team split the idea into different places to express the influence of time in the mystery of change.

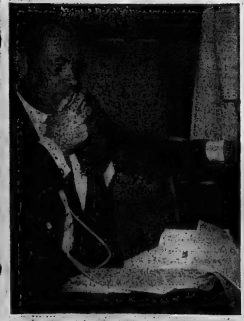
Visual and sound effects are spread through various cells which make up most of the pavilion.



Blending together, they provoke an eerie, alienated atmosphere in which the viewer seems compelled to ponder the riddle of time.

The personal, even haunted reaction is not even easily dispelled by the pleasant presence of CN hostesses who will be on duty to guide the public when the pavilion opens.

The theme is extended into a 200-seat theatre where a film, specially commissioned by CN will be presented.



Shown yesterday in private press preview and titled Time and Motion it proved a sensitive commentary on man's attempts to extend the barriers imposed by time.

CN officials are confident of the pavilion's appeal and expect it to draw its share of Expo throngs — as time will tell.

Travelling With Ease

Inside, guests on yesterday's run found Expoliner, bright, comfortable. This car will be among coaches assigned to new rapid, Belleville-Montreal run for Expo.

All in A Day's Work

Mayor Jack Ellis was among official guests on pilot Expoliner run yesterday. For luggage he brought along tape recorder and correspondence to keep up on city business.

A Site to See!

Guests mount ramp into CN pavilion Expo site for special preview of railroad's contribution to Canada's Centennial showpiece at Montreal. Theme of display concerns time and how man makes use of it.

Defeat Squirrels

'Banger' Scares Mischievous Animals From Sugar Bush

It all started in a Sugar Bush near Combermere. There is an abundance of squirrels in the area and the little black rascals along with their red cousins had found a new game — devouring plastic hose in pursuit of bubbles.

The owner of a newly established maple syrup operation didn't think it was so funny. He had purchased and installed over 12,000 feet of ¼" clear plastic hose line throughout the woodlot to convey the sap from 1500 taps. At seven cents a foot, this runs into a lot of money, not to mention the cost of spiles, T's, connectors, evaporator and new syrup house.

The initial outlay cost over $3500 and the operation was being defeated by a bunch of mischievous squirrels. They'd run along the hose biting at air bubbles making as many as 20 holes to the yard. The sap was pouring out on the ground, little getting to the storage tank.

The operator sought help from many sources. Spraying or rubbing the lines was too tedious and time consuming since the season is perhaps less than 3 weeks long. Then he called the Department of Lands and Forest for help.

Black squirrels are game animals and although there is a season for the taking of them, a land owner has his rights in protection of his property. But efforts to shoot them didn't work.

The solution?!? A gas operated scare gun or "Banger," a type corn growers use to frighten off black birds was borrowed and rushed up to Combermere. In a very short time it was installed in the woodlot. The timing device was set so as the "Banger" discharged every 15 minutes. It worked! Away went the squirrels. Later the timing device was set at various intervals up to 1 hour during daylight.

The sap has cookieed to flow — the year's supply of syrup will reach the market and a family up in Combermere are thankful.

Will Remove Four Trees

Those four Lombardy poplars behind the fairgrounds' grandstand which have disrupted fall-time parking and also that of curling club members, will soon be no more.

Curling club members have requested the parks board to have the trees removed and the board at its last meeting authorized the director of parks to have the trees removed during the spring clean-up period.

SPORTS SLICES

By 'Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

In the accolades to the victors and tributa to the gentlemanly reaction of the vanquished, there was something familiar missing in the thousands of words poured out by the typewriter squads after the Leaf-Ian elimination of the Black Hawks Tuesday evening.

For the first time in the last dozen games played in the National Hockey League there was nary a criticism of the gentlemen in the striped jerseys. For once they were the forgotten men.

Not a usual twitcered- Not a derisive finger was pointed. Not an owner or governor sounded off with "They're incompetent — they're bush leaguers."

Neither Imlach or Reay in the post-mortems mentioned the work of the referees. Nor did any player of either squad voice any criticism.

Perhaps in the fierceness of the fray with the Hawks desperately striving to snatch the series-tying victory and the Leafs equally desperate to become eligible for the Stanley Cup main bout, both squads paid strict attention to the business at hand.

Perhaps they realized, as they should have done during the season, that penalties can often change the picture from victory to defeat. As far as I could see via the den idiot box, there were no deliberate attempts at maiming or assorted acts of mayhem.

But after the furore that has rocked the National Hockey League and fans in love words as far as officials and governors are concerned it would have been a "lovely" gesture on the part of Imlaich and Reay and perhaps a player or so, if they had approached the officials and complimented them on a job well done.

But I guess that aint human nature, buster.

According to reports there were no complaints on the part of Billy Reay and the Hawks team. They took the defeat like the champions they are, and there were no alibis.

Reay said: — "In this game you have your happy moments and you have sad. By winning the pennant for the first time my boys gave me the biggest thrill I ever had. Now let's take it like sportsmen."

"I've got no complaints," he said. "Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita and Doug Mohns were injured. Their batter should not have been playing at all and Mikita would not have played had it been a regular season game. Hull was only 60 per cent of himself."

Hull is reported to have turned down a lucrative contract to become a color analyst on television for the cup finals. He said all the extra travelling would be too much.

I think perhaps Bobby turned down the big money because of a touch of homesickness to get "down on the farm" to his beloved Hereford herds. This was indicated in his statement, "Things are waiting for me at the farm — I've got calves to tattoo and register, cereals in build."

So Rapid-Fire Robert and Deadshot Dennis, those Hull bombers will soon be relin' for the home corral" where seldom is heard a puck-chasin'g word and the Herefords graze all the day."

The rest of the Hawks will wend their way homewards with Billy Reay's last words ringing in their ears, "You gave me my happiest moment when you won the championship. You did as well as you could in this series and I'm proud of you."

So spoke the coach of the National Hockey League champions of 1966-67.

The Leafs fresh from their victory have their loins girded for tonight's opening battle with the Montreal Canadiens. A two-day rest won't hurt them and they are ready to pick up where they left off.

Tonight's initial battle in the finals will reveal how much, if any, the long layoff has effected the Canadiens. Will they be at peak form or slowed down through competitive inaction?

Both clubs want this important first game victory and if the Leafs pace it — well — there won't be a repeat of the 1966 series when the Habs swept them aside in four straight.

Habs 9-5 To Win ★★★★★

Provost To Private-Eye Mahovlich

★★★★★ Leafs Lose Jeffrey

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, already crippled at left wing, will face another obstacle down the left side when Frank Mahovlich steps onto the ice in the first game of the Stanley Cup finals tonight.

Montreal Canadiens' coach Toe Blake says he will probably use Claude Provost — a shadow, the big Toronto left winger in the best-of-seven series.

Toronto lost left winger Larry Jeffrey in the sixth and final game of the semi-finals against Chicago Black Hawks in Toronto Tuesday.

The fast - skating forward, one of the Leafs' top penalty killers, tore ligaments in his right knee while checking Chicago's Stan Mikita. He underwent surgery in Toronto Wednesday and is not expected to see action in the finals.

The injury could seriously hamper the Leafs chances against the Canadiens, currently 9-5 favorites to win the series.

But the loss of Jeffrey could also solve a problem of overstaff at right wing for Toronto coach Punch Imlach.

Imlach was forced to sit out

CLAUDE PROVOST

* * *

team captain George Armstrong during Tuesday's game in favor of rookie Brian Conacher, who scored two goals including the winner.

Armstrong was injured during the second game of the semi-finals and, although he was ready for action Tuesday, Imlach decided to leave Conacher in the right wing position with linemates Dave Keon and Mahovlich.

Conacher is a left winger, however, and Imlach will probably use Armstrong in his regular spot tonight and move the rookie to Jeffrey's position on a line with Jim Pappin and Peter Stemkowski.

Meanwhile, Blake's plan to use his top shadow man against Mahovlich is by no means a new role for the 168-pound Montreal right winger. He has been used during his 12 seasons with the Canadiens to cover such stars as Bobby Hull of Chicago and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings.

Hull, usually short - tempered with shadows, has said Provost does the job but is offensive-minded as well, always looking for an opportunity to score.

The Canadiens have not used a specific player or a line to check Mahovlich during the regular 70-game National Hockey League schedule.

"But the way he's been going lately makes us think we'll need Provost out there against him," Blake said.

Mahovlich was the Leafs' top producer against the Hawks, scoring three of their four goals and assisting on five.

Mahovlich's best playoff year was in 1963 when he scored four goals and added 11 assists. The Leafs won the Stanley Cup in 12 games that season.

FRANK MAHOVLICH

* * *

Mahovlich also led the Leafs to a Stanley Cup triumph in 1962 with six goals and six assists in 12 games.

Although the Canadiens have a 15-game undefeated streak, the Montreal club is not taking the Leafs lightly.

"Toronto is always tough because they play close - checking hockey," says Montreal captain Jean Beliveau. "The Leafs don't change much between the season and the playoffs and that's their advantage.

"But I think we're a better skating team overall and will beat them with speed."

Montreal strongman John Ferguson also thinks the Leafs could be hard to beat.

"They won't forget last year's rout, (Montreal won the semi-final) against the Leafs in four games) and we've got our work cut out to beat them. But I think we're ready. I know I am."

The Canadiens have won the Stanley Cup during the last two seasons after eliminating the Leafs in the semi-finals each time.

Blake, who had his club in hiding until game time, said Wednesday that all his players are healthy. The Leafs, who arrived by overnight train early today, have no serious injuries except for Jeffrey.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. EST and will be televised in its entirety by the CBC national network. Second game of the series Saturday afternoon will be televised by the CBC in Canada and the CBS in the United States.

Les Hunt and Ken Block were the Vancouver marksmen.

Second game of the series is scheduled for Vancouver Friday night.

Unknown 2 Months Ago

Vachon; 'Rags To Riches'

MONTREAL (CP)—If you're looking for a rag - to - riches theme in this year's Stanley Cup playoffs, how about the one young Rogatien Vachon is playing?

Two months ago the 21-year-old rookie netminder with Montreal Canadiens was virtually unknown in pro hockey ranks.

Now he is in a position to help the club to its third straight Cup Victory.

He earned the right to the No. 1 goaltending job by playing Canadiens to 11 wins, five ties and three losses in 23 games and a 2.44 goals - against average.

The Canadiens open defence of their championship laurel tonight against Toronto.

In four playoff games against New York, Vachon allowed only eight goals, however, the youngster from Palmerston in northern Quebec admits the hero role has had him off balance at times.

"I figured I was called up the way he plays the angles," the way he plays the angles." Worsley said. "He's got all the reflexes that make a great goalie. The only thing he might hurt him now will be over confidence."

Ford Hurls Shutout

Shades Of 1964; Yanks Back On Top!

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was an old combination back at work in the American League standings today.

New York Yankees are in first place again, put there on a shutout by Whitey Ford.

It's been 364 years since the Yankees had-wins-losses before them.

Last season, when they finished 10th, the Yanks never made it over the .500 mark and Ford, plagued with a circulatory problem in his left shoulder, managed just two victories.

But he was the difference Whitey against Chicago White Sox Wednesday, allowing just seven singles for a 3-0 victory. It was his 45th career shutout and his first since Aug. 3, 1965, when the victims were, ironically, the White Sox and Wednesday's loser, Tommy John.

When he retired the last man, Ford, attempting a comeback after his second shoulder operation, jumped off the mound in joy.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, rookie Rod Carew drove in the winning run with a ninth - inning single as Minnesota Twins and Dean Chance defeated Baltimore Orioles 3-2. Three home runs powered Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory over Kansas City Athletics. Washington's doubleheader at Boston was rained out.

WHITEY FORD

* * *

Ford was delighted with his performance. "It's been a long time hasn't it" he said, grinning. "The ace knit - hander, who ran into Boston rookie Bill Rohr's one-hitter in his first start this season, said he was bothered somewhat by Chicago's 45 degree temperature.

"My fingers began to feel the cold after six innings and I couldn't use my breaking stuff. I went mostly to the fast ball and the sinker."

The Yankees picked up a run off John in the second on Charley Smith's single, two walks and a sacrifice fly by John Kennedy. Smith's sacrifice fly and a single by Joe Pepitone drove in two more in the third following an error by Chicago's Tom McCraw.

The Twins knocked off the Orioles with a strong pitching performance by Chance, who allowed just five hits and struck out 10.

Carew broke the game up with a one-out, bases - loaded single against Stu Miller in the ninth. The hit scored Ted Uhlaender, running for Harmon Killebrew, who had opened the inning with a single.

Max Alvis, Duke Sims and Chuck Hinton all hit home runs for the Indians against Kansas City and Sonny Siebert, with nine - inning help from Bob Allen, picked up his first victory.

Ken Suarez, Kansas City's catcher, homered for the Athletics, threw out three runners trying to steal and packed another off base.

Red Tilson Memorial To Redmond

TORONTO (CP) — Mickey Redmond of Peterborough Petes has been awarded the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy as the most valuable and gentlemanly player in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, it was announced Wednesday.

Redmond, who entered the series at 15, was Rookie-of-the-Year in the 1963-64 season and has been named to the all-star team twice. He was the series top goal - scorer with 51 goals this season and also had 44 assists for 95 points.

The award, presented annually by The Globe and Mail, is the third in a row for a Peterborough player. Andre Lacroix won the award in the two previous seasons.

Maris Bat Staging Comeback

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coming from the lost - place New York Yankees to the American League, Roger Maris has blossomed as a .434 hitter with the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals in the National League.

"His bat is going to be important to us this season," said Stan Musial, the Cardinals' general manager.

The one - time American League home run king is off to a remarkable start after his .233 record last season with the Yankees and .239 in 1965.

In seven games he has had 10 hits, scored five runs, batted in four and has hit safely in the last five games.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP)—A crowd of 8,036 Wednesday night welcomed the pacers and trotters back to Greenwood Raceway for a 24-night stand.

Sister Mait, owned by Mel Hoerig of Tiffin, Ohio, won the featured sixth race, the $4,000 Campbellville Stakes Trot and combined with second-place Sir Herbert for a $75.40 exacta.

Randy Adios, owned by Bill MacDonald of Melbourne, Ont., won the first race and combined with second-race winner Highley's Johnny, owned by Don Booth of Ottawa for a $90.18 daily double.

BATAVIA (CP) — Anita Diloe, owned by John Goyett of Glassford Station and Dale Kinsey of Hamilton, won the $1,200 pace at Batavia Downs tonight as the 8-5 favorite. Lloyd Gilmour drove for her third win in six at Batavia this season.

Aaron's Two Homers Spark Braves

By DICK COUCH,
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Hank Aaron has a hard time breaking the old home-run habit, he'll have no trouble keeping his new friends.

The Atlanta Braves slugger, who led the National League with 44 home runs last year, dipped to a .278 batting mark—lowest in his career—blasted a pair of homers Wednesday night, powering the Braves to a 4-1 victory over Houston Astros.

"I've got to get back to my style of hitting, to get a better batting average," the .316 lifetime hitter said before signing a two-year contract last winter at $100,000 a season. "I wasn't too concerned about batting for an average last year because I had meds up my mind to lead the league in homers."

"There's no better way of making friends when you move into new territory than hitting the ball over the fence," Aaron added, explaining he went for the long ball in 1966 to help boost fan interest during the Braves' first year at Atlanta.

Aaron didn't disappoint the Atlanta backers Wednesday night. He slammed a 405-foot, two-run blast — empty drive over the center field fence in the first inning and boomeared a 420-foot solo shot into the left field seats in the fourth.

The homers also provided the winning margin as the Braves rolled to their fifth straight victory after an opening sitting of three losses.

St. Louis Cardinals overpowered San Francisco Giants 7-3 for their sixth victory in six starts and Los Angeles Dodgers edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2 on Ron Hunt's run - scoring double in the 10th. The Pittsburgh Pirates-Philadelphia Phillies game was rained out.

Dave Giusti, Houston's starter, gave up both Aaron's homers and was touched for another run in the fourth when Mack Jones doubled, took third on an error and scored on a force-play grounder. A walk, Rico Carty's double and Felipe de la Rios' infield hit gave the Braves an insurance run in the eighth.

Eastern Cup Final

Eagles Shade Aces!

KINGSTON (CP) — Drummondville Eagles turned persistant forechecking into goals Wednesday night to beat Kingston Aces 4-3 in the first game of the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals.

The Eagles forced Kingston into mistakes in their zone to come back from a 3-2 deficit in the third period.

Ron Robert, Michael Labrecque, Roland LeClerc and Jacques Begin scored for Drummondville.

Wayne Brown, Charlie Convery and Bob Rawson scored for Kingston.

Rawson gave Kingston a temporary 3-2 lead at the 2:28 mark of the third period when his, 20-foot shot hit the post and deflected past goaltender Claude Cyr before Drummondville struck for two goals.

Labrosse scored six minutes later and Robert converted a pass from Begin at 12:48 to beat Kingston netminder Tom Mercer. Then Drummondville's solid defence took over.

McLeod pulled Mercer in favor of an extra forward at 19:15, but Kingston was unable to formulate an effective scoring attack.

Drummondville outshot Kingston 13-7 in the third period and 36-34 throughout the game.

1967; Bonanza For Palmer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer is on the way to his greatest year in golf, money-wise at least, which explains why no one else was even mentioned when the Favorite was established in the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open.

The tournament, with Palmer as entry for the first time in six years, started today over the 6,778-yard Oak Cliff Country Club Course, where Palmer fired a two-under-par 68 in the pro-amateur Wednesday.

Palmer has played in 10 of the 13 tournaments this year and placed fourth or better in seven of them. He has won two —Los Angeles and Tucson—and earned $81,285, of which $73,272 is official money.

Arnie is the all-time money winner with $827,723 — about $225,000 more than second-place Billy Casper. But no one can recall Palmer winning so much money in such a short time. The tour is a little more than one-third completed.

Casper was considered a most serious challenger and Frank Beard, who played some hot golf to beat Palmer in the recent Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, was also highly regarded.

Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina is back to defend the title he won last year.

The tournament also could be the scene of the struggle for leading money-winning honors.

Sets Marathon Record

BOSTON (AP)—David C. McKenzie of New Zealand won the 71st annual Boston Athletic Association marathon Wednesday. The time was a record 2 hours 15 minutes and 45 seconds.

In second place was Thomas C Lavin of the New York Athletic Club.

Yokaka Aoki of the four-man Japanese team was third and Louis C. Castagnola of Washington fourth.

In fifth place was Antonio Ambu of Italy, who overcame Ukeen of Turkey climbed Newton's steep hills.

Andy Boychuk of Toronto finished sixth in the 26-mile 385-yard grind.

Ron Wallingford of Hamilton, Ont., considered a top Canadian prospect for the race, dropped out after 16 miles. He started out with the front-running pack, but had dropped back before the first checkpoint. He finished 18th last year, 11th in 1965 and third in 1964.

The Quebec Athletic Association, for the first time, sent an official team to the event and all its members finished in the top 100, a respectable achievement.

John C. Mowatt of Toronto finished 37th in 2:34.50. Dave Prokop of London, Ont., was 54th and William McInnis of London was 136th.

Douglas Walker of Toronto finished 256th and Robert Sinclair of Napanee, Ont., was 339th.

Need $25,000

League May Finance Leafs

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The International Baseball League's eight teams, including financially - pressed Toronto, will open their season as scheduled April 28, president George Sisler said Wednesday.

The comment came at the end of a special meeting, reported to have been called to help the Toronto Maple Leafs obtain the $25,000 its president, Robert Hunter, is quoted as saying he needs.

Sisler declined to confirm whether the report was accurate.

Hunter is reported to have told Boston Red Sox, parent of the Maple Leafs, would advance $10,000 and he wanted the league to lend him $15,000.

Morris Silver, president of Rochester Red Wings, had said he would recommend the league grant Toronto the loan.

Sisler would say only that all clubs were represented at the closed - door session and that all expressed optimism and assurance for a successful season.

Opening - day games will find Toronto at Toledo, Buffalo at Columbus, Rochester at Jacksonville and Syracuse at Richmond. The northern clubs open a week later.

Belleville, Trenton Relay Race

Entry forms are being distributed in the district and entries will be accepted until Tuesday, the day before the race.

Baions will not be carried but the runner must touch the next man at his team to complete his section of the race.

The race will be along Highway No. 2 with the first exchange zone at the Park Lane Motel parking lot, the second at the Alkena Road intersection and the third at the main gates of CFB Trenton.

Small Loan Regulations Simplified

TORONTO (CP) — Six bills introduced in the legislature Wednesday by Attorney - General Arthur Wishart will simplify Ontario's laws on small loans and permit the government to set up a central computerized registry system for liens.

The key measure is the proposed Personal Property Security Act which will supplant the assignment of book debts, bills of sale and chattel mortgages, and conditional sales acts.

The 34-page bill is similar to one introduced and given first reading by the legislature in 1966.

The bill spells out more clearly the rights of lenders and borrowers and any claims of third parties.

One of the main concerns in loans against cars.

At present, loans against a car can be registered in the town where they were arranged, making it almost impossible for a purchaser of a used car to be assured of clear title to the vehicle.

One effect of the legislation will be to reduce legal fees and thereby lower finance charges while making it easier to use cars or other personal property as collateral for loans.

Under the legislation the registry system will be centred in Toronto.

One of the bills will require registration of all bills of sale where the goods sold are retained in the seller's possession.

Mr. Wishart said the proposed legislation will be submitted to the legislature's legal bills committee before it is called for second and third readings.

Terms for Meat Come Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — There may be more bull than beef in some of those advertisements offering meat at exceptionally low prices, the Ontario Food Council warned Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Council said fancy bargain prices and even fancier names for beef may be meant to lure the shopper into the store so that salesmen can persuade them to buy high - priced meat.

Douglas Williams, director of the council, said control over certain forms of advertising used to sell beef at cut - rate prices may be necessary to protect consumers.

A preliminary investigation carried out by the council's consumer committee, indicated that some advertising should be regulated, Mr. Williams said.

The advertising has also attracted the attention of the newly - formed consumer protection division of the Ontario department of financial and commercial affairs.

Douglas Turner, protection division director, said perhaps it is time for a second look at this kind of advertising.

R. E. McGill, Ontario livestock commissioner, said a report prepared for the council which is a division of the Ontario department of agriculture showed carcasses were properly graded and added that while statements made verbally could be considered misleading legislators saw no evidence of anything illegal.

There is no law in Canada forbidding the use of special descriptions for beef, but diet, supreme, regent, corn-fed, no-peer, lynder-aged or western are not grades.

Official government grades are Canada Choice, Canada Good, Canada Standard, Canada Commercial Class 1, 2 and 3, Canada Utility Class 1, 2, and 3, Canada Manufacturing and Canada Bull.

All meat sold commercially in Ontario must bear a stamp indicating that it is fit for human consumption.

If the meat is killed in Ontario, it generally is stamped with the Ontario Approved seal. If the meat has been killed in another province or has been imported, it must have a Canada Approved seal.

The approval is no indication that the meat will be lean, fat, tender or a quality which requires grinding machines to run it into bologna or other by-products.

MP Endorses Income Concept

MOUNT ROYAL, Que. (CP) — The concept of a guaranteed annual income for all Canadians deserves immediate attention, the parliamentary secretary to Manpower Minister Marchand said Wednesday night.

John Munro (Hamilton East) told the Mount Royal Federal Liberal Association the guaranteed income "seems to me the most practical and important concept of fighting poverty that we have today."

Under such a program, everyone would file an income tax report.

"Those who fall below the minimum acceptable income, which would be gauged according to family unit size, would receive a rebate to bring them up to the standard."

Mr. Munro said the scheme is an extension of the basic concept of the recently-approved guaranteed - income plan for older citizens — which ensures recipients a minimum income of $105 a month.

Senators Back Bill to Ban LSD Use

OTTAWA (CP) — A government bill to tighten restrictions against lysergic acid diethylamide, the hallucinatory drug known as LSD, got strong support from both sides of the Senate Wednesday.

Senator Joseph A. Sullivan (PC—Ontario), a doctor, suggested the bill's penalties for possession of LSD—up to three years' imprisonment—are "not drastic enough."

He said Timothy Leary, the American professor who advocates free use of LSD as a mind - expanding exercise, "should be locked up."

Another doctor, Senator F. W. Gershaw (L — Alberta), pointed out the dangers in a drug that in effect creates "a mental breakdown" for the user.

Senator Sullivan told the Senate of the effects of LSD he has seen in experiments.

The drug could produce an acute "panic reaction," violent, upheaval, prolonged emotional psychoses and subjective distortions that could last for months.

The claim by proponents of free LSD use that it expanded the capability of the mind was "just complete balderdash."

"The people that go after it are those with personality problems."

There had been "undue propagands" about LSD, and the use of it "for kicks by untrained thrill-seekers" made it necessary to restrict the drug.

Senator A. H. McDonald (L—Saskatchewan), proposed second reading of the bill.

The change in the act would allow addition of other drugs that might turn up with dangerous characteristics to LSD and which also would be limited to sale to authorized institutions for research under qualified personnel.

Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) said:

"This drug interferes with the mind of man and makes him less than a beast."

Robarts Non-committal

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Municipal Association got little satisfaction Wednesday from Premier John Robarts when it asked for help in fighting a crisis in education costs, a spokesmen for the association said in an interview later.

The association, composed of municipal officials and elected councillors, had asked the Ontario government to assume 100 per cent of the cost of education, to provide more beds for chronically-ill persons not eligible for admission to homes for the aged and better car-safety regulations.

A. M. Campbell, mayor of the borough of Scarborough, said the delegation was told by Mr. Robarts that the question of education costs and government subsidies can be seriously considered only after the government receives the Smith committee report on taxation.

Mr. Robarts refused in the legislature this week to express an opinion on when the report might be ready.

The association in its brief also asked for a royal commission inquiry into highway accidents; a federal-provincial committee to investigate rising consumer prices; federal - provincial action to control water pollution; full costs of hospital construction to be paid by senior governments; and an increase from $90 in the per month allowance for prisons that can be offered in raffles by charitable, religious and benevolent groups.

New Broadcasting Law To Be Considered Soon

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson says he hopes to have new broadcasting legislation dealt with by Parliament before the end for the summer.

He told the Canadian Association of Broadcasters Wednesday he hopes to remove "some of the uncertainty that must now exist" in the industry.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, had told the association's annual convention Tuesday that the board is waiting to hear what its powers will be under expected new laws.

Asked in an interview Wednesday about the delay in naming a new chief of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., Mr. Pearson said: "We want to get our legislation in first."

Don Jamieson, Liberal member of Parliament for the Newfoundland constituency of Burin-Burgeo, who also was at Wednesday's luncheon, said in an interview the government is having trouble finding a man for job.

"Who wants to be 19th man on the totem pole?" he asked. Mr. Jamieson is president of Newfoundland Broadcasting Co. Ltd. and a past - president of the C.A.B.

Mr. Pearson said at the luncheon:

"It was my hope that this legislation could have been presented to Parliament before now."

There had been "some delays and diversions in the government's legislative schedule in the House of Commons" but "I hope that we will still be able to bring this legislation forward and have it dealt with before Parliament recesses for the summer."

"But that, of course, will depend on the way things go in the next few days or weeks," said the prime minister.

He said the general principles laid down in the government white paper on broadcasting June 29, 1966, will form the basis of the new legislation. It had been "complete support" of the all-party committee of the Commons on broadcasting.

Attempt to Discuss Shulman Dismissal Ruled Out of Order

TORONTO (CP)—The firing of Dr. Morton Shulman as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto generated the most heat in the legislature Wednesday even though Speaker Donald Morrow had ruled the matter could not be discussed.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon's motion of non-confidence, defeated by a vote of 54 to 21, sparked charges that the Progressive Conservative government was attempting to gag the opposition.

The motion said the government "no longer has the confidence of the people of Ontario" because it refused to permit an open inquiry into the collapse of Prudential Finance Corp. or explain why six provincial appointed members resigned from the Niagara Parks Commission.

It also said the government has failed to encourage regional development, combat pollution, support farm economy and provide adequate housing.

Mr. Roberts wound up debate on the non-confidence motion by telling opposition members to "stop trying to fight the election on the floor of the legislature."

He said the opposition had decided John Root (PC—Welland-Thorold) for giving a detailed statement on the operation of the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

During the current session the opposition had complained repeatedly about government inaction in combatting pollution, he said, yet had not offered "one word of comment" Tuesday night when the house voted $99,000,000 in funds for the OWRC.

He said the legislature has yet to vote on about $1,000,000,000 worth of proposed government spending in 1967-68 and there is ample government legislation yet to be dealt with by the house.

Speaker Morrow ruled out a section of the motion calling for a debate on the government's firing of Dr. Shulman. A royal commission has been appointed to look into that matter, he said, and master's awaiting a judicial decision could not be debated in the house.

His ruling was upheld by a vote of 58 to 21, with Conservatives voting against Liberal and New Democratic party members as they did later to defeat the balance of the motion.

Ken Brydon (NDP — Woodbine) said Dr. Shulman wasn't specifically mentioned in the royal commission's terms of reference, and there had been unanimous consent in the house that the matter be debated.

Premier John Roberts said the government supported the speaker's ruling.

Vernon Singer (Lr — Dovercourt) shouted that the ruling is unfounded to "absolute obscure."

"It will be debated in the backdoor," said NDP leader Donald MacDonald.

"We will debate it anywhere you like," replied the premier.

"Except in this house," said Mr. MacDonald.

Mr. Brydon said the government "established the inquiry by order in council and merely announced it in the house. This method permitted the government unanimously to say what they had to say but muzzled the opposition."

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Many financial advisors are currently suggesting to clients that since interest rates are starting to go down, it is best to hold back from taking on mortgages for the moment. However, some people can't. There is a way whereby one can secure the advantage of having the money now, and still take advantage of lower interest rates when they come about.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My lease is expiring on the store I'm renting, and the landlord will not renew it. There is no other store available for rent in the main business district of our town, but I can buy a small commercial building, which will solve my problem. This I'm inclined to do. For once and for all I will now have my own property and will be master of my own destiny.

The price of the property is $40,000. I will need a $25,000 mortgage. I've shopped around. I can get the $25,000 mortgage, but the high interest rate is causing me second thoughts.

My financial adviser tells me that mortgage rates are now trending downward and if I wait about one year, I should be able to get a mortgage at the rate I want. But I cannot wait one year. I must buy now. Yet, if I accept the mortgage offered now, I will be bound for the next 20 years at a high rate.

I've followed your column faithfully and even though I've never met you, I consider you my real estate advisor. Please tell me what to do. — Mr. B.

ANSWER: The dilemma faced by our correspondent is one that arises almost daily in various forms in the current market. I have advised clients to solve it in the following way.

As background, a borrower has one advantage in a mortgage deal. The lender cannot re've the interest rate of the debtor, but the borrower can pay off the mortgage by refinancing with lower-interest money when it becomes available.

Lending institutions will try to nullify this process by inserting a pre - payment clause wherein it costs the borrower a good share of the potential savings to pay off the loan.

However, prepayment penalties are not universal and not every lender demands them. Also, I have found that even if a lender asks for such a prepayment penalty, they are negotiable and can be eliminated entirely or reduced to an amount where they are insignificant.

Therefore, under present circumstances, I am recommending that, where necessary, clients do borrow at high interest rate, but their mortgage should contain no prepayment penalty clause, or one of insignificant amount. When cheaper money becomes available (in a short time, it is hoped), the borrower can either ask the lender to reduce the interest rate, or if refused, pay off the obligation by refinancing it at a lower interest with another lender.

* * *

Dear Dr. Meltzer: The two-year lease on the house I'm renting is about to expire. My lease contains a "first privilege to buy."

The above clause was inserted because when I first saw the house I wasn't sure whether I liked it and, if you recall, you advised me to rent it so that I could find out by actually living in the house. I've grown to like the property, and now I want to buy it.

The landlord, however, does not even acknowledge my offers. How do I go about forcing him to sell me the property? — Mr. L. P.

ANSWER: A "first privilege to buy" is conditioned on the landlord's wish to sell. In simple language, it merely hardens words to keep the property and not place it on the market. I don't know how you can compel him to sell.

Your clause only protects you if he decides to sell the property while your present lease is in effect. In that case, you must be given the first right to buy.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I'm ruined. I'll have to move out of town.

Last Monday afternoon, our monthly bridge club was meeting at my home. In the midst of it all, the doorbell rang and a gentleman opened the door and identified himself as a real estate appraiser from our local bank. I told him to go away and come back some other time.

Thereupon, he announced in a loud voice, which all the girls could hear, that my husband had specifically told him that he was to inspect the house that afternoon because we had to have a loan immediately to satisfy his creditors.

I was so mortified I was speechless. I just ran upstairs and hid. I haven't seen any of the girls since.

What steps do I take to sue the appraiser and the bank? — Mrs. D.

ANSWER: An old professor of mine told me a long time ago that the truth was the best legal defence that he knew.

The appraiser, although he may need lessons in voice modulation, was only repeating the instructions given to him by your husband. Apparently, he was trying to avoid having his creditors run him out of town.

All I can suggest is either grin and bear it, or look for a good moving van.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I remember my grandfather, a fine old-country trained gentleman who always finished sharpening his tools by drawing them over a large leather strop. No one I know does this.

Now that I've set up my own hobby shop I'd like to ask whether my grandfather's treatment of tools was his own idiosyncrasy or does it help? — Mr. H.

ANSWER: Many experienced craftsmen to whom I have spoken swear by your grandfather's technique. They claim it puts a razor-like edge on the cutting surface. I agree!

I am told that the preferred way is that after honing, the sharpened edge is finished by stropping on a piece of heavy leather or rubbing edge is assures the end grain of a block of hardwood.

A Rebel wagon has more cargo-room and people-room than any other wagon in its class.

Rebel 770 Cross Country Wagon.

And that's not even counting the no-extra-cost roof rack.

Compare Rebel with any other intermediate-sized wagon and you'll see what Rebel has: more room. More cargo room. More passenger room. Rebel gives you 91.1 cu. ft. of carrying capacity, and a full 6-passenger interior. For good measure, American Motors throws in a roof rack at no extra cost. On other makes, that's an $80.00 extra. Need a 3-seat wagon? Rebel is it. Rebel 3-seaters come with a side-hinged "5th door" (for easier entry and exit) and power rear window. Choose the two-seat Rebel wagon and you have your pick of either a tailgate or the "5th door". Again, nothing extra.

For power, American Motors gives you a choice of two dependable V-8's and three high-performance V-8's. They're the newest and most modern engines in the industry, engineered to deliver more power more economically. Standard is the 232 cu. in. S-c and the choices run all the way up to a 6-barrel 343 cubic inch V-8.

For all its room and power, the nicest thing about a Rebel is the way it's built. With Single-Unit construction that makes the entire car a single, structural unit. With Deep-Dip Rust-proofing, the unique seven-coat dunking that protects every nook and cranny. With a cushioned acoustical caking that filters out road and traffic noise. With a ceramic armoured muffler and exhaust system that lasts for years. With extra comfortable coil-sprung seats.

Tornado Relief Started

HENSALL, Ont. (CP) — A committee to organize and centralize relief contributions and donations for victims of Monday's devastating tornado which struck the Hensall-Dublin area was formed here Wednesday night.

No goal for funds was set by the committee which was formed following an announcement by the provincial government to match dollar-for-dollar funds raised locally to rehabilitate property damaged or destroyed by the twister.

In Toronto Wednesday, Murray Gaunt, Liberal member of the legislature for Huron-Bruce, said damage is much higher than originally estimated and could run into millions of dollars.

Mr. Gaunt urged the government to increase substantially its offer of financial assistance and suggested that it add $5 to every dollar raised locally.

He also asked that government to recruit labor from Ontario Farms Base Camps and the reformatory at Guelph—on a carefully selective basis—to help farmers clear away debris.

The committee formed Wednesday night agreed to set up a central relief fund—to be known as the Huron - Perth Tornado Fund — to be administered solely by the committee.

Lloyd Humphreys, a Dublin bank manager and treasurer of the group, said all banks in the area have agreed to co-operate and will act as collection centres for donations to the fund.

A public canvass for funds will be formed in each municipality and provision for a sub-committee to evaluate damage will be made later.

Ex-mistress Says She Tried to Harm Accused

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Marjorie Farber, the woman whose story led to two murder charges against Dr. Carl Coppolino, said Wednesday that 10 days after he married another woman she tried to damage his professional career.

The brunette, who claims to be the ex - mistress of the doctor now on trial for murder of his first wife, Carmela, said she wrote a letter trying to block Dr. Coppolino's application for a licence to practice in Florida.

The letter, she said, was mailed to Dr. Richard deTore of Nutley, N.J., Oct. 17, 1963, 10 days after Dr. Coppolino married a well-to-do Sarasota divorcee, Mary Gibson.

"Did you say in the letter," asked defence lawyer F. Lee Bailey, "that if you had the power so to do, you would start a whispering campaign against Carl?"

"Yes," Marjorie replied amid objections by prosecutor Frank Schaub that the statement was taken out of context in the letter and gave a distorted impression.

The state charges that Dr. Coppolino, in financial distress, killed Carmela with an injection of a paralyzing drug so that he could collect $65,000 insurance on her life and be free to wed Mary for her money.

Shortly after Carmela was found dead in bed Aug. 28, 1965, Marjorie told Sarasota authorities that Coppolino killed her husband, William R. Farber, a retired U.S. Army colonel, and she suspected that Carmela had met with foul play.

Both bodies were exhumed and murder charges were filed in each case.

Dr. Coppolino was acquitted in New Jersey on a charge that he smothered Farber with a pillow.

Most of defence counsel objections and all of the immaterial motions were denied by Judge Lynn Silvertooth.

Mrs. Farber testified that on the day of Carmela's death, she heard Dr. Coppolino tell someone on the telephone: "They've already started the arterial work. It looks slow anything."

She said she asked him what that meant and he told her: "There was no autopsy."

Lucien Rivard Loses Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (CP-AP)—A U.S. Appeals Court Wednesday upheld the convictions of drug smuggler Lucien Rivard and three of his associates.

The court said it resolved all questions raised by four Montreal men and affirmed their convictions.

Three sentences were handed down in Laredo, Tex., Nov. 11, 1965:

Rivard, 39: 20 years and $20,000 fine for two drug conspiracy convictions;

Julian Gagnon, 36: 15 years and $10,000 fine for conspiring with Rivard;

Joseph Raymond Jones, 28; 12 years and $5,000 fine for conspiracy.

Rivard was described by the prosecution as a key figure in a vast heroin-smuggling operation from Mexico and Canada.

School Band Gets Grant From Council

Hastings county council has voted a grant of $250 to the North Hastings District High School Band to assist in paying expenses to travel to Montreal to attend Expo 67.

The school band was chosen from among a number of similar groups to perform at the world's fair and school organizations, local municipalities and private individuals are combining in efforts to raise expense money.

Council also voted grants to tourist organizations. Approved were grants of $1,500 to the Highlands of Hastings; $1,000 to Madawaska Valley and $200 to Land O' Lakes.

Zone Ball To Be Held At Legion Hall

In spite of the turmoil due to renovations under way in the lower Hall at Branch 59 Royal Canadian Legion, activities are maintained at a peak level for April. Indications are that another week or two will pass before completion of the urgently needed facilities.

A highly successful Vimy night on Monday of last week was one of the major events for the month and this year, coming up on Friday, April 21st is the second highlight of the month. Branch 59 will host the Zone F-3 Centennial Ball. There will be dancing for everyone's enjoyment, however the feature event of the evening will be the zone square dancing competition. Last year's trophy winners (Branch 59) will be in for some severe competition from other branches. Replies have been received from branches in the zone and a good turnout of our own branch is expected.

Friday evening, April 28th has been set aside for another mass initiation when a sizeable group of new members will be taken into membership. A stag get-together will follow for initiation ceremonies. All members are urged to attend and welcome the new members to the Royal Canadian Legion.

Spring Flaw Preparations Completed

NAPANEE — Everything is in readiness for Spring Flaw, the annual amateur production of the Napanee and District Jaycees. It is expected that the auditorium of the NDSS will be as crowded both Thursday and Friday nights this year as it was both nights last year.

The acts have been hand picked. Two Kingston groups have been invited to join with the best local talent. The Boys of the Austrian Alps make up a dancing team, featuring Austrian folk dances.

Locally the Bobinaes and Professional Women's Club is presenting "The Family Album," but details of the presentation are shrouded in mystery to date. Members of the OSTOC and Lions Club are publicly announcing, however, that they are giving a picture of the "roaring twenties."

Many of the acts will be based on the Centennial theme.

Plans Made in Ottawa for Peacekeeping Role

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence headquarters is drawing up emergency contingency plans to dispatch Canadian troops to Vietnam should any peacekeeping force be established there.

A defence department spokesman said Wednesday night that it is normal to draw up contingency plans for an operation which might be mounted at some future date.

But he conceded that planning for a Vietnam peacekeeping operation was undertaken on a crash basis only hours after External Affairs Minister Martin announced last Tuesday that Canada would be prepared to participate in a Vietnam peacekeeping operation.

No details of the planning were officially disclosed.

Unofficially, it was said the plans involve a battalion group —some 1,000 men—and its air and sea transportation and housing accommodation.

The unit most likely to get the assignment would be the 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, stationed at Picton, Ont., which has been on stand-by for possible peacekeeping duty for some time.

An external affairs department spokesman said Canadian peacekeeping experience is being re-evaluated to determine what role Canadians might play in Vietnam if the terms of reference for the International Control Commission are widened.

Under present terms, dating from the 1954 ceasefire agreement arranged at Geneva, the Canada - India - Poland commission has no authority to set up a peacekeeping operation along the lines of the United Nations forces in Egypt and Cyprus.

The commission, which operated successfully in 1954-56 in overseeing implementation of the Geneva agreement, has been imposed for a decade as an observer of the Vietnam situation.

The commission has headquarters in Saigon but also maintains an office in Hanoi.

Ormond Dier, 48, new senior Canadian representative on the commission, will make his first visit to Hanoi late this week and will discuss with North Vietnamese authorities Mr. Martin's four-point plan for a ceasefire.

Mr. Dier is expected to report back to Ottawa on his Hanoi visit before Mr. Martin confers in New York April 27 with United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

Artistic Displays Shown at Library

DESERONTO — The Deseronto Public Library has two attractions at present: a display of quilt blocks, and one of oil paintings.

The cases contain about 40 quilt blocks, many of them in the traditional patterns. Several, however, are original designs, with the Centennial theme predominating. One which is attracting much attention depicts the front of the library, and is the work of Mrs. George Root.

The quilt blocks have been on display for a week and will be left until early next month.

Rev. Russel Finley has had six of his pictures there since early this week. Mr. Finley is especially fond of painting flowers, and his still life of tulips is an appropriate subject for a spring showing.

The two landscape portray two churches which will be closed this summer, one at the Fourth Line in Richmond Township, and the [illegible] Lonsdale in the Shannonville area.

Each of the three portraits is of a local character. The first is of Patty Anne Garland, a little neighbor girl. Mr. Finley states that portrait painting gives the artist great satisfaction. He sees a certain quality in his subject and endeavors to bring it out.

Blair Fingland is all boy, his eyes shining when he is enthusiastic, Mr. Finley says.

The third portrait is of a young Mohawk boy, Eric Unger, who has a natural talent for drawing and for composition.

The six paintings will be on display until the end of the month, when they will be taken to the Grand Theatre in Kingston for a showing.

OPP Will Increase Spot Checks

NAPANEE — "Check your vehicle now for safety," is the admonition of the safety officer of the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. He is also responsible for issuing the weekly public information release.

"Throughout the warm weather months the local officers will be increasing their spot checks for mechanical defects", this week's release states. "These safety checks consist of checking horn, windshield wipers, foot brakes, emergency parking brakes, headlights, tail lights, directional lights, licence lamps, muffler, tires, and the general condition of the vehicle."

During these spot checks, the driver of each vehicle is requested to produce driver's licence, and ownership and insurance certificates.

Comparatively few accidents were investigated last week, a total of only four. One was property damage only, while five persons received minor injuries in the other three.

Directors Guild Is Running Films of Oscar Award Winner

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Directors Guild of America now is running a retrospective festival of the films of the latest winner of its annual award, Fred Zinnemann.

Since the guild's award always has coincided with the Oscar for best direction, the custom works out nicely. And adding has a victory lean so popular, Zinnemann below more or less a director's director.

The selections for the festival demonstrate the versatility of the Vienna-born director.

Film comes The Search (1948), which would have been important if only for introducing Montgomery Clift to the screen. But it was more than that—a poetic study of the displacement of war.

Another vital introduction was Marlon Brando in The Men (1950). In 1952, High Noon raised the western to its highest art and established Gary Cooper as a film immortal. Also a member of the Wedding (1952) was a financial flop but cherished by some critics.

From Here to Eternity (1953) was a modern classic which gave Zinnemann his first Oscar. The Nun's Story (1958) was his role venture into religion and a rare spiritual experience. In The Sundowners (1960) Robert Mitchum proved that he seldom demonstrated before or since: That he can be a fine actor. In A Man for all Seasons, Zinnemann's dips into the costume picture while avoiding the deadliness of costume pictures.

Zinnemann has directed only 15 features, starting with The Kid Glove Killer in 1942 after he graduated from the MGM shorts department.

Zinnemann himself has refused to knuckle under to the Hollywood system. His slight stature and almost inaudible voice belie a will of iron.

Zinnemann once defied the Columbia studio dictator, Harry Cohn, who wanted to cast a contract player, Aldo Ray, as Pruitt in From Here to Eternity. The director insisted on Clift.

"I'm president of this company!" Cohn shouted. "You can't give ultimatums."

"I'm not giving you ultimatums," Zinnemann replied quietly. "I want to make a good picture, and I don't see how I can make this picture without Monty Clift." He won his point.

Bogart Popular With Fans Young Enough to Be His Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Most inventors of the cult surrounding the late Humphrey Bogart are so young they can only have seen his films in television reruns or in revivals.

Joe Hyams, a Hollywood newspaper man and author of a book, Bogart, believes he understands why Bogart is popular with fans young enough to be his children. He said:

"Bogart was always cool and loose, the way they'd like to be. His voice was a rasp and he even had a lisp, but he was tough outside while there was something very tender inside. He partly father image, but there's also something about him that they can identify with."

Hyams was production consultant for Bogart, a documentary about the actor that will be broadcast on ABC next Sunday.

Hyams spent many hours watching old Bogie films.

"It was fascinating to watch him develop," he said. "He always had a natural way of taking a woman in his arms, but it became smoother.

"I spotted the tricks—the way he pulled his ear, his way of clicking a cigarette. I can even tell you now when he started to lose his hair—and by watching out from both, of a long time when he neglected to go to the dentist."

Recommended tonight: The Wide Open Door, ABC, 9.30-11 EST, comedy cops and robbers with Tony Randall and Honor Blackman.

UN Assembly Special Session Will Deal With South Africa

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—In an atmosphere of gloom, the 122-country UN General Assembly will open a special session Friday to deal with South Africa's rule of South-West Africa and with the problems of peacekeeping.

Diplomats have expressed little optimism about prospects for progress on these issues at the session, expected to last for about three weeks. The general expectation is that both issues will be sent back to committees.

Canada is a member of both the peacekeeping and South-West African special committees.

The 14-country committee on South-West Africa, set up in November to figure out how the UN can end South Africa rule in the former German colony, has been unable to agree on recommendations to the assembly. Its report will simply pass on proposals advanced by various countries.

The assembly passed a resolution last October terminating the mandate, South Africa acquired over South-West Africa from the League of Nations. South Africa has rejected this decision and warned that it will resist any attempt to end its rule of South-West Africa, in which the policy of apartheid, or separation of the races, is being applied.

The deadlock over the authorization and financing of UN peace forces also remains unbroken. Canada has taken the lead in efforts to break it, but has so far been unable to win French and Soviet support for its ideas.

This will be the first special session of the assembly in four years. The last one met in May and June of 1963, also on the subject of peacekeeping. The assembly meets regularly every fall, beginning in September.

Canada concedes that the 15-country Security Council is the organ primarily responsible for peacekeeping, an article 24 of the UN charter stipulates. It maintains, however, with the support of the United States and some other countries, that the assembly should be able to act when the council is prevented from doing so by a big-power veto.

France and the Soviet Union have refused to contribute to the support of some UN peace forces on the ground that they This refusal led to a debt on peacekeeping operations, which still amounts to about $20,000,000, and the assembly decided in 1963 to request all member countries to make voluntary contributions to overcome the deficit without compromising their positions on the financing of specific operations.

Studies on Tourism And Industry Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Special research studies on tourism, manpower, agriculture and industry are being considered by the Eastern Ontario Development Association but all will require money from either the provincial or federal government before they can start.

"We could start some of them almost immediately if we can get the money," H. D. Callan, association general manager, said Wednesday.

"But we brought them up mainly for general discussion to see how members react to them."

The research proposals were selected from information contained in a regional development inventory for Eastern Ontario commissioned by the government a year ago.

The recommended projects were broken down into short- and long-term programs, with an immediate one-year course of action and two years of follow-up work.

Delegates at the annual meeting also heard H. F. Crown, director of the Agricultural and Rural Development Act for Ontario, outline accomplishments and future plans.

Mr. Crown said that while farmers had made more progress in production per man than any other industry in the last 25 years, 30,327 smaller farms are uneconomic and will have to be grouped.

This would require retraining programs for persons leaving farms. The problem had not become serious yet because of the high demand for labor, but retraining facilities had to be established to speed the transition.

He said a shift in farm crops and improved drainage could make many farms more profitable. He estimated there are 1,000,000 acres in Eastern Ontario suitable for corn and soybeans — products now imported into Ontario from other regions.

The association elected Jack Spence of Ottawa president, and Mayor Dick Knaak of Cornwall, Art Stewart of Pakenham, John Wilson of Kingston and Yvon Bertrand of Hawkesbury as vice-presidents.

Reeve Vera McCarten of Carleton Place, Ray Mackintosh of Brockville, Doug Warner of Cornwall, Germain Tessier of Hawkesbury and Ernie Bushnel of Ottawa were appointed directors of the five EODA zones.

TAX CLAIMS—EXTRA DAY

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxpayers will have until Monday, May 1, to file their 1966 income tax returns, Revenue Minister Benson said Wednesday in the Commons. The extra day is permitted because the usual closing date for filing returns falls on Sunday, April 30. Mr. Benson was replying to Alfred D. Hales (PC — Wellington-South).

Army Arrests Greece's Premier

ATHENS (CP) — The army took over power in Greece today, arresting Premier Panayiotis Canellopoulos and other key ministers and political leaders.

Strong army units with tanks and armored cars cordoned off the capital, surrounding the royal palace, government ministries and other strategic points.

The Greek Army radio announced that after sunset anyone seen on the streets in Athens would be shot without warning.

It said the army had taken control because of the "explosive situation that has been created in the country."

Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, reported that shots had been heard in the Greek capital.

Canellopoulos was arrested by an army contingent headed by a colonel.

He was reported to have protested but was told he was being arrested for his own "protection."

The premier's wife said he had been dragged into his car and taken away.

Both rightist and leftist political leaders were reported under arrest.

Roads in Athens were blocked and traffic diverted. Army units took over Athens Airport and post office, radio and telecommunications buildings.

There was no immediate word of the fate of 26-year-old King Constantine.

But the Greek armed services radio broadcast a decree which it said had been signed by the king suspending articles of the constitution guaranteeing free speech and assembly and other civil rights.

The radio said a curfew was imposed in Athens and all university and school classes suspended indefinitely.

The radio said articles of the constitution had been suspended because of the "danger to the public security of the country from internal enemies."

It did not identify the leader of the army takeover, which took place shortly after midnight Thursday night.

There was no indication of any disorders during the takeover, but people were told to keep off the streets until further notice.

The Associated Press quoted a Greek embassy source in Rome as saying that the embassy had been advised that election of a new Greek parliament would be held on schedule May 28 despite the military takeover.

"We have been informed," said the Rome source, "that the coup was staged to assure public order and prevent any extremist revolution during the period preceding the election."

The Athens army radio announced that the military had taken over under a proclamation it claimed was signed by the 26 - year - old king, the premier-designate said.

The military moved almost like an occupying army. A complex curfew ordered for all civilians except doctors and pharmacists on emergency cases.

Civil rights were set aside. A news agency in Turkey said King Constantine had abrogated the law prohibiting death penalties for political reasons.

It was the first dictatorship set up in Greece in 30 years except for the Nazi wartime occupation.

In Rome, unconfirmed reports spread among Greek circles officials that the King's arch opponent, former premier George Papandreou, 80, his son, Andreas, 48, and key followers were jailed.

The Greek embassy source in Rome said the king had put Gen. Spandidakis in charge of the takeover.

King's Appeal to Army In Greece No Surprise

ROME (AP)—The military in Greece today opened a new but not unexpected chapter in the struggle between the right and left.

The decision of King Constantine to suspend normal constitutional procedure and put the army in control had been building for nearly two years as a result of his struggle with former premier George Papandreou's son, Andreas.

Rumors and speculation had been growing for weeks that the 26-year-old monarch was becoming increasingly convinced that a period of dictatorship was necessary to avoid internal disorders and to save the monarchy.

He has a modern precedent in his own family. His uncle, King George III, gave his consent in 1936 to a dictatorship by Gen. Metaxas to halt the threat of a Communist takeover. The dictatorship lasted until Metaxas died in 1941.

Constantine's father, King Paul, became king after the war and with massive American help was able to guide Greece through the years of Communist insurrection and into NATO without resorting to dictatorship.

When Paul died March 6, 1964, his son succeeded him at the age of 23.

Where his father was conciliatory, Constantine was strong-willed. He and the Papandreous clashed head-on in a fight over control of the country's armed forces.

The Papandreous and their followers fought to make the king a largely ceremonial figure who reigned but did not rule. Constantine fought to save royal prerogatives to guide the country.

Mounting a ball - wing plot among pro-Papandreou army officers to oust the monarchy and take Greece out of NATO, he fired the elder Papandreou from the premiership on July 15, 1965.

From that moment, the struggle that led to today's power move was joined.

Arrested Premier Staunch Royalist

ATHENS (Reuters) — Professor Panayiotis Canellopoulos, leader of Greece's conservative National Radical Union and premier for 18 days until today's army coup, is a royalist, scholar and former wartime resistance fighter.

After the wartime liberation of Greece and the Communist uprising of 1944, he emerged as political figure and headed a cabinet appointed by the regent, Archbishop Damaskinos, in 1945.

His first government lasted only 21 days.

Tall, slim and distinguished in appearance, Canellopoulos, 64, was born in Patras, southern Greece. The Patras constituency has returned him to Parliament regularly since 1946.

Despite a conservative and royalist background, he is one of the most progressive of Greek leaders and has handed him in trouble with Gen. Metaxas, Greek strongmen dictator, in 1937.

Metaxas confined him to an island in the northern Aegean Sea for nearly a year.

Canellopoulos served with resistance groups in the Albanian mountains after Mussolini's Fascist forces invaded Greece. He was appointed deputy premier of the Greek government-in-exile in Cairo in 1942.

Two years later he returned to Greece, before the German occupying forces finally withdrew, to forestall hostilities between left- and right-wing resistance groups.

A student at Centennial Secondary School, Victor spent four weeks last summer making the armor as an example of applied engineering science for the Science Fair and Hobby Show being held in the Belleville Armouries today and tomorrow.

Five Children Die in Fire In Peterborough District

PETERBOROUGH—An inspector of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office was despatched from Belleville this morning to probe a fire which took the lives of five children near here early this morning.

Scene of the tragedy was a two-storey frame house in Emily-Smith township, 15 miles north of here.

Terrance Doris, father of the children, is in St. Joseph's General Hospital "wandering around in a daze" but uninjured, a hospital spokesman said.

His 28-year-old wife, Sheila, is also in hospital suffering from smoke inhalation and cuts. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

The fire started about 4:15 a.m. trapping the children, ranging in age from two to nine. The parents escaped and ran for help, said Harold Flood, township volunteer fire chief.

After the family car failed to start, Mr. Doris ran to a neighbor's house a mile away and telephoned firemen, Mr. Flood said.

Two volunteer fire departments arrived 15 minutes later, but the 70-year-old building was already destroyed, the fire chief said.

The family rented the house from a neighbor and had been living there since last August, Firemen reported the house had excellent insulation.

A similar fire in the township April 8, 1963, claimed the lives of three children.

Early today Inspector Del Hoyle, stationed in Ontario Fire Marshal's regional office in Belleville, was sent to the scene to probe for clues on the cause of the fire.

Parking Meter Nickels Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge Thursday rejected a Queen's University student's contention that there are no such coins in Canadian law as pennies, nickles, dimes and quarters.

Mr. Justice C. D. Stewart sent the case back to Kingston Magistrate P. E. D. Baker who accepted last month student Matthew C. Hudson's defence on a $3 parking meter ticket.

Hudson, 24, of London, Ont., claimed Kingston parking meters were invalid because they bore instruction about pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters, terms not mentioned in the Canadian Currency Act.

Mr. Justice Stewart complimented the final-year law student for an ingenious argument, but added that he could not agree with him.

Hudson said outside court that Kingston's meter maids had been regularly ticketing his green Jaguar last fall, so he decided to fight one of the tickets as a matter of principle.

Underground Hospital Is Found Near Saigon

LAI THIEU, South Vietnam (AP)—Within sight of Saigon's night lights, the Viet Cong carved out an elaborate underground hospital the length of four football fields. American soldiers found it by chance.

"We had bulldozed over it for a week to make farmland for the friendlies," said one officer. "We had no idea the place was here—and so close to Saigon and our base camp."

A professional "tunnel rat," Sgt. William Wilson of Rochester, N.Y., found it while wandering in the debris churned up by the bulldozers.

He lowered himself into a well and began gauging in the dirt wall with his long switchblade stiletto. Suddenly the earth gave way.

Wilson had found a tunnel—a small one, about 30 inches square at the entrance.

Wilson crawled, squeezed, pulled and pushed his body through the darkness, sighting left, then right until he felt head-first into a room with clean linen.

He checked out another tiny tunnelway. It led him into another room, another passage, more sigs and rags, then into a catacomb-like hospital ward.

Beds were carved out of the marble-hard laterite soil.

At the end of another shaft, Wilson found an immaculate operating room.

Svetlana Stalin On Way to U.S.

BERN (AP)—Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana, left Switzerland today by plane for New York, the Swiss government announced.

The brief government communique gave no details, but an authoritative source said the daughter of the late Soviet dictator left Zurich aboard Swissair flight 104 in New York at 2.50 p.m. EST.

Thousands of Hungry People Hunt Food in Indian Countryside

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The government planned today to step up food supplies to Bihar state, where drought and famine have reduced millions of people to walking skeletons.

Food Minister Jagjivan Ram described the situation as a serious and unprecedented calamity.

Inderdip Sinha, Bihar state revenue minister, was quoted as saying that thousands of persons in the northern state were trekking through the country-side in search of food and water.

His said hundreds of thousands of cattle were abandoned by people unable to feed them.

It was estimated that about 38,000,000 people were affected by the drought. One report said many of the famine victims were too weak to move.

U.S. Editors Back Vietnam War but Criticize News Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sample survey of U.S. newspaper editors Thursday indicated strong support for President Johnson's handling of the Vietnam problem. But many editors feel the administration has bungled in telling people about it.

Seventy-one of 103 editors polled during the 1967 convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors voiced generally enthusiastic support for U.S. Vietnam policy.

The 24 who objected were divided between hawks and doves: Nine urged a step-up in the pace of the war and 15 called for an end to bombings of North Vietnam and more intensive peace efforts.

The editors, among 550 assembled, were asked for their personal views — not those of their papers.

Many, regardless of views on administration policies, expressed ignorance about some facets of the Vietnam situation and much of this is because of President Johnson's inability to communicate.

Meanwhile, two convention speakers criticized the handling of news in the U.S.

Floyd McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, charged that U.S. newspapers ignore the needs and needs of Negroes in their cities unless one Negro attacks another or utters radical or violent statements.

Newspaper treatment for the words of Negro spokesmen which are rational and earnest, he said, is "a total blackout — and I use that word advisedly."

McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, criticized U.S. newspapers for concentrating unduly on "hard, hot news" and ignoring the journalism that he said goes below the surface—the analytical stories.

The former White House aide urged newspapers — and their editors —to "rise above the rather tight and narrow circle of preoccupation with firsts and leads."

Council Tranquility Shattered

Tweed--It Only Took Just One Word and the Battle's On

TWEED (Special) — The amity of municipal life here has been ambushed.

And it's a skirmish in the oldest war of 'em all — the battle of the sexes.

This town now has a council made up of Reeve Barbara Allen, four other women — and Burton Thompson, 56.

The female dominance in local government is the result of male reluctance to stand for election to this year's council.

(Mr. Thompson became the only man on council after Rev. D. W. Sinclair resigned last week and was acclaimed by the next highest-ranking candidate — a woman).

However, the atmosphere since has been tranquil with council meetings proceeding in peace and calm.

Until now!

The swift switch of situations was stimulated by an interview with Mr. Thompson which appeared Thursday in Tweed paper.

In that publication the lone male councillor relayed complaints that his women colleagues were latched in tight more and would probably spark more — long than male councils of the past.

Now, the women are into it — with Reeve Allen championing the women against the male challenger.

At first, Mrs. Allen confesses she did not take Mr. Thompson seriously and believed the report might have been slanted.

However, after a telephone conversation with the councillor she changed her attitude.

Now she seems stung by his remarks and has a few ready ripostes of her own:

"If anyone is doing a lot of talking on council it's not the women," she stated bluntly.

"We've done more business in less time at our council meetings than any council I ever sat on."

"He says this is the worst council this village ever had. Well he's a member of it. It's certainly not guaranteed to inspire public confidence."

Neither is it true the 1967 council will spend more money — just because the women are in the majority.

"If we're spending more it's just because we happen to be sitting on council this year. This is the situation all across the province. Every council is being forced to spend more.

This isn't because we are women; it's simply because we are councillors."

Reeve Allen confesses herself still mystified on what prompted Mr. Thompson's remarks.

"Mr. Thompson is an asset in council—imaginative, bright, constructive. I don't know why he said what he did."

Meantime, Councillor Thompson, who says some of his remarks were misconstrued during the interview, is unrepentant.

But he had a piece of advice for his female colleagues:

"If you're going to play a man's game you have to play it by a man's rules. Just because they're women in politics they shouldn't think they're free from criticism.

"Once you're in politics you're neither male nor female."

He revealed Reeve Allen had demanded he make a public apology, and retorted:

"There'll be no damn apology from me — now or ever!"

The fact council might go higher was not attributable to the dominance of women councillors.

There's only one way for taxes to go — up. And I wouldn't blame that on a women's council. Everything's going up."

Women on council, he said however, would be inclined to talk more than men — "but not that much."

His basic criticism was that women seemed anxious to rush business, an attitude which can cause mistaken decisions.

"I don't just happen to agree with the way the reeve is running things," said Mr. Thompson. "There's 12 months in the year. We don't have to do it all in two months."

However, he added, his colleagues seemed to have gained the impression he was "taking a backdder" at them because they were women in municipal affairs.

Mr. Thompson recalled last November, when few men showed interest in seeking election nominations, there was a movement promoting an all-women council "because it would be publicity."

This introduced a note of "funny stuff" into municipal affairs, charged the councillor.

"If an all-female council is elected by a vote of the people that's dandy. But it shouldn't be done for publicity."

An all-woman local government would be the result if Mr. Thompson were to quit — a move he warns is possible "if the going gets tough."

"If they entrained, if I see I can't fulfill my duties I will have to resign. If this is what they're after they can have it."

The next ranking candidate in line is Mrs. Janet Whitfield, Rev. Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Thompson's male colleague on council before his recent resignation, said he had no comment up the issue.

"If I were still on council it might be different, but I don't just know enough about it to say anything."

He stressed the reasons for his resignation were purely personal, and his pastoral duties no longer allowed the time for municipal affairs.

"I just had to cut down on my own activities," he said.

Budget Committee Reviewing Financial Needs of Agencies

Over the past few weeks, the Citizens' Budget Committee of the United Community services has visited all of the agencies which participate in the United Fund.

The committee, which consists of fifteen men and women, has been divided into panels of about four members each.

Hugh J. Kennedy is head of the committee and Robert J. Ord, Mrs. Dorothy J. Curzon, Paul E. Fleming and John E. Buchan head each of the panels.

In order to familiarize themselves with the operations and programs of the agencies ,each panel has been visiting three or four agencies to see what is being done.

During the month of May, after formal presentations of 1968 budgets have been made, the budget committee will review the financial needs of the agencies in a series of conferences.

When the conferences have been completed, the committee will suggest a campaign goal to the directors of United Community services for next year.

The United Community Services of Belleville and District, Inc., have also requested the consideration of the Mayor and Council for a grant-in-aid of $10,000 for 1967 operating expenses.

City council granted the United Community Services $17,000 for operating expenses in the eighteen-month period ending in December of 1966.

The proposed budget of United Community Services for 1967 is $18,000 and of this amount, $8,000 is budgeted for campaign expenses and the remainder for administration of the trust funds. The remaining $10,000 is budgeted for social planning.

It is noted that of the nine communities in Ontario with social planning councils, Belleville City Council not only set the precedent of adequate municipal support but also established the planning council itself.

Search for Grants Gets Cool Response

PICTON (Staff) — Delegations from the Prince Edward Farmers' Union and the County Federation of Agriculture, making the rounds of various municipal councils in the county are getting a varied response.

Both groups "struck oil" this week when Sophiasburgh Council made a $200 grant to each organization. Councillors commented though, that they might be able to do a better job if the two groups were to unite. They criticized the fact that two organizations were doing essentially the same thing and seeking financial support from public funds. Athol Township Council has heard both groups' submissions but has not, as yet made any decision.

Delegations from the two groups met with South Marysburgh Township Council Wednesday night and received a cool response to any suggestion of grants. The council did pass a resolution authorizing the clerk to draw up a bylaw to levy a quarter of a mill on the whole of the Federation. Township Clerk Gerard Kavanagh, said this now go on the assessment notices if the bylaw is passed, and the notices have already gone out in this year. The levy would not take effect until 1968 at the earliest.

The major objections to giving a grant to either organization was most councillors did not believe in giving grants from public funds to any organization. At least one member of council suggested that it might be illegal to give a grant to the Farmers' Union.

Hydro Service In Cannifton Area Disrupted

Hydro service in the Cannifton area and also in some parts of the city, was disrupted yesterday afternoon as the result of a defective transformer north of 401 highway.

Hydro officials said the interruption occurred about 2:00 p.m. and although full service for most customers was restored within an hour, some were without hydro until about five o'clock.

While repairs were being made at the transformer north of the city, customer service was fed through Shannonville and Bayside circuits.

Outstanding Honor Says Vimy Veteran

Norman D. Bean R. R. 1 Foxboro regards his participation in the ceremonies at the Cenotaph on Vimy Ridge in France, commemorating the 50th anniversary of the battle and capture of the Ridge on April 9, 1917, to be the outstanding honor of his life time.

Meeting his surviving comrades on the familiar battle grounds of 50 years ago was indeed a thrilling experience. A tour along the battle fronts showed the vast changes the cities have taken a new look, and the wonderful park - like preservation of the grounds around the Cenotaph on the Ridge showing trenches, shellholes and craters as it was the surviving veterans a memorable feeling. The veterans' committee are also kept in magnificent condition, each grave marked by a headstone.

Although the day was dampened by rain, a large number of civilians attended the ceremonies; a total that exceeded participation of some 500 well organized small children, all laying wreaths at the foot steps leading up to the Cenotaph, bowing their heads and returning in their formation, brought tears to the eyes of the aged veterans.

The flight on an R.C.A.F. Yukon plane from Ottawa to Paris and return was exception-ally smooth, credit for this being due to the pilot, co-pilot and their efficient crew, and to the accompanying R.C.A.F. personnel, including Dr. G. R. D. Farmer, Capt. N. S. Sharp, W.O. 1, Mrs. Farmer, and these wonderful hostesses who served the finest meals and refreshments in this style of travel. This will be remembered by all Vets on board ! !

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the dignitaries and veterans proceeded to Arras as the guests of the government of Canada for a luncheon in their honor at Hotel de l'Univers, His Worship Mayor Lecuyer providing champagne for the toasts.

Touring transportation and hotel accommodation in France left nothing to be desired, just wonderful, and was very efficiently conducted by the Thomas Cook Travel Agency, Mr. Thomas Glass and Mr. William Manby being the touring escorts in charge.

The delegation to the Vimy Memorial ceremonies was sponsored by the Department of Veterans' Affairs, under the supervision of Mr. Gordon Way, Information Officer at Ottawa.

This memorable return to the battle sites of Vimy was indeed interesting, and appreciated by all the surviving veterans taking part in the ceremonies at the Cenotaph, and will always remain a dedicated thought to their comrades.

Expect Hike In Milk Price Next Month

Belleville housewives will start paying more for their milk next month but the actual amount of the increase hasn't been decided on by Quinte district milk distributors.

Starting May 15 fluid milk producers in Ontario will be paid an additional 35 cents per hundredweight for their milk. This works out at about one cent per quart.

A spokesman for one city dairy said today that the bottle price would almost certainly go up in Belleville but no decision has yet been made on what the increase will be.

In some centres it is expected the increase to customers will be two cents per quart.

Some dairies pay delivery-men on a commission basis and this means that delivery costs to the dairy will increase along with the extra 35 cents per cwt. to be paid to producers.

50 Visitors Taken on Conducted Tour

The Deloro Stellite plant in East Belleville saw a multi-pronged invasion yesterday by separate groups of district manufacturers and by members of the Belleville Industrial Commission and representatives of the provincial Department of Economics and Development.

In all more than 50 visitors were taken on conducted tours of the plant where they saw everything from research operations, through the various phases of plant production and final inspection.

Specifically the plant tours were arranged for members of the St. Lawrence Branch of Canadian Manufacturers Association who were holding their spring dinner meeting in the city.

But yesterday was also the occasion of a visit to Belleville of representatives of the Department of Economics and Development who with members of the city industrial commission were luncheon guests of Lakeland Gas.

Following the luncheon the Department visitors were taken on a tour of the city, which was interrupted long enough to take in the plant tour at Deloro Stellite.

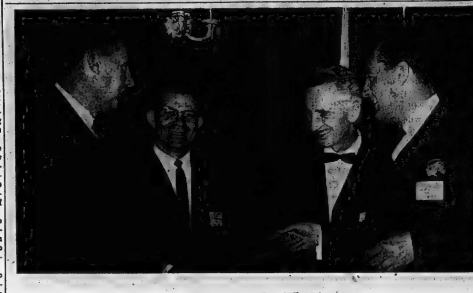
A division of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, Deloro Stellite moved to Belleville from Deloro just over 11 years ago and now provides employment for more than 300 workers and sales personnel.

The plant operates strictly for the manufacture of Cobalt alloys. Finished components are marketed in Canada and exported throughout the world.

Deloro Smelting and Refining Company since the present century pioneered the development of the first commercial cobalt metal and by 1915 had found that alloys containing cobalt, chromium and tungsten (Stellite) would withstand heats that would melt steel.

Today Stellite components are manufactured for a wide variety of uses, among the uses being turbine blades for aircraft jet engines, and other space age applications.

But research still goes on and the Deloro research facilities at Belleville is one of the best equipped in Canada and also has one of the finest metallurgical libraries in the country. Chief research metallurgist is Carl Whittemore who has been with the Company since 1936.



In the research division experimental work continued on new alloys for special purposes, powder metallurgy, welding techniques and many phases of metal fabrication required to cover the wide range of outlets in every industry.

Visitors to the Deloro Stellite plant yesterday saw the various moulding processes, metal pouring, grinding and milling operations on alloys and the final finishing and inspection.

Industrial Talk

Belleville Mayor J. R. Ellis, Economics and Development Department representative H. McMurray, Trenton Mayor James MacDonald, and Andrew Irwin of Lakeland Natural Gas, discuss Industry at yesterday's hotel luncheon.

Industrial Sites Inspected

Just what Belleville has to offer in the way of industrial sites, housing and other amenities was shown yesterday to representatives of the Ontario Department of Economics and Development.

Four members of the Department, H. McMurray, A. Petch, D. Watson and R. Brown, spent nearly four hours in the city and after noon luncheon were taken on a tour of the city.

The department officials were shown potential industrial sites in both the northeast and northwest sections of the city; the type of housing available, hospital and education facilities, together with railway and highway transport and water transport possibilities.

Host for the noon luncheon attended by members of the Belleville Industrial Commission, Chamber of Commerce officials and municipal representatives from Trenton, was Lakeland Natural Gas Ltd. through its general manager Andrew A. Irwin of Kingston.

In welcoming guests, Mr. Irwin said that industrial promotion could no longer be done on an individual basis by municipalities. "Rather," he said, "it must be done on an area basis."

Winter Works Names Officers

Members of the Belleville and district winter works committee are not holding the grass grown under their feet when it comes to planning for next year.

The new chairman for 1967-68 is Joseph Cox from Wilson Concrete. Vice chairman is W. G. Harwar. Prince Edward county welfare officer and Ameliasburgh township representative on the committee.

Swing Portion Of Bridge Fails To Function

TRENTON — The 50-year-old town bridge over the Trent River opened its swing portion for the first time this season yesterday, and the result was a half-hour traffic tie-up.

Fittingly enough, the first marine traffic to pass through the bridge in 1967 were a crane barge and a dredge en route to the construction site of the new D. James Allward span several hundred yards up-river.

On closing the swing portion, however, the automatic locking device failed to function properly, and barriers to auto traffic on Dundas street to the north both sides failed to rise.

It took Public Utilities Commission workmen about 30 minutes to rectify the situation before regular traffic could continue through the downtown Trenton area.

Meanwhile, construction workers were busy installing the first two structural steel girders forming the spans of the new bridge.

Mayor James MacDonald indicated to town council earlier this week the new structure may be ready by the end of August to ease the traffic burden placed on the existing bridge.

Immigration Policy

Opening Canada's doors once again to unskilled labor as a source of manpower — "for man-hungry industries such as mining," as an Ottawa report puts it — is a positive step.

Not only will industry benefit, but so too will thousands who under existing immigration laws have been barred because of the increasing emphasis on the need for skilled professional men.

At the same time educational facilities are being improved all the time in Canada. The establishment of the new Community Colleges in the Quinte area and elsewhere means that expanded facilities for vocational as well as academic training will be available.

In other words immigrants admitted to Canada as unskilled persons will have the opportunity not only to work in the mines, steel mills, forests and other outdoor spheres, but to go to school as well, or take advantage of Government training courses.

And even if they do not harbor such ambitions, being content merely to continue working in unskilled occupations, then their children will benefit from an education here.

The new system, outlined before a Senate-Commons committee by Manpower Minister Jean Marchand, is contained in a nine-point formula whereby immigration officers will assess would-be immigrants. They deal principally with the individual's education, personal qualities, the strength of demand for his type of occupation, his age, and his occupational skill.

This is a progressive move on the part of the Government. It introduces a new flexibility into the immigration system, making it easier for a wider range of persons of suitable character to enter the country and contribute to its burgeoning economy.

Globe Trotters

Travel time is any time for Canadians, but for those who do not winter in the south Spring is the time when the thoughts of most people lightly turn . . . yes, to travel, among other things.

The Globe and Mail's Richard Needham is running a contest for young Canadians who would like to see more of this big land. And here is an interesting quote from the entry of David Lloyd-Jones of Chapleau:

"I'd like to take the Ontario Northland Railway up to James Bay, and then go by small plane across Hudson Bay to Fort Churchill. It Churchill. . ."

Then switching to a familiar region which though close to urban centres is almost as untouched and unspoiled as any in Canada he observes: "It is a marvellous culture shock just to drive along Highway 7 between Peterborough and Madoc and see that incredible line of trees and rock. To go through and over the shield would be a fantastic assault on the delusions of city dwelling — that all the world is paved over, that all roads are lighted, and the plastic is everywhere."

Others go farther afield. We have been reading about two young Brockville women who are on a round the world trip by air. And a friend who is a secretary in Ottawa is now in Europe and plans to go to Australia in July. Three years ago she lived and worked in New Zealand for a time and last year went west to the Pacific and north to Alaska. She is still in her early twenties.

For most of us, this kind of globe-trotting is but a dream, but others save their pennies (and it can be done) and enjoy at least one holiday of a lifetime.

Thick as Thieves

What a show Expo is going to be. Not only will there be all those pavilions and the many creations of "Man and his World," but hundreds of attractive young hostesses from all over the globe.

There are more than 1,000 of them, ranging from British girls in striped miniskirts to dark-haired Indians in saris.

Photographers, amateur and professional, will be as "thick as thieves" as the saying goes. And that brings us to another point. Recently we mentioned the problem of policing the exhibition. There are fears the underworld may try to take advantage of the exhibition in some manner or other. Moreover, there have been threats against the Cuban pavilion and against any Soviet leaders planning to come to Montreal.

But thieves? One associates such a word not with hoods and the Mafia, but with plain down-to-earth pickpockets. So when you visit Expo watch out for your wallets, purses and valuables. Don't carry more cash with you than you need and leave the rest at home, or preferably at the bank if you plan to be away for any length of time.

Hard Times for Some

Common Market Nations Torpedo World Currency Plan

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Anglo-American ideas for developing a new world paper currency to help finance an expansion of world trade have received a shattering setback from the European Common Market.

The six Common Market finance ministers, meeting in Munich, West Germany, seem to have closed ranks behind the view that if there is to be any credit expansion, it will have to be done through a straight increase in the borrowing facilities of the International Monetary Fund.

Perhaps more important in determining just where Western European policy is headed, the ministers link their position with demand, that the Common Market be given greater power to dictate borrowing terms and that nearly borrowers show greater self - discipline before they get monetary fund loans.

France and, to a lesser extent, West Germany are guiding lights on that kind of policy.

The attitude of Europe seems to be that if a country's official currency reserves are dwindling and its gold stocks draining away, it should impose severe restraints on its people to prevent more and consume less until the country gets back into a currency balance.

But democratic government which take such steps fear voters may be too ready to sweep them out of office. The stunning blow against the Labor party in Britain's recent municipal elections is a vivid reminder of how unpopular prolonged belt-tightening can be.

Most experts would agree there now is no critical world credit shortage. But many agree that if the world does not take action soon to provide the framework for an acceptable credit expansion, a crisis might develop that could bring hardship to many.

Both Britain and the United States are experiencing difficulties in overcoming international - payments deficits — there is a gap in the amount of their currencies going out of the country and the amount returning. Many countries, particularly those in Europe, demand gold for their surplus American dollars and the American gold stockpile continues to shrink.

There has been much speculation that if this trend continues, the U.S. will stop supporting the official gold price and stop buying or selling gold. British officials are isolated in believing the U.S. would not take such drastic steps. Yet they are convinced that drastic action may become necessary.

International Monetary Fund governors meet at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, next September. Britain and hoped action might be taken then on a new reserve currency, a sort of second-line paper gold, that would take the pressure off sterling and dollars in world trade. That hope now seems to have gone out the window, for without Common Market support, the idea hasn't much chance of wide acceptance.

Marchand May Head Liberal Party

Sherbrooke La Tribune—

There no longer is any doubt in the capital. The succession to Lester Pearson as head of the national Liberal party rests in the hands of Mr. Jean Marchand, minister of manpower and immigration, and already everything indicates that federal Liberal strategists are orchestrating the ascension of the former union leader by surrounding him with unequalled prestige.

Thus, at the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, some 1,200 people came to give their support to Mr. Marchand. The latter was very well surrounded since among the guests of honor were many strong federal personalities, notably his colleagues Lamontagne, Martin, Sharp, Greene, Trudeau and Chretien. . .

It is still being said that Mr. Pearson is seriously considering retiring from active political life next year and that he is puffing up Mr. Marchand's prestige with this in mind.

Among the federal Liberals they are maintaining the tradition . . . of alternating the leadership between English and French-speaking candidates.

" It must be admitted that since his entry on the political scene, Mr. Marchand has not made a single blunder; on the contrary, he has shown he knows how to defend, brilliantly the interests of the party and of the government.

Quebec View

English Canada "Astonishingly Naive"

Montreal Le Devoir

Recently, Canada's English language press has act out once again in search of a scandal from Quebec . . . Actually the search has never stopped. But after years of searching, no one has yet been found who would be worthy of donning the redoubtable mantle of saviour.

The most remarkable features naturally are Messrs. Jean Marchand and Pierre Elliott Trudeau. Newspapers which in normal times just about daily show their ignorance of or their indifference to Quebec's problems suddenly overflow with warmth. They have heard coming from enigmatic Quebec two voices which seem to be in tune with their own opinion. They hasten to salute these new harbingers as saviours.

Messrs. Marchand and Trudeau—especially the former—remain enigmas. They know very well that these sentimental accolades, do not weigh much on the scale. Their real strength—at least their main strength—can only come to them from Quebec. What they get from elsewhere, without being bad, is worth something only in the extent that it adds to what they really and truly are in their own environment.

English Canada reminds, as far as Quebec is concerned, astonishingly naive. Even when it has had the advantage of being fairly well informed, it forgets fast. It is necessary to remind it that in our area, as in its own, the real leaders nowadays are those who emerge . . . from the milieu itself and not those who are crowned from afar.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1947

Mayor Frank Foltwell, First Principal of Moira Chapter No. 7 RAM left for London Ontario today where he will attend the convention of the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons. Alderman H. J. Clarke will be acting mayor during the chief magistrate's absence.

Groundwork for Belleville's share in the forthcoming British Flood Relief Campaign, sponsored by the Ontario Government, was laid at a meeting of several city organization representatives under the chairmanship of Mayor Frank Foltwell.

30 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1937

The City of Belleville Hydro Electric Power System had a net profit of $35,022.03 as a result of its operations in 1936 together with saving of over $17,000 to the users of electricity as a result of reduction in rates which went into effect last April.

Henry Lancefield left here on Monday for Ottawa where he will enroll with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Alderman Thomas Cushing, chairman of the special consolation committee in charge of decorations, for which purpose the council has allotted $100, said today that work will be commenced next week.

40 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1927

Building operations for the new collegiate and vocational school are expected to commence soon. The architect, J. Arnold Thomson, is waiting for the final approval of the Municipal and Railway Board and this should be received shortly. A. B. Ives and George Deline have been given the contract to demolish the John Taylor brick house and also the old one-store stone school house directly behind the present main school building. The main entrance to the new building will face west on Church St. instead of east to John St.

50 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1917

From our file copy at this time in 1897: "The steamer Hamilton will commence her regular trips on May 1st." (Note — 1897) The steamer Hamilton was one of several big boats, operated by the Richelieu Ontario Navigation Company, and sailed from Toronto to Montreal via Lake Ontario and through the Murray Canal into the Bay of Quinte to Kingston and down the St. Lawrence River to Montreal. They were fine well-appointed passenger boats and they called at this port on the up and down trips. One of the boats, at one time, was named the "Belleville".

Letter to the Editor

Bridge at Deseronto

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

An open letter to Mr. Donald Jess.

* * *

In recent remarks, you have asked your own opinion of the new Quinte bridge at Deseronto, it is evident you did not get your facts very straight.

The ferry, which is now operating, runs between months of April and November and at a cost of $2 or $2.50 return trip. Regardless of this you could never have seen the line up of cars, waiting on either side for passage. Naturally, in summer and fall it is busier and cost have a long wait.

Another point is this, during the time that the ferry is closed down in winter, when one wishes to go across to the mainland from that area of Prince Edward County, it means a long drive by way of Belleville or the Glenora Ferry, perhaps 20 or 30 miles.

Until two years ago our former home was located in Belleville, within one mile of the bridge site, in Prince Edward County. It is hoped that the bridge will be opened early in July and health permitting, I shall be some of first in line to drive over when the ribbon is cut. Perhaps, Mr. Joss, you will attend the opening with many others.

CECELIA M. JEUNE,
Route 2, Belleville

Adenauer Gone

Germany Still Divided and Gripped by Cold War

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If there is a thaw elsewhere in Europe, the Cold War continues unabated in Germany. This is the principal message for the outside world emerging from this week's East German Communist party congress.

Germany's leaving cold warriors in the two decades of rivalry between the U.S. and Soviet superpower camps have been Konrad Adenauer, former West German chancellor and solid friend of Washington, and Walter Ulbricht, still the East German party chief and reliable ally of Moscow.

Adenauer whose death has just occurred at the age of 91, has passed out of the political picture. However Ulbricht, 73, is still in full cry. He spoke for four hours at the opening of the party congress in East Berlin Monday, delivering the bulk of a 200-page speech.

The hostile attitudes of the two German regimes towards each other appear likely to survive both men. There is no sign among the possible successors to Ulbricht of any more conciliatory approach to Bonn.

On the other side, the accession of Kurt Georg Kiesinger to the Bonn chancellorship, while bringing an unfamiliar suppleness to West German diplomacy, has produced no change in the doctrine on the problem of divided Germany. Bonn still insists that it has the right to speak for all of Germany.

Ulbricht has, therefore, challenged Kiesinger to meet East German Premier Willi Stoph to "negotiate an understanding between the two German states." This "understanding" would be based on mutual diplomatic recognition and Bonn's acknowledgment of the Oder-Neisse line as the German frontier with Poland.

Ulbricht spoke up after Kiesinger had made an appeal across the Iron Curtain to the East German party gathering for an improvement in relations between East and West Germany.

There is no question at present of German reunification. It is a question of what can be done to create a warmer political climate in Germany and, indeed, in Europe. Ulbricht, frightened by Kiesinger's friendly approaches to Romania and Hungary, has tried to draw closer to him in a hard front against West Germany.

If Kiesinger met Stoph, he would be making a big piece of humbie pie. He could hand East Germany much propaganda victory only if in became convinced that his diplomatic offensive in Eastern Europe isn't going to shoulder East Germany out of the picture and that there is no alternative to dealing with the East German government.

It is more likely, of course, that there will be no such meeting for a long time and that the East Germans, armed with fresh paint, will go on depicting Kiesinger as the chief obstacle to better relations between East and West in Germany and in Europe.

Trees for Trenton

Dwellers on DeVere Gardens — like Mrs. Peter Aziz (with spade) and Mrs. W. Cory — have agreed on centennial project to enhance suburban street. Each home owner is planting a crab tree marking Canada's 100-year-old roots as a nation.

Royal Bank Second To Offer 4½ Per Cent

MONTREAL (CP)—The Royal Bank of Canada Thursday became the second chartered bank to increase interest rates on special savings accounts to 4½ per cent.

John H. Coleman, vice-president and chief general manager of the Royal Bank, announced in a statement Thursday the bank has set up a new type of savings account that will pay 4½ per cent effective May 1.

Interest will be calculated and payable half-yearly.

Earlier this year, the Mercantile Bank of Canada became the first chartered bank—to begin matching many trust companies in offering a 4½-per-cent rate on savings.

"We have been planning to bring the public a very attractive high-interest-bearing savings plan, just as soon as we could, following the passing of the new Bank Act," Mr. Coleman said.

"As long ago as 1964, we publicly committee ourselves to introduce such an account and naturally we hope our offering will prove to be an incentive to customers to really save."

As the new service was designed to encourage people to save, there would be no chequing privileges. However, withdrawals could be made at any time at the branch handling the account.

Also Thursday, the Bank of Nova Scotia announced that effective May 1 it will pay 4½ per cent on savings accounts without chequing privileges.

Interest will be paid on the minimum quarterly balance and a cash withdrawal may be made during the quarter. Interest on savings accounts with chequing privileges remains at three per cent.

In March, the Bank of Montreal announced it would introduce a four-per-cent rate on savings accounts without chequing privileges.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce then announced an increase to 3½ per cent interest from three per cent on regular savings accounts with chequing privileges.

H. A. Stinson Of Smiths Falls Grand Master

KINGSTON, (CP) — H. A. Stinson of Smiths Falls, Ont., Thursday was elected grand master of the Orange order's provincial Grand Black Chapter of eastern Ontario at the chapter's annual meeting.

The annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of eastern Ontario began today, following reelection of the Grand Black chapter's business.

Escaping Custody Is Charge

James Alfred Means, 20, of 22 Westmount Dr., was committed for trial by Judge and Jury today by Mr. Justice R. S. Wills. Means is charged with escaping custody.

Court was told that on March 25 a crowd of about 25 teenagers came outside the 7131 Club when police had two persons in custody.

The crowd of youngsters was advised to go back into the 7131 Club, but Means was supposed to have made a "sneering" and "smarty like" four letter word in a loud tone of voice.

One city policeman said that as Means turned to go into the building he used the word again, so he grabbed Means by the arm and told him he was under arrest.

Means asked him what for, and the officer said for causing a disturbance.

Walking back to the cruiser, Means broke away from the officer said, and he went after him in "hot pursuit". After Means jumped a second time the officer gave up the chase.

The Auto World

Randall Claims Major Benefits for Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The 1965 Canada - U.S. automotive free trade agreement has created far more benefits than problems for Canada, the Ontario minister of economics and development said Thursday.

Stanley J. Randall told the Automotive Parts Manufacturers' Association (Canada) that since implementation of the pact Canadian motor vehicle production has risen 34 per cent and 30,000 new jobs have been created.

He also said price differential on comparable cars sold in the U.S. and Canada has narrowed from eight per cent to between three and five per cent and new capital investment, excluding that from the pact, has been estimated at $500,000,000.

The agreement has helped to reduce Canada's trade deficit with the U.S. on auto parts, he said.

"For the first 11 months of 1966, the deficit in auto products with the U.S. was $325,000,000 and compares with a deficit of $761,000,000 for the same period a year earlier."

Reuther Says Goal 'Substantial Increase'

DETROIT (AP) — Confident "we once again will make history at the bargaining table," President Walter P. Reuther Thursday urged his 1,400,000 United Auto Workers Union to give "highest priority and greatest emergency to a substantial wage increase."

Some 3,000 delegates to a UAW goal-setting convention were expected to give rousing approval to this, a guaranteed annual income and other proposals outlined by Reuther in a 75-minute keynote address.

Reuther set no dollars and cents goals in giving top priority to "a substantial wage increase," but said a boost in pay is needed "because there is a serious lead growing imbalance in both the United States and Canadian economies."

He explained later what he termed imbalance — that productive capacity is outstripping purchasing power.

Another top goal Reuther outlined is equal payment for Canadian and U.S. auto workers.

It has been estimated by Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president, that workers in Canadian General Motors plants average 41 cents an hour less than those in GM's U.S. plants.

While he gives priority to a substantial wage increase for this year, Reuther reiterated a guaranteed annual income also will be a goal here.

Under a guaranteed annual income, Reuther said a worker would know at the first of any given year what his income would be for the next 12 months, whether he is laid off or not.

Roadway Runway Not Funway

OAKVILLE (CP) — A pilot was fined $200 Thursday after he admitted having four drinks of liquor and four beers before landing a plane on a Queen Elizabeth Way service road. "It was a pretty foolish stunt," Harvey Dennis, 20, admitted, after pleading guilty to a charge of drinking under age.

U.S. Rubber Workers Strike Three Plants

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The United Rubber Workers Union went on strike against three of the big four rubber companies today as contracts expired at midnight Thursday night. More than 30,000 union jobs were affected.

It was the first companywide strike since 1965 when the rubber workers manned picket lines against the U.S. Rubber Co., now Uniroyal.

A union spokesman said it was the biggest since 1959 when the union called walkouts against the same companies—Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co., and Uniroyal.

Picket lines across the country were manned while negotiations continued with Goodrich early today.

The union said Firestone officials were willing to renew negotiations today, but a company spokesman had no comment on the statement.

No talks were planned in the Uniroyal dispute.

Negotiators for about 21,250 workers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. voted to continue work on a day-to-day basis. Sessions were scheduled to resume with Goodyear today.

The big four rubber companies quit the General Tire and Rubber Co. agreed, effective April 1, that they would give mutual aid to any one of the five companies struck by the rubber workers.

Subdivision Of 17 Lots Is Approved

Creation of a new subdivision of 17 lots in the township of Thurlow and Suburban Planning Board.

Development of Maurice Rollins' Old 401 Ford subdivision off Mudcat Lane is subject to several conditions, most of them dictated by Roads and Bridges area. The Board suggested that better drainage be installed, fill moved to raise lots 18 inches above the road level, and building be prohibited on one block pending assessable fill.

Division of a lot at Auburn St. and Glendale Rd. in the Park Dale area into three small lots was recommended.

Smallwood Announces Industry

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A $97,000,000 chemical industry consuming up to 400,000 barrels of crude oil daily in production of jet fuels, heating fuels, and basic components for the plastics industry, is to be built in Newfoundland, Premier Joseph Smallwood announced Thursday.

The plant, will employ 1,000 permanent workers at the end of a five-year construction period, is the largest of three integrated industries announced in the last year for the community of Come-by-Chance on the neck of Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula.

All three involve New York financier John Shebeon, head of Shebeon Natural Resources Inc. and founder of the Golden Eagle Oil Co. of California.

Mr., Mrs. H. J. Murray Wed for 55 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Murray, 113 Donald St., celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary recently.

They were married on April 19th, in 1912, by the Rev. A. S. Kerr, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and have resided at 113 Donald St. for the last 53 years. Mr. Murray had a long railroad career which started July 30th, 1913 and continued for 43 years during which time he spent 42 years working on freight trains then switched over to passenger trains, mainly by the Toronto-Montreal run.

On Saturday afternoon the family surprised Mr. and Mrs. Murray by gathering together and holding a dinner for them after which they presented them with a lovely pole lamp. They were recipients of many lovely gifts, flowers and cards from relatives, friends and neighbors.

During the evening their daughter, Mrs. Cecil Keene and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Peter Murray, served refreshments to the friends and neighbors who called to congratulate the happy couple. The highlight of the evening was a visit from Mr. Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings, and Mrs. Grills. Mr. Grills brought a letter of congratulations from the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray still enjoy cottage life at their summer home at Madoc on Moira Lake, and frequently spend a few hours fishing. They also enjoy visiting relatives in Watertown, N.Y., where their two nieces surprised them with a celebration the week previous to this event. They were presented at this time with a sacred painting of The Lord's Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray have four sons and one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Keene, R.R. 4, Belleville; James Murray, of London, Ont.; Peter W. Murray, Belleville; David at home, and Gordon Murray of Bancroft; also 12 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Church Groups

CHRIST CHURCH CONTACT CLUB

At the Monday evening meeting of the Christ Church Contact Club the members enjoyed a lecture-film-tour of the Belleville City Police Department.

Inspector R. Blatchford explained the operation of the Police Department very clearly. Following the tour there was a question and answer period. Cookies and coffee were also served at this time.

Members were reminded of the rummage sale April 21 at 6.30 p.m.

The above is a presentation of an Efficiency Award Plaque given to The Metropolitan Store in Belleville for efficiency in store operation. Presenting the plaque is Mr. J. V. Hallord, District Store Supervisor, and receiving is Mrs. H. Daley, senior staff member and Mr. D. Hume, present manager.

A Lesson From the Ladies

Women have a vital role to play in helping weave a strong economy, Ontario Economics and Development Minister Stanley J. Randall tells delegates to a centennial conference for women, held by his department to encourage consumers to "Shop Canadian" when the price and quality are competitive with imports. Watching Mr. Randall try out a hand loom are, from left to right: State Secretary Judy Lamarsh; Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman of the Ontario government's women's advisory committee; Mrs. Una Abrahamson, of Toronto; and Mrs. Lita-Rose Betcherman, director of the women's bureau, Ontario Department of Labor.

Gynaecologist Speaks At WHA Meeting

"The change of life portrays a view of magnificent maturity and achievement," said Dr. J. R. Birchard at the monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary in Edmonton Hall.

The speaker, introduced by Mrs. P. D. Russell, is a Fellow of both the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada and of the American College of Obstetrics.

The menopause is a controversial subject, about which there is much ignorance, many old-fashioned fallacies and which is approached by many with dread, the doctor continued. The cold truth of the "glorious philosophy", estrogen forever, youth forever, was dispelled. Nothing can keep women from growing old. Estrogen merely relieves a few symptoms. However, the well-advised women, with dietary control and exercise, can glide through this phase of life unscathed. Dr. Birchard advised a yearly physical check-up. Athletic outlets have a tremendous psychological effect as well as physical benefit.

"As the finger points to old age," he suggested, "should we not consider it the gateway to the golden age, rather than let ourselves melt into neurotic oblivion?"

Mrs. H. J. Fyfe thanked the speaker for his outstanding talk.

Mrs. E. G. Harvey conducted the business. Mrs. D. Leslie reported plants were distributed to each patient in Easter. Bookies are to be given to new mothers on Mothers' Day. Mrs. F. Bowler said donations can now be accepted at the Opportunity Shop on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

Mrs. W. S. Greaves and her committee were in charge of the social hour.

Home-care Program Is Going Well

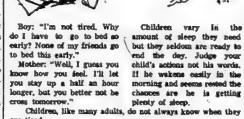
WINNIPEG (CP) — Surgery on a modified out-patient basis is being tested by Children's Hospital here in conjunction with a two-year-old home-care program.

A recent case, the second under the plan, involved a double hernia operation performed on 18-month-old Darell Grechoiski.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Grechoiski, took him to hospital at 9:30 a.m., the operation was performed at 11 and Darell went home three hours later, till later in the day a Victorian Order of Nurses member visited him.

"It was remarkably simple," says Mrs. Grechoiski. "A few days before the operation the VON phoned and told me that Darell couldn't have any breakfast on the day of the operation. That was all. After returning home we just kept him quiet and I gave him a pill for the pain. Later the nurse came and checked his bandage."

Children's Hospital authorities say they hope doctors will acknowledge the benefit of the procedure but concede there has been some objection from both parents and physicians.



The home - care program, which ties in with the new plan, has been in operation since October, 1964. In that time 426 cases have been handled. Most involve children suffering from chronic chest ailments.

A major benefit of the program is that it makes beds available for cases that really need them.

The hospital provides such equipment as croup tents and orthopedic aids to use at home in treatment of illness.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Boy: "I'm not tired. Why do I have to go to bed so early? None of my friends go to bed that early."

Mother: "Well, I guess you know how you feel. I'll let you stay up a half an hour longer, but you better not be cross tomorrow."

Children, like many adults, are tired.

Children vary in the amount of sleep they need but they seldom are ready to go to bed on a day. Judge your child's actions not his words. If he wakens easily in the morning and seems rested the chances are he is getting plenty of sleep.

Children rarely do not always know when they

Name Book Cover Contest Winners

Highlight of the La-Les' Auxiliaries' Jubilee Tea was the announcement of the winners of the centennial song book cover design competition.

First prize and the honor of having her design reproduced for the song book went to the assistant Cub Master, 3rd Belleville Pack, Mrs. Sheila Krazewski. She titled the book, "Let's Howl," and followed up with a sketch of a wild and lonely wolf doing just that in the direction of the moon.

The 28 entries in the competition were judged by a committee of the Belleville Art Association.

Other winners were: Cubs, Danny Krazewski (first), Michael Krazewski (second), Bruce Ford (third), Patrick Wright (merit); Scouts 11 years old and under, Clifford Ralph (first), Robbie Allore (second), Jack Ralph (third), Wayne Warner (merit); 18 uniformed members over 14, Jim Wright (first), Carl McFarland (second), Sheila Wright (third) and Carl McFarland (merit).

Belleville Area Male Nurse Only Man in His Class

TORONTO (CP) — When Grant Young graduates from the Nightingale School of Nursing this year he will be one of 52 male registered nurses in Toronto, one of some 300 in Ontario.

Three years ago there were 227 male nurses registered in the province, and while the number is increasing it's doing so at a slow pace.

The Ontario Hospital Association is trying to do something to speed it up. It has sent high schools a pair of tires entitled There Is a Place for Men in the Nursing World.

The association feels there is a need for male stability in a profession that has always been at the mercy of marriage and motherhood.

Grant, 21, a farm boy from the Belleville area, studied business administration at Queen's University in Kingston for a year before deciding to go into nursing "so I could do more with my hands."

He's the only male in the 56-member graduating class and he wants to take a master of nursing science degree at Queen's, then go into public health and administration.

He concedes that nursing is still a women's profession, but hopes that will change. "Women allow their emotions to run them. I think men are more rational and that's why nursing needs them on the administrative level."

The hospital association could get a boost in its campaign from the annual meeting of the Ontario Registered Nurses' Association opening here April 27.

A male nurse, Albert Wedgery, assistant director of the College of Nurses of Ontario, is regarded as a favorite for the presidency although he will be running against two women.

Other men are making roads into the administrative side of the profession in the province. The director of St. Catharines General Hospital's school of nursing is Robert Forster, the director of nursing at Alfie and Pickering Hospital is Maunsell Gerow, the head nurse at Toronto General is Carl Stevens and David Harris is a male nurse who teaches at the same hospital.

One problem in attracting more men to the profession is that some hospitals turn them away. The reason usually given is lack of accommodation. In Grant Young's case this was overcome by having him share quarters with an intern at an other hospital.

Museum Official To Speak

A Royal Ontario Museum expert on pioneer lighting will be guest speaker at the April meeting of Hastings County Historical Society. Dr. L. S. Russell of Toronto, author of the ROM's booklet, Lighting the Pioneer Ontario Home, will discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the city-owned Paul Collection of Lighting Devices now housed at the museum.

Those attending the meeting in Hastings County Museum, 240 Church, at 8.15 p.m. April 24, will have a chance to preview the Paul Collection. Museum staff is now preparing the lighting exhibit for the May 2 opening.

Ann Landers' Four-footed Friends Make Best Companions

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you made a statement that people who treat animals as if they were humans ought to have their heads examined. I have lived among both animals and people for a good long time and I am in favor of treating animals better than people simply because they deserve it.

When I was a young woman, I had the ridiculous notion that any husband was better than none, so, like a fool, I married the first man who asked me. To my everlasting credit I recognized my mistake early and got rid of the lying, cheating pyroid. I am presently enjoying the companionship of a cat.

Now I am a queen in my home instead of an unpaid servant. I get affection when I want it and if I wish to be left alone, I need make no apologies. My cat is far more considerate and loyal than that herd who swore before God and man to cherish me 'til death do us part.

Did you hear of the old maid who said she didn't need a husband because she had a parrot who swore, a fish who drank and a cat who stayed out all night? Well, I'm with her.—CONTENT.

DEAR CON: Any woman who holds such a rock-bottom opinion of men should do some nice fellow a favor and stay single the rest of her life.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the tramp that "Mrs. Betrayed" wrote to complain about. Every word she said is true. Her description of me was perfect. And I might, add, her description of herself was perfect, too.

She is indeed attractive, well-groomed, well-educated, a fine hostess and she comes from a very distinguished family. I have no education to speak of, I am not beautiful, I don't know beans about entertaining company, and my family is from nowhere.

So, the question I'd like to ask "Mrs. Betrayed" is this: Why would a man who is married to such a wonderful woman spent time with a tramp like me? — DUMB BELLA.

DEAR BELLA: Because she's there.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sick at heart as I write this letter. I read this morning where three small children suffocated to death in discarded refrigerators. The four and under suffered by those little ones before they died is too horrible to contemplate. And it was so needless!

Seventeen years ago I started reading a letter in your column about this sort of carelessness on the part of mothers. You suggested the doors of the old ice boxes and refrigerators be removed. I'd like to improve on your advice if you will permit it.

Please tell mothers to ask the movers to place the old refrigerator with the door against the wall. This requires no time or energy, and the children are protected against possible tragedy.

Thank you, in advance for publishing my letter. — CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER.

DEAR GRAN: I still recommend removing the doors. But I am going to address an additional plea to furniture movers the world over — wherever you may be.

Please tack this column up in the garage, the wash room, the warehouse, wherever you think it will get the greatest exposure. The simple act of placing the old discarded refrigerator with the doors toward the wall could save hundreds of lives.

Mother Finds That Teen-ager's Novelty Of Wearing Lipstick Soon Wears Off

BOBBI CLARK

Dear Dorin: At 13 my daughter announced that she had bought some powder and lipstick and would like to use them. I gave her all the reasons why she shouldn't; stressing the beauty of the natural clean look of her young age. Then I told her that if she listended to wear it, she was to do so openly and with my knowledge. I did not want a situation where she would be applying it at school and removing it before reaching home.

Well, for about two months she applied the make-up before going to school. Then the novelty wore off and she hardly ever bothers with it now. When she does, she uses it very lightly and does not look "painted up". We had no crisis over it.

There are things harmful to the health and to the morals, such as smoking and drinking, to which I will say a firm and emphatic, "No". Why cause hurt feelings and stir up rebellion over the harmless things?
— Mother of Four Girls.

Dear Mother: And that's just about where I stand too.

Dear Dorin: The wife of a relative of mine has made a complete mess of their lives. He's a nervous wreck; has been in a mental institution, and still has periodic psychiatric check-ups. He bought her a house, furniture, everything she wanted. She played up to his friends, and one night was gone too. She came back in the morning in a disgraceful outfit and just as saucy. He walked out.

Now what I want to know is, does he have to support her? The mortgagers have the house and she sold the furniture. She has their little boy. All he does is buy the boy clothes. She hounds him all the time. — Concerned.

Dear Concerned: If a man walks out on a wife, he must support her and any children. Those are the cold, hard facts.

Was she all bad? I'd like to hear her side. He gives quite a picture of virtue and generosity — but I venture to suggest that he planned to live in that house, sit on that furniture! Did he give her love?

Too late now for counseling I take it. But a good lawyer could help him.

Dear Doris: Like the other Dolly, I sent for "A Day on the Farm" and we used it at a Christmas party with great success.

The beauty of it was that only one rehearsal was necessary and at such a busy time of the year everyone taking part appreciated the thought-of time required. — Dolly Too

Dear Dolly Too: Good! Same thing would be true about the other pantomimes; and the Mock Wedding, which does involve dialogue, is brief enough to twig as a hurry-up skit. Any or all are to be had for ten cents each and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Longer, fuller replies sent privately to those correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NATURALIZE YOUR MAKE-UP — Model Charlene Carlson has a fresh appearance, although a full complement of cosmetics has been used.

Teen-agers Find New Make-up Technique

By Reba & Bonnie Churchill

Is your complexion always party ready? Or, does it require an extensive make-over before it's presentable? Teenagers, who want to turn on the compliments, have discovered a new make-up technique that keeps skin ever-ready regardless of the event. It's called "swiping," and consists of smoothing on, then wiping off excess cosmetics. The results are a complexion that has a natural glow, a refined texture and is less irritation prone. As model Charlene Carlson illustrates, the face has a fresh appearance, although a full complement of cosmetics has been used.

The beginning basics, designed for normally healthy skin, start with a clean, clean complexion that has been glossed in a thin veil of baby lotion. Latter discourages blemishes, protects skin and is a good base for make-up. Next comes the powders, eye shadow, face tint and cake rouge. Each is dusted on and allowed to warm and cling to the skin for another two-minute "count down." This time, excess is removed with a facial brush.

Coalition of the translucent look with custom-blended lipstick. Mix a pinpoint of petroleum jelly with your mouth rouge, and the result is a lustrous topping. Stroke across lips, and see the crystal-like effect you achieve. Color becomes lighter and cleaner. Lubricant seals chapping, leaving your most movable feature soft, yet shiny. As a finishing touch, clean brush; then, "swipe" across lips to even color and gloss.

* * *

P.S.: Give two girls the same make-up, plus a comb and a brush. One turns out a winner, the other a wash-out. For 10 ways to improve your appearance, with tested tips on make-up, hair and handcare, write for our photo-illustrated booklet, "10 New Ways To Beauty." Enclose 20c and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Youth Parade, Reba & Bonnie Churchill — 10 New Ways To Beauty, c/o The Intelligencer, P.O. Box 46-181, Hollywood, Calif. 90046.

Reader Requests Recipe for Popcorn Balls

By MAR YMOORE

QUESTION: . . . I look forward to your column . . . have you any recipes for Popcorn Balls? I have no idea how to make them and my five children love them . . . Catharine L. H.

ANSWER: Sure have!

POPCORN BALLS
(18 2½" balls)

8 cups popped popcorn (requires about ½ cup raw dry kernels)
½ cup honey
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup water
½ tsp. cream of tartar
½ cup butter
2 tsp. vinegar
½ tsp. red food coloring (optional)

Pop corn first and put into very large bowl or clean dishpan. (You must have a roomy enough utensil to stir syrup into popped corn later.)

Make Syrup by measuring into heavy saucepan honey, sugar and water and stir over heat to dissolve, then add cream of tartar, butter, vinegar and coloring (if used). Cook to 256 deg. Fahr. on candy thermometer (or until syrup forms a hard ball when a little is dropped in cold water.) At once drizzle syrup all over popped corn in large bowl and stir with fork to coat all pieces. You may scrape all syrup out of pan with rubber scraper. When it is cool enough to handle, butter your palms and shape into balls and place on cake rack to cool. This takes patience. Wash your hands and reshape all into more perfect balls.

QUESTION: In February you gave us a recipe to bake those centre-cut lamb chops. I can buy those frozen, but I want to know how to make them nice and tender on top of the stove. — Laura G

ANSWER: I think you have had a good idea.

FRIDAY
Dinner Menu

Crumbed Scallops; Tartare Sauce; Buttered Rice; Scalloped Tomatoes and Celery; Cucumber Salad with French Dressing; Mince Tarts a la Mode; Tea.

BRAISED CENTRE-CUT LAMB CHOPS (serves 4)

4 thick centre-cut lamb chops (sometimes called "shoulder")
About ¼ tsp. meat tenderizer
½ tsp. salt
Shake of pepper
1 tsp. fresh or dry mint flakes
¼ cup hot water

If frozen, thaw lamb chops. Place on plate or foil and sprinkle one side of each with some meat tenderizer and allow to rest ½ hr. Turn over and sprinkle other side with meat tenderizer and let rest ½ hr. Cut off some fat from edges and render it out in heavy frying pan. Remove fat scraps and sear lamb chops on both sides until rich gold. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and mint flakes, pour in hot water at side and cover and simmer ½ hr.

Riot Squad, Rescue Unit, Patrol Boats Expo Security Aids

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Brother-style television cameras will watch you and the man standing next to you may pack a shoulder holster as a crack 1,500-man security force keeps the peace at Expo 67 this summer.

Herve Pondevie, 39, a 34-year veteran of the RCMP who retired with the rank of assistant commissioner, is director of public safety, and heads the force.

In an interview Thursday, he said the group's responsibilities are to help visitors, fight fires, keep emergency communications working, run medical services, enforce hygiene and sanitary regulations on the site and run Expo's secondary transit systems.

"We want visitors to enjoy Expo in comfort," he said. "Everything is planned to that end.

His forces job did not include guarding pavilions as it was part of the participants agreement that they handle any necessary interior security.

Mr. Pondevie denied that his men are keeping a special watch on the Cuban pavilion but did say his men would be closely watching "certain areas. Some men in uniform might be openly armed at times while others in plainclothes might carry concealed weapons.

Threats have been made by anti-Castro Cuban exiles that the Cuban pavilion might be blown up. Cuban pavilion officials have refused to confirm reports that 60 of the 250 pavilion staff who arrived by sea last Sunday are Cuban security police brought to protect the pavilion.

Expo security guards have, however, been seen in the area of the Cuban pavilion since the threats.

Members of the security force must be bilingual and have no police record and "men with some kind of police background have been preferred in our selections, said Mr. Pondevie.

"Apart from men at gates, no point duty at road junctions and on patrol, we will have about 45 men in patrol boats in the canals and lagoons who are fully trained in life-saving.

"Additionally, 135 Montreal policemen will be under my command for the duration of the fair, although they will continue to be members of the Montreal force, paid by the city of Montreal.

"My force is not responsible for the protection of visiting heads of states. That is the duty of the RCMP. But we will provide all possible help when such visitors are at Expo."

A specially-trained 200 - man riot squad would be on call to deal with unruly crowds and a rescue unit truck would carry special equipment.

The equipment includes an electric jack capable of lifting a five - ton load, acetylene torches, powerful lighting, a chain saw and respirators.

Four fire stations would be manned 24 hours a day and four 10 - bed medical centres and eight first-aid posts would be in constant contact with major Montreal hospitals.

The security force will operate the free Expo-Express transit system and the three miniral loops which circle various parts of the site and charge 25 cents a ride. No private cars or commercial vehicles will be allowed on the site.

"The efficacy of our security operation depends on our communications system," said Mr. Pondevie.

"The control point is the Operations Control Centre on St. Helen's Island, where computers, closed - circuit TV screens, control panels and telephone switchboards will keep in touch with the entire 1,000 acres of the site.

An action board in the control centre would flash a red light when an emergency was declared. An orange light would indicate corrective action in progress and a green light that the emergency was over.

"We'll be on the lookout for pickpockets and art thieves and other criminal types but I expect the bulk of crime in the area to take place in the city of Montreal."

The tall ex-Mountie, who in 1944 supervised security arrangements for the Churchill-Roosevelt meetings in Quebec City said his transition from th to his present job has been "like coming home, because I've known for years all the people I now am co-operating with."

Napanee Man Fined $100 For Five Pike

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—Paul Norvin Gaulin, 31, of Napanee, was fined $100 or 30 days in jail Thursday on a charge of having five pike in his possession.

Conservation officer James Ives of the department of lands and forests said the pike, which averaged seven pounds, had been speared contrary to Ontario fishing regulations.

U.S. Expert On Crime In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—Ralph Salerno, a United States expert on organized crime, Thursday warned a Quebec royal commission inquiry into the administration of justice in the province against infiltration by organized criminals of all levels of government.

Mr. Salerno, formerly with the New York police department's intelligence branch and now a law enforcement consultant, said all officials involved in the administration of justice should realize that dealing with organized crime is anything but a game of "cops and robbers."

It was sufficiently powerful to secure a grasp on top political positions—possibly even on the U.S. presidency itself.

"It is distinctly possible that some day a man could actually be put in the White House and not fully realize how he got there and the time came to pay the bill."

Leaders of the largest legitimate companies, Mr. Salerno said, feared an eventual takeover by a "greater power" that will take from the nation but give nothing back."

The powerful crime syndicate known as the Cosa Nostra had links with criminal groups in Montreal and southern Ontario, but he did not think there was a big Cosa Nostra boss in Montreal.

"I can say, however, there is at least a capo."

A Capo is a Cosa Nostra operative in charge of about a dozen "soldiers."

Mr. Salerno said the first task in fighting organized rackets is to learn all about them. Some attempts at fighting the rackets had failed because the problem was not understood.

The Quebec inquiry resumes public hearings Tuesday.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The young buckaroos who sported muzzle-loading oldsleuths and handle-bar moustaches over a century ago may not have had any mechanical gimmicks but they sure had a lot of fun.

The yellowing pages of old files revealed a lot of the activities of both young and old in the days when the bewhiskered politicos, later known as the Fathers of Confederation were trying to organize a national government.

They never worried about the old man letting them have the car; LSD; the pill; beatenacry; barbeques; mini-skirts; tight pants; traffic cops; parking meters; hair pieces; guitars, rock-and-roll; the Beatles, Animals, etc. or long flowing locks.

They had no transportation troubles. A one or two horse-power buggy or surrey did the job. Amorous youths on Saturday night larks used the family mule who would balk at the proper time and place. "I'm outta gas" had not yet been invented.

True some of them wore their hair slicked down but not by creams, oils, colognes and other scented concoctions. A dab or two of bear or goose grease did the trick.

On Sundays they went to church — them were no hot-dog soft-drink garnishing benches. They wore high-buttoned shoes, high collared jackets which hid their shirts, low-crowned hard hats and long homespun "johns."

They bathed in the local "crick", nearby lake or river in the summertime and in the winter carted into a hand-watered tread mill with brothers doing the back scrubbing. They shaved with long-handled razors and used a pesky "pomade" as after-shave lotion. Their deodorant was a sack-like towel that would take the kids off the toughest mule in the neighborhood.

They fished and hunted with the crude equipment of the day. But not for the sport of the thing. Them were necessary to replenish the family larder.

Sports-wise they had their fun and relaxation. They played cricket and lacrosse in the main with baseball as it was in those days a third choice in popularity.

The records do not reveal the rules of baseball but one game ended in a 62-35 score, another 54-46. In fact the baseball scores were higher than those of the cricket matches.

They were gentlemen, too. There is not a record of "Kill the Ump" directed at umpires. In fact an advertisement of 1847 reads: "There will be a baseball game on Jones Pasture Field tomorrow night. Gentlemen should attend early to get good positions. There will be seats for the ladies."

They liked their harness racing when purses were $40 and betting was "under the table." Before the first curling club was organized in 1847 they "scanned the stone" on frozen creek and lake.

They raced downhill on home-made sleds. They rang the welkin on bayride and horse-drawn fore-and-aft sleighs. They square-danced in hall and barn "night-clubs" where they "cock-tailed" on sweet cider.

They wooed their pale-bonneted long-gowned sweethearts "by the light of the silvery moon," in horse-drawn "Cadillacs" and the dim light of the smoky lamps in the parlor. Lights out was nine o'clock.

In the rural areas most of them were up with the crack of dawn and some of the oldsters were up in time to wake the roosters.

In the early spring when the "sap snow" thinkered the land, the young men's fancy turned to "sugaring-off." Evening sled parties the youngsters hied into the sugar bushes and had their fill of maple syrup.

A favorite sport was tossing a cup of boiling sap into the snow where it quickly congealed and woe betide the youngster who sank his teeth into it. His mouth kept firmly shut until the delicacy dissolved.

Sport Minatures

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Barry Van Gerbig, the 27-year-old millionaire heir, announced Thursday that he had taken over the Oakland-based California Seals of the National Hockey League. The Seals, who played in the Western League last season, were jointly owned by Van Gerbig and the Shesta Corp.

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — Port Arthur Marrs crushed Flin Flon Bombers 6-1 Thursday night to capture the best-of-seven Western Canada junior hockey semi-final in six games. Marrs now proceed into the Western Memorial Cup finals, meeting either New Westminster Royals or Saskatoon Macs.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he will not go into the army "no matter what it costs me."

Clay told a news conference he would appear for induction in Houston next week, "but I won't take the oath."

For month, Clay has fought a losing fight to avoid the draft on grounds that military duty would be contrary to his Black Muslim religion.

Richard Gets Three ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Leafs A Shadow

Habs' Mighty Mites Spark 6-2 Win!

MONTREAL (CP) — Henri Richard and Yvon Cournoyer, two small men by professional hockey standards, stand 10 feet tall today and humble.

Richard, 5 188-pound centre, scored three goals and Cournoyer, a 165-pound power-play artist, added two as Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 in the first game of the Stanley Cup finals Thursday night.

But Richard, a 32-year Ne-mi-kon Hockey League veteran, was as humble as the Leafs who had suffered at his hands. He said his first goal was an accidental deflection.

"... The puck just tipped off my stick from where I was standing in front of the net," Richard said.

He didn't mention the other two goals, which were both the result of fine teamwork by the Canadiens.

Cournoyer felt much the same way when asked to explain his scoring success against the Leafs.

"Perhaps they take a few more penalties against us, and I get more chance to work on the power play," Cournoyer said.

Beliveau Also Scored

Jean Beliveau scored the other Montreal goal, while Larry Hillman and Jim Pappin replied for the Leafs.

Second game of the best-of-seven final is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday and will be televised by the CBC national network.

The teams then travel to Toronto for the third and fourth games Tuesday and Thursday.

Montreal coach Toe Blake was no more enthusiastic over the victory than his heroes.

"Let's remember this is just one game," Blake said. "There's still a long way to go."

Another outstanding member of the Montreal club was Claude Provost, who played a regular shift against Frank Mahovlich and killed penalties.

"It was his best checking game of the year," Blake said. "He deserves credit. So do our penalty - killers Jean - C. Tremblay, Jean - Guy Talbot and Ted Harris, they had a lot of work tonight and they did well."

The First Of Six!

Montreal Canadiens' right winger Yvon Cournoyer, behind Jean Beliveau (4), slips the puck past Toronto goalie Terry Sawchuck to put Montreal ahead 1-0 in the first period of the Stanley Cup final in Montreal. Also in the play are Leafs' Tim Horton (7) and George Armstrong (10).
(CP Wirephoto)

Agrees With Blake

Toronto coach Punch Imlach agreed that Montreal's penalty-killing made a vast difference.

"We couldn't score early in the game when they were getting penalties, but they scored when we started getting penalties."

Both Cournoyer's goals were scored on the power play.

Imlach had taken starting goaltender Terry Sawchuk out of the net when the Canadiens took a 3-1 lead in the third period. Johnny Bower took over and allowed one goal.

"He (Sawchuk) was hit a couple of times in the ankle and I had to conserve his energy," Imlach said. "I want to start him again Saturday."

The Canadiens outshot the Leafs 44-26 during the game as the visitors appeared at nothing more than a shadow of the club which finished first in the semi-finals in six games.

"It was our worst game of the playoffs," Imlach said.

Scored First Goal

Cournoyer, who scored 20 of his 22 regular - season goals on the power play, got his first goal of the playoffs to put Montreal ahead at 6:25 of the opening period.

Hillman tied the game 15 seconds later, with a screened blast from the blueline, but the Leafs were ready never in the contest after that.

Richard scored at 11:19 of the first period. Cournoyer and Beliveau both scored in the second period before Pappin got one back. Richard beat both Sawchuk and Bower to round out the scoring in the third period.

The victory was the 11th straight for Montreal, who won their last six games of the regular season before eliminating New York Rangers in four semi-final games.

Imlach shook up his lines considerably. He returned team captain George Armstrong to his regular line with Frank Mahovlich and Dave Keon.

Rookie Brian Conacher, who had taken over Armstrong's spot because of a knee injury to the veteran and remained there after Armstrong returned to action, was put on a line with Red Kelly and Ron Ellis.

Difference Amazing

Cup Play Through Frisco Eyes

Jack Fiske, hockey and boxing editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, was in Montreal Thursday night as an interested spectator when the Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 in the first game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final.

Here's how he saw it:

Written for The Canadian Press
By JACK FISKE

MONTREAL (CP) — Our paper realizes that next year hockey will be a major league sport and the California Seals could be part of a Stanley Cup series in the near future.

I have covered Western Hockey League for six years in addition to pro baseball, football and basketball and never fail to register amazement in the difference between WHL and National Hockey League play.

Last night I was particularly impressed with the goaltending, the skating and pinpoint passing as compared to the minor leagues. In this league, so one sticks around in the defensive zone for any length of time to pick up cheap goals.

Early in the game, Toronto's inability to score on the power play and the Canadiens' penalty - killing pair of Claude Provost and Jean-Guy Talbot made the difference.

Toronto took to the offensive in the first two minutes and Henri Richard's first goal, which made the score 3-2, took some life out of Terry Sawchuk and the Leafs.

Even after the score was 3-1 you could see the pattern form.

I knew the Canadiens could skate but I thought they appeared especially adept at poke-checking the puck between a defenceman's legs and skating around him to pick it up.

Marlies In Finals

Must Cut Two Players

TORONTO (CP) — Tuesday, Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circles will be short two players on what the Detroit Red Wings Memorial Cup finals open next week.

Coach Joe Primeau will be forced to scratch two players from his lineup because the Allan Amateur Hockey Association rules that junior clubs in 15 leagues and two goaltenders. The OHA limit is 17 players and two goaltenders.

Toronto, which wrapped up the OHA Jr. A championship Monday night, is awaiting the outcome of the Thetford Mines-Cornwall series. Thetford Mines coach, the best-of-seven series goes down to one.

Jim Gregory, Toronto general manager, said the Marlboros' opposition will be able to change its lineup as it pleases as all players picked up from clubs in its league.

The Eastern Canada junior final is scheduled on a best-of-seven series which will open Wednesday night when Cornwall or Thetford Mines...

Letter to the Sports Editor

Re: The Annual Pee Wee Tournament:

Those parents who send their kids to play hockey for their own individual city could be shocked if they knew what went on at Saturday's tournament. It was brought to my attention that there were no qualified medical personnel on duty at the tournament. We have qualified people available such as St. John Ambulance.

To my knowledge last year there were over 500 severe minor hockey accidents in Belleville. In 141 cases there have been qualified medical personnel standing by. In the other 99 cases unqualified persons in 13 cases caused more harm than the initial injury. So as the City Dads would have it I think it would be a lot safer if the Department Officials cared enough for the well-being of all competitors.

Accidents can happen anywhere, anytime in hockey so we must see that they receive only the best of treatment. The life of treatment is better than a lawsuit.

Argos' New Coach Outlines Ideas

TORONTO (CP)—Lou Cahill, who took over Thursday as head coach of Toronto Argonauts in the Canadian Football League, already has some ideas on the kind of team he wants.

After having a similar post with Toronto Rifles of the Ontario Intermediate Rugby Union, Cornwall series, Thetford Mines coach, the best-of-seven series goes down to one.

Jim Gregory, Toronto general manager, said the Marlboros' opposition will be able to change its lineup as it pleases as all players picked up from clubs in its league.

The Eastern Canada junior final is scheduled on a best-of-seven series which will open Wednesday night when Cornwall or Thetford Mines...

the players in my mind," he said.

What Cahill is looking for is a strong defence and a good rushing quarterback, which he thinks Argos already have in Wally Gabler.

"I think Gabler is more suited to what I have in mind than Orval what' Shaw (former coach Bob Shaw) had in mind for him.

"I know a quarterback is the most important man on the field, but you can't be too protective of him. I've seen good running quarterbacks, with a wide-open field in front of them, retires to run, obviously because they're under orders. I want my quarterback to run when he has the room.

"But the most important thing is a strong defence to get you the ball."

Cahill was first introduced to Canadian football when he joined Montreal Alouettes in 1950 as an assistant coach and it was there he learned that in Canada, "you need good on defence rather than brute strength."

"That's what we had in Montreal and we carried it over into the Continental League."

Cahill has ahead of him the task of improving on Argos' record of 19 wins, 49 defeats and five consecutive last-place finishes in the last five years.

The club has been without a coach since Shaw walked out a month ago on a three-year contract that had one more season to run. He cited "intolerable" conditions and went to New Orleans Saints of the National League as an assistant.

The title of general-manager, held by Shaw, along with the coaching position, will not pass to Cahill, but will be held instead by Argo executive-director Lew Hayman.

A native of Dixie, Ill., Cahill played centre and guard at the University of Illinois and started coaching with an armed forces team during the Korean War.

After leaving Alouettes, he worked in public relations in Montreal before joining the Rifles in 1958.

He coached the Rifles to an Eastern Division title in his first year and a tie for the title in 1959.

Tigers Shade Angels

Weird, Wacky Inning Had Everything!

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Weirdest inning I ever saw," said Bill Rigney.

"We blew it," said Bill Rigney.

The star Detroit Tiger outfielder and success Columbia Lions manager were both referring the final inning of the Tigers' 4-3 victory over the Angels Thursday that had just about everything in it but a Cartwheels run.

Things were proceeding normally enough until after the Tigers had tied the score in the bottom of the eighth on a wild pitch by Angel hurler Dean Chance. But then somebody cast the evil eye on Caldorale, and the strangest things started happening.

Jerry Lumpe came up to pinch hit and lined a shot at Jay Johnstone in short centerfield.

The ball was below Johnstone's belt but he inexplicably grabbed at it with the fingers of his glove up instead of down. The ball fell away, allowing Jim Northrup to score the go-ahead run.

The Angels got out of the inning, without further damage, when pitcher Ken Aspromonte, ninth in five fashion.

Rich Reichardt stroked and Chance a second when Don Mincher's double — play ball. But Reichardt was picked off by Tiger catcher Bill Freehan when Lumpe made a bonehead attempt.

Don Wallace went in to run for Mincher and made Rigney look like a genius when he made it to third when Hall's grounder caromed off Detroit pitcher Fred Gladding's glove.

Gladding struck out Tom Satriano, and, on the field strike, Hall broke for second and when Freehan threw down, Wallace raced across the plate.

But Dick Tracewski, Tiger second baseman, jumped in front of the base, took Freehan's throw and fired it right back. Reference was out by 10 feet; the game was over.

In the only other American League games, Cleveland blanked Kansas City 5-0, Chicago Athletics 2-0 and Chicago White Sox topped Washington Senators 6-4. Minnesota at Baltimore was rained out.

Peek-a-Boo But Not Topless

NEW YORK (AP)—The topless fad will not invade the tennis courts but the gals will look more fetching without it, says British designer Teddy Tinling.

"I fear the girls would be uncomfortable with bare tops and their game would suffer," he said. "The neatest, six-foot-four Londoner added Thursday. "Instead, we'll go for sheer-to-the-waist, which have the same effect and are much more exciting."

Tinling, 50, is probably best-known as the world's oldest modder in his line—is in New York shopping for the latest in sheer fashions. They may best be described as peek-a-boo.

Tinling's newest lines consist of a flashy array of mini-pants, shirts, mini-bloomers and nonpants. All of them show a lot of tennis player.

Loads Dallas Open

Brewer; Jinx Toughest Foe!

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Gay Brewer, the Masters champion from Dallas, leads the $100,000 Dallas Open golf tournament with 8-eight - under - par 64 today but he faces a jinx.

There have been 14 tournaments on the Professional Golfers Association tour this year, and in each of them the jinx in the first-round leader emerged winner.

Brewer, however, is playing the best golf of his career and fired his third 64 of the campaign Thursday. He also equalled the record first round in the tournament's history—the 64 set by Jim McHaffie in the opening round of 1955.

And it also tied the lowest starting round of the year—the 64 Jerry Steelsmith shot at San Diego where he did not finish in the money.

And there was another angle that McHaffie tied for first in the playoff.

1955 tournament yet lost in the

But Brewer could point to the fact that three fellows did lead all the way this year and won —Arnold Palmer, who had a first-round 66 at Tucson; Dow Silhen, who had a 67 on his home course at Jacksonville, Fla., and Frank Beard, who fired a 66 in the opening round of the Tournament of Champions.

None of them fellows appear to pose much of a threat to Brewer here. Palmer, the year's leading money - winner who could take his standing should Brewer win the $20,000 for first place, said he was too weary and was fighting a cold when he soared to a 76.

Silhen isn't playing here and Beard also shot a 76 in the opening round.

The closest men to Brewer as he and Bob Toski, who fired a round were Hugh Royer of Columbus, Ga., and Kermit Zarley of Seattle, Wash., with 66s.

Americans Meet In Golf Final

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—American Phyllis Preuss of Connie Dey scored semifinal victories in the North and South Women's Golf Tournament Thursday and will meet in the 18-hold title match today.

Miss Preuss shot two-over-par golf to defeat four-time champion Barbara Mcintire 3 and 1.

Miss Dey was two-under par as she trimmed Mrs. Alice Dye 4 and 3.

Miss Dey Wednesday eliminated a former champion, Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, 2 and 1.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP) — Minnie Dares, a seven-year-old gelding owned by Jimmy Janjevick of Toronto, won the featured eighth race at Greenwood Raceway Thursday, paying $13.30, $5.80 and $4.10.

Cape Grattan, owned by Earl Shea of Bethany, Ont. won the first race and combined with Brilliant Mir, owned by Bruce Smith of Toronto, winner of the second, for a $16.60 exacta.

Armbro Gamble won the sixth race and combined with runner-up Rip Herbert for a $21.20 exacta.

Longshot players got a $160.70 payoff when Ida Howard, owned by Fred MacKay of St. Catharines, won the third race.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Golfball turned in a 2:06 4-5 effort Thursday night to win the featured conditioned pace for $1,200 at Batavia Downs Inc. paid $8.80.

Bob Roth of North Jackson, Ohio, and Anthony Bruno of Youngstown, N.Y., own the 6-year-old pacer, who now has won five times in eight starts. Roth drove as Goldfish beat favored Dea Frisky by 3½ lengths.

Senior Baseball Rumored

Just like spring fever, senior baseball talk makes an annual appearance here in Belleville and this year is no exception.

However, the rumor could prove premature as the talking stage with year judging by early indications.

Last a recent Eastern Ontario Baseball Association meeting, the possibility of a nine or ten team league here in Belleville and Centres being considered for entries are Brockville, Kingston, Napanee, Trenton, Picton, Campbell, Oshawa, Belleville, Little Britain and Peterborough, with the hope of forming a four or five team league.

Nothing definite has been decided here in Belleville at this time but the city will be represented at the meeting scheduled for Port Hope this coming Monday night.

A spokesman here, who wishes to remain unidentified at this time, said this morning: "I don't know how strong a club we could field here or if we would receive fan support but we are going to give a look at the situation anyway".

Something more definite may be known following the Monday meeting.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Ken Berry, Chicago, White Sox, smacked three hits, scored one run and drove in another in the Chicago's 8-4 victory over Washington Senators.

Giants Clip Cards Win String At Six

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's Don Pavletich, a reserve catcher, weighs 211 pounds and is not what you'd call fast on the bases.

He needed all the help he could get in the 12th inning of the Reds' 3-1 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night.

Pavletich was on first base with a one-out walk when Gerry Arrigo bunted. Ron Perranoski, the Dodgers' third pitcher, grabbed the ball, thought about Pavletich lumbering towards second, hesitated just long enough, then wheeled and fired, hoping for the force.

He didn't get it.

Pavletich slid in safely, moved to third on a force play and then scored the winning run when Vada Pinson dropped a tantalizing single into short right field. The Reds got an insurance run on Pete Rose's single.

Gary Nolan, an 18-year-old right - hander, worked the first nine innings for the Reds and struck out 12 Dodgers.

But Los Angeles pushed across a run in the bottom of the ninth on Jim Hickman's pinch double, tying the score at 1-1 and sending the game into extra innings.

It stayed that way until Perranoski hesitated in the 12th.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York Mets battered Chicago Cubs 6-1 and San Francisco Giants ended St. Louis' 6-game winning streak, 7-5.

Tommy Davis hammered a home run and a double — his first extra base hits of the season—as the Mets trimmed the Cubs.

Rookie pitcher Tom Seaver, a $40,000 bonus baby, got credit for his first big league victory, with Don Shaw, another rookie, finishing up. Veteran Curt Simmons was the loser.

Computers To Calculate Golf Handicaps

Handicap chairmen and their committees across the country will now have help from Bank of Montreal computers in calculating golf handicaps. G. Arnold Hart, chairman and president, said the bank has introduced a new service "to relieve golf clubs of the chore of calculating handicaps."

The program was developed with the approval of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, at the Board of Trade Country Club in Toronto, where it received enthusiastic support. The service has been endorsed for countrywide application by the RCGA, whose rules will apply.

Twice monthly, participating golf clubs will receive summaries of members' handicaps calculated by computers at the bank's Genie centres in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Clubs and golfers will be able to use these summaries both to ascertain the handicap and to post new scores.

In addition, individual handicap cards will be provided for members of clubs affiliated with the provincial golf associations and the RCGA, and cards will be renewed automatically at least once a month. The cards will be valid for tournament purposes.

Each of the bank's 905 offices in Canada will act as relay points for the regional Genie centres.

Trent Valley Softball

Five Teams Enter Loop

Five teams were assured and the door left open for more entries at the renovated Trent Valley Softball League's meeting in Trenton last night.

The Point Anne Centennials joined Madoc Juniors, RCAF Flyers, a Trenton intermediate "A" team and a Trenton Intermediate "AA" team in the fold.

Interest has been shown by clubs from Belleville and Campbellford and there is a strong possibility that one or more entries will be added before the entry deadline of April 30.

Another meeting will be held, at the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, on Sunday, April 30 and any new teams entries will be accepted or rejected in order of application then. The meeting is scheduled for 7.30 but interested parties can contact either president Cliff Belch in Belleville or vice-president Jim Wallace in Trenton in the meantime.

Two men were added to the league's executive body last night. They are Burt Swanson, of Trenton, as treasurer and Allen Sills, Belleville, as an executive member. Appointments of secretary and of one more executive member, to be appointed, are still open. Executive member Frank Insley handled the secretary's duties last night.

The newly-formed Centennial Umpires' Association was accepted to handle the league's games at last night's meeting, for the fee of $5 per umpire per game, plus mileage for one. The Centennial consists of members of the Quinte and Trenton associations who amalgamated this year.

The league schedule, the length of which will be determined by the final number of entries, is expected to open on the holiday, Monday, May 22, with official opening ceremonies in Trenton.

Other league business was discussed with all those in attendance showing fine cooperation in an effort to get the league under way on a strong foundation.

Tweed-Madoc Win Away From Title

MADOC — There will be a definite merging of the populations of this village and Tweed here on Saturday night.

They will jam the arena to overflow capacity to cheer the Tweed-Madoc Twins in their quest for the first OHA junior "D" provincial championship.

The Twins clash with Mitchell in fifth game of the best-of-seven tiutlar series.

The Twins lead the series three-games to one and a victory Saturday night will bring them the championship and the OHA Trophy.

It is the first time the two communities have combined their hockey talent — and if they win it will be the first title of its class to come this way.

Coach Glen Nicklle and manager Arnold Ross think their proteges will come through after a fine showing in the last two games played at Mitchell.

The Twins played in a regular Junior "C" league with Napanee, Gananoque and Wellington.

In Junior "D" playdowns they took the measure of Newcastle in the opening round and defeated Bobcaygeon in the semi-finals.

Col. R.J. Graham Is Appointed Halton County's Magistrate

MILTON — A former Belleville lawyer has sworn in a one-time Belleville city alderman to the bench for Halton and Peel counties here.

Taking office as magistrate was Colonel Robert James Graham, native of Belleville and a distinguished soldier.

Administering the oath of office was Halton County judge Alan B. Sprague, who practiced law in the Quinte city before his judgeship appointment two years ago.

Magistrate Graham now a resident of Oakville, retired last year from a military career that began in 1928.

Born in Bellcville, he was alderman of the city joining up at the outbreak of World War II.

He served in England, in North Africa with the British Army, in Italy and northwest Europe, where he was wounded. He returned to Canada with the Distinguished Service Order.

In 1959 he was promoted to colonel and became chief of staff of Eastern Command in the Atlantic provinces.

From 1963 to 1965 he was military advisor to the then Canadian High Commissioner for India, Roland Michener.

Judge Sprague, introduced the new magistrate to Halton's judiciary and bar association as "a man of many seasons."

"He brings with him many experiences and qualities which should enable him to be a good magistrate," he added.

However, Col. Graham is being appointed to no sinecure. Halton county is one of the busier magistracies in the province.

Revenue from the courts alone last year was $177,000 and the caseload totalled 28,000.

The volume of criminal and traffic cases in the area — sandwiched between the urban bulks of Toronto and Hamilton — is particularly heavy.

Halton crown attorney Peter McWilliams warned Col. Graham that charges and apprehensions by county police forces are up considerably over last year.

The new magistrate took the advice to heart.

"I feel I have learned all that I can learn without getting my feet wet," he told the group witnessing the oath-taking ceremony.

British Press Ignores Ango-Canadian Parley

LONDON (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said today changing world interests are bound to affect traditional ties between Britain and Canada.

As if to support that view, the first Anglo-Canadian ministerial meeting on trade and economic affairs ended in a hush of British indifference. Britain is preoccupied with its courtship of the European Common Market.

The two days of ministerial talks that ended Thursday have received scant attention in Britain. None of the 10 national newspapers published in London early today carry a report on the meetings. Radio and television have shown a similar lack of interest.

Martin, leader of the six-minister Canadian team, told a luncheon meeting of the Commonwealth Correspondents Association that "established and traditional relationships among nations have a special value" in the midst of rapid change.

Senior Tories Like Fleming

OTTAWA (CP)—Eager hands are poised to toss Donald Fleming's hat into the ring at the Progressive Conservative leadership convension in September.

Few of the party's 96 MPs would admit publicly Thursday that they are part of a draft-Fleming campaign. But several senior Tories said there is a drive to recruit the 61-year-old former finance and justice minister.

However, in other party quarters, it was suggested that the growing number of declared and undeclared candidates, plus the help given to speculation about them, is simply aimed at keeping as many voting delegates as possible uncommitted until John Diefenbaker declares whether he will be a candidate himself.

George Chatterton, MP for Esquimalt - Saanich, estimates that almost half the MPs want Mr. Fleming in the race when the party meets in Toronto Sept. 6-9 to settle the issue.

"My information is that if there's sufficient indication of a draft, Fleming would be available," Mr. Chatterton said.

A key point stressed by those who say such a draft is developing is that Mr. Fleming retired from active politics in 1963 and has since held aloof from the internal strife over Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership.

They present him as a unity candidate with long experience in Parliament, both in the Opposition and in the government.

Manitoba to Lift Ban on French

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 51-year ban on French as a language of instruction in Manitoba schools is only formalities away from being lifted.

With a surprising show of unanimity, the legislature Thursday unanimously gave approval in principle to a bill to permit its use as an instructional language for up to half the school day. There were 52 of the 57 members in the house for the vote.

Only third reading—clause-by-clause study—and royal assent are still required before the new law can be proclaimed.

The bill brings an end to the annual plea by Larry Desjardins (L—St. Boniface) for recognition of French and substantially broadens the scope of a bill passed four years ago which permitted the teaching of French to children of French background.

Its passage will make Manitoba the second Prairie province to recognize French as a language of instruction this year. Saskatchewan extended its existing legislation to allow French as the language of instruction for up to one hour a day for courses based on material already offered in English.

In Saskatchewan, the use of French can be authorized by the school board while in Manitoba, which provides more flexibility for instruction, authorization must come from the minister with other subjects as the minister may, by regulation, stipulate."

and extends to other languages as well as French.

The minister would only act upon receipt of a proposal from the school board. French could be used as a language of instruction for social studies "and

Nova Scotia Will Vote May 30

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier Robert Stanfield says his Progressive Conservative government, in office since 1956, will be judged on its record when Nova Scotians vote in a provincial election Tuesday, May 30.

The premier announced the election date Thursday in a three-paragraph statement.

Liberal Leader Gerald Regan welcomed the date, but NDP Leader James Aitchison said the premier should have held off until the fall.

Mr. Stanfield's PCs ended 23 years of Liberal administration in the 1956 election. They were re-elected in 1960 and 1963 increasing their majorities each time.

The Conservatives won 29 of the 43 seats in the 1963 election, with the Liberals winning the other four.

There will be 46 seats at stake in the May 30 election. Three new seats in the Halifax-Dartmouth area were created by redistribution.

The Nova Scotia election is the second called for May. Alberta votes May 23.

Mr. Stanfield said in an interview: "We'll be presenting a program, but I imagine basically we'll be judged on our record and I wouldn't want to avoid that."

Cancer Treatment Patients Given Free Lodging

Mr. Edward E. Folwell, Q.C., President of Quinte - Thousand Island District of the Canadian Cancer Society, has now been informed by the Ontario Division that effective April 1st, 1967 the accommodation at the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation Lodges in Toronto, London and Hamilton will be free of charge to cancer patients who are residents of Ontario.

Up to this time, there has been a nominal charge made to anyone who was able to make such payment. Needy patients have, of course, received such accommodation free of charge. The recent decision of the Foundation to make all accommodation available without charge was a most welcome one, and reflects the concern of the Foundation for the cancer patients of this Province.

There is no doubt but that the radiotherapy and chemotherapy that is provided by our Foundation clinics across this Province, is second to none anywhere on this continent. This, coupled with the understanding and thoughtfulness of the Board of Directors of the Foundation, provides a most fortunate set of circumstances for those who must undergo either form of treatment in Ontario.

Heavy Program Ahead

First Use of Guillotine Rule May Forecast Future Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—By a two-to-one majority, the Commons approved the first use of the guillotine rule Thursday night to force a vote by next Tuesday on the defence white paper bill.

Before the government action carried by a vote of 134 to 62, Prime Minister Pearson unveiled a massive Centennial Year legislative program and said the Liberals hope to set time limits on most items, with Opposition approval.

Conservative spoke angrily about government "closure" as the House moved towards the first-night vote that clamped a limit of three more days on the bill to unify the armed forces into a single service.

But other parties, reflecting on the growing volume of legislation needed to govern Canada, urged collective action to reform the use of Parliament's time.

They said the government's right to ask for decisions—as well as the Opposition's right to debate—must be respected.

Mr. Pearson listed a startling program of 61 pieces of legislation the government would introduce in 1965, provides for all-party discussion aimed at agreeing on time limits for specific debates. Failing agreement, the rule allows the government itself to ask for restrictions.

The government proceeded with this second 'step for the first time Thursday, with a motion that was debated all day before it finally came to a vote.

The 39 Liberals voting drew support from 18 New Democrats, six Creditistes, the five Social Credit MPs and independent J. A. Macgrath (Trois-Rivieres).

Use of the guillotine was opposed by 81 Conservatives and Independents Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke).

The unification bill, after 13 days on the floor of 63 clauses in detailed discussion by the Commons, now must come to a vote by next Tuesday night, unless the Speaker allows an extension for discussion of amendments.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker charged that the Liberals were bulldozing unification through Parliament and selling Canada a pig in a poke.

"They can gag us by brute force with the assistance of third parties," he said. But they could not gag the Conservative belief that traditions were being destroyed for naught.

Mr. Pearson replied that Mr. Diefenbaker's "scatter-gun" approach in effect continued the debate on unification. He promised his own approach would examine the government motion in terms of Parliament's function.

Parliament was confronted with more legislation on more subjects than ever before in its history. Unification had received "adequate" consideration during 53 days in the Commons and a Commons committee.

The government wanted to get on with a list including such notable bills as: abolition of capital punishment, divorce reform, educational television, anti-pollution measures, election expenses, new words for O Canada.

The prime minister had another list of business for the remainder of the current session, which will become the longest in history with its 240th day next Wednesday. The 1964-65 session lasted 248 days.

He said he wants to end the session May 5 and start a new one May 9. Pressing business would push the summer recess back to mid-July.

Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said Mr. Pearson was asking Parliament to do everything except amend the Ten Commandments and rewrite the Sermon on the Mount and Hamlet's soliloquy.

The prime minister said that if Parliament cannot cope with its legislative requirements, "people will lose faith in Parliament and its processes, and they will lose faith in democracy also."

Mr. Baldwin blamed government mismanagement of business. Ill-conceived legislation was being introduced and ending up being ill-digested.

H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) spoke of a disturbing trend in the conduct of House business since 1965.

"Unless and until a minority is persuaded that it is going to win a vote, those belonging to it seek to prevent everybody else from voting.

". . . The majority in Parliament should not be prevented from bringing in the policies it desires to bring in, provided there has been a reasonable period for discussion."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) agreed and suggested that is what rules and procedures are all about—an attempt to balance the two rights.

And time had to be set aside to serve both.

Sunday School Lesson

At Door of the Church

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

There are two Americas in the United States. There is the America the tourist sees, the one described by Chamber of Commerce publications, the one Kenneth Galbraith calls "The Affluent Society." Then there is what Michael Harrington calls "The Other America." This is the America the social worker sees, the America of poverty and shame, the America of suffering and frustration.

Much of the second America is hidden from the eyes of those who live in the first America. The crowding and misery of the ghetto are hidden from the eyes of those who drive to and from the inner-city over fast-flowing freeways. Even much physical suffering is hidden behind hospital walls. When a person gets sick, he is rushed to a hospital where he is seen only by doctors and nurses, by relatives (but not his children), and a few friends who call.

It was not this way in Biblical times, or in much of the world today. When Peter and John went to church, they had to step over sick beggars who lay in the very shadow of the beautiful gates of the temple. What happened on one such occasion throws vivid light on the role of the church today.

Peter and John were approaching the temple at "the hour of prayer." A man crippled from birth called out for help. Instead of ignoring his pleas, the disciples stopped, and Peter said, "Look at us." (Acts 3:4 RSV) The man looked, "expecting to receive something from them." But Peter did not give him money; he could not. Instead, he took him by the hand and said, "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk." (Acts 3:6 RSV) When he lifted the beggar to his feet and the man found he could stand, he went walking and leaping into the temple praising God.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 23: "Peter and John at the Temple," Acts 3.

The church today is becoming increasingly aware of those who need help, not only spiritual, but material as well. Too often the church has concealed its attention on beautiful doors; on building large and beautiful mausoleums.

There is a place for this. Great art and architecture can lift men's thoughts to God. And after all, the church exists primarily as a place of prayer. It is not just another social agency. Its responsibility is to open men into a relationship with God. It wants to see men grow spiritually so they will use their mental and physical strength to serve God and man. If the church does not lead them into a commitment to God, this will not be done, for no other agency has this as its primary purpose.

But to do this, a church must do more. It must be aware of the world that crowds up to its doors, a world of poor people, lonely people, sinful people, a world of young and old people, sick and well people, alcoholics and beatniks. Many of these people are looking to the church "expecting to receive something." What does the church have to give?

The church's answer is not economic. It speaks out for justice and better economic conditions, but it does not offer men "silver and gold." It tells a person who has been crippled by sin that through faith in Christ he can walk morally erect. It tells people who are being held down by life that in the eyes of Christ, they have dignity and worth, and He will help them to walk as such.

But the church must do more than preach. Peter took the lame man by the hand and "raised him up." (Acts 3:7 RSV) He did not merely preach he helped. And the church must demonstrate Christian love in action by expressing its concern over conditions that make for suffering and misery, and by helping people to overcome the conditions that hold them down.

The average Christian reading this story probably thinks of himself in the role of the disciples. He should also think of himself in the role of the lame man. By being a Christian does not make a person feel like leaping for joy, he himself may still need to be lifted up. If one's will is paralyzed, he still needs to be strengthened by faith before he can walk morally erect. That Christ can give such strength has been evidenced by many He has helped to go leaping with joy into a new life of faith and hope.

Recognize China Urges Reporter

OTTAWA (CP) — Reporter Charles Taylor told the external affairs committee Thursday Canada should act now to extend diplomatic recognition to Communist China.

Canada should take the step unilaterally and not be surprised if the Chinese do not react to the offer, said the writer who spent 1½ years in China as correspondent for Toronto's Globe and Mail.

He suggested the step could be taken without opening up the question of continued Canadian recognition of the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa.

In a two-hour appearance before the committee, Mr. Taylor said the unrest within the country is unlikely to bring about any sharp change in Chinese foreign policy.

Mr. Taylor said a Canadian presence in China would be helpful even though movements of foreigners and their contacts with the Chinese are severely restricted.

Hugh Faulkner (L — Peterborough) asked whether China is looking for a complete victory for Communists in Vietnam or merely wanted the U.S. to withdraw forces.

"They'd like to see an American withdrawal under humiliating circumstances," Mr. Taylor replied. "But they'd settle for less."

Only Six of 64 Items In Report Implemented

OTTAWA (CP)—Only six of 64 recommendations by the Commons public accounts committee for tightening up government finances have been implemented, a report prepared by Auditor General Maxwell Henderson says.

The report said three more are under consideration and three rejected soon after the study is being made on 11 others. No decision has been taken on 27, government departments have drawn attention to 14, one was withdrawn, and two have been acted upon with unsatisfactory results.

Presenting the report to the public accounts committee Thursday, Mr. Henderson noted that the three - month deadline given to officials to reply to the committee's interest for information has not yet terminated. Ten of the recommendations date back to 1962.

The report also complains that the new Bank Act makes no attempt to stop the practice of compensating the chartered banks directly for services rendered to the Crown.

The auditor - general said the practice of leaving $100,000,000 on deposit with the banks free of interest was contrary to the spirit of the Bank Act and urged the act be amended to give the Bank of Canada statutory authority for compensating the banks for services.

Seventeen years later Teddy still keeps on startling the fanciers of the court with some of his latest, right, which show a lot of a tennis player. # Marked Shortage of Humor In Tony Randall's Special

NEW YORK (AP)—The question about which twin had the "boy"—Tony Randall that is—was purely coincidental Thursday night in a tired little stab at British comedy called The Wide Open Door on ABC.

The program obviously was designed to match the mood of the old film comedy The Lavender Hill Mob and was even written by the same man, T. E. B. Clarke. But it never came off.

There were just too many ingredients, all confusing. The result was an enormous amount of scurrying around by a large cast trying to touch all bases, but there was a marked shortage of humor.

First there was Honor Blackman playing twins, one dumb and one bright but both members of a mob attempting a bank robbery. Then there was Tony Randall playing a Scotland Yard sleuth and his double, a slick crook who assumed the detective's identity to pull off his evil deed.

Most of the time the viewer did not know which was the sleuth and which the crook. Anyway the bad guys were caught without shooting, fist-cuffs—or laugh track.

Gerard Pelletier Named Secretary

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson Thursday announced the third of Quebec's "three wise men" to parliamentary secretary.

Gerard Pelletier, 47-year-old newspaper columnist and Liberal MP for Montreal Hochelaga, was appointed parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Martin.

He was one of three Quebec intellectuals and leaders of French-Canadian opinion recruited by the Liberals before the 1965 election.

The other two — Manpower Minister Marchand and Justice Minister Trudeau—soon moved into cabinet posts after their election to Parliament.

CBS and NBC have announced plans to provide live coverage by satellite of the funeral service next Tuesday for Konrad Adenauer, former West German chancellor. Coverage will start at 7 a.m. EST on NBC and 7.30 on CBS and continue until at least 10 a.m.

Recommended viewing: Sunday—Go, ABC, 7-8 p.m. EST, musical special with Herman's Hermits and Noel Harrison; Bonanza, ABC, 8-9, documentary about the late film star; The Law and the Prophets, NBC, 10-11, Town and Country Time with Don Lowering.

Supreme Court Meets Tuesday Truscott Verdict Is Awaited

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada opens its spring session next Tuesday with a crowded docket that probably will keep the nine judges busy until late in June.

Main interest centres on the court's forthcoming judgment in the Steven Truscott murder case. Final argument in this case was completed Jan. 30.

Truscott was 14 years old when he was convicted in 1959 in the slaying of Lynne Harper, 12, at Clinton, Ont. A book, The Trial of Steven Truscott, last year stirred up national controversy over the conduct of the trial and led the cabinet to order a review of the case by the highest court.

Also due to sometime in this session is a decision on the question of whether the federal or provincial governments hold jurisdiction over offshore mineral rights.

Several significant appeals are to be heard.

One concerns a homosexual in the Northwest Territories sentenced to an indefinite prison term as a dangerous sexual offender because of it. But Radio Luxembourg's reporter said it took place on schedule at noon and he witnessed it.

Rivière, 45, challenged Defferre Thursday night and chose epees, or dueling swords, after the mayor called him an idiot during a tumultuous debate in the assembly.

Radio Luxembourg said the two men met on private property and both were white shirts with collars open and sleeves rolled up. The reporter said the duel lasted about four minutes.

Thursday during a verbal clash between Premier Georges Pompidou and leftist François Mitterrand in the assembly, Rivière thought he heard Defferre call him an "abruti"—meaning stupe, slouch or idiot.

Reuters news agency reported that Rivière's speech to the assembly was punctuated by cries of "get the credit to shut up" from Defferre.

Rivière strode over to Defferre and asked if he had heard correctly. Defferre said yes.

"I ask you for reparation," Rivière said, although he left out the traditional slap of a glove. Rivière's seconds presented themselves to Defferre a few minutes later and Defferre named his seconds.

Two French Politicians Fight Duel With Swords

PARIS (AP)—Radio Luxembourg reported today that a duel between two members of the French National Assembly had taken place and Socialist Deputy Gaston Defferre had won, touching Gaullist Rene Rivière twice with his spee.

Rivière was only scratched, the broadcast said.

Defferre, 56-year-old mayor of Marseille, had told reporters before the broadcast the duel scheduled for noon has been postponed until late afternoon because of rain. But Radio Luxembourg's reporter said it took place on schedule at noon

Senators Reluctant to Make LSD Accused Prove Innocence

OTTAWA (CP) — Does the need to crack down on use of the hallucinatory drug LSD justify reversing the basic legal tenet that, as accused is innocent until proven guilty?

The Senate wrestled with the question Thursday as debate continued on a bill to make possession or trafficking in LSD — lysergic acid diethylamide — a criminal offence with penalties of up to 10 years' imprisonment.

Senator David Walker (PC—Ontario), a former federal prosecutor, said he didn't agree with the principle that an accused should have to prove his innocence but felt the danger inherent in use of LSD justified shifting the onus of proof.

The Senate version of the bill would make a prosecutor prove a charge of possession of a drug, then leave it to the accused to find guilty, the accused would have to prove that he was not guilty of trafficking.

Senator Lionel Choquette (PC—Ontario) interjected that he was unhappy that the bill appeared not to give an accused an opportunity to prove that he came into possession of the drug innocently. Possibly some body could throw some into his car.

Senator Walker said the Crown would accept any good explanation of possession.

Senator Malcolm Hollett (PC—Newfoundland) said the bill "seems to forget" that 80 per cent of those using the drug "are sick people." He wants a provision in the bill that would send such people to hospital.

The debate on second reading was adjourned.

Earlier the Senate gave second reading to a bill amending the Canadian Citizenship Act. The changes remove certain inequalities between native-born and foreign-born Canadians.

Note Dispute To Reach Last Court

TORONTO (CP) — A dispute involving a $3,021,900 cheque of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. is to be heard by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Ontario Court of Appeal upheld Wednesday a judgment by Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court that Societe financiere d'Industrie Ree. must pay the value of the cheque plus interest to Royal Securities Corp.

SFCI, a Montreal-based investment-banking firm, said it will appeal to the Supreme Court.

SFCI made a $5,000,000 weekend loan to Atlantic at $1,500 interest with Royal Securities acting between the two parties, the court was told.

Royal Securities accepted an uncertified cheque for $3,001,800 from Atlantic Acceptance in its Toronto office, named in it promissory note for cancellation and ordered its Montreal office to pay the sum to SFCI. Then it learned that Atlantic's cheque was not cashed by its bank. Atlantic collapsed in mid-1965.

Last October, Mr. Justice Gale ruled payment was made by Royal Securities in the mistaken belief that it had received a valid cheque from Atlantic. He ordered that Atlantic's promissory note, held by Royal Securities, be given to SFCI and that SFCI pay Royal Securities.

Recovery on the notes is expected to be about 80 cents on the dollar.

Lewis Questions Scuttling of Medicare

TORONTO (CP) — Medicare and the high cost of dying in Ontario were given prime time in the legislature Thursday as New Democratic Party members aired some of the province's financial and social ills.

Stephen Lewis (NDP—Scarborough West) asked if the Ontario and federal governments are working on a scheme "which will scuttle the principles" of universal medical care.

Mr. Lewis said this conclusion could be drawn from newspaper reports of a federal-provincial conference in Ottawa earlier this week which discussed a national medical care program.

He said Allan MacEachen, federal health minister, apparently did not deny the contention of Dr. Matthew Dymond, his Ontario counterpart, that the province can meet Ottawa's medical care standard.

Mr. Lewis asked how Dr. Dymond can convince Ottawa that the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan covers 80 per cent of the population, includes all doctor services, is portable and operated on a non-profit basis by a public authority responsible to the province and subject to public audit.

"Are they planning the destruction of universal medicare?" Mr. Lewis asked.

Dr. Dymond told the federal-provincial conference:

"We have the numbers enrolled as recognized necessary for universality; we can provide more than the basic services mentioned; we can readily arrange for portability; we can safely ourselves on a provincial administration that, in so far as public audit is concerned, meets requirements . . ."

NDP Leader Donald MacDonald told the legislature a book room to be published claims the cost of a funeral in Ontario with a varnished oak casket has risen from $37.75 in 1917 to $850 and is continuing to rise "like helium balloon."

Mr. MacDonald quoted from the book, Death, Her ets Thy Sting.

In other business in the legislature:

1. Mr. Lewis said a survey of Metropolitan Toronto hospitals showed 9,711 persons were on a waiting list for operations and added that the city is faced with a critical shortage of beds.

2. Commercial Affairs Minister Leslie Rowntree said surveys taken recently by two groups of insurance companies indicate car insurance rates will not go up next year and may even be reduced slightly.

3. The legislature gave first reading to a government bill which will clear the way for provincially incorporated loan and trust companies to be placed under the Canada deposit insurance scheme. The proposed amendment to the Ontario Deposit Insurance Corporation Act authorizes the firms to apply for deposit insurance under the federal plan June 30.

4. S. W. Martin, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission predicted that the cost of operating Ontario's hospital insurance scheme will keep rising by 10 to 11 per cent a year in the foreseeable future.

5. Education Minister William Davis said the federal government has not responded to requests from provincial education ministers for talks on "serious problems" created by regulations under the federal manpower training program.

6. The legislature gave first reading to a bill proposed by Reg Gisborn (NDP—Wentworth East) which provides for three weeks' vacation after a year's employment in Ontario and four weeks after 10 years.

Davis Says Talk Bid Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis said Thursday the federal government has not responded to requests from provincial education ministers for talks on "serious problems" created by regulations under the federal manpower training program.

Mr. Davis was replying in the legislature to NDP Leader Donald MacDonald who referred to reports that the regulations will reduce enrolment in adult retraining programs by about 7,000 during the next year.

The minister agreed the announced regulations "made significant changes to the existing adult retraining program."

Mr. Davis said the provinces had been put "in the painful position of observing decisions in education and training being made by the federal government, which has no experience in the operational aspect of the programs and which has consistently ignored the advice of the provinces."

Senator Would Freeze Size of Civil Service

TORONTO (CP) — Senator Wallace McCutcheon said Thursday the staff size of the federal civil service should be frozen at its present level to curtail taxation escalation.

The Ontario senator, a potential Conservative leadership candidate, said that no replacements or additions should be permitted without the express permission of the treasury board, the cabinet committee that oversees expenditures.

He told the annual meeting of the Institute of Internal Auditors 13,000 man years have been added to the civil service establishment in the current fiscal year that began April 1. The total does not include commercial Crown corporations such as the CNR.

Offer $80 Funerals Book Asks

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Dymond was asked Thursday to act to reduce the cost of funerals in the province.

NDP Leader Donald Macdonald told the legislature a book soon to be published claims the cost of a funeral in Ontario with a varnished oak casket has risen to $850 from $37.75 in 1917 and is continuing to rise.

Mr. Macdonald said the book, Death, Here is Thy Sting, contends the average overhead for a funeral in Toronto is $400 and that for a typical $1,200 funeral the profit is about $650.

The NDP leader said the book contends that a non-profit funeral association could break even offering funerals at $80 each.

The book admitted funerals could be obtained for as little as $125, although the cheaper caskets seldom are displayed by the undertakers.

Even at $125 undertakers make a profit since the caskets cost no more than $40, Mr. Macdonald quoted the book as saying.

'Impossible to Exist Without God' Says Stalin's Daughter

NEW YORK (AP)—An odyssey across three continents has brought Svetlana Stalina, daughter of the late Soviet dictator, to the United States seeking, she says, life with freedom of self - expression.

In a simply - worded statement, she said disenchantment with the communism, taught her since her childhood, and discovery of a deep religious faith had led to the decision to defect from her Soviet homeland.

"I found it was impossible to exist without God in one's heart," she said on her arrival Friday. "I came to that conclusion myself, without anybody's help or preaching.

"But that was a great change because since that moment the main dogmas of communism lost their significance for me.

"I have come here in order to seek the self - expression that has been denied me for so long in Russia," the red-haired 43-year-old widow explained.

She said she had struggled against the break because it meant leaving her two children in Moscow and not seeing them again for a long time, "but all was in vain—I felt it was impossible to go back."

Miss Stalina declined to say whether she had been granted permanent asylum here. In Washington the state department said:

"She is free to remain here as long as she wishes and is free to leave whenever she wishes."

Prior to her arrival the department notified the Soviet embassy she was on her way. There has been concern in the capital over the possible effect on U.S.-Soviet relations.

Already here when she arrived from Zurich Switzerland, was the manuscript of an 80,000-word autobiography, written in 1963 which has been turned over to Harper and Row for publication Oct. 15.

Chicago Tornadoes Kill 47 and Injure 1500

CHICAGO (AP) — Three vicious tornadoes cut a destructive path through heavily-populated sections of northern Illinois and western Michigan Friday, killing 47 persons, injuring more than 1,500 and leaving giant, scattered wastelands.

The tornadoes killed 24 persons in Oak Lawn, a suburb of Chicago; 20 in Belvidere, Ill., a town of 12,000 about 65 miles northwest of Chicago; 1 in Chicago; 1 in Stone Park, another Chicago suburb, and 1 in Hillsdale County, Mich.

The Chicago weather bureau said the tornadoes "appear to be the worst . . . since March 38, 1920, and when the final report is in, it may be the most devasting tornado on record in northeastern Illinois."

Hardest hit as the tornadoes bristled through scores of Illinois communities was Oak Lawn. Among the victims there were a number of young skaters at a roller rink which was demolished.

A big supermarket in Oak Lawn, which had been jammed with Friday evening shoppers, was reduced to rubble. Another fear ed casualties there could raise the death toll.

Nine victims in the Belvidere were students. The bomber hit there as students boarded school buses, which were sent sailing through the air like leaves. Others were bounced across the ground and fatalities.

One bus was carried more than a mile from the school. Hours after the storm a woman rummaged through the wreckage of a school bus, looking for her son.

"I haven't found my son yet," she said. "All I've found is his corset case."

Sheriff Joseph I. Woods of Cook County ordered Illinois national guardsmen to guard against looting in debris-strewn Oak Lawn.

"All looters . . . will be shot on sight," he said.

Fred Dumke, village president, reported "quite a few lootings" on 95th Street in the suburb.

"I know Sheriff Woods has issued orders to shoot on sight anyone who is caught looting. "I think it's a good ruling," Dumke continued. "Anyone who would loot at a time like this . . ." his voice trailed off as he walked into a temporary morgue in a hall.

In the hall rows of bodies were lined up against the west wall.

People stood in clusters, talking and consoling each other. They walked by the bodies, lifted sheets and shook their heads. A few fainted.

About 200 homes, apartment buildings and garages in a six-block area of Oak Lawn were levelled or left with only fragments of their walls standing.

In Belvidere, Police Capt. Francis Whalen stopped his car in front of the Belvidere high school as the twister approached. He dropped to the floor.

"I said a few prayers," he recalled. "When I got up, the bus in front of me was ripped over. The house beside me was off its foundation. I knew a lot of people were hurt. The whole area was flattened."

When the twister struck, many students still were in the school. Teachers and pupils rushed into the library and cafeteria.

Bill Coleman, 17, a junior at the school, said he helped take 200 other students to the cafeteria.

"We were unaware of any damage while we were in there," he said. "Then we got out and looked and there was a bus halfway through the wall."

As the tornado neared the high school, other terrified students huddled against the library walls. The force of the wind smashed the library's windows, injuring dozens.

Greek Frontiers Open, Athens Curfew Lifted

ROME (AP)—Greece's new military dictators relaxed somewhat their grip on the country today by reopening its frontiers and lifting a curfew in Athens until early Sunday.

The first of several foreign airliners, stranded in Athens when the army seized power Friday, reached Rome with 97 passengers.

A Danish charter airline said two of its planes landed in Athens and a British airline said it was resuming regular service to the Greek capital.

Athens radio said movie houses and other places of entertainment were expected to reopen today.

Telephone communications within the capital were restored Friday night and some of the politicans arrested during the early hours of the coup were reported released.

But tanks and battle-ready troops kept the country under close watch. No disturbances were reported.

With communications interrupted and news media censored, most information about the coup was coming from Athens radio or various sources outside Greece.

The first travellers to reach Rome from Athens said soldiers brandishing bayonet-tipped rifles forced citizens out of downtown streets Friday. They said at least a dozen were shot in the air but there was no sign of bloodshed.

The Athens correspondent of the Istanbul newspaper Hurriyet said a clandestine radio station in the Greek capital was calling for rebellion against "monarch-fascism and dictatorship." The station called itself "the true voice of the Greeks."

The newspaper says 12 Greek army officers garrisoned near the Bulgarian border had deserted and crossed the frontier.

The travellers from Athens said he heard a rumor that King Constantine's 21-month-old daughter, Princess Alexia, had been kidnapped. His wife, Danish-born Queen Marie, is expecting another child next month.

Others heard that most of the arrested politicans had been detained at the Athens Hilton Hotel and that the hotel was ringed with armored vehicles and soldiers with machine-guns.

There has been no statement from the king since the coup. Diplomats in the Turkish capital of Ankara said that the coup may have been begun by a small group of military officers, with the king informed later. They described the coup as a "centre-right" movement that apparently encountered no resistance anywhere in Greece.

The new government announced Friday night a program of far-reaching goals that indicated it did not plan an early return to civilian rule.

Constantine Kollias, sworn in as premier by Greek Orthodox Primate Archbishop Chrysostomos, said in a broadcast to the nation that the parliamentary elections scheduled next month would have led to bloodshed and chaos. He said the army intervened to save the country from destruction."

Kollias, 61-year-old chief Supreme Court prosecutor, said that "when the country returns to normal" parliamentary activity would be resumed but "not the democracy of rabble."

The statement appeared aimed at former premier Georgs Papandreou, 80, who has often called demonstrators into the streets to back up the demands of his powerful leftist Centre Union party.

Vietnam Battle Is in Second Day

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. marines trudged with a dogged Communist force for the second straight day today in a rugged coastal area in the northern port of South Vietnam. The marines reported killing 46 enemy with the help of air strikes and artillery.

The action near Tam Ky, about 373 miles northeast of Saigon, was the only major ground fighting reported today.

In the air, U.S. pilots carried out 118 missions Friday over North Vietnam, concentrating their bombs on railways, trucks and barges.

Other planes battered enemy troop concentrations, base camps and infiltration routes inside South Vietnam. B-52 bombers hit enemy fortifications and supply areas twice today in Chau Doc province near the Cambodian border about 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

There were many isolated clashes and incidents across the country but fighting was scattered.

With Communist pressure steadily increasing in the northern 1st Corps area, the U.S. Command announced that a new army task force called Oregon had been set up there.

Millie Was Booked as Expo Star But Now She's a Bilingual, Obscene Macaw

MONTREAL (CP) — Millie, who was to be the star of the Barbados-Guyana pavilion at Expo 67, is out of the show and in disgrace—all because she learned to swear.

Millie is a blasingly colorful macaw, or member of the parrot family.

She and other brilliant birds were brought here three months ago from their native Guyana, in South America.

But Millie, with her blue and gold plumage, seemed destined to outshine the other birds once all of them were installed in the pavilion's simulated jungle setting.

But officials say that, once installed in the mock jungle, Millie apparently picked up some swear words from workmen helping with the preparations.

Senator Peter Morgan of Barbados visited her this week after hearing disturbing reports that Millie had learned to cuss in both English and French.

The commissioner - general of the pavilion approached the proud macaw and recovered an earful of barracks language, all scrupulously bilingual.

"I just had to show her the door," said Senator Morgan.

"After all, bilingual obscenities from a macaw are a bit too much for one to take."

She is to be replaced for the time being by Mary, another resplendent macaw.

"I've told anyone who goes near Mary to watch their language," said the senator.

U.S. 'Surveyor' Digs Trenches on Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor III dug a trench about three feet long and at least six inches deep to the surface of the moon today but uncovered nothing spectacular.

The trench, the second scooped out by a two-by-five-inch shovel in less than three hours, turned up a considerable amount of lumpy material much like that on the undisturbed surface.

Pictures of the operation, televised to controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, showed no surprises and nothing to indicate the moon's surface might be unsafe for manned landings.

Early today the spidery device did its first digging—a four-long trench in three jerky motions lasting two seconds each.

The scoop made a second pass through the trench about an hour later but spokesmen said the pictures were not clear enough to show whether the trench had been deepened.

At this point, the moon was beyond the horizon of the tracking station controlling the spacecraft and the operation was suspended.

A television camera, mounted just above the scoop's extendable arm, relayed a series of photographs of the history-making operation to its controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Surveyor III first dropped the scoop into the soil between two of its legs, creating a rectangular hole about 1½ inches deep.

After a brief delay to let the electronics of Surveyor's overheating cameras cool off, the shovel was moved to the right and lowered again with its scoop opened.

The trench that resulted when the scoop was pulled back appeared sharply defined in photographs. This indicated the lunar soil was strongly cohesive, similar to wet sand.

It was the first time pictures were relayed to earth of a scratch on the moon's surface put there by a man-made device.

A spokesman said the texture and grain of the soil around the spacecraft appeared as was expected—not too soft for a man to walk on nor so hard it would damage a landing vehicle.

"What! At his age?"

Sculptor Wins Council Grant

A 32-year-old Belleville artist, who unexpectedly discovered an affinity with sculpting while in university, has been awarded a Canada Council grant to continue his studies in Great Britain.

Alan Barkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Barkley, 372 Bleecker Ave, also is the only artist outside Ottawa mentioned in the latest council bursary list for all Eastern Ontario.

The award, for $2,000, will make it possible for the former Belleville Collegiate student to extend his art studies in London, where he was accepted last fall at St. Martin's School of Art.

After graduation from BCI in 1962, he went to University of Toronto where his talents included famous Toronto sculptor Ted Bieler.

His mother says she was has first real introduction to studying sculpture and it apparently quickened his imagination to the point where he became a student-assistant of Bieler in 1963.

With the sculptor he worked on various projects, including one for Expo.

His own work in the art included designs for a Toronto architectural firm, which were included in his brief submitted to the Canada Council when seeking a grant.

The young Belleville artist was one of 161 Canadians mentioned in the council's latest bursaries list, totalling $363,000.

The bursaries make it possible for younger artists of exceptional promise to work or study freely in the earlier stages of their artistic careers.

Alan Barkley was one of 441 who applied for the current award.

Apprenticeship Training Plan Growing at Deloro Stellite

Who said that the idea of tradesmen serving long apprenticeship training periods was on the way out.

That is certainly not the case at Deloro Stellite in Belleville where a full fledged apprenticeship machine shop training program is underway and is growing every year.

The program was commenced four years ago and yesterday during a brief ceremony in the company cafeteria at the end of the afternoon work shift the first two apprentices received certificates from the firm and also from the Department of Labor.

All during the four year training period Bruce Coulter, 23 of Foxboro, and Wayne A. Craig, 21, George Street, Belleville have received weekly wages with regular increases as their skills improved. Bruce trained as a toolmaker and Craig as a machinist.

The certificates were presented by Hugh Heslip, production controller at Deloro Stellite, before a group of Canadian Manufacturers Association members who earlier in the afternoon had taken a conducted tour of the plant.

Plant Manager J. C. "Pat" Houston said the apprenticeship program had grown every year since it was introduced four years ago. Last year there were more than 60 applicants for the relatively few apprenticeship positions open.

Applicants must have a minimum of Grade 12 education and on acceptance the boys work for specified periods to determine the trade to which they are best suited and then during the second year take night school and other inplant instruction.

Mr. Houston says that on completition of their training the boys are "good tradesmen" and fully capable of taking their place in the plant machine shop.

There is no compulsion for the boys to remain at the plant on completition of their apprenticeship training.

"But we hope they do", says Mr. Houston.

Line Fee Across Trent Doubled By Department

TRENTON — Members of the local public utilities commission were surprised to learn this week that licences for PUC lines across the Trent River — both overhead and underwater — had been more than doubled.

A communication from the department of transport informed the commissionerz the annual licencing fee for their aerial lines near the Domtar newsprint plant will be $40 instead of the previous $17.

The letter also said the annual charge for an underwater cable has been increased to $25 from $10. Commissioner Charles Hilton remarked "at the department of transport rates, we should be charging the Bell Telephone a million dollars a year in run its lines through town streets."

The three-man commission, including mayor James MacDonald, agreed to petition South Hastings MP Lee Grills concerning the matter and refused to pay the increased rates in the interim.

2 Women In Hospital After Crash

Two Toronto women were admitted to Belleville General Hospital late last night suffering from injuries received when their car went out of control on Highway 401 east of Belleville near the Salmon River bridge.

Taken to hospital were Mrs. Henrietta Colman, 47, of Willowdale, and Gertrude O'Connor of Burlington.

Details of the accident are sketchy. Provincial police report they came on the car in the west bound lane of the highway shortly before midnight. The women were taken to hospital by City Ambulance.

Mrs. Colman was treated for bruises while Gertrude O'Connor had a broken pelvis and other undetermined injuries.

Four Cars Stolen Overnight

City police are investigating the theft of four autos which occurred last night in the downtown area and in the east end of the city.

Three of the four stolen vehicles had been recovered by mid-morning.

Police believe joy riders were responsible for the thefts. The three vehicles recovered were found abandoned on the streets, one of them in the Station Street area.

Evans Heads Township Liberals

AMELIASBURG — Township Liberals holding their annual meeting in the community hall here elected the former chairman of the Ameliasburg Homeowners association to serve them as president for the coming year.

In accepting the new assignment, Fred Evans of Redoreville called upon the membership to provide the necessary enthusiasm and co-operation for provincial and federal headquarters now in the process of re-organizing with Prince Edward-Lennox riding from the grassroots.

He said he intended to make a personal appeal to the township women's organization to intensify activities while he was engaged with helping with the effort

"All of us should contribute something toward the revival, he said, suggesting the party's strength in this area depends on the success of encouraging the women residents to share more in the activities.

The other members of the new executive are Mrs. Dora Bartlett, first vice-president; Douglas Redoner, second vice-president and Mrs. George Cunningham, secretary-treasurer.

Gas Line Decision Paramount

WASHINGTON (CP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will have to start expanding its all - Canada line to the east unless it gets a go-ahead late in May for an alternative route via the Great Lakes, a spokesman told the Federal Power Commission.

Chairman Lee White of the U.S. commission commented that the process of reaching a decision along the five-year members is "often painfully long."

The exchange came at the latest stage of Trans-Canada's efforts, in conjunction with American partners, to get more gas from the Canadian Ontario and Quebec markets through the cheaper route south of the Great Lakes.

Export sales in the U.S. would also be made.

White warned too that it would be unrealistic for any of the main parties in the long and complicated case — including Ontario and Quebec provinces — to say they will push ahead with their $200,000,000 U.S. plan if given the green light without regard to possible court challenges.

Changing Times Threaten One of Oldest Industries

If you're reading this you may have a broncosaurus in your head.

What you're scanning is print. The broncosaurus was one of the prehistoric species which went down to extinction because it couldn't adapt to changing environments.

The connection between the dim past and something that could have a dim future was made by an Ontario civil servant in Belleville this morning.

David Johnston, development officer with the department of labor, emphasized the warning that changing times threaten for one of the oldest industries of them all — printing.

Mr. Johnston was keynote speaker to the annual meeting of the East Central Ontario Graphic Arts Association at the Tops Motel.

Quoting experts, Mr. Johnston warned that the industry "is weighed down by 500 years of glorious but useless tradition. Its concepts are now so outdated that the industry is ripe for takeover by those with more advanced ideas."

His quotes came during a lengthy verbal outlook to the printers on training schemes inaugurated by the Ontario government to meet the needs of the industry.

He intimated that the age-old system of apprenticeship, unorganized apprenticeships throughout much of the trade was not in step with modern demands.

"The training need is recognized and the need to organize this training is of paramount importance," said Mr. Johnston. "The present system of unrelated or fragmented training schemes is not only inefficient, but costly. It does not deal with the current need in fast - changing electronic industry."

J. B. Brien Out on Bail

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Bernard Brien, 51, former president of the collapsed Prudential Finance Corp., was released from jail Friday when friends put up $25,000 property bail.

Brien was arrested Monday night on two charges of fraud and four of theft. Bail was set at a court appearance Tuesday when Brien's case was remanded to April 25.

The charges involve the disappearance of $644,000 from the treasury of the North American General Insurance Co.

Local Church Ends Indebtedness

The Centennial Free Methodist church, 133 Avondale Road, one of the newer churches in Belleville will pass an important milestone on Sunday, April 23. Special services commemorating the liquidation of the church's indebtedness in Canada's centennial year will be held.

Rev. Gerald Komp of Newmarket, who was the guest speaker at the sod-turning ceremony April 28, 1959, will speak at both services.

Special music will be provided by the Orillia Trumpet Trio composed of Wesley Slater, Robert Warren and Randy Hoover. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lobnes of Roberts Wesleyan College, North Chile, New York, will also assist with the music. Mrs. Lobnes is the former Gael Smith of this city.

The church was dedicated Oct 16, 1960, and named Centennial in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the denomination's founding, which was celebrated that year.

The pastor, Rev. Edith Manbrire, has served the circuit 10 years.

Hastings Children's Aid Society Reports Number of Wards Increased

Expenditures of the Hastings County Children's Aid Society at $67,912.29 for the first three months of 1967 were within the society's budget for that period.

This was the report of Ortel Griffiths society treasurer at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors held on Thursday of this week.

Bruce Kerr, local director, reported 140 children in the care of the society at the end of March, a slight increase from the beginning of the year. However, Mr. Kerr said the increase was due entirely to the fact that wards in wardships terminated by the court in the months of March and not by reason of placement. Six children all born out of wedlock were admitted in March.

The society supervised resting of office space in Bancroft, it being noted that since July of last year the Nurses Residence Bancroft had been operating out of his home.

Madoc Reeve Thomas Burn society president, said that without question the increased activities in that part of the county it was desirable to establish an interviewing office in Bancroft.

With the completion of the new county home for the aged in 1968 there will be space for the society office in the new building. However, it was felt that alternate accommodation should be provided until completion of the county building.

Interest earned from bequest funds will be used for the renewal of the temporary accommodation.

It was announced that there are children of all ages, including infants, throughout the province available for adoption. Accordingly, the society plans to introduce a program to stimulate interest in adoption using the local newspaper and radio station, and, in conjunction with the Kingston Society, television.

A committee comprising of the president, T. R. Calder, Thomas Burnside of Madoc, Douglas Boyle of Belleville and J. D. Kinney of Trenton was appointed to meet with officials of the County of Hastings and continue discussions concerning erection of a building which might be used as a health and welfare centre for the area.

Vacant Trenton Plant Enthuses Trade Officials

TRENTON — Hopes to locate an industry in the vacant 100,000 square foot Downs-Cockle plant were given verbal encouragement Friday by visiting Ontario department of economics officials.

Four plant location officers with the department's trade and industry branch expressed optimism about the prospects of attracting an industry to replace the textile firm which closed its doors two years ago.

One of the officers remarked: "I doubt if there is another vacant industrial property of such possibilities in Ontario."

Trenton was one of nine communities toured by the department officials in a whirlwind visit Thursday and Friday. Sponsor of the tour was Lakeland Natural Gas.

Question Time!

David Johnston, Ontario labor department officer, ponders answer to question posed at meeting of Eastern Ontario printers in Belleville today.

North Pole Journey Proposed

EDMONTON (CP)—For the first time since Admiral Peary accomplished the feat in 1909, an eight-man group is planning an overland expedition to the North Pole.

Unlike Peary, who made the trip with dog teams, the seven Americans and one Canadian will have the advantage of the latest refinements in transportation, food and clothing when they set out in March on their 15- to 20-day journey from Eureka on Ellesmere Island some 300 miles from the pole.

They will travel on light-weight motorized toboggans, fitted with special linings that will float if they break through the ice. A plane, operated by Welland Phipps, president of Atlas Aviation in Resolute, N.W.T., will keep radio contact and will pick them up when they reach the pole.

The expedition will conduct medical tests and hydrographic and weather studies and assess equipment, foods and clothing materials. A color film record will be kept for possible presentation as a television feature.

Ralph Plaistad, 38, of Minnesota is the leader of the expedition. Cpl. John Austad, 33, an RCAF survival expert based at Namao, Alta., will be weather and radio observer and backup radio operator.

Dr. Arthur Auderheide of Duluth, Minn., will study the effect of cold on cholesterol. The six others are Donald Powellan, an electronics engineer; radar and radio operator Blair Woolsey, navigator Gerald Pitul, mechanic Walter Pedersen and cameraman Robert Clemens.

Some cans and explosives will be among the modern equipment pulled by the expedition's toboggans on a sledge weighing up to 500 pounds apiece.

Since Peary's 1909 expedition, the pole has been visited by aircraft in 1926 and by nuclear submarine in 1958 and 1959.

Germans: Idiots Or Law Abiding?

MUNICH (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle once described the Germans as "born artists who have no taste whatsoever." Lenin referred to them as "silly people." Winston Churchill, in an oft - quoted aphorism, said "they are either at your throat or at your feet."

And according to a less known aside by Adolf Hitler native Austrian—the Germans proved to be an inferior nation.

What are the typical German features? That question has intrigued diagnosticians since Roman historian Cornelius Tacitus wrote his De Origine et Situ Germanorum . . . Of the Origin and the Location of the German-almost 1,900 years ago.

Sweeping statements about Germany and the Germans are not a dime a dozen today. Michael Scholz, a German writer, has collected more than 1,000 proand con-age pronouncements on his countrymen and presented them in an anthology entitled Typisch Deutsch—Typically German — published by Moderne Verlags of Munich.

The collection ranges from Kaiser Wilhelm II: "We are the salt of the earth," to Soviet writer Ilya Ehrenburg: "Fish-eaters."

Here are some more as quoted in the book:

George Bernard Shaw: "The Germans have a mania to push things so far until they become other things."

Joseph Stalin: "Germany can have no revolution because you would have to step on the lawn to make it."

Marlene Dietrich, German-born movie star: "Germans are born to be soldiers. They automate themselves to discipline and to follow an all-powerful leader."

Thomas Mann, German novelist, before he was expelled by the Hitler regime: "The German people are decent people who like law and cleanliness."

Adolf Hitler: Shortly before his suicide in 1945: "This (German) nation has proved to be too weak. Those who have survived the mammoth battles must be classified as inferior."

David Ben Gurion, Israel's elder statesman: "The Germany of today is different."

Franz Kafka, Prague - born Jewish author: "Jews and Germans have much in common. They are industrious, efficient, diligent and thoroughly hated by others. Jews and Germans are outcasts."

David Lloyd George, British statesman: "German civilization is rough, selfish and materialistic."

White Immigrants Essential But They Threaten Culture

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The South African government believes a steady flow of white immigrants is essential if white domination is to survive in the republic where blacks outnumber whites five to one.

But some Afrikaners warn that the white immigrants themselves threaten the Afrikaans language, the culture, the way of life and the rigid policy of racial segregation.

Last year, South Africa opened its doors to about 48,000 immigrants — whites urgently needed to keep the country's booming economy humming at top speed.

Official statistics show Britain supplied 11,406 immigrants, Portugal 3,324, West Germany 3,396, Greece 2,075, Italy 1,543, 1,500 and 1,400 and more than 4,000 came from neighboring Rhodesia and Zambia.

Afrikaners, who say the whites are needed, nevertheless urge the government to be more selective in its choice of white immigrants. And they want the government to give money to white families as an inducement to have children.

The country's largest Afrikaner cultural organization has told Prime Minister Vorster that a number of English - speaking people tend to sneer Afrikaner society.

Only one of every 10 newcomers has applied for South African citizenship since 1949.

A former school teacher and supporter of the ruling Nationalist party, S. van Gelderbuys, wrote immigrant children indoctrinated. "We want to indoctrinate them to become good Afrikaner citizens," he said.

The Johannesburg Afrikaans language newspaper Die Transvaler, which supports the Nationalist government, says white immigrants are a must if white civilization is to survive in South Africa.

But it warns that too many of the newcomers are from Mediterranean countries with little or no technical skills.

South Africa has two distinct white groups — the ruling Afrikaans-speaking Afrikaners and the English - speaking community. Many of the English-speaking people do not agree with the government's apartheid policy.

Enrlish and Afrikaans are the country's two official languages. Of the total white population of nearly 3,500,000, nearly 1,800,000 speak Afrikaans and about 1,200,000 speak English. The non-white population of South Africa is more than 14,000,000.

Many newcomers are bewildered by South Africa's racial laws. And seldom do they live an ideal immigrant—a skilled up to the Afrikaner conception of while who will eventually join the ranks of the Afrikaner and support the government's policy of apartheid.

"Go-Go" by Rail

The public in general and railroad buffs in particular will have noticed with interest and satisfaction the inaugural run of the Canadian National Erpoliner service from Belleville to Montreal.

Actually Thursday's trip was just a preview for civic officials, members of the Press and other invited guests. The service proper begins May 1.

To Montreal and back in a day, with as much as ten hours in the interim to see Expo is what the Erpoliner offers. The journey to Montreal will take less than four hours.

But speaking of trains (and we also have in mind the non-stop Toronto-Montreal service being introduced this summer) it is interesting to recall some historic kings of the track which for speed and comfort could match even the new 100 m.p.h. turbo engine just mentioned.

How many recall the locomotive Dominion of Canada, built in 1937 for the London North East Railway? The elegant lines of this engine are familiar to thousands of Britons and visitors who have travelled in and out of London by rail.

Now the Dominion of Canada has been restored in London at a cost of $25,000 and presented as a centennial gift to the Canadian Historical Association. Hitherto the property of the British Railways Board, the locomotive was designed by Sir Nigel Gresley and had a top speed of 109 m.p.h.

That puts the Dominion of Canada on a par with the fastest trains in Canada today. This summer it will be on display at the Canadian Railway Museum near Montreal.

Sartorial Contrast

Scarlet-coated Mounties, who represent the very essence of Canada as a nation to many people overseas, have been spreading the Expo message abroad.

Wherever they went in Paris for example, during a publicity stint in the French capital, they were greeted by admiring Parisians. The men of the RCMP even conducted the traffic for a time, a route that had to be abandoned quickly because it was distracting those fiery French drivers completely off guard.

But we had been thinking of the Mounties in another sense — as colorful representatives of this country. Of course they are more than ornamental, these rugged men who police the land and are responsible for internal security and counter-espionage work.

Still they do have those scarlet coats for dress uniform on ceremonial occasions, a distinction shared only by the Canadian Guards. And isn't such a flair for color curiously out of line with the sentiments of most Canadian men?

For those the businessmen of this country all dress pretty much alike. All conform in dress and mannerisms. Certainly no businessman would be caught dead attired say like Toronto painter Graham Coughtry.

Pictured recently in many-hued safari suit with bell trousers, Coughtry acknowledged that perhaps traditional dress for men was necessary "to keep the peace. . ."

"North American men," he said, "have a great fear of having any feminine characteristics and they think the love of finery is characteristically feminine . . . Insecure people hate anyone who looks different, they think it is some kind of anarchy. But I am just as prejudiced against them as they are about me."

Well, there is the view of one who dresses in the manner of a dandy. The rest of us prefer our grey suits and "funny little hats."

But what about those Mounties and Guards? They are Canadians too — and they look pretty good don't they? The answer maybe is that they are Canadians who are slightly larger than life. You have to be a certain type of person rugged and physically fit for one thing, to be a Mountie or a Guardsman. And when you are that kind of person you also have a natural flair for wearing a uniform. And if the color of the tunic is red, well what could be better?

The rest of us can look up to such a uniform, while remaining our "ornery," conformist selves.

UFO Sighted

After a recent encounter with an unidentified flying object, a Peterborough area woman, Mrs. Jim Dauncey of Selwyn says she is now a "believer."

Mrs. Dauncey was not as perturbed at the sight of the flying saucer as others who claim to have witnessed such phenomena from time to time. In fact, she followed it in her car. Her two children aged 12 and 10 were with her and she says the light from the object was "so bright it burned our eyes." Whenever she stopped the car the UFO also stopped.

Eventually, the UFO moved away but its glow could be followed in the sky. Thus, another flying saucer mystery remains unsolved, but Mrs. Dauncey's description of it was one of the most detailed yet revealed.

Prime Minister Master of the Art of Hitting Page 1

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Dig that old Sly Boots, Prime Minister Pearson. Getting to be a real Foxy Photographic Grandpa.

And since most politicians, like show - biz people, seem to figure that almost any publicity is good publicity — on the basis that even bad publicity is better than no publicity — the art of getting your name and picture in the paper is well worth the pondering.

There was the time when the Prime Minister, in his External Affairs days as High Commissioner to London, Ambassador to Washington and departmental Under-Secretary, personally unconcerned about the sweet political uses of publicity, likely didn't give the photographers any more of the time of day than he absolutely had to officially.

In his later days, first as External Affairs Minister and then as Liberal Opposition Leader, it began to come through loud what a smile on Page One might do for the aspiring politician.

But it wasn't really until he became Prime Minister and wisely listened to the counsel of his proud amateur and professional advisers recruited from the Toronto advertising world that he began to do the art of the everamy beaming attention when the photographers aimed his way.

Now there is nobody in business or Parliament Hill — not even Diefenbaker, that old ham master of the art of looking a never less in the eye — who can touch his studied but casual talent for landing news-worthily on the Front Page.

Of course, as Prime Minister, he automatically has more people for him in the publicity department than any one else in these Federal political parts.

But as things have turned out it just isn't his built-in publicists, plus that makes him the Artful Angler he is photographically.

A lot of news shots are stock routine stuff — the PM posing with this visiting VIP or that touring student group. And that is no trick. Easy. Automatic.

So, his sheer ease for pictures. There is the hero British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. But who notices him standing unobtrusively in a rumpled suit, fiddling with his hands, among the 30 other Heads - of - Commonwealth governments?

And there is Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt — half hidden by Malaysia's Tunku Abdul Rahman.

And New Zealand Prime Minister K. J. Holyoake? With his big face in the middle of all poses is an official photograph, now cashed by the size of the picture, Dor Mon from Canada.

Where's the PM? Out front and centre, in striped pants, friend casually in pocket, obviously cracking funnies with Malawi's President Dr. H. K. Banda, who's laughing it up and focussing all the attention on L.B.P.

When, photographically, you can upstage 19 other heads of government, including that black-hooded sevenster, His Beatitude Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus — well, man, that is camera class.

And he is make him the most polished performer in the profession of politics most of whose accomplished practitioners have made a science of getting their picture in the paper.

It is one of the static arts of the Parliamentary scene.

"There is one well-known Hill figure — oh, come on, guess who — you can spot at the right end of the line in every group shot and with the tweed-def side — and family conceals out this photographic handicap with his manner of the moment. And what the camery trade knows as ' the tippy-toe pose."

Makes him larger — and presumably more physically impressive — than real life.

There is the type of familiar Commons face who has perfected the artful gimmickry of coming out of the fonts of politics in any group news photo.

Maybe an enviable means of timing, he leans out of line, steps a bit back, or a bit forward — but always on the side away group, and shoots a quick, kidding question at the others, from whom the camera clicks, they're all looking at you-knowwho.

Cagey?

Making Page One, dear Taxpayer, is one of the high arts of politics.

And the Prime Minister isn't Prime Minister because he did not become High Priest of the Camera Cult.

Mayor Seeks More Enlightened System of Administration

In the second of two articles for The Intelligencer, MAYOR JACK ELLIS deals with the anomalies of municipal government with regard to representation, taxation, and other essentials of the administrative system.

He discusses the subject with special emphasis on education and planning and offers to such factors of local interest as the Emergency Planning Organization, Quinte Hastings and Prince Edward Health Unit, Belleville General Hospital and the Moira River Conservation Authority.

"The one form of government which is in almost daily contact with its people, is subject to the closest scrutiny, receives the most criticism and requires its participants to be as knowledgeable as any," Mayor Ellis concludes, "with the least opportunity of individual expression under our confusing municipal structure."

Since the Baldwin Act was written in 1849 the changes in municipal legislation have been myriad. Lawyer upon lawyer and business have been made, changes always coming slightly after the need when the real need has been for years a whole new approach to municipal legislation.

Belleville has been separated from the County of Hastings for governing purposes for 100 years and our sister community of Trenton for 87 years. Considering for a moment the interweaving of our Municipal affairs and the different methods of financing utility used.

The supervision of all elementary school children is handled by an elected Board consisting of eight persons residing the same qualifications as those for aldermen. They, however, do not levy taxes for their requirements. Instead, after grants from the provincial government amounting to approximately 53 per cent of their budget, they receive the balance from city council. After a child completes Grade VIII, however, we entirely new board takes over. This board is made up of 11 persons, who are appointed rather than elected and they represent the area from to the city of Belleville, part or all of the village of Frankford, township of Thurlow, Sidney, Tyendinaga, Thurlow and Sidney. Their budget is augmented by the Provincial Government to the amount of 53 per cent and the balance apportioned to the municipalities concerned.

It is determined 62 per cent on the basis of assessment and 38 per cent on the basis of population. Belleville, in this case, pays 84.349 per cent and has six representatives on the board.

If children, because of their parents' religious convictions, go to a separate school, provincial participation is much less. M, however, due to medical or physical disabilities they require special education, the province contributes a far greater portion. Boards of trustees for these schools are equally varied as are board series.

In the matter of planning, Belleville has at present participating in an area that includes a small portion of Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga. Here we contribute to the extent of 85 per cent with five members on the 11 member board. Planning boards have little or no legislative ability and can merely only recommend action to local Councils.

Emergency Measures Organizations covers all of Hastings and Prince Edward County, Belleville, Trenton. Here the senior governments pay 90 per cent of the budget, the balance being distributed among the municipalities on a population basis. The Mayor of Belleville is the chairman and other representatives are appointed by various councils.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Health Unit which includes Belleville will shortly include also the town of Trenton. Financial assistance here comes in the form of 100 per cent grants from the federal government on some small capital items and of a very small percentage of staff. The balance of the budget is allocated on a per capita basis.

The province pays 80 per cent grants to Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and 20 per cent to Belleville and 30 per cent to Trenton.

The local administration of justice which includes the upkeep and staff of the county court house the city pays approximately $65,000 annually while still maintaining its own police force, lock-up, magistrate's court and other facilities entirely out of local revenues.

The new regional detention centre which will serve the area of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and Prince Edward County will be paid for 80 per cent of the total cost of construction and also 10 per cent of the annual maintenance, once but does not have a share in the nine man board. This legislation is due to be changed this year to allow Belleville a voice in this important matter.

We are fortunate in having regular grants paid from the County of Hastings in the operation of the Belleville General Hospital. With four representatives on a 17-man board the county has, by negotiation, assumed 25 per cent of the ownership and costs of building and maintaining the hospital. This, of course, the senior governments pay a large part in financially supporting our hospital through Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Child welfare is looked after by the Children's Aid Society covers the whole of Hastings County including Belleville and Trenton. While the provincial government increased its assistance to 40 per cent in 1966 and to 50 per cent in 1967, the budget of the CAS has risen faster bringing increased cost to the city.

Belleville has two representatives on a 20-man board. The costs are distributed on the basis of population together with the number of children in care. Compare this with welfare in the city where most costs are covered by the province to the extent of 80 per cent except for administration costs which are solely a civic responsibility.

The Moira River Conservation Authority which owns 18,000 acres of land, all of it outside the city of Belleville, relies on the city for the bulk of its support. Of the budget, approximately 60 per cent. There are, however, only two representatives from the city of Belleville on the 21 man board.

While these are the major overlapping areas of responsibility others include the Substance Abuse Committee and the Home for the Aged.

Within the City Keefe has the children of the responsibility of the elected government is found in the allocation of responsibilities to the Utilities Commission, the Board of Police Commissioners, the Transit Commission and the Parking Authority, all of whom make decisions affecting the lives of our citizens and spend taxpayers' money. But with the exception of the Utilities Commission all funds are supplied by money raised by the city council. Further complicating the situation is the grant structure used for various purposes by the senior governments. The per capita grant paid to municipalities across the province is no specific strings attached varies from $4 per person in North Bay to $7 in Toronto with the city of Belleville receiving $5.50 per person.

Highway Department grants vary widely. For example construction carried out on North Front Street South of 401 is subject to a 75 per cent grant while North of 401 the full cost is borne by the province. Sidney Street, however south of 401 is subject to a 33 1-3 per cent grant only while north of 401 the Province pays 50 per cent. Grants for the maintenance of roads is equally varied. The College Street Bridge qualified for a 33 1/3 percent Department of Highways grant. The Dundas Street bridge, which is in the same city, same engineers, same type of construction, same river but, because it will be part of the No. 2 highway it will qualify for a 75 per cent grant.

In citing all the foregoing I am not being critical of our rural neighbors. Indeed, with the co-operation and assistance received primarily as a result of regular meetings between the Wardens of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and the Mayors of Trenton and Belleville in an Executive Committee, we, in the Quinte area, are fortunate with a position rarely achieved in other localities. This spirit of goodwill has definitely resulted in dollar savings to tax payers in the Quinte district and my colleagues are agreed that nothing would induce me to destroy that spirit.

This does not mean, however, that I can not press for enlightened municipal legislation. This is a must if municipalities are to survive in any sensible way. The only avenue open to municipal politicians with ever increasing costs is taxation soon the real estate of the community with an added burden on industrial and commercial firms by means of a business tax. I do not intend here is even attempt to analyse the Carter Report nor to forecast the results of the Smith Report on taxation in the Province of Ontario. However I am sure that if signs are not taken to change the tax base the results may be drastic. Real estate is no longer an accurate criterion of ability to pay and municipal taxes are fast reaching the saturation point where needed municipal services are often postponed or neglected completely.

The Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves has as its stated policy, and are yearly becoming more and more successful in their efforts, to achieve their aim that real estate should primarily pay taxes for basic municipal services such as sewer, water, roads, fire and police and not for social services which benefit the Province and nation as a whole such as education, health, welfare, administration of justice, et cetera.

Because the senior governments have far wider taxing powers it is felt that a portion of the cost of the former group should be carried by the province and because administration of the latter group is probably more easily carried out on a local level there should be some small participation financially on the part of the municipalities in this case. The association has constantly asked for and can justify 80 per cent participation on the part of the province. Failing this it is inevitable that we will push home ownership beyond the reach of most people and failure to implement provincial governments in an unmanageable position from which it will be difficult to ever recover.

The one form of government which is in almost daily contact with its people, is subject to the closest scrutiny, receives the most criticism and requires its participants to be as knowledgeable as any, has the least opportunity of individual expression under our confusing municipal structure.

Cardinal and Archbishop Back Priest Ousted by University

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cardinal and an archbishop on Catholic University's board of trustees are backing a young priest-professor whose dismissal generated a mass student-faculty strike that has closed the institution.

Rev. Charles Curran, 33, who says he apparently was fired for his liberal views on moral theology and birth control, has received the backing of Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore and Most Rev. Paul Hallinan of Atlanta. The 600-member university faculty and 6,000-member student body almost all stayed away from classrooms Thursday.

The faculty passed a resolution pledging to stay on strike until Father Curran's contract is renewed. Many students carried signs supporting Father Curran and marched in vigil lines. Others simply smiled about the campus in northwest Washington.

Cardinal Shehan, in Rome attending a plenary session of the Secretariat for Christian Unity, issued a statement through his Baltimore office saying Father Curran should be "restored to his former status."

—Cardinal Shehan said "the executive master should be referred to the full board of trustees for consideration."

In Atlanta, Archbishop Hallinan agreed Father Curran should be reinstated.

"I think he is a very competent man and, more important, his academic peers recommended him for a permanent teaching position," said Archbishop Hallinan. "In view of that, it was unwise for the trustees to act in a situation in which faculty members were not heard."

Most Rev. Thomas Connolly, bishop of the Seattle diocese and also a trustee, said: "I don't believe that anyone should be dismissed without a hearing."

Cardinal Shehan was the first of the five U.S. cardinals to take a stand on an issue that centres on the priest but also has far-reaching overtones of the academic freedom issue.

All five cardinals are members of the board along with the 32 other U.S. archbishops, six bishops and 11 laymen.

Father Curran says he was notified Monday by the university rector, Most Rev. William McDonald, that the board of trustees had refused to renew his contract when it expires Aug. 31.

Long History Of Judaism Pavilion Theme

MONTREAL (CP) — Goldenes for man and the long history of Judaism are the principles upon which is based the pavilion of Judaism at Expo 67, previewed Thursday.

The pavilion's interior and exhibits were designed by Montreal architect Max Roth to follow the theme of the six basic principles of the ancient Talmudic commentaries—teaching or learning, the quest for truth, the quest for justice, the love of God, the love of man and the search for peace.

Exhibits include rare books, works of art, ritual objects and a 440-square-foot model of the Temple of Jerusalem.

Wine, Cheese Party Aids Ballet Guild

To the plink of honky-tonk piano and guitar and the tinkle of tall-stemmed glasses, the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild staged its annual Wine and Cheese Party Friday night at Club Canara. The largest event of its kind so far saw the main auditorium filled with inhibitedly and sippers who sampled five types of Canadian wines and premium Quinte district cheddar cheese. If evidence were needed that Canada's centennial year marks the coming-of-age of sophisticated Ontario palate tinglers, last night's event proved it.

Added attraction this year was a floor show by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Anderson, who played and sang Gay Nineties favorites. Entertainment of a more personal kind was provided by former tellers Mrs. Louis Vansoner, Mrs. Peter Williamson and Mrs. E. McLaughlin. For those who wished to take some of the party merry home with them a sales table supplied cheese, wine jelly and a do-it-yourself recipe. Bonus feature was a chance to sample a not-yet-marketed Canadian sparkling white wine.

At a red carnation centred tea table, more conventional refreshments were available from pourers Mrs. J. Haig, Mrs. Thomas H. Hammel, Mrs. Edward F. Folwell and Miss Leona Riggs.

To set the evening's mood, a gray-coated usher forewarned the entrance. Larger than life-sized flowers grew from the fingers of decorative convener Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon to deck the walls.

Proceeds from the party will benefit the Belleville appearance of the National Ballet Company at the Centennial Secondary School for two evenings in November.

. . . the supplier is the Belleville Ballet Guild, and the place the Club Canara, where ballet patrons flocked for another wine-cheese-tasting festival sponsored by the guild. The annual event gleans funds for Canada's National Ballet.

Mother Stands In Top 10 Of Her Class

ST. MARYS, Ont. (CP)—A mother of three who was bored trying to find something to do around the home after the housework was done, solved her problem by going to school with her youngest son.

This year, Alice Oostenbrug graduates from Grade 12 with an average of 77.6 in nine subjects and stands in the top 10 of her class.

Mrs. Oostenbrug started back to school in the 1963-64 term "just to brush up my English," she says.

This year she enrolled in the school's business course.

Having a son still at school helps, she says. "We each make sure the house is quiet for study periods."

Her son, Winston, 16, is in Grade 9.

The Oostenbrug family came to Canada from Holland 14 years ago.

. . . Continuing with his account of Belleville teachers from the beginning of the 19th century, Mr. W. J. Diamond, who for nearly a half century was the secretary of the Board of Education in Belleville, writes in 1925:

"During the time Mr. Blaind taught in Belleville, he had amongst his pupils in their boyhood the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Barrister, K.C., member of the Legislative Assembly, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly and finally Chief Justice of Manitoba.

"Also Belleville's most distinguished son, the Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Privy Councillor, Senator, Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George and ex-Premier of Canada.

"This school was on the present site of the Armouries.

"Early in the thirties (e.g. 1830's), Mr. George Benjamin, who established The Intelligencer newspaper and who was for some years member of parliament for North Hastings taught a school for the study of languages.

"From 1840 to 1845 Mr. Thomas Newton taught a school for boys in the public hall of Belleville's second hotel at the corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue, and afterwards Mr. W. R. Young also taught this school.

"He was followed by a Frenchman named Roselle who also explained the work and the needs of the WMS.

Belleville Musician for 65 Years Still Carries A Tune

Sixty five years a bandsman and orchestra player and still going strong is the almost enviable record of a well known Belleville musician.

Walter Aselstine, 27 Grove Street, one time local liveryman, bus operator, garage and service station operator, started his musical career in 1902 with the Belleville Oddfellows Band.

Since that time just after the turn of the century, he has played in more bands and orchestras than he can readily remember and today is still active as a trombonist with the recently organized Belleville Concert Band.

In the intervening years he has played with army bands, clown bands, dance bands and all manner of orchestras. And back in the days of the silent movies he was the city's original sound effects man at a local picture house.

In the days before motor transport he recalls driving with horses and democrat to Bancroft to fill band engagements (it took four days to make the round trip) and at one time played for moonlight steamer excursions during the heyday of the 1000 Islands resort area in the St. Lawrence River.

Today he would be one of the first to admit that the progress of modern day living and jet age travel, but for sheer enjoyment, Mr. Aselstine feels there is nothing which could match the appeal of the old steamer cruises on the Bay of Quinte and down the St. Lawrence.

"It was really something to do," he says, "and the excursions were cheap, costing as little as one dollar."

A native of nearby Trenton, Mr. Aselstine is the son of the late Adlebert Aselstine who ran the Trenton - Belleville horses drawn stage coach in the 1880s.

In 1890 the family moved to Belleville where Mr. Aselstine set up a livery business and operated stages to Tweed and Marmora.

He well remembers the old covered bridge at Trenton, the opera house there, and the horse drawn hotel buses which his father operated between the north station and downtown Belleville.

Mr. Aselstine—was still just a slip of a lad when he began his musical career as a tenor horn player with the Oddfellows Band.

Along about 1906 he started playing with the 49th Hastings Rifles Band with which he went to summer training camp at Cobourg. In 1912 he was playing in the Argyll Light Infantry Band.

In 1910 when the St. Lawrence 1,000 Island resort area was in its heyday he went to Clayton, N.Y., and was the only Canadian in a band which played the excursion steamers and in the parks around Northern New York State.

He has good reason to remember the Griffin Opera House on Bridge Street in Belleville where as orchestra member he became Belleville's original sound effect man for the read shows and the old silent movies.

His early life interest in music paid double dividends. In addition in providing an enjoyable part time occupation, it also led to his meeting his future wife, the former Miss Oliphant who was playing the piano at The Wonderland movie picture house on Front St., where the Army, Navy and Air force Veterans Hall now stands.

Mrs. Aselstine recalls she was asked to fill in temporarily on the picture house piano and ended by playing for many years.

On Saturdays they ran minute shows consisting of a "one reeler" and a song. Then the house was immediately cleared for the next performance. This started in the morning and continued throughout the day until late Saturday night.

"It was really rough," Mrs. Aselstine says.

From 1919 until 1926 Mr. Aselstine played in the orchestra at the Griffin and it was during this period that he became theatre about effects man.

He supplied appropriate sound effects for running water, slamming doors, airplane motors, birds and animals where required to add to realism.

It was about this time Mr. Aselstine took up drum playing and then in 1926 turned to the saxophone.

In 1955 he was a member of the Trenton Air Station dance orchestra. Also during the 1950s he played with Dan Fabvman's Orchestra, with Charles Kammer's Orchestra, and also was part of a "grandfather - grandson" combination with Night Owl Orchestra.

His current musical interest is the new concert orchestra band organized by his grandson Douglas Aselstine and the Belleville Federation of Musicians, local 357.

Mr. Aselstine has a whole roomful of music at his Grove Street home, most of it for cornet, saxophone or trombone.

Intended new musical scores played by his wife during her theatre days and also music published more than 100 years ago.

One of the old sheets of music was owned by a local bandmaster of many years ago.

The title is "We Parted By the Riverside" with "brilliant variations."

"I guess I am one of the few people in Belleville who has centennial music in Centennial Year," he says.

Mr. Aselstine still has the set of drums which he acquired years ago and still bangs away at them "just for the fun of it."

Still another interest for Mr. Aselstine is the repair of brass wind instruments.

He started repairing cornets, saxophones and other band instruments many years ago and still carries on despite admonitions from his wife.

"It gives me something to do," he says.

Although officially retired for many years, Mr. Aselstine keeps well abreast of community affairs and even keeps looking for the future with the view of solving the city's traffic problems.

He was among the first to suggest the present one-way system of traffic for Front and Pinnacle Streets. He also has made suggestions for multiple deck parking in downtown Belleville . . . ideas which never caught on because of the cost involved.

But he still maintains that the increasing cost of downtown land and the need for additional parking will result in parking garages being developed.

Mr. Aselstine's scrapbooks and photographic albums are prizes.

His scrapbooks and albums are divided as to topical interest.

He has pictures of old stagecoaches operated by his father dating back to the 1890s as well as the horse liveries and early buses used in Belleville and on the stage coach runs to Tweed and Marmora.

One scrapbook deals with World War II and includes accounts of the many ads, sea and land battles both in Europe and in the Japanese theatre of war.

One account shows the picture of the first Canadian airman taken prisoner by the Germans.

The picture shows the Canadian, being escorted to a prisoner of war camp.

"When I get old I am going to have a lot of reading to catch up on," he says.

Still Playing

A musician in local-bands and orchestras for more than 65 years, Walter Aselstine still plays regularly. Newly organized concert band is his present big interest.

MR. ASELSTINE as trombonist in the 1906 Sunday Morning orchestra at Holloway Street United Church.

Instrument Repairman

Mr. Aselstine not only plays wind instruments . . . he also fixes them. He says repair stint "gives him something to do."

Albert College Student Wins Fair Award

Jens Gravlev, a young man from Albert College, has been declared the grand champion of the Belleville Rotary Club's Science Fair being held in the Armoury.

Mr. Gravlev entered a resonance macrophone in the general physics section. It is patterned after the type that can single out a person talking in a crowd a long distance away. It is also useful for recording bird calls.

Runners-up Grant Millar and Rick Reilly, Joy Livingston, and Janice Blake will be going to the 6th Canada-Wide Science Fair at Laval University in Quebec City in May along with Mr. Gravlev.

Grant and Rick, students of Quinte Secondary School took first place in the nuclear science and chemistry section with their nuclear reactor simulator.

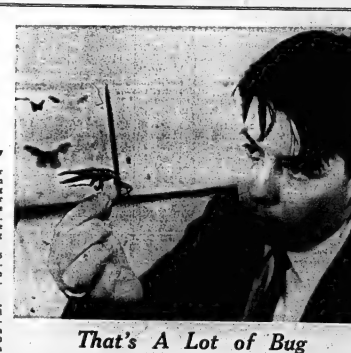
Miss Livingston studied the learning rate of rats under different conditions. She attends Quinte Secondary School, and her category was zoology.

Miss Blake chose bacteria and antibiotics for her entry under health. BCIVS is her alma mater

Victor Rebel placed first in the engineering category with his Spanish parade armor. This tall young man attends Centennial Secondary School.

This year's Science Fair and Hobby Show has been described by many as being of high calibre. Science fair entries in particular have been singled out for merit. One spokesman says the young scientists are doing much more experimenting.

Area students entered 25 exhibits and at the last minute two more showed up, the last being the grand champion it turned out.



Canadian National Railway, with the only roving model railway layout in North America, is proving to be an attension getter. It has 160 pieces of rolling stock on about 500 feet of track.

Anybody who can absorb all the going-on in less than two hours is doing well. It took the judges the whole of Friday afternoon to select winners for the Science Fair alone.

There are 48 hobby displays and demonstrations.

You can see such exhibits as a leering lynx, dying tieing, models of every description, art work ranging over the whole field of endeavor, carved ducks and old Canadiana coins.

And all the proceeds go toward the Rotary Club's project of helping crippled children.

Demonstrations and Parades At Expo Banned by Bylaw

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal city council Friday night adopted a bylaw banning demonstrations, parades, meetings and unauthorized speeches at the site of Expo 67 or its approaches.

The bylaw, which had been the subject of an orderly demonstration of protest earlier Friday, was described by one municipal leader as not intended to threaten "the fundamental rights of protest recognized in our democracy."

The official, Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, said: "There is a time and a place for everything."

Expo was "neither time nor the place for demonstrations."

There need be no fear of measures such as this one being extended to the remainder of the city in future, Mr. Saulnier said.

This was a point on which the Friday demonstrators placed particular stress. They belonged to groups opposing the war in Vietnam.

The executive chairman said the new bylaw is limited as to duration and place. A reading of it would show that it was "perfectly reasonable."

The regulation bans the carrying of signs, placards and other such inscriptions as well as "demonstrations, meetings and speeches not on the program of the exposition."

There were no incidents in the Friday demonstration, which was put on by about a dozen persons outside Montreal city hall

Plot Against LBJ Rumored

BONN (AP) — An alleged threat against President Johnson's life was reported today and the U.S. embassy said it was confident the West German authorities would investigate it.

The president is expected in Bonn late Sunday or early Monday for the funeral of former chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and will stay until Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Cologne Stadt-Anzeiger reproduced a letter claiming knowledge of a plot to assassinate Johnson.

Printed by hand on a scrap of newspaper, the letter read:

LaMarsh Says Coat-of-arms Changed by Dief's Regime

OTTAWA (CP)—Over the outraged protests of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons Friday the simplified Canadian coat-of-arms being used on the centennial medallion was approved by the Diefenbaker government.

Mr. Diefenbaker demanded to know last Friday who had authorized the centennial commission to "emasculate" the coat-of-arms on the souvenir medallion.

He said the lion, unicorn and motto "a mare usque ad mari"—from sea to sea—had been removed from the coat-of-arms.

Miss LaMarsh told the House today she had looked into the matter and discovered an order-in-council dated Sept. 5, 1957—while Mr. Diefenbaker was prime ministerin which the cabinet approved the simplified coat-of-arms.

Use of the simplified form was authorized for stationery, medals, insignia, buildings and other purposes.

Mr. Diefenbaker jumped to his feet on a question of privilege shortly after Miss LaMarsh began her statement.

"I want the opportunity to answer this nonsense," he stormed.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux was forced to make rulings and left to keep the debate from running completely off the rails.

Mr. Diefenbaker maintained the centennial medallion was to contain the coat-of-arms and the symbol being used was not that.

Miss LaMarsh, waving a document before her, said it was the order-in-council signed by Ellen Fairclough, then secretary of state.

The debate was finally halted by the Speaker with both Miss LaMarsh and Mr. Diefenbaker still attempting to make further comments.

"Habs Will Cry Before It's Over"

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs exuded confidence on the eve of the second game of the Stanley Cup finals today against Montreal Canadiens.

It was the opposite to what was expected of the Leafs, who had finished third in the regular National Hockey League schedule and lost the first game of the best-of-seven finals 6-2 here Thursday night.

But an assistant general manager King Clancy explained it.

"Why shouldn't we? We beat the best team in the world—the best team in the last 10 years. So what makes everybody think you're going to lose to these fellows just because we dropped one game?"

Clancy was referring to the Leafs' upset victory over the league champion Chicago Black Hawks in six games of the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"It'll take us maybe six—maybe even seven, but we'll take them all right," Imlach said.

"The Montrealers will cry before it's over."

Imlach said he was planning no major line changes. George Armstrong will play on a line with Frank Mahovlich and Dave Keon, while Brian Conacher will take the left wing on a line with Red Kelly and Ron Ellis.

The Leafs' other line is made up of Peter Stemkowski, Jim Pappin and Bob Pulford. Rookie Mike Walton works on the power play, while Eddie Shack, the other Leaf forward, is an alternate.

The Leafs went through a strenuous practice Friday.

Imlach called the three-on-two line rushes with a unique exception. In addition to the two defencemen, the lines also had two other forwards to work against.

Imlach used his wingers to check the rushing lines without sticks, simply using their bodies to force the opposing wingers out of the play.

"We've used the same drill a few times, but not too often this season," Imlach said.

Meanwhile, the Canadiens practised Friday before returning to their pre-game hideaway.

"This is the fourth season we've moved the club to seclusion for the playoffs," coach Toe Blake said.

"I've always thought it a good thing. The most healthy aspect is that you can sleep at night and if I want to talk to a player, I can ask him to come to my room for a private discussion."

Blake praised his power—play minded and sometimes forgets to get back to check. He played on a regular line earlier this year and I found that when I needed him for the power play he couldn't move a goal because he'd just have finished a regular shift."

Cournoyer scored 20 of his 22 goals this season on the power play and got 11 goals against Toronto — nine on the power play.

Today's game is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. EST,and will be televised by the CBC national network in Canada and the CBS network in the U.S.

Third and fourth games are set for Toronto next Tuesday and Thursday respectively.

During the 14 meetings between the two clubs this season, they split the points. Both won six and the other two games ended in ties. Montreal outscored the Leafs 47-40.

Imlach, who took Terry Sawchuk out of the Toronto goal late in Thursday's game in favor of Johnny Bower, said he would decide just before the game on who would start today.

Eagles Deal Aces 5-2 Setback

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Kingston Aces' chances of reaching the Allan Cup finals suffered a second straight setback on home ice Friday night as they dropped a 5-2 decision to Drummondville Eagles in the second game of the Eastern Canada finals.

But it came as no surprise to Drummondville coach Oscar Aubuchon.

Aubuchon said prior to the game that if his team won the second game, it would win the series four straight.

"Kingston is weaker than I expected. The defence is bad and only one line is scoring."

Kingston controlled the play for most of the first period, but still came out of it trailing 1-0. Drummondville increased the lead to 3-0 early in the second period before the Aces counted their only goals of the game.

Drummondville added two more goals in the third period as the Quebec team dominated play.

Gord Hayworth, Bob Eastman, Michel Labrosse, Lee Hardy and Jean Therrien scored for Drummondville. Bob Collins and Bob Olajas replied for Kingston.

The series shifts to Drummondville for games Sunday, Monday and, if necessary, Wednesday. Should Kingston manage to win two games on the road, the final two games of the series will be played in Kingston.

Referee Hal Lewis of Halifax handed out 104 minutes in penalties, including three 10-minute misconducts and two game misconducts.

Therrien was given a game misconduct in the third period for arguing with Lewis and shouting linesman Bob Carey of Kingston.

Charlie Convery and Drummondville goaltender Claude Cyr were assessed double minor penalties in the third period following a goal-mouth stick-swinging duel and defenceman Ray Fortin was given a game misconduct for joining the fracas.

Cyr was sensational throughout the game, especially in the first period. Kingston failed to allow the Eagles a shot on goal until 8:35.

Steve Rex, picked up from Belleville Mo-Hawks after Kingston won the Ontario Hockey Association senior aegies, replaced starting goaltender Ned Perry in the third period and let in Drummondville's last two goals.

Regular goaltender Tom Mercer watched the game from the bench.

Drummondville did not dress defenceman Lionel Robidas for the second game. Robidas was picked up from Shawinigan Beavers, 1964 - 65 Allan Cup champions.

Kingston outshot Drummondville 37-21.

May Be Stripped Of Title

Clay; Faces First Knockout

NEW YORK (AP)—If heavyweight champion Cassius Clay goes to jail for refusal to enter military service, his title will be vacated and an elimination tournament staged to pick a successor, the chairman of the New York Athletic Commission said Friday.

"We definitely will strip him of his title," Eddie Dooley told The Associated Press. "If that happens, we will take six or eight of the world's leading boxers and let them fight it out."

Other boxing title bodies—the World Boxing Association, the British Boxing Board of Control and the European Boxing Association — hinted they probably would take similar action but preferred to wait developments.

The New York Athletic Commission, with the exception of Houston April 28.

He said he not only would decline to take the oath but also would refuse to take the step forward when his name is called. Authorities say such action is punishable by a prison term of five years or a fine of $10,000, or both.

Dooley said if Clay's title is declared vacant, leading contenders would be thrown into the series of eliminations. These would include such fighters as Floyd Patterson, George Chuvalo of Toronto, Ernie Terrell, Zora Folley, Thad Spencer, Joe Frazier, Henry Cooper and Karl Mildenberger.

Will Consider Offers

Kelly; Star, Politico, Now Coach?

MONTREAL (CP) — Red Kelly says he will "seriously consider" any offers he might get to coach a team in next season's expanded National Hockey League.

"But I haven't signed anything yet and, in fact, I haven't really had a good offer," the veteran Toronto Maple Leafs forward said Friday.

"Actually, I wouldn't even think about it until the season is over anyway."

The Leafs were defeated 6-2 by Montreal Canadiens in the first game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals Thursday night.

Kelly, a 39-year NHL man with the Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, has been reported considering an executive position with the Los Angeles team that will play in the NHL next season.

The former all-star defenceman, who was converted to a forward after going to Toronto eight seasons ago, explained that he has always wanted to go into coaching when he retired as a player.

He hinted Friday that his playing days may be rapidly approaching the end.

"Several people have asked me what would happen if the Leafs leave me unprotected in the draft next summer and I'm picked up by another team.

"I simply tell them not to waste the money."

Kelly would not say whether he would consider another year with Toronto as a player if he is protected in the draft.

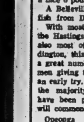
"I really don't know. I'll just have to wait and think about it."

Kelly's attitude hints, however, that he would prefer to step down as an active player.

"I've always played because I enjoyed playing. I enjoyed it so much that I never argued over contracts at the beginning of the season even after I'd had great years.

"But I'm not sorry about that. I'd do all the same things over again. At my age (he'll be 40 in July) you have to start thinking about the future.

"I've had lots of offers. I've had offers to coach junior teams. I have a business to fall back on if I decide to get right out of hockey."



Kelly would prefer to move into the top leagues as a coach.

"I've been out of junior hockey 20 years and I've been among the big boys all that time."

Kelly stepped into professional ranks with Detroit from St. Michael's College juniors at 20.

He won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy as the NHL player best combining good play and gentlemanly conduct three times as a defenceman and once as a forward.

He also won the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the league's outstanding defenceman in 1953-54.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Last weekend some of the local lake trout fishermen tried their luck, at some of the small lakes north of Kingston, with some success.

One Shannonville party caught one lake trout but it was a nice 6 pounder.

A Belleville party took 8 fine fish from Deseret.

With most of the ice out of the Hastings County lakes and also most of Lennox and Addington, this weekend will see a great number of local fishermen giving their favorite lakes an early try. But next weekend, the majority of trips, which have been planned all winter, will commence.

Oqueoga Lake, Lavielle, Smoke and many other hard to get at lakes in Algonquin Park will look like downtown Belleville, with Bob Taylor's gang leading the pack and Bert Trice close behind. Larry Meagher and Big Red will be in the Dickson, Lavielle section of the Park. In fact so hungry of our ardent lake and speckle trout fisherman will be by that time, it's a wonder if the streets are not deserted.

The smelt are on the run on the Moira River and Lake Moira. River is now filled with hundreds of men, women and children, crowding the shorelines, pail in hand.

Many of these people are victims of vandalism, and that in the future is going to that in the future are going to prevent fishing of this type.

Bottles are thrown all over the beaches and on cottage lawns, beaches and docks torn off cottages and burned, tires used for bonfires are strewn all over the beach and most fires are not even put out when these culprits leave for home.

Owners of these cottages and private beaches are sick of this type of vandalism and several I have talked to this week are putting up No Trespassing signs not asking for police patrols while the smelt season is on.

This is another case of a few crackpots spoiling a good thing for those who are careful and enjoy an evening of this type of fishing.

The pickerel run is just about over for another year. From all reports a few greedy poachers have been caught this year. They will never learn.

Salisbury, west of Trenton, in the Shelter Valley section opens next Saturday April 29th.

The next couple of weekends promises to be bad ones for the fisherman. Lake trout specialist, rainbows, pickerel and pike should have a real workout trying to stay out of the frying pan.

From next weekend on we will try and give you a rundown on the waters within a 75 mile radius of Belleville, fishing conditions, lures used and a general survey of different kinds of fish, how, when and where, to catch them. Any information you might be able to pass along which may be helpful to your fellow fisherman would be welcomed. If you have a successful fishing trip, let us know, our picture gallery will still hold another good shot or so of a good catch.

Second game in the best-of-five series will be played here tonight, with the remaining games in Calgary. Winner meets the Eastern Canada representative, Cedar Kingston and Drummondville.

Mets Whip Phils; Break Bunning Hex

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was almost as if the heavens opened in mercy over Chavez Ravine.

Buried in ninth place with five losses in their first seven games, the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers could be excused if they approached their four game series with red hot St. Louis somewhat less than enthusiastically.

After all, the first place Cardinals had won six of their first seven games.

About the only thing Los Angeles could hope for was a miracle . . . like maybe rain in California.

Now any native will tell you that rain in California is about as frequent as snow in Florida. The Dodgers hadn't lost an inning to the elements in nine years since moving from that nasty Brooklyn climate. They'd played 727 consecutive games at home including exhibitions and World Series.

But Friday night, it rained in Los Angeles, and the Dodgers didn't have to play the Cardinals.

Not only did the weather keep the Dodgers idle, but it swept up the California coast and wiped out San Francisco Giants' game against Atlanta Braves.

Three National League games were played Friday. Vada Pinson's 10th inning triple drove in two runs as Cincinnati Reds trimmed Houston Astros 3-1. New York Mets broke Jim Bunning's hex against them, downing Philadelphia Phillies 6-3, and Bob Veale's two - hitter gave Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-1 victory over Chicago Cubs.

Pinson was the Reds' hero for the second straight night as Cincinnati played its third consecutive extra - inning game.

His triple drove in Art Shamsky and Tommy Harper. It was Pinson, who stroked a single in the 13th inning Thursday night to beat the Dodgers.

Bunning brought a 13-2 lifetime record into the game against the Mets and had an 8-0 record against them in New York.

Happy Homer Hitter Runs Self Out!

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Oliva hit his first home run twice and he made sure the second one counted.

The Minnesota twin outfielder hit a long blast in the third inning of the Twins' 12-4 loss to Detroit Tigers Friday night and was happily romping around the bases when —what's this? —he ran past Home Tower, who for reasons best known to himself, had stopped between first and second. Oliva was out.

But in the ninth, after a 58-minute rain delay, Tony hit a towering shot into the third deck in right field. He knew this one would be good because he was the leadoff batter.

In other American League games, Boston Red Sox beat New York Yankees 6-5, Baltimore Angels edged Cleveland Indians 6-5, Washington Senators nudged Chicago White Sox 4-3 and Kansas City Athletics took Baltimore Orioles 5-1.

Detroit scored seven times in the fourth inning, three runs coming on a homer by Jim Northrup. Al Kaline and Ray Oyler drove in two runs each for the Tigers, and Denny McLain was the winning pitcher.

Bill Rohr went the distance against the Yankees again, the only run off him coming when Elston Howard singled in Bill Robinson in the eighth. Howard spoiled Rohr's no-hit bid with a two - out angle in the ninth inning.

Jim Gregosi homered with two out in the ninth, also driving in pinch runner Don Wallace and giving the Angels their victory.

Ken Harrelson's bases-loaded single in the ninth drove in Washington's winning run. Pete Ward, a native of Montreal, hit his third homer for the Sox.

Five doubles and Jim Gosger's homer led the Athletics to victory. Catfish Hunter held the Orioles to four hits and struck out eight before getting relief help from Jack Aker in the ninth.

KNUDSON'S GOLF WORLD OF

By GEORGE KNUDSON

THE IMPORTANCE OF BALANCE

For years I have advised golfers that they must stand square to the ball to be able to hit it squarely.

But little did I realize that I wasn't standing square myself. I couldn't — because my right leg is one-third of an inch shorter than the left one.

My former next-door neighbor discovered it this winter and although he has never swung a club, has helped my golf game considerably.

Let's take it from the beginning.

It seems that I have always had one form of ailment or another on the golf tour. One of the most troublesome was a weak left hand. For 13 months I had to tape my thumb for support.

Specialists after specialists told me the only cure was rest, I couldn't rest forever, I make a living playing golf.

(Finally a year ago, I mentioned it to my neighbor, who is a chiropractor.

"Jim", I said, "you take a look at it."

He discovered that the problem was in my nervous system, resulting from the fourth and fifth vertebrae in my back not sliding normally. This affected the blood flow to my left hand.

Crack! Pop! Thirteen months of trouble ended as suddenly as it had started.

Last fall, when I was fortunate enough to win the individual championship in Canada Cup matches at Tokyo, I injured myself making a shot and wound up with a stiff left hip. It was so painful when I got home I couldn't hardly walk.

"No wonder" said Jim. "Your right hip is a third of an inch lower than the left one."

Jack Nicklaus had this problem a few years ago and corrected it by placing a wedge in his shoe. In his first tournament wearing the wedge, he won the Masters with the incredible record score of 271 — one of the finest exhibitions of golf the world will ever see.

Jim made me a wedge for my right shoe, and for the first time in my life, I was able to stand square to the ball.

I have spent a lifetime studying the golf swing and feel I have enough knowledge that I could build a machine that would hit nothing but perfect shots.

But I couldn't turn myself into that machine no matter how hard I tried, because of that short leg. I was standing open to the ball, knew it, but couldn't correct it.

Now with the wedge in my shoe, I can stand square to the ball the way every golfer should.

Standing square means that your feet, knees, hips and shoulders should be parallel to the line of flight.

Doing this gives you more potential and increases your chances of hitting the ball square.

Now, if you're still having trouble, go next door. You never know who your neighbor might be.

Foe and Friend Unite To Felicitate Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Political enemies wished Prime Minister Pearson well Friday on his 70th birthday while the Liberal leader said advancing age increases the temptation to retire.

But, fit and jovial, he gave no confirmation of periodic speculation that he plans to step aside this year or next—or at any time thereafter.

Mr. Pearson, who will be 70 on Sunday, told a birthday press conference his immediate plan is to carry on through the next "exciting three or four months" of the arduous Centennial Year celebrations. He added wryly that he hopes to "come out alive" in September.

Earlier, the prime minister got an advance round of birthday greetings in the Commons from all opposition spokesmen including his old rival, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 71, drew chuckles with his understated comment that there were times when he and Mr. Pearson were "not in complete agreement." But he said political differences must be set aside to pay tribute to those who give dedicated service.

NDP Leader Douglas said he was pleased to see Mr. Pearson in good health and good spirits. He hoped Mr. Pearson would not step down because he had qualms about his potential successors.

"We would rather bear the ills we have than flee to those we know not of," Mr. Douglas said.

Relay of Police Cars Rushes Drug to North

TORONTO (CP)— Provincial police ran a relay of patrol cars Friday to carry a badly-needed drug from Toronto to Kirkland Lake in an effort to save the life of an 18-year-old youth.

The youth, a patient at the Kirkland Lake and District Hospital, was being treated for tuberculosis when fungoid complications developed.

Dr. John Morphet, one of two doctors attending the youth, said that without the drug, Fungizone, the ailment could produce inflamation of the heart, brain and intestines as well as pneumonia.

"He's been pretty sick the last 24 to 48 hours," said the doctor in an interview. "I doubt if his own body resources could have carried him."

When a Kirkland Lake pharmacist called a Toronto drug company, manufacturers of the drug, police were called to assist in transporting it.

A police spokesman said the Downsview detachment received the call at 1:55 p.m. and the drug was on its way by 2:06 p.m. Personnel from 12 detachment areas and four police districts were involved in the relay.

The drug arrived in Kirkland Lake, 363 miles from Toronto, at 6:55 p.m.; police said.

Dr. Morphet said the drug was administered immediately but added he didn't expect any improvement in the patient's condition for several hours.

Marines Stow Away Blonde In Cabin on Nuclear Ship

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — The U.S. Navy's lightest security net for one of its most top-secret warships proved no match for a blonde with a yen for a boy in California.

Today, the pert and unrepentant 20-year-old who smuggled herself away in the admiral's cabin of the nuclear missile cruiser Long Beach announced plans to stow away again.

"I'm going to get there one way or another," Sandra Hilder said.

Until the arrival of Miss Hilder on the scene Wednesday the navy had every right to assume the secrets of the Long Beach were safe.

The ship was not tied up to a dock. It was moored to a buoy in the harbor. And around it circled a vigilant school of security launches.

Then Sandra came, told some U.S. marines how she longed to join her American sailor boyfriend, Bud Brewer, in California and wound up in the vacant admiral's cabin.

She had met Bud when the U.S. icebreaker Glacier visited here last month.

The marines couldn't have been more helpful to Miss Hilder.

"They smuggled me meals three courses — and everything was going well," she said. "But my hopes were dashed all because of a pair of shoes."

She explained: "The straps of the shoes were cutting into my heels and I had taken them off near the door of the admiral's cabin.

"When I heard somebody coming I rushed into the cabin and forgot the shoes."

Then she heard a voice say: "I can't believe it. There's a girl under the admiral's bed."

Miss Hilder was careful to sleep only on top of the bed's cover because "I didn't want to mess it up."

"I realized all the books around there were probably top-secret. I didn't touch a thing."

Once found Sandra was turned over to local police, stripped to her underwear and searched by policewomen.

Before leaving the ship, she put the finger on one of the helpful marines because, she said, "I thought it would have been better for him than being found out, which would have put him in worse trouble."

Sandra may stow away on a ship for California again. But it won't be the Long Beach. It sailed Thursday.

'Wings to the Bahamas' Fitting Finale to Kiwanis Travelogues

By A. HENDERSON

What a fitting finale, "Wings to the Bahamas" was last evening to the fourteenth annual World Travel and Adventure Series sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville! As usual the Collegiate auditorium was filled almost to capacity, long before curtain time.

Mr. James Metcalfe, the author and narrator of this most impressive colored motion picture, is a native of Michigan, a graduate of the University of Michigan in chemistry, but his heart was lost to photography from his early years, by which he earned his way through school. Shortly after leaving school, he won a scholarship to the Professional School of Photography at Winona, Indiana, and during World War II, he did extensive travelling for the Army Ordinance Corps, producing training films. Later opening a commercial and portrait studio in Detroit. He is the owner and pilot of his own aircraft, "The Golden Bird" on which the audience rode, as on a magic carpet to the ever - balmy Islands, the Bahamas.

The Bahamas are a group of Islands in the West Indies, northeast of Cuba, and south - east of Florida, extending between 600 and 700 miles in length, seventy - nine in number, about 55 miles off the coast of the U.S. Mainland. Eight hundred of these tropical Islands dot the blue waters of the Atlantic, for an area of 4,400 square miles. For over 400 years these Islands were raided by pirates, roamed by confederate pirboats, gold - laden galleons, and in 1920 the rum runners added their quota of Arabian Nights - like interest to a fabled storyland.

The climate is practically a perfect one, balmy and warm, though one of the Islands, the home of the gorgeous pink flamingo, has a torrid degree of 107. The golden - sanded beaches stretch for miles flecking the crystal - clear blue waters. Because of the Gulf Stream surf riding is one of the sports of the Bahamas.

The Islands are approximately 80 percent Negro. There is a great reverence for law and order. Crime is almost unknown. When Mr. Metcalfe asked about the crime extent, he was told that they had had two cases of "abusive language, but no swearing." Slavery was abolished in the Bahamas before it was in the United States.

The Industries consist in fishing, also used as a sport fishing games, with eager contestants for the blue Martin, some of which weigh over 600 pounds. The winner of one contest, was a woman, who landed a Martin weighing 605 pounds. Logging is also participated in, and the making of rope from the long-leaved palm plant, which are still open, washed and left in the saltwater to clean, then dried, shredded into fine fibres for the making of various odd-shaped bags, which are made at the 'straw market'. Salt is also a chief product, the making of which was fully shown, first by leading the water into prepared squareiois, then left to evaporate, and crystallized; later plowed by huge machines, washing the crystals, again washed to eliminate the other non-wanted ingredients. Other industries, where the soil is deeper, is in poultry and egg production, and beef cattle raising. Exports are pineapples, sponges and logs.

Nassau is the capital, a lovely, modern city with shopping plazas and a population of 30,000, as well as two other Islands, two exits and many harbors. There was seen the ceremonial 'Changing of the Guard,' with precision marching, the straw market mentioned previously. Nassau is the most colorful city in the western hemisphere; horse-drawn carriages for hire, for a leisurely sight-seeing view of the city. Markets are filled with fresh fruits, and sponges. Bay Street is a shoppers' paradise where perfumes, cashmere and woollens may be purchased. The people dress mostly in white, and no shorts are permitted to be worn here.

Other Islands visited included the Andros Islands, 100 miles long, where the water is the deepest. This island has a fine seaport, but most of the Islands are still uninhabited. (One visited would make an ideal honeymoon place) the Great and Little Abaco; San Salvador, visited by Columbus. At Abaco is the modern National airport, and at Long Island, the making of rope is carried on.

Among the scenes shown were two or three lovely sunsets and sunrises, especially worthy of mention was that of the huge flocks of flamingoes feeding along the shore on snails and shrimps. The flamingo lays but one egg, in a mud nest about three inches high. When hatched the chick is a most repulsive creature, of a muddy grey-black, but as the chick matures it loses its unsightliness and at maturity is a most exquisite bird of beautiful shaded pinks, lordly in stature.

Mr. Metcalf was introduced to his audience by past president of the Kiwanis Club, Mr. O. F. Bradley.

You may have noticed quite a few announcements about banking recently.

Here's one that deserves to be more than just noticed.

For example, the interest rate on our new Scotia Blue Chip Savings Account is 4¼%.

Doesn't that rate some interest from you?

Here is one savings account—and an outstanding interest rate—that makes saving money definitely rewarding.

With a new Scotia Blue Chip Savings Account, your 4¼% interest is calculated quarterly. But forget about chequing privileges. This is a savings account, remember! (If you really wish chequing privileges, we do have other savings accounts that'll let you write cheques to your heart's content.)

In fact, if you put your money into Scotia Blue Chip Savings—and leave it alone—we can guarantee that you'll have one of the fastest-growing bank accounts in Canada.

And then there are conventional residential mortgages. Loans up to $50,000. Or as high as 87½% of the property value. Can you call a loan like that conventional?

Most conventional mortgage loans have been limited to 75% of the appraised value or selling price of the property. And, as far as we're concerned, that's conventional. But at the Bank of Nova Scotia, you can arrange a conventional residential mortgage loan for up to 87½% of the value, and a maximum loan of $50,000. So? So our higher ratio could very well eliminate the need to get into costly secondary financing.

Our conventional mortgages are available for building a new home, or for an existing property. But if you're in the market for an NHA mortgage on a new home, we're ready for that, too.

One other point: our basic interest rate on conventional mortgage loans will be exactly the same anywhere in Canada. Before you make a move—anywhere—better see your local Bank of Nova Scotia manager.

The Bank of Nova Scotia

Your best interest: we make it our business.

Big Prairie Snowfall Headache for Ranchers

EDMONTON (CP)—Southern Alberta and southern Saskatchewan were getting back to normal today after a three-day storm left a record snowfall and produced headaches for ranchers.

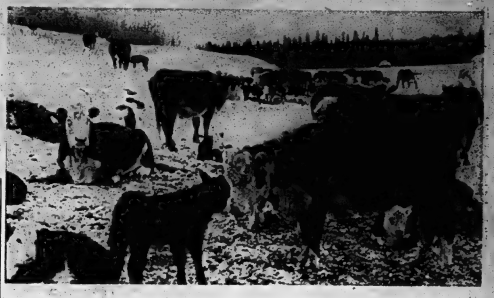
Sunny skies and rising temperatures were recorded in the western Prairies Thursday in the wake of the storm that clogged country roads, closed most rural schools and resulted in traffic tieups in some cities.

Calgary recorded a record low for April 21 of three above. The previous low was eight degrees in 1927.

Milder air moved into Alberta and Saskatchewan Friday from the northwest.

A record 27.7 inches of snow fell at Lethbridge in the Tuesday - Wednesday - Thursday storm that clobbered the southern regions.

Snowfall at Lethbridge set a spring record for a 24-hour period with 13.6 inches from 11 p.m. Wednesday to 11 p.m. Thursday. The total exceeded marks for fall, winter and spring except for the nearly 15 inches in November, 1944, and October, 1967.



One death was attributed to the storm. John Albert Hatton, 61, of Fort Macleod, 25 miles west of Lethbridge, suffered a heart attack while shovelling snow.

It was too early to estimate losses of newborn range calves, but they will be high. Chances of newborn calves surviving in the snow and freezing temperatures were slight.

The hot rays of Thursday's sun mirrored on the white snow caused severe sunburn to some cattle. Blistered udders would make it impossible for cows to let the calves feed.

Ranchers face the task of breaking trails on the range and mothering surviving calves. Saddle horses and tractors were being loaded with grain, milk and vitamin A shots for the calves.

Calving in southern Alberta is about half over.

The Lucky Ones

Most of the whiteface calves in the picture were strong enough to weather the storm that has killed several hundred new-born calves in the area between Medicine Hat and Pincher Creek. Between 12 and 24 inches of snow fell in the area which is prime ranching country. (CP Photo)

Rebel Labor Members Want Bombing Halted

LONDON (Reuters) — Sixty members of the ruling Labor party rebelled in the Commons Friday against the British government's support of U.S. President Johnson's policies in Vietnam.

Their private members' non-government motion called on Prime Minister Wilson's administration to agree that the cessation of American bombing in Vietnam is the first preliminary move which alone could create conditions for meaningful negotiations aimed at ending the Vietnam war.

The government does not agree with this.

But the motion was not voted on for procedural reasons.

The rebels showed their dissent by voting 66 to 1 on a technical motion to close the debate.

Labor left-wingers turned up in force and virtually took over the chamber for a day when most members had left for a long weekend in their home districts.

Conservatives Are Alone in Opposing Indefinite Periods of Enlistment

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives argued in the Commons Friday that the armed forces unification bill retains and adds to the power of the defence department to break commitments with its servicemen.

They repeated their conviction that officers commissioned into the army, navy or air forces should not be compelled to accept commissions in the single new force.

And they claimed the government is hedging on the right of officers and men to get their release on six months' notice.

The Conservatives were almost alone in their fight Friday as the debate on a bill moved through the first of three final days of debate before the Tuesday night vote imposed by the government.

The so-called guillotine move was debated Thursday, followed by a vote Thursday night in which New Democratic, Creditiste, and Social Credit members joined the government in defeating by 134 to 82 Conservative opposition to a three-day limit on further debate.

Two of the six key clauses in the bill were approved Friday, the 16th day of debate on the legislation.

A clause permitting service men to be signed on for an indefinite as well as fixed terms was approved by a vote of 46 to 30. Only the Conservatives were opposed.

The parties split along the same lines on the clause setting out the single - service rank structure. The vote was 57 to 17.

Concern over progress on the Saint John causeway planned to link Prince Edward Island with the New Brunswick mainland trailed up later.

Works Minister McIlraith assured several questioners the government intends to proceed with the project but he said some adjustments and modification of original plans might be desirable and he could not guarantee them would be to do-lays.

Debate on the defence bill revolved largely on the question of terms of service in the force.

Defence Minister Hellyer said that while an officer or man may normally get his release on six months' notice, he has no right as such to this release.

It is policy to grant them, but this is subject to the exigencies of the service."

J. Angus MacLean (PC—Queens) said the defence department is obliging servicemen to enter a binding contract when they sign up, but leaving an out to break the bargain itself.

"This is one of the most demoralizing situations a serviceman can find himself in," he said. "If a right exists only at the convenience of the service it is not a right at all."

The addition of a provision for indefinite terms of service, with reenlistment on six months notice, also drew Conservative blasts.

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, said that if a large number of dissatisfied tradesmen tried to leave the service at one time, the service would either lose its effectiveness or their releases would have to be denied.

Either situation was intolerable.

Mr. Hellyer said the provision for indefinite terms was necessary to provide for flexibility.

The defence minister announced that under a recent policy change all aircrew in the armed forces now are required to serve a minimum of five years after completion of their training.

The expense of aircrew training made it necessary to expect more service time of officers.

Mr. MacLean, a wartime parliament piked and Prince Edward Islander who carried much of the load in debate Friday, made an impassioned attack against removal of the designation "royal" from the navy and air force under the bill.

He said he has seriously considered moving to another country "in the best interests of my children and my children's children" if the present government continues eroding traditions held dear by millions of Canadians.

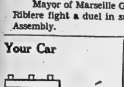
Free Vote to Be Held On Capital Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to abolish capital punishment, carrying the open support of Prime Minister Pearson and most of his cabinet, has high priority on the government's agenda for the centennial session of Parliament.

Mr. Pearson said Friday in the Commons and at a press conference that he wants a free vote and a final decision on the death penalty.

He told reporters that the 1966 free vote on abolition dealt in an unsatisfactory way with an untidy piece of legislation.



Last year's private bill, sponsored by four MPs, was defeated 143 to 112. Three amendments providing for partial abolition and described by Mr. Pearson as ambiguous, also were beaten down.

Mr. Pearson hinted that a government bill with the moral force of the treasury benches behind it would not only deliver a more certain decision but perhaps an opposite one.

The government would not stand or fall on the next vote. The decision would again be made without regard to party positions.

Last April Mr. Pearson and all members of the cabinet refrained from stating their own views, although the final vote 18 of the 24 cabinet ministers present voted for abolition.

Electric Car Still Well In Future

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Although the U.S. government is pushing Detroit for a practical electric car — and even exploring the idea of a federal program to pursue its development — don't let this change your mind about buying that new V-8. We may be getting closer to electric car production, but we're still far from it. Some tough problems have yet to be solved.

The primary one seems to concern the batteries to power the car. Those tested on experimental models are very heavy and add considerable weight to the car. In addition, they must be recharged, in some cases after just 40 or 50 miles. There is also a limit to the number of times they can be recharged — and they are expensive to replace.

Different types of batteries are being tested in order to find the answer to maximum power and range, coupled with minimum weight.

Some industry officials view the electric car as having a very limited potential. Others believe it could some day rival the internal combustion engine vehicle. But none will venture a guess as to when it will be available.

* * *

L. F. asks: "I can see water seeping from the thermostat when the engine is running. What should be done about this?"

Assume you mean the leak is from the thermostat housing. If it's cracked, replacement is probably best. If not, then tightening of the housing bolts may be all that is needed.

* * *

E. S. writes: "You recently wrote about sticking valves causing rough engine idle. Will burnt valves cause this, too?"

Yes — and this would be the logical suspicion if compression is low.

* * *

From T. N.: "I put in new plugs about 1,500 miles ago, and when I checked them yesterday, the firing tips were pale brown and the gaps a hair wider than they were when installed. This is my first car so I don't know what is normal for plugs after 1,500 miles."

This is normal. Just clean and adjust the gap settings.

* * *

L. B. writes: "Last winter I bought a '64 hardtop. In 3,000 miles, it's burned out two sets of points. Have tried two mechanics and they are stumped. Both say the generator, regulator and everything else seems OK."

Have the coil checked out. It may not be providing adequate resistance.

1,400 Seek 123 Places In First-year Medicine

TORONTO (CP) — Three of Ontario's four medical schools say they are considering about 1,400 applications to fill 123 student places in first - year medicine this fall.

However, officials say that most students apply to several medical schools and most applicants meet only minimal standards.

Dr. John Firsthrook, associate dean of medicine at Queen's University, Kingston, said in an interview Friday that almost all well - qualified people get into medical schools.

He said of the 427 applications Queen's has received, no more than 100 have adequate qualifications.

Dr. Firsthrook said Queen's will have space for 70 first-year medical students in the fall. Of these, 50 have been guaranteed to students completing pre-medicine this spring.

Ontario Red Cross Requires More Blood

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ontario Red Cross should increase its blood collection by eight per cent in 1967, delegates to the annual meeting were told Friday.

The blood donor committee chairman, L. A. Bayliss of Hamilton, said specialization in use of blood components and increased hospital facilities would make larger demands on the blood supply.

The Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross collected 309,931 pints of blood in clinics throughout the province in 1966.

Mr. Bayliss said the biggest development last year had been the enthusiasm and interest of high school students who made 6,000 donations in 43 clinics.

A new program in the Red Cross water safety division was announced at the two-day conference, attended by 400 delegates.

The "survival swimming" course will provide basic instruction in water accident prevention, stressing rescue and "drownproofing" techniques.

Non-swimmers and swimmers may take the course, which would require about 20 hours of instruction for those who could not swim.

The new president of the 184-branch organization is R. J. Kane, a Toronto chartered accountant.

Others elected to the executive at the closing session Friday include: vice - presidents, Proctor Dick, Chatham; D. Brian Sawer, Sault Ste. Marie.

Dr. Horner Quits Race

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. Hugh Horner, member of Parliament for Jasper - Edson, announced Friday he is withdrawing from the national Progressive Conservative leadership race to seek nomination in a provincial constituency for the May 23 Alberta general election.

He said in a news conference he would seek nomination for the Conservatives in Lac St. Anne, a seat now held by the Social Credit party.

Eighteen Hitchhikers to Try To Evade Police as Exercise

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eighteen spider-hatchbikers will try next week to make themselves "invisible" for 900 miles while wearing combat uniforms with white armbands on each sleeve and carrying maps, compasses, drinking bags and four days' pack rations.

The one thing they won't be encumbered with is money.

Participants in Exercise Voyageur IV, an escape - and-evasion training exercise starting Monday near Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and winding up six days later in Winnipeg, will be six junior officers and 12 Junior NCOs from the army's Mobile Command.

For purposes of the exercise, they are supposed to be headed for internment deep inside enemy territory. The RCAF will fly them to a point near Sault Ste. Marie where, carrying make-believe a step farther, they will be allowed to "escape."

SPLIT INTO GROUPS

At this point, they will split into six three-man groups and will try to dodge the real authorities—army, RCMP and provincial police — while independently carrying out intelligence and reconnaissance tasks.

The mock fugitives — members of the 3rd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery; No. 1 Locating Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, and No. 4 Transport Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps — must be back at Winnipeg headquarters by one minute to midnight April 29 whether or not they have completed their intelligence tasks.

Police along the route will have photographs of the team members who must try to make their way undetected through Wawa, Port Arthur, Dryden and Kenora — coming as well with the civilian population which has been asked to report sightings to the military or the police.

When "captures" are made, authorities will report the participants to exercise headquarters. Then the fugitives will be allowed to strike out again although marks will be deducted each time a group is apprehended.

"I can control the heat in every room." Mrs. William A. Hoberle, Port Hope.

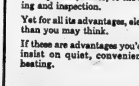
All over Ontario you'll hear kind words about electric heating

Every year electric heating wins more and more friends throughout Ontario. Small wonder. No other heating system offers so many benefits.

Room-by-room or zone temperature control lets you select the most comfortable temperature for every part of your home. Electric heating is a gentle, even heat. It's clean and completely safe. And you're never bothered by noise, fumes, or the nuisance of annual servicing and inspection.

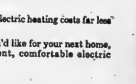
Yet for all its advantages, electric heating costs far less than you may think.

If these are advantages you'd like for your next home, insist on quiet, convenient, comfortable electric heating.



LOOK FOR THE TRIPLE SEAL OF QUALITY—THE STRONGEST GUARANTEE A HEATING SYSTEM CAN HAVE

The Triple Seal of Quality is a three-fold guarantee backed by the manufacturer of the heating equipment, the contractor who installed it and the Ontario Electrical League who ensure that the system is correctly designed and the house adequately insulated.



For full information about electric heating, speak to a qualified electric heating contractor, or ask your Hydro.

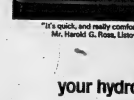
FIVE EXCELLENT WAYS TO HEAT YOUR HOME ELECTRICALLY



Baseboard units take little space, blend with room decor. Permit room-by-room temperature control.

Radiant ceiling heating is invisible. Each room's temperature can be individually controlled.

Heat pump heats in winter, cools in summer. One setting maintains any desired year-round temperature.

Hot water system thydronici circulates hot water through baseboard units from small boiler on basement wall.

Electric furnace with air filter, combines with cooling and humidity control for year-round comfort.

This structure stands 66 feet high at the entrance to the main exhibit area of the Canadian pavilion at Expo 67 and it is supposed to represent a maple tree at autumn. ## Five Artists Win CBC Radio Awards

MONTREAL (CP) — Five young Canadian artists were chosen grand award winners in CBC Radio's eighth national talent festival broadcast live on the corporation's French and English networks Friday night.

The eight finalists in the competition, chosen from 27 performers who participated in a three-month series of eliminations beginning in January, competed in four categories of artistic expression.

In the keyboard classification, Elsbeth Coop, a 20-year-old pianist from Calgary, was chosen over pianist Henri Bernard, 17, of St. Simeon, Que.

Miss Coop won a $1,000 prize for her winning performance while Mr. Brassard received $500.

Kathryn Wunder, a 16-year-old Toronto violinist, won the stringed instrument section over Helen Hagnes, 18, a violinist from Aldergrove, B.C.

In the wind instrument category, flutist Robert Cram, 18, of Montreal was selected over Gloria Coleman, a 22-year-old French horn player from Toronto.

The adjudicating panel, under the chairmanship of Sir Ernest MacMillan, prominent Canadian composer and conductor, chose not to award a first prize in the vocal classification.

Instead, Carrol Anne Curry, a 26-year-old soprano from Edmonton, Ont., and Maurice Brown, a bass baritone from Toronto, were each awarded a second prize. The $1,000 prize money was split between them.

Director Best Friend For TV Pooch Lassie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lassie's best friend may well be William Beaudine, who has directed the talented pooch through 75 chapters of the long-run series and appears ready to direct 75 more.

Big Bill knows just how to wring the right emotion from Lassie and—just as importantly —how to bring the film in on budget or under.

"I've never gone over a shooting schedule in my whole career," he says.

And what a career it has been! At 75 Bill Beaudine claims to have been a director longer than anyone else in Hollywood.

"I directed my first picture starting on Oct. 12, 1915," he recalled. "It was a one-reel comedy called—get this—Mamie the Lion.

For one then 50 years, Beaudine has pursued his profession with only rare intervals between pictures. He is proudest of two Mary Pickford movies, Sparrow and Little Annie Rooney.

To Your Good Health

Psychic Energizers Cure Depression

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a serious operation and for several months it has left me deeply depressed. What can be this depression and will I recover from it in the near future?

I have cried an ocean of tears and it has caused my loved ones much unhappiness — H. M. P.

The exact cause of severe depression is not always clear — which is another way of saying that a good deal of the time we just don't know. Fortunately quite a bit has been learned about combating it.

There are several types of depression, none pleasant but some more readily corrected than others. I will not try to go into the theme of your operation, it probably will yield to treatment more easily than other types.

Many small glues, including your sleeping and waking habits, will help a physician decide how best to treat you.

Merely telling a person who is in the grip of continuing depression to cheer up does no good at all. He'd like to — but he can't.

In recent years a group of drugs known as psychic energizers have been put into use and have produced astonishingly good results with many patients. They aren't "pep pills." Rather, they give an easy way what type yours is then to venture a guess that, having come on rather abrupt-emotional lift.

Originally they were used by psychiatrist, but now are employed by general physicians, internists and others. One complaint voiced by specialists was that some physicians were over-cautious, in the case of these drugs and did not give quantities which would bring desired results.

Well, caution is a wise trait for any doctor, but now that more information is generally available on the psychic energizers, successful treatment is becoming more prevalent.

These continuing depressions are distinctly a matter of health. Tell your doctor exactly how you feel and behave. If he does not happen to feel sufficiently familiar with the energizers, he can refer you to a psychiatrist or some other physician.

In fact, it is not a bad idea to have a psychiatrist take part at least to the extent of identifying the type of depression involved. In serious cases a psychiatrist (and sometimes a psychologist) may be necessary.

This is not true in less severe cases and the fact that you wrote a letter and with recognition of your trouble, consulted your doctor is not one of the severe cases.

I won't try to estimate how quickly it can be controlled, but I am strongly tempted to suggest that it will be sooner than you think.

Dear Dr. Molner: To make a long story short I am 40 and find I am pregnant. I had been so all in that the doctor was giving me thyroid tablets. I thought it was thyroid which made people big or little Will this affect the baby? — C.M.

You probably are confusing the thyroid gland with the pituitary, and it is the latter which has some influence over growth of people. Thyroid is related to metabolism. Treatment with thyroid extracts is frequently used during pregnancy and will not harm the baby.

• • • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 43 and have had a fibroid tumor in the uterus for several years. I have been told that it would disappear at menopause. Will I have discomfort while it is disappearing? — E. L.

These fibroids sometimes shrink when menopause comes and there is no discomfort at all. But it is a case of may shrink, not will.

Rains Came At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —With not his major obstacle to the top rung in money winning for the year — Ben Hogan, Gay Brewer took a two-stroke lead into today's delayed second round of the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open golf tournament.

Heavy rains Friday morning forced postponement of the round and the cutting of Arnold Palmer, the leading money winner, withdrew because of a cold and cold weariness from playing eight consecutive nine weeks.

Palmer had a six-over-par 76 in the opening round Thursday, Brewer had with a 64.

Brewer, the lanky champion with $66,347.50 in winnings, eight shots as little as $7,000 from the Dallas Open purse and vault into first place.

That is, unless Doug Sanders, who has a booked $58,442.50, should win the $20,000 first money and Brewer took down the $20,000.

Sanders shot a 70 in the opening round.

Brewery and rain caused postponement of the second round Friday on the 6,777-yard (2), Oak Cliff Country Club course.

The upshot of the situation was that the second round was scheduled for 36 holes, third round will be played Sunday and the final round Monday.

Last year rounds had to be postponed twice and the tournament ran through Tuesday.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retired Man's Memo to TV -- Without Love and Kisses

By THOMAS COLLINS

Dear Mr. TV Station: I think I should advise you that you have missed me again with your commercials. I didn't buy a thing you advertised all last week.

This is not to criticize you. All sorts of fools can do that, and do. I think your commercials are very pretty, and I'm sure they cost you a lot of money. They just aren't hitting me and my 18 million friends who have reached retirement age, and I thought a report from me might be a positive contribution to your fancy computer gadgets that analyze us.

Now take that commercial you had on a bar dressing for men. It showed me a man using it would incite pretty girls to chase him, climb up his shoulders, and kiss him. I don't have much hair left, and what's left is gray. I just wasn't convinced that if I used that hair dressing a pretty girl would kiss me. My wife wasn't either.

But it was a nice commercial. And the girls were very pretty.

Then you had a commercial about a floor finish for the kitchen. It showed a woman gliding in the back door and across the floor. I don't think that would be good for the arthritis in my left leg. And my bones at my age are a bit brittle to risk a fall. Also, I don't boiled like fun. And the woman was attractive.

The commercial you had on one of the new cars being sturdy enough to go down the Colorado River on a raft was indeed dramatic. But it confused me, I really hadn't planned to drive my next car down the Colorado River on a raft. The one you had showing a new car going out and jump was better — all of us do that with our cars at 65.

You had a lively, gay commercial on a soft drink which said "Things go better after one drink. Especially after another." I liked that one. But I had a couple of bottles of that in the pantry, and I tried them. Things didn't go any better. They often don't after 65. And you remember the one you had showing all the blustery cold you'd get if you tried another brand? You'll forgive me for saying it, but I didn't want to get that cold.

Those commercials you had on cigarettes were things of beauty, with all those pretty people and all those girls kissing the men who smoked the right brand. I have missed me again with that, too. I didn't really believe anybody would kiss my wrinkled chin if I did. Neither did my wife.

I think I would have slipped on the cigarette commercials if they had shown that a man smoking that brand could get some comfortable house slippers, an easy chair, and get the neighborhood dogs off his evergreens. The kissing just didn't do it.

You had some beer commercials. Kissing again.

I was most intrigued by the commercial that showed the engine of a car roaring across the prairie all by itself as if to promote a certain brand of gasoline? What did you have in mind on that.

And the one about the automobile tires that withstood the beating of a racetrack? At my age I intend to drive only to the grocery store and to church, probably at about 15 miles an hour. I'm sure there's a connection. I just didn't catch it.

One more commercials on laxatives. Ugh! You get regularity by 65 or you don't get to 65.

Your commercials are new and improved TV sets were quite impressive. I presume you figured we'd would like to hear worse things better.

I realize retired people aren't too fashionable in the commercial world. There are only the 18 million of us. We can spend only about $36,000,000 a year or just a bit over $1,000,000 a week. Hardly a major factor, I know.

But still, I thought I ought to tell you about last week.

Sincerely, but sad,

Parity Pay Included

Auto Package Astronomical: Industry

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers will take to the bargaining table later this year a broad set of contract demands, including bringing pay in the Canadian auto industry up to par with those in the U.S.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther estimated fewer than L among some 3,000 convention delegates approved the goals as they were adopted Friday. An auto industry spokesman estimated money to meet them would "run into astronomical figures."

With the goals outlined, Reuther came to a showdown today with his 1,400,000 - member union on his threat to remove it from the AFL-CIO.

All indications pointed to Reuther getting what he wants: Authority for his international executive board to pull the union out of the AFL-CIO, when and if he chooses.

Reuther has demanded, in effect, reconstruction of the AFL-CIO as the price of his union remaining the labor movement's "regular" under leadership of George Meany.

Some delegates predicted from the convention floor, before new contract goals were adopted, that a strike would be necessary to win a major portion of them.

Reuther, pleading that delegates "not tie our hands," put the flexibility he sought in goals. The convention avoided mentioning dollars or cents an hour anywhere.

The goals include a substantial wage increase, a guaranteed annual income, parity pay for Canadian auto plant workers, higher pensions, earlier retirement and continuation of a cost-of-living wage escalator and a so-called annual improvement factor, among other things.

The current straight-time average hourly wage in the U.S. automotive industry is figured at $3.36 by the bureau of labor statistics.

Under a guaranteed annual income, Reuther says a worker will know at the beginning of any year what his income will be for the next 12 months, whether or not any layoffs intervene.

Retirement now is possible at age 60 at up to $400 a month pension; up to $500 at 65.

UAW Vice - President Leonard Woodcock says workers in Canadian plants of General Motors Corp. average 41 cents hourly less than do workers in GM's U.S. plants.

Exchange Investigates Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Stock Exchange said Friday it is investigating the possibility that trading in some stocks had been manipulated.

Ralph S. Saul, exchange president, issued a statement saying the investigation indicated "certain customers, acting in concert, were taking sizable positions in a small number of securities. Other members of the public were then urged to purchase the stocks on the strength of merger prospects, favorable earnings forecasts or technical considerations.

"As public interest was aroused the prices rose, the original group was in a position to sell out at substantial profits."

He added that the exchange's investigation also indicates that unregulated lenders have financed to a significant degree the capital needed by the persons engaged in these activities.

Saul said the exchange had retained lawyers and is co-operating with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and the U.S. attorney's office on the investigation.

Bank Stocks Gain Under New Freedom

By DOUGLAS ADAMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Banks made substantial gains this week in Canadian stock markets, as investors antici-pated the rich profits rising in the wake of new freedom allowed under a revised Bank Act coming into effect May 1.

Latest announcements included Bank of Nova Scotia's announcement that it will have a 4¼-per-cent new non-cheques account and Royal reporting a new 4½-per-cent "bonus savings savings account" with interest calculated a nd payable half-yearly but without cheques privileges.

After the markets closed, Toronto-Dominion confirmed it will be in the act with a premium savings account paying 4½ per-cent and the interest rate on present savings accounts will be increased from 3 to 3¼ per cent. These announcements follow generally similar plans reported earlier this year by the Mercantile Bank of Canada, Bank of Montreal and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Montreal rose 1¼ to 68¾, Nova Scotia and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each to 70¾ and 71¼, Royal 1¼ to 81¾ and Imperial Commerce declined ¼ to 71¼.

Steels held to an upward road after spurting ahead early in the week.

Steico advanced 1½ to 24½, Dominion Bridge 1¼ to a 1967 high of 51, Dofasco 1¼ to 52¾ and Algoma Steel 1¼ to 25¼.

Dosco, which reported a $1 823,333 loss for 1966, fell ¼ to 8¼.

Oils moved up as they have since February. Pacific Petroleum rose 1¼ to a 1967 high of 14 following a 56-per-cent increase in first-quarter profits and the announcement that two oil well discoveries had been drilled during the winter in northwestern Alberta.

Texaco climbed 2¼ to a 1967 high of 77¾. The company reported an increase in first-quarter earnings o f 18.9 per cent over the same period in 1966.

Imperial Oil followed suit with a rise of ¾ to 53, Hudson's Bay rose 1 to 33¾ and Husky remained unchanged at 14½.

Uranium issues continued to dominate base - metal activity with Denison up 2½ to 64¼, Rio Algom ¾ to 29¾, Roman Corp. off ½ to 17¼ and Preston 1½ to 17¼.

Speculative activity was light.

On index, industrials rose 2.86 to 166.47, western oils .38 to 180.91, base metals 2.26 to 82.55 and golds declined .73 to 151.19. Volume was 14,708,814 compared with 12,585,323 traded last week.

At Montreal, industrials rose 3.08 to 164.75, utilities .86 to 167.16, banks 1.47 to 134.36 and papers 1.09 to 122.72. Volume was 3,678,036 compared with 4,053,181 last week.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Manpower Counsellor

There is an atmosphere of anticipated increased employment activity throughout the community. In the northern portion, work has commenced on the new North Hastings Home for the Aged at Bancroft and its construction will provide employment for a number of workers for the next 18 months. The Department of Lands and Forests is hiring a number of men as tree planters for a 3 to 4 week period. The Town of Bancroft started a water, sewer, road and storm sewer project during the past week. It is scheduled for completion prior to the Julyet rush of the tourist season. This construction will also provide work for a number of men.

Summer resort and tourist trade operators are looking forward to another good season which will provide additional employment opportunities. District road improvements planned for the months ahead in this area will result in further labor demand.

The district's largest seed and garden supply o u t let reports particularly brisk business.

The bum of farm machinery will soon be heard throughout the countryside as farmers are only awaiting satisfactory soil conditions to commence the season's planting.

During the week, the first university undergraduates returned home to their temporary employment until September. Within the next two weeks, well over a hundred of these young people will be seeking similar work. Any employer anticipating a requirement calling for the qualifications possessed by these young men and women are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre by telephoning 962-8681.

With spring chores, such as house and window cleaning, preparation of lawns and flower beds yet to be done, the assistance of a suitable worker for these jobs could be obtained by contacting the Manpower Centre at the above telephone number. Any day since the military coup toppled the government Friday.

Stores, bars and restaurants were open, businesses reported normal trade and there was no sign of the tension that had been reported in the capital earlier in the week.

Troops, tanks and armored cars were withdrawn from the streets and the curfew was lifted.

Reports from Athens said the new government has promised to restore civil liberties suspended by the military regime.

Premier Constantine Kollias announced the lifting of martial law and the curfew in a broadcast to the nation.

Kollias said the government would restore civil liberties suspended by the military regime.

Cosmonaut Is Killed In Landing Mishap

Soviet Cosmonaut V. Komarov

Chute Cords Get Tangled

MOSCOW (CP) — Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov plunged to death from the height of more than four miles when his spacecraft Soyuz 1 tried to land today, the Soviet government announced.

It was the first time either of the two major space powers has reported the death of an astronaut on an operation.

Moscow radio said ropes of the parachute meant to ease the landing twisted and the ship hit with great force, killing the 40-year-old veteran cosmonaut.

Tass news agency said the spaceship had passed safely through the most difficult braking stretch in the dense layer of the atmosphere.

"However, when the main cupola of the parachute opened at an altitude of seven kilometres (4.3 miles) the straps of the parachute, according to preliminary reports, got twisted and the spaceship descended at a great speed which resulted in Komarov's death," Tass added.

The veteran Komarov, a colonel, was the pilot of the Voshkod 1, the first three-man spacecraft to go aloft in October, 1964. He was the first Russian to go into space twice.

During a television broadcast the screen was occupied by a portrait — trimmed in black — of the cosmonaut in uniform.

This was the same photograph which — without the black trim — was carried in special editions of Soviet newspapers Sunday when the Soyuz flight was hailed as a triumph.

A Kremlin statement expressed the "profound grief" of the Soviet leaders at Komarov's tragic death.

It was signed by the Communist party central committee, the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet and the council of ministers.

It described Komarov as a talented test pilot and expressed profound sympathy with his 30-year-old wife, and his two children, a 15-year-old son and a daughter, aged nine.

Komarov will be buried in the Kremlin wall, alongside other heroes of the Soviet state, after a funeral in Red Square.

Soviet news media said the cosmonaut died today but did not give the exact time of the accident nor where this had taken place.

It had been predicted in unconfirmed reports that the Soyuz 1 flight would last up to a week. The death announcements indicated it was meant to end today and everything was all right until the last moments.

Then the strings of the parachute slowing the giant spacecraft became entangled when Komarov was 4.3 miles above the earth. The spaceship plunged to earth like a huge stone.

There had been speculation that a linkup of Komarov with a second spaceship would be a step toward an orbiting space platform that eventually would be used to rocket a manned capsule to the moon.

Martin Asks Inspection Of All Nuclear Projects

PARIS (CP) —Canada's External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today called on the major nuclear powers to accept international inspection of their peaceful nuclear projects as part of a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

Such acceptance by the major powers would make a treaty more palatable to the non-nuclear countries, Martin told a press conference as he left Paris for Bonn to confer with German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and attend the Konrad Adenauer state funeral.

"I think an agreement on non-proliferation is one of the most important objectives in the international community at the moment," he said.

The 17-country Geneva disarmament conference will reopen May 9 following a six-week adjournment when the major powers, principally the United States and the Soviet Union, undertook to rewrite a draft treaty which Germany and some other countries found unacceptable.

The argument of these non-nuclear countries is that acceptance of such a treaty would limit their own commercial exploitation of the atom while the nuclear giants would continue to outpace the rest of the industrial world through their vast control and development of nuclear power.

President Johnson is reported ready to press on German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger to accept the rewritten draft, leading to widely-held suggestions that the Adenauer funeral may be remembered as the time the obstacles to the treaty were cleared away.

'Top Secret' Parcel Handed Russians Delays Takeoff But Proves a Joke

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Shechkov and Vinogradov, Soviet intelligence agents who blew their cover then locked themselves out of a car, have gone home. But not without a spy spoof ending to their month's look around New York and Washington.

The FBI held up departure of their plane for 2½ hours Sunday night while they examined a parcel hurried to the Russians just before takeoff. It contained a spy novel, and maps and papers marked "top secret" and "for eyes of president only."

Several phone calls to Washington later, the FBI carted the reading material off and the plane left for Paris. A note stuck in the book, An Expensive Place to Die by Len Deighton, said it was a practical joke.

"Best regards," the note said. "Hope you enjoyed your visit. Sorry about that chief.... signed Your American friend."

The two visitors, assumed to be here for a check-up on Soviet embassy security, were Vasily V. Mosshechkov, travelling under the cover name of Kuznetzov, and Nikolai F. Vinogradov. Both were described by government sources as officers of the KGB, the Soviet Union's committee on state security.

Their movements between New York and Washington, including an incident in which they locked themselves out of their own car, were under constant FBI surveillance and received wide publicity after the story was leaked to news media.

Sunday night's incident literally stopped the Russians' Air France jet with its flaps up and its engines blasting.

Just before takeoff a man identifying himself as an FBI agent handed a gift-wrapped parcel to a stewardess, asking if she would give it to Kouznetsov.

Her suspicions were aroused and she turned it over to pilot Michel Vachy who opened the parcel as he waited for clearance. When he saw what was inside, Vachy wheeled the jet around and called for the FBI.

There was a question at first whether the documents were part of a publicity stunt for Deighton's book, but a spokesman for his publisher, G. P. Putnam and Sons, said the package "wasn't from our company."

Armed Police Guard Johnson in Bonn

BONN (CP) — President Johnson planned meetings today with Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and other West German leaders as they awaited the funeral of Konrad Adenauer.

Strong forces of armed police guarded the streets as Johnson drove to the Rhineside Palais Hammerschmidt to pay a courtesy call on President Heinrich Luebke.

Police stood at 20-yard intervals along the main road through Bonn's ministerial quarter—newly renamed Adenauerallee in memory of the statesman.

Five thousand police were assigned to guard foreign statesmen attending Adenauer's funeral Tuesday. Security precautions were intensified after a Cologne newspaper received an anonymous note saying leftists were plotting to kill Johnson.

Rightists' Gains Are Small

BONN (Reuters) — The extreme right wing West German National Democratic party has gained seats in two more state elections, but with a smaller share of the vote than it had hoped for.

The NPD won four of the 72 seats in Schleswig-Holstein and four of 100 in the Rhineland Palatinate.

Voters in both Schleswig - Holstein and Rhineland—Palatinate Sunday returned Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democratic party with an increased share of the vote.

The Christian Democrats won 34 seats in Schleswig - Holstein and 49 in the Rhineland-Palatinate, still short of a majority although the strongest party in both states. The socialists lost almost four per cent in Rhineland - Palatinate and gained fractionally in Schleswig - Holstein.

The Christian Democrats planned to continue their coalition with the Free Democrats in Schleswig-Holstein and to form a coalition of some kind in Rhineland-Palatinate.

Trouble All the Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet scientists apparently made several attempts to land the Soyuz 1 spacecraft before it crashed and killed its pilot, informed sources here said today.

"They seemed to be having difficulty all the way along with that mission," said one official, who declined the use of his name.

"Apparently they tried several times to bring the craft down earlier, but were unable to do so."

The official declined to say whether intercepted messages or tracking data provided the information. He declined to speculate as to whether illness or death of the cosmonaut in orbit or mere malfunction of equipment may have resulted in a decision to end the mission.

It was believed by some experts that the Soyuz 1 was a three-man vehicle and that the Russians had planned to send another spacecraft aloft for a rendezvous and possible crew-member transfer had all gone well.

U. S. Attacks Jet Airfields

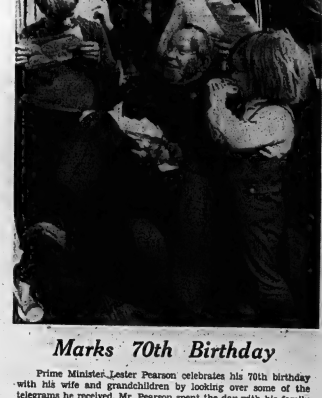
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy planes made their first attack of the Vietnamese war on MiG jet airfields in North Vietnam today, the U.S. command reported.



A command spokesman said U.S. Air Force F-4c Phantoms hit one airfield at Hao Lac and a second field at Kep. Both strikes were made late this afternoon.

Rumor Greek King Arrested Is Denied

ATHENS (CP) — The Greek Army maintained a tight but unobtrusive grip on Athens today with soldiers riding in police cars and standing on street guard with tommy-guns at key buildings.

The city swung back into bustling life on the first working day since the military coup that toppled the government Friday.

Stores, bars and restaurants were open, businesses reported normal trade and there was no sign of any rush to draw money from banks.

But public cable communications abroad were still suspended and censorship officials were listening in to telephone calls outside of the country.

Some press correspondents reported their calls were cut in mid - conversation. No foreign newspapers were being allowed into the country.

Speculation regarding the whereabouts of King Constantine buzzed through the city, but a spokesman for the new government denied that he was under any kind of house arrest.

King Constantine's role in the coup was in doubt with some reports saying he has refused to suspend Greece's constitution and give the new government his public approval.

Sources in Athens said the 25-year-old king signed the proclamation supporting the coup after army officers told him they would dethrone him if he didn't.

But diplomats in London said today their embassies in Athens reported the king swore in the new government only to avoid executions of political leaders. They said he still is resisting military demands that he declare a state of emergency and endorse the junta in a broadcast to the nation.

Reports in London said the king is a virtual prisoner at Tatoi Palace, 20 miles from Athens, where 30-year-old Queen Anne - Marie is expecting her second child next month.

Greeks were thought to be unaware of Constantine's reported resistance. One information said the king may be hoping to stall the junta until his position became known and opinion could turn against the leaders of the coup.

Circles close to the royal family discounted rumors that the German - born Queen Mother Frederika, known for her forceful attitude toward politics, spurred the king to take decisions against his will.

Constantine has been seen in public twice since the coup but had made no public statement.

Head-on Crash Near Tweed Takes Two Lives

TWEED (Special) — A Sunday afternoon drive brought death in two men yesterday as the brand-new car they were riding swerved across the highway in the path of an oncoming vehicle near here yesterday.

Instantly killed were Michael Craig Rashotte, 26, of R.R. 4, Tweed — the driver of the car — and Fred Langevin, 58, of MacLennan Street, Tweed.

Injured in the other automobile were Lillian Scown and James Subject, 32, both of Aylmer, Que.

Both suffered multiple fractures and the women driver today was reported in fair condition in the intensive care unit of Belleville General Hospital.

Subject, was transferred to hospital in Ottawa late this morning. He was in satisfactory condition.

The accident occurred on a long curve on Highway 37, two miles south of here.

The curve is one of a series which has a record of serious accidents involving multiple fatalities or injuries — sometimes both, as in yesterday's mishap.

Friends of the dead men say they were driving to look at some horses kept on an area farm by Langevin, caretaker of Tweed's high school.

Rashotte, who works with a Department of Highways survey team, had purchased the car about a month ago. It had only registered about 2,000 miles when the accident happened.

Police say the Rashotte automobile, southbound on the highway, careered across the centre line and ground head-on with the other car being driven by Langevin.

Both men were unmarried. Langevin lived alone, while Rashotte lived at home and is survived by his mother, a brother and two sisters.

Leaps Off Bridge, Drowns

TRENTON — A young Toronto man leaped from the Dundas St. bridge in Trenton during the Saturday noon hour and drowned off the Community Kay Gardens, about 200 yards downstream.

Larry Richard Stevens, 21, was a passenger in a car driven by a former Trenton man, Carmen Jenkins, 25, when he requested to get out in the middle of the bridge, to talk to two girls.

Stevens never did talk to the girls but climbed over the railing, paused and dropped into the water.

The Trenton fire chief said the department was not notified until about 10 minutes after the man jumped.

The fire department recently obtained a rescue boat.

Eye witnesses say the boat passed close to the man, but missed him. However, winds gusting to 30 miles an hour making large waves would make it difficult to see a man in the water from a motor boat, say police, even an experienced man of the sea states.

Police continued to drag in the mouth of the river for the body today.

Six Rectors in 119 Years Trenton Church Record

TRENTON — Sunday was St. George's day and the congregation at Trinity's St. George's Anglican Church have a memento of the day in a booklet, The Dragon, edited by three laymen to mark the event.

Dr. D. H. Bunt, George Kempf and Mrs. O. W. Larry compiled a history of the church, outlined the present needs, for repair and named future projects in the text.

St. George's has two Centennial projects. One is to donate a $100 bursary to assist in the education of a qualified Canadian Indian student, the other is to floodlight the church, the approximate cost of which has been set at $700.

St. George's church is the oldest church building in Trenton. In 1820, Bishop Strachan bought the land on which the church was built. The area was named "Atmeerson" to honor the bishop's wife. The church was erected in 1845. Additions were built in 1864 1890. A parish house was built at the rear in 1963. Surrounding the church is the original church yard where many of the early settlers of the town lie buried.

The first rector was Canon William Bleasdell who was appointed in 1848. Canon Bleasdell wrote a history of the town and recent histories still draw upon his work (which can be seen in Trenton library). He was buried below the altar in the church when he died in 1898.

Canon F. W. Armstrong was the second rector. He died in 1917. Members of his family still attend the church.

Rev. Percy Heywood served from 1928 to 1933; Rev. F. Arthur Smith from 1933 to 1943; Canon A. S. McConnell from 1946 to 1955 and the present rector, Canon C. F. Blachford was appointed in 1955. The Dragon points out that it is unusual for only six rectors to have been appointed during the church's 119 year history.

In 1856 the rectory was built on Glebe land and in 1883, Canterbury Hall was built.

Heavy Winds Ruffle District Over Weekend

Heavy winds ruffled the Quinte district Saturday and Sunday, wheeling out on the margin of disturbances that caused a serious tornado swath in the mid-Western U.S.

The weather office at Canadian Forces Base recorded gusts as violent as 50 miles-an-hour late Saturday and early Sunday morning.

No serious damage could have strengthened the blow in some areas.

However, squall's blow was worse than its bite, and the district was left intact, save for some isolated incidents.

Tree were felled on the 6RD road near the service base and on Highway 33 north of Frankford. They were cleared without mishap.

In Belleville, gusting winds lifted roofing from the top of Sidney Inn near Yeomans Corners.

The disturbance spread a cheerless layer of cold, grey sky over the district throughout. Sunday after dropping temperatures in the early hours to a low of 35 degrees.

Ambulance, Car Collide

TRENTON — A two-weeks' old baby, on its way to Trenton Memorial in the Brighton Lions Club ambulance, escaped injury last night when the ambulance and a car at the corner of Cedarbrae and King Streets, near the bosses.

The baby was the child of Thomas and Mrs. O'Sullivan of R.R. 1, Brighton. Mr. O'Sullivan, riding in the ambulance, received a bruised nose as did the baby's mother, Mrs. Gladys McLaughlin also from the Brighton area.

The driver of the car, Percy Barlow of Byron Street, Trenton, suffered a fractured nose, Mrs. Lena Barlow suffered leg injuries.

Herbert Jones of R.R. 1, Brighton, driver of the ambulance was not injured.

Bank Just Protecting Rights

The Bank of Montreal at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets is not planning an addition despite the fact it is partially fenced off with barricades from a local construction firm.

Rather the bank is protecting its rights.

When the new bank building was erected a few years ago the structure for the sake of appearances was set back from Bridge street a few feet and the sidewalk widened accordingly.

The extra few feet of sidewalk belongs to the bank but to protect it from becoming a public thoroughfare, the law requires that it be closed off at least one day a year.

So it is to protect the bank's rights that the south side of the bank building is barricaded off.

Trenton Stages Clean Up Week

TRENTON — This is clean up week in Trenton and residents today start the big job by placing rubbish at the curb for special pick up. Observed early today at the roadside were such things as old furniture, Christmas trees and quantities of brush. Over the weekend, many were out raking leaves and these were at the curb in every known variety of receptacle.

This is the one time of the year householders can get rid of all the rubbish not ordinarily picked up by garbage collections.

'Wait and See' Attitude Taken on New Regulations

Department of Manpower and Immigration officials at Belleville are expected to take a "wait and see" attitude with respect to the new regulations regarding eligibility for the adult retraining program.

Under the new regulations, some of the persons now taking the adult re-training courses could lose their living allowances while others applying now could be turned away.

However, Mr. H. W. Ford, manager of the Canada Manpower Centre office at Belleville, says that the new regulations do not effect any persons presently on course.

He said they would be allowed to complete their courses but admitted there may have to be a re-assessment before future courses were commenced and this might result in some losing their qualifications.

The key points in the new regulations exclude from allowances any persons under 17 and any single person over 17 with fewer than three years working experience.

Among the persons who do not qualify are young school drop-outs who find in a year or so after leaving school that they have no marketable skill, children widows who need to go to work but find they are untrained and childless wives wanting to train before re-entering the work force.

New immigrants taking basic academic courses could also be affected.

Mr. E. J. Buckley, who co-ordinates program 5 adult retraining courses at Belleville, Bancroft and Cloyne, says that when the retraining program was underwritten by Ottawa, only the skill training courses were included.

He said that inclusion of the academic re-training courses was not spoken out and it is in this area that has given rise to the present controversy.

Mr. Buckley says the federal authorities feel that academic training is the responsibility of the province.

The Belleville adult retraining co-ordinator says the requirements calling for single persons to have three years working experience to qualify for allowances, has always been in effect and with a few deserving exceptions has been carried out here.

He said the federal department wanted to discourage young day school dropouts from leaving school, taking a job for a few months and then expecting to get paid for returning to school through an adult re-training course.

Mr. Buckley said the majority of persons taking the adult-retraining courses could be classified as "unskilled".

He said that inclusion of the academic re-training courses could lead to difficulties.

Quinte district farmers could take re-training courses under ARDA during the past winter, there were about 600 persons enrolled in adult retraining courses at Belleville, Bancroft and Cloyne.

The re-training course for farmers which ended last week was said by Mr. Buckley to have been a tremendous success.

There were 169 farmers enrolled in the course last fall and 166 completed their training.

Snow Flurry Visits City Around Noon

The weatherman said it wouldn't reach quite this far but the Belleville area was visited by real snow flurry just at noon today.

News reports said that two inches of the fluffy white stuff fell Sunday night in the Windsor area, but the weatherman said the storm would pass south of Lake Ontario into Northern New York State.

But the weatherman was foiled

The flurry of snow covered the tops of cars as well as sidewalks and even blew into small drifts on the sidewalks

One Freul Street businessman who returned from the South a month ago said if the cold weather continued he was thinking of packing up and going back to Florida.

Hobby Talent Viewed

TRENTON — A gallery displaying the talents of local artists, a hobby show exhibiting the imaginative talents of public school children, and a showcase for the varied assortment of projects which are part and parcel of the Girl Guide and Boy Scout movements — this weekend's special program at Middleton Park's Broadmer School was all of these.

Proceeds from the event will assist the sponsoring organization — the CFB Trenton District Girl Guide Association.

A cup of tea awaited the show's many visitors, some of whom were on hand to ferret out a canvas bargain for that favorite spot over the fireplace, but more of whom were Middleton Park parents inspecting first-hand their children's handiwork.

Obituary

ANDREW DWIGHT BENNETT (Campbellford)

Following a lengthy illness, Andrew Dwight Bennett, 85 Frank Street, Campbellford, retired furniture dealer and funeral director and active in the community and civic and religious life, died in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Sunday. He was born in Rawdsburgh township near Brockville, 79 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett.

In early life he studied to become a funeral director and forty-one years ago, married Campbellford where he opened a furniture business and a funeral home which continued in business until 1955 when he retired but he never gave up his love for the business world and was often seen about the store still being operated by his son.

Mr. Bennett took an active interest in the civic and church life of his community. He served for many years on the town council and as a member of St. John's United Church. He was active in every phase of the congregation. Fraternally he was a member of Golden Rule Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 126.

He was an ardent lawn bowler and was one of the mainstays of the Campbellford Lawn Bowling Club for many years. He was a keen competitor and won many prizes at district tournaments. He was a keen fisherman, practising it since he sincerely missed by a wide circle of friends in every walk of life.

Surviving are his wife, the former Flossie Metcalfe, three sons, Donald of Campbellford, Robert of Kingston, Paul of Kapuskasing, three brothers, Harold of Campbellford, James of Merrickville, and Byron of Algonquin, and two sisters, Miss Eliza Bennett of Prescott and Miss Jenn Bennett of Florida. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. A son, John, a daughter, Mary and one sister, Mrs. Alma Cunningham, predeceased him.

Mr. Bennett is resting at the Bennett-Weaver Funeral Home, Campbellford. A Masonic Memorial Service will be held in the funeral home on Tuesday evening and the funeral service will be held in St. John's United Church on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Rev. D. M. Smith officiating.

Interment in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

At Hospital Board Meet Building Program Outlined

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Memorial Hospital held their annual meeting in the board room on Friday evening. Previous to the business meeting a dinner was served to board members and executive with the respective wives and husbands as guests.

Chairman W. F. Scott, long standing board member, conducted the business of the meeting.

In his report secretary F. S. Linton gave the extensive building program outlined by architect James Craig and approved by the Ontario Hospital Commission and local board. The additions to the present building will cost approximately one and a half million dollars. Present facilities will be enlarged such as kitchen, board room, laundry facilities and all other departments now found inadequate, and most important bed space and nursing facilities will be increased.

Bed capacity will be increased to 80 with provision allowed for 20 more to be added later to create a total of 100 beds, to include private rooms which because of lack of space are not at present available. More maternity rooms and medical beds will be available as well as a solarium. Tenders will be called for in the fall.

The board members, W. F. Scott, F. S. Linton, A. Putnam, R. Douglas, R. Locke, G. Free and Mrs. J. Locke along with hospital administrator S. Carr have given the matter of additions a great deal of time and study and feel they have reached a satisfactory solution to a demanding situation. All board members were re-elected for the year.

Dr. Patterson of Hastings, chairman of the Medical Association in his report regretted the unavoidable over crowding. He mentioned two outstanding projects, one recognition by a dinner and presentation to Dr. Baker for his having completed 25 years of service to the hospital and the other instead of usual Christmas gifts to staff and others, the medical association pooled the amount and purchased two TV sets for chronic patients.

Treasurer A. Putnam in his report stated income from inpatients, out-patients, and other income for 1966 was $617,379, and spent for benefit of patients $605,881. The maximum of patients in any one day was 77. Births in hospital in 1966 were less than for 1964 or 1965. The balance sheet as of December 31, 1966 showed the hospital to be in a favorable financial condition.

Warning Issued

Police have issued a warning to beware of phoney insurance money collectors.

Two attempts were made in Belleville today to obtain money from policy holders normally serviced by a regular insurance salesman.

The pattern is that the policy holder is told the agent is ill, and that he or she is collecting the premiums for him.

In the first instance today a woman tried the ruse, and the second time it was a man. One items was in East Hill and the other in the north end of the city.

Both homes were on the route of a salesman who has been selling insurance for 33 years in Belleville.

Police advise that if an unknown person tries to collect insurance payments, they should ask to see identification and also phone the local agent's office. If in doubt no payments should be made.

Eskimo Youth Displays Carving A Talent Learned in Ottawa

TRENTON — Irony of ironies! A western arctic Eskimo who had to travel 3,000 miles to Ottawa to learn the art of Eskimo carving!

That's Fred Elias, 20-year-old native of the far north, in Trenton on the weekend for the Centennial hobby exhibit sponsored by CFB District Girl Guides at Middleton Park's Broadmer School.

It took him about a day's work to produce a genuine piece of sculpture right before the eyes of hobby show visitors.

A business college student in Ottawa for the past 19 months, Fred has been turning out soapstone Arctic owls in his spare time for pocket money. But, for him, it wasn't exactly a time-honored tradition.

Fred can shatter an art connoisseur's preconceptions in a sentence.

"The western arctic Eskimo aren't known for their carving, mainly because they don't have the soapstone available west of the Coppermine River."

Most of the men in Fred's home of Sachs Harbor (pop. 120) earn their livelihood trapping, situated as they are on Banks Island, some 250 miles north of the Northwest Territories mainland.

So Fred was a novice when he picked the craft up on his own while working for Canadian Arctic Producers, an Ottawa-based marketing agency for Eskimo arts and crafts. By examining the specimens that came in from the eastern arctic carvers, he learned the simple expressive lines inherent in Eskimo art, and began to create his specialty-soapstone versions of the arctic owl.

"That's the way the Eskimo carvers are," notes Fred. "They select a particular subject and concentrate on it, perfecting designs as they go along."

"I had never seen Eskimo art before I came to Ottawa, except in books," he admits. But there must be something to innate artistic sense. The owl shaped by Fred for his Trenton audience this weekend would compare with any soapstone shop import.

Fred hopes to return to his native MacKenzie District in the future in an area administration capacity. And who knows? Perhaps he may some day hand down his "inherent" carving skills to other arctic children.

Picton Veterans Plan Program During June

PICTON (STAFF) — The week beginning June 11 has been designated as Veteran's Week in Canada for all veterans from all wars. Branch 78 of the Royal Canadian Legion has a full week's activities planned as part of their commemoration activities during this special year as Canada's Centennial year.

School Area Merger

The trend toward larger administrative areas in the educational system of Canada has been brought a stage further by the merging of the Stirling-Rawdon and Centre Hastings High School Districts with the Bay of Quinte High School District.

This process in education is viewed as a progressive one by most school administrators, and local authorities, and not by any means all. For example the original recommendation from the county public schools board consultative committee was for all of Centre and South Hastings to be amalgamated into one county school area. However, this has been opposed by the reeves of the three southern townships, Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga. They point out they are in the midst of a school building program and are happy the way they are. Frankford and Deseronto similarly are content with the present set-up.

Differences of opinion are inevitable in any change of such complexity. In theory the larger areas of administration — designed to cope more adequately with the growing school population and to provide more advanced educational facilities, tuition and specialist services — look good. On the other hand it is bound to be a difficult adjustment for young people accustomed to going to school in their home areas, as at Stirling-Rawdon, and perhaps even create tensions and rivalries between students from the various areas.

Two things stand out in weighing up the pros and cons of whether to centralize or maintain the status quo. An observation of High School Inspector R. A. Dunsmore of the Quinte area is eloquent of the new thinking. He affirms that larger areas could offer special courses for pupils, and more teaching aids and special subject teachers.

Possibly most important, said Mr. Dunsmore, was the fact that through supervisory staff "quality control" of education could be achieved.

The inspector may not have intended it as such, but there is a clinical ring to the latter observation, as if he were talking about a laboratory experiment. And there is a strong hint of the remoteness which may well invest the new administrative set-up by reason of its very "bigness." One wonders how big will such areas of school government become, as new schools are built and the school population increases.

And then think for a moment of Stirling-Rawdon whose students demonstrated recently against the school's closing. Next week the school won the District 23 junior mathematics competition (Grades 9-10-11) sponsored by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation and the University of Waterloo. The district includes the area north in the Quinte district and includes the area north to Cloyne and from Napanee to Brighton. It was the first time, moreover, that Stirling-Rawdon had entered the competition.

This is a good an example as any of the talent to be found among teachers and students in the smaller schools. And while it is clear in general principle, that there is no turning back from the move to larger areas of administration, those responsible for this trend are now placed on their mettle to provide the degree of excellence and the services they claim are foreshadowed.

Frank Howard Bares Past

Ottawa Journal

The reaction to the disclosure by Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) that he served a jail term for armed robbery when he was 18 years of age has offered reassuring evidence of fair - mindedness and maturity. Any possibility that he should be penalized politically now for a mistake made 25 years ago is apparently the contrary appears to be true. Mr. Howard's case has spurred the effort to pass legislation expunging a person's criminal record after a period of good behavior. Solicitor-General Pennell has said that he is "actively considering" giving priority to such legislation.

The danger here is that the over-whelming evidence of Mr. Howard's useful service after a youthful mistake might make Parliament less than prudent in considering all the implications of erasing all criminal records.

Most people would approve the principle of giving an official clean sheet to former offenders who have successfully rehabilitated themselves over many years. A respected man should not have to admit for the rest of his days that he possesses a criminal record.

But built - in safeguards to preserve relevant facts for law-enforcement authorities in case of need should be provided.

Problem for Tourists

Water Pollution Menace in Ontario

Brantford Expositor

Another chapter was added last week to the serial story of the water pollution menace in Ontario. No thanks to the government which is supposed to safeguard public health, we learned of infestation of Toronto harbor by a red worm that carries bacteria capable of causing blood poisoning in humans and animals, sometimes with fatal results.

For this warning we are indebted to a zoologist, Professor R. O. Brinkhurst of the Great Lakes Research Institute, the organization which three years ago revealed the existence in Lake Erie of a vast area of "dead" water caused by the effect of an increasing intake of sewage on plant life. It is now believable that the Ontario government was not promptly informed of both discoveries or that it was informed it kept quiet about them.

The nearest thing to an official statement on the condition of Lake Erie has been the claim of the Ontario Water Resources Commission chairman, replying to opponents of piped water from the lake, that the lake is safe to use and not in as bad a state as has been charged by the Research Institute experts who examined it.

This denial now needs to be read in conjunction with what the OWRC laboratories director J. H. Neil told the Great Lakes conference last week about the red worms which flourish in untreated dilute sewage dumped into Lake Ontario through Toronto's sewers.

Mr. Neil disclosed that an OWRC bacteriologist had found red worm bacteria in water samples "from various parts of the province" but had "not considered it dangerous." But Professor Brinkhurst cited from the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association, 13 cases of red worm bacteria poisoning in various parts of the world, eight of them fatal and the case of 125 swine of which 85 become ill and 60 died after drinking water containing this bacteria.

The fact that no cases of this infection have been reported in Ontario does not justify the assumption that there will be none. There seems, said Professor Brinkhurst, live in water near recreation areas, to another three months thousands of vacationing Ontarians and visitors will be using scores of lakes into which some sewage escapes.

Queen's Park's handling of both the water pollution and air pollution problems has for years been a story of little and late. The latest example is the Air Pollution Control Act, replacing the almost wholly ineffective 1958 Act which left responsibility for control to municipalities.

Now air pollution control is a provincial responsibility, but the Act contains so many means of escape that it is doubtful that on can be sure the government really means business in applying it.

Peking's Problems

Vancouver Sun

Soviet press and radio have been explaining the Chinese cultural revolution, and especially the anti-Soviet campaign accompanying it, as a trick by Mao Tsetung to distract his critics' attention from the economic crisis into which his mistaken policies have plunged the country.

Whether there's anything in this or not, a report made public by the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress makes the flat assertion that the Peking regime's economic policies have cost China a full decade of industrial growth. China, it adds, will be fortunate if it is able to regain the 1966 peak of industrial production by 1970.

Ignoring the polemics and looking instead at the committee's hard facts, it is noteworthy that China has fallen behind India in industrial output. Between 1960 and 1965, India's output rose 40 per cent while China's was falling almost 20 per cent.

China is getting poorer and will get hungrier while its population continues to rise and may reach a billion by 1985. It ought to be reasonable to think these troubles, plus the cultural upheaval, would keep Peking from foreign adventuring.

Christian Challenge

Windsor Star

The Christian perfection of Ta-T'ai, already speaking of as "a shocker," and apparently designed to shock, may or may not serve the intended purpose. But by its very existence it emphasizes the achievements — and the failings — of Christianity in Canada today.

An advance view of the pavilion showed it lacking any of the conventional trappings of religion. Instead, the visitor will be led through an environment increasingly depressing and horrifying, depicting man's experience in his environment, to a more pleasant climax showing the better possibilities for mankind.

Controversy will undoubtedly swirl around the pavilion, and it can be expected that many professed Christians will condemn it. It is undoubtedly a creation of the "new church," the new approach to theology, and as such it cannot expect to please all who call themselves Christians. Yet the pavilion, whether or not it pleases, whether or not it presents the Christian message, has a message of Christian endeavor by the fact that it is there.

Route Signs to Expo Confusing.

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

After a recent motor trip to Montreal, we were tempted to comment about the confusion that is bound to result when thousands of Americans and Canadians go there for the world's fair by car.

This will result from highway signs directing motorists to various points in metropolis. The metropolis. They are printed mainly in the French language.

The writer experienced much difficulty in reaching his destination — a western suburban community of greater Montreal — and naturally concluded the signs would prove a major stumbling block to motorists who are unable to read French.

The Montreal Star dealt with this topic in a recent editorial and among other things had this to say:

"One shortcoming is in the matter of signs directing motorists through the mazes of traffic interchanges and feeder approaches. There are complaints that there are not enough signs, that they are not large enough or placed conspicuously enough, to be read easily at a distance. Motorists having some familiarity at least with the area and its roads and bridges can get lost, how are motorists on their first venture into the Montreal region going to make out?

Elevator Safety

Hamilton Spectator

The death of a 10-year-old boy in a Toronto elevator shaft last December spurred Ontario's Department of Labour into enacting new safety measures for elevators in apartment dwellings. Parents will breathe a sigh of relief.

The principal change in the regulations governing, in addition of a metal apron to each elevator. This will reduce hazard by ensuring that if a car stops between floors there will be no chance against a fall down the elevator shaft.

As the apron will be at least 30 inches from the elevator car floor, it will be almost impossible for even a tiny youngster to suffer a fatal fall. However, to further ensure the safety of adventurous children, when a car is stopped above the landing at a distance greater than the depth of the apron, an alarm bell will ring if the elevator door is opened either by force or accidentally.

While parents will be assured by these regulations, they will nevertheless be puzzled by the department's failure to set a time-limit for making the needed changes.

Two Experts Say Stock Prices Would Rise If Carter Taxation Proposals Implemented

TORONTO (CP)— Two financial experts say that implementation of the proposals of the Carter commission on taxation would seem a rise in common stock prices

Prof. E. J. Spence of the York University school of business and Prof. Seymour Friedland of New York University's graduate school of business administration spoke Saturday at a tax seminar sponsored by the Toronto Society of Financial Analysts.

Prof. Spence said share prices would be significantly higher because of the substantial increase in after-tax returns to shareholders.

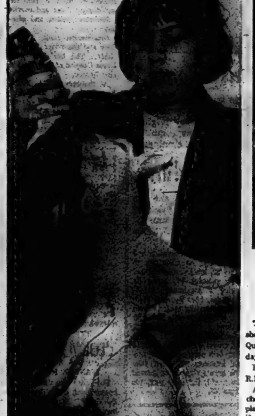
The after - tax yields would rise because of the integration of personnel and corporate taxes, the experts said. Other factors would be a potentially-massive flow of insurance company and pension fund money into common stock and a probable increase in the proportion of company earnings paid out in dividends.

Prof. Spence said high prices would make Canadian shares unattractive to non-residents because they would not be able to claim corporate taxes paid as a credit against personal taxes

Prof. Friedland said that under the Carter commission proposals, with dividends and capital gains taxed at the same rate, shareholders would press for increased pay-out of earnings. The result would be that corporation would abandon managerial investment opportunities and increase dividends.

A United States tax authority at the seminar warned financial analysts not to be optimistic about switching foreign investment in Canada from common shares to bonds.

"I would say categorically, don't count on it," said Dan Throop Smith, professor of finance at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.



Prof. Smith said that if equity investment by non-residents is reduced there is no assurance the gap will be filled by bond purchases.

"Those who buy stocks are not the same investors as the ones who buy bonds," he said. "Foreign shareholders would tend to disinvest, and there would not be a commensurate increase in other types of investment."

One aim of the Carter royal commission on taxation was to encourage greater Canadian control of the economy by inducing a switch of non-resident investment from equities to bonds.

Prof. Smith described the Carter report as an impressive tour de force and said it one report is implemented it will provide a "fascinating experiment for economists around the world."

He criticized some of the Carter proposals, including the recommended taxation of capital gains, gifts and inheritances at full and progressive personal tax rates.

Not all arrivals at the Brown farm come in dingies as Rod Clinton shows, holding twin off-spring up for mom's approval. This year's deliveries included several sets of twins and triplets.

Spring Lambs Begin to Dot Roadside

Things are beginning to look abeepishly cute around some Quinte district farms these days.

Like that of Clint Brown, at R.R. 4, Belleville, for instance.

Along with all his other spring chores, farmer Brown now is playing foster father at regular, if unpredictable, intervals to his 1967 delivery of spring lambs.

His farm, midway between Belleville and Shannonville on Highway 2, grazes a flock of 35 sheep.

Small by standards of the full-time sheep rancher, it's big enough to add extra demands to a busy farmer's routine at this time of year.

The size of the flock also is no definite pointer to the number of lambs arriving in a given season.

So far, 18 ewes have contributed 29 lambs to the woolly-headed stock in the Brown meadows.

These include seven sets of twins and two of triplets.

However, the new arrivals also add a touch of spirited playfulness to the farm scene, a lively reminder that brighter days are coming after the dull dreariness of winter.

The fact doesn't go unappreciated by Clint Brown.

"The time to see them is before sunset, when they start playing and chasing each other around the field," he says.

But sometimes there are less lively reminders of the grimmer side of nature.

Among the cuddlesome bouncy bundles is a lamb which was disowned by its ewe at birth. The other matrons in the flock also shun it — sometimes forcefully butting it away from their own offspring.

The reason? One of those inexplicable quirks of nature.

"This is something you don't know," says Clint. "This is just one that is something like an outcast."

However, the little outcast is thriving, despite the mutual boycott.

His welfare is looked after by Clint's son and daughter, Rod, aged nine, and Valerie, 16, who feed him like a foundling — with milk from a baby bottle.

However, human nature also may play a part in his fate — and others in his spring-born brood.

Spring lamb is still rated a seasonal delicacy and soon the stockyard selections will be made among sheep raisers.

Then holdbacks will help swell existing flocks, joining the older ewes, now also being readied for another annual ritual — sheep - shearing which is just around the barn corner.

The wool later is shipped for distribution by a Toronto co-operative. The raising, breeding, shearing cycle is one that has been turning on the Brown farm for many years, starting with the present farmer's father.

The success of the 335-acre farm however, doesn't turn on the sheep, but relies mainly on such daily contributions as the milk from a Holstein herd.

But the ewes are giving the wool off their backs for a good cause.

Feeding on rough acreage of little use to the other stock, income earned off the flock just about pay the property taxes on the holding, says farmer Brown.

Bottle for Baby!

Cast off by rest of the flock, this lamb needs human hands to feed it. Valerie Clinton helps fill food gap with milk bottle.

Watch Deer, Drivers Asked

Ontario Provincial Police have issued a warning for motorists to be on the watch for deer crossing roads and highways.

On Saturday night Rose Moore of Carleton struck one on county road 25 just east of that community. Mr. Moore was not injured but the deer was killed and the auto had $100 damage done to it.

OPP in that area say there is a great prevalance of deer and they are crossing the roads "willy-nilly."

Motorists north of Trenton and Belleville have seen numerous deer crossing the roads as well.

Head of World's Top Shoe Fashion Firms Now Only 24

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters) — Fiamma Ferragamo went to work for her shoemaker father when she was 17. Today she is the moving spirit behind one of the world's top shoe fashion firms at the ripe old age of 24.

Fiamma designs all Ferragamo shoes, some 400 to 700 different models each year, or an average of two models a day.

She is in charge of foreign sales, to buyers abroad and through Ferragamo's own shops in the United States and Western Europe, and recently returned after receiving the Neiman-Marcus fashion award in Dallas.

"Just now, I am working for spring 1968," she said. "Designing is largely a matter of timing, of the right moment. That is the most difficult thing.

"Often, I make a mistake, and have to throw it away. I am a long way from being what my father used to be. And I don't even know how to draw."

Her father came from a poor family at Bonito, near Avellino, in the Appennines east of Naples. He emigrated as a youth to the United States, where he made—and later lost—a fortune making shoes for Hollywood's first film stars.

Back in Italy, Salvatore Ferragamo settled in Florence where Fiamma was born. The eldest of his six children, she is slim and petite, with father's dark eyes, flashing smile and, evidently, at least some of his flair.

Work takes up too much time for Fiamma to think, as yet, of marriage, or to indulge in expensive tastes. Her car is a small one because, she explained, it is easier to find a place to park in a small car.

"Everyone thinks that I must have a wardrobe full of shoes," she said. "In fact, I suppose I have between 20 and 30 pairs."

Ferragamo is a family business. Mother acts as president of the company. Another daughter, a son and a cousin also are in the business.

The three youngest children are still at school.

To Fiamma, London's Carnaby Street with all that it implies is one of the biggest things to hit fashion in recent years, even though young Italians are slow in catching up with it.

"Carnaby Street has overturned fashion ideas and given a great new impulse," she said. She admitted she does not like the real mini-skirt, because "it does not add to beauty."

But it has enormous significance."

"All good travellers travel light," says Deanna Burns, "and you can be sure to pack a minimum if you keep these tips in mind".

Smart and comfortable coat-dress and jacket - dress outfits will take you through Expo and evening at Expo '67 or anywhere you travel. The coat or jacket tops color coordinated dresses and a slightly fitted skimmer can be dressed up or down as the occasion demands. The choice of pattern is a major consideration. By choosing one or two patterns and varying the combinations of color on color, print with plain, the possibilities are almost endless.

"You'll be pleasantly surprised at how quickly a second outfit can be sewn when a pattern is used more than once", Miss Burns points out. One coat/dress pattern is available in sizes 10 to 18. This semi-fitted sleeveless dress is flattering to nearly all figure types because it features a yoked division at the bustline. You might consider a bi-color combination for a sophisticated coat and dress in turquoise and navy-blue. With the most becoming color next to your face, the yoke line will draw attention away from possible trouble areas like waist and hips, and focus on your new Spring make-up.

Details such as top-stitched seams and edgings and loop button-holes add a designer touch. A more tailored look can be achieved by making the coat without a collar and shortening it to a chic seven-eighths length.

This costume is also economical to sew. Fabric of crease-resistant synthetic linen will total about $25. for the outfit.

For specific information and special tips on travelling to Expo '67, local sewing centres have colorful brochures on sewing a fashionable travel wardrobe. Miss Burns advises that any sewing centre expert will be glad to help you with pattern and fabric selection, color ideas and sewing advice.

A travel wardrobe geared to your own personality and special interests will then take you across Canada or around the world, the easy way, via Expo '67.

Use and Abuse of Drugs Topic at Club Meeting

Thursday evening at the Corby Library Auditorium, Belleville, Mrs. Margaret Pope, well known panelist on the CBC Matinee Quiss gave a helpful talk on the use and abuse of drugs. After reminding her audience that food and drug legislation goes back to the Middle Ages, she outlined the means by which the Dominion government is protect consumers.

Properly used, drugs save lives, but misused they can bring tragedy. For this reason through the Department of Health and Welfare, kits, pattern, and booklets are available for schools and local organizations. There is need for an education program on drugs, but people know all about the dangers is not enough. Unfortunately, it is not possible to give protection against carelessness or the wilful disregard of warnings.

Of the accidental poisonings most are due to headache tablets, and most victims are preschoolers under the care of adults. Such tablets must be kept where children cannot get them.

Some drugs have bad side effects; combinations of others produce an undesirable reaction. Excessive use of any drug over a long period is likely to bring trouble.

The use of drugs for kicks, not medical purposes, gives a hard problem. To stop the misuse of LSD, useful for alcoholism and schizophrenia, a federal bill will be passed making illegal the possession of LSD.

Drugs and alcohol can be harmful, for alcohol intensifies the effects of some drugs. Drugs and driving may also be risky, as certain drugs limit alertness and muscle co - ordination or produce drowsiness.

The speaker warned: Beware of the "secret medical discovery suppressed by the medical profession". The secret is that it is worthless or dangerous. Do not waste your money. Quacks sell cures for baldness, psoriasis and other skin disorders, rheumatism, arthritis, and even cancer. Millions are made on the sale of appetite depressants, and unnecessary vitamin and mineral supplements. Do not save old drugs, since they lose their strength or undergo harmful changes. Flush them down the toilet so that children cannot get them."

Miss Enrica Ordel, a graduate pharmacist, introduced Mrs. Pope, and Mrs. F. W. Killam, a nursing graduate, expressed the clubs thanks for a long awakened to some of the hazards in home medicine cabinets.

A series of resolutions that will come before the triennial gathering of the Canadian Federation of University Women at Vancouver this summer was discussed. Mrs. F. H. McColl ably presented the series.

Mrs. R. L. Graham reported on the Centennial Committee, and Mrs. D. C. Harvie reminded all to offer free help to local candidates in the provincial election campaign.

Discrimination Against Service Women Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Women in the armed forces are not supplied with contraceptives and don't get a sufficient allowance to buy underwear, H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West) told the Commons.

He said these and other matters add up to "gross discrimination" against women in the service. He asked Defence Minister Hellyer to look into the problems.

Male personnel, said Mr. Herridge, have access to "devices to prevent disease in the population explosion."

Nothing was done for women of the forces. He said he did not want to suggest this as policy, but he would suggest as a matter of principle that Mr. Hellyer should inquire about policies of the defence forces of Britain, the United States and European countries.

The 72-year-old First World War veteran said women entering the service get a $15 grant for purchase of "unmentionables."

A further $1 a month is provided for maintenance of these unmentionables.

Mr. Herridge said this allowance does not compare favorably with sliding allowances for male personnel and something should be done about it.

As two other examples of discrimination, he mentioned that service women are denied membership in Canada's combat units, and that no women may qualify for service - subsidized medical training as doctors.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Jack Bikley of Belleville, wore a similarly styled pink dress and carried a basket of yellow and white mums.

Groomsman was Merrit Carr and the usher was Jack Bikley. The bride's nephew, Kevin Cassibo of Trenton, was ring bearer.

At the reception in Frankford Legion Hall the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a fibre - glass turquoise wool suit with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and lily of the valley. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted, wore a royal blue jersey dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and lily of the valley.

For her wedding trip to Kingston and eastern points, the bride chose a pink fibre - glass flowered linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

On their return the couple will live in Batawa.

Bake Cauliflower Au Gratin For A Pretty Banquet Dish

By MARY MOORE

In two different cities in the space of a week, two different chefs served cauliflower au gratin as the featured vegetable at banquet - type meals.

So I served cauliflower au gratin on Sunday evening for dinner. It was so pretty and popular I wanted our readers to make and serve it to their families and guests.

CAULIFLOWER AU GRATIN (SERVES 6)

One 7" diameter cauliflower
1¼ tbsps. butter (first amount)
3 tbsps. butter (2nd amount)
3 tbsps. flour
¼ tsp. M.S.G. (Accent)
½ tsp. salt
Shake of pepper (preferably white)
1¾ cups milk
1-3 cup grated Cheddar cheese (preferably from shaker — but if not use dry finely grated old Cheddar)

Break or cut cauliflower into medium-sized flowerets. Cook in boiling salted (½ tsp.) water to cover, with lid on for about 12 min., or until nearly tender. Drain thoroughly, reserving liquid. In bottom of shallow baking dish melt the 1¼ tbsps. butter, then cooked cauliflower into it, then turn each flower over to coat with butter, arranging in fairly flower side up.

Melt the 3 tbsps. butter, blend in flour, MSG salt and pepper, then stir in milk until thick. Pour this hot sauce evenly over the cauliflower in baking dish. Sprinkle evenly with cheese. (NOTE: All above may be done in advance and baking dish covered and refrigerated until way serving time.) If cold from refrigerator bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 min. or until heated through and golden. If baked as soon as made and the whole dish is still quite warm, bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 30 min.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Soft Ham Omelette; French Fried Potatoes; Green Peas; Tossed Salad; Chocolate Meringue Pie; Tea.

NOTE: This "au gratin" treatment may be used for same quantities of either Brussels sprouts or broccoli. Remember that these vegetables should be bright green when you stop the cooking and drain them.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

The eighth and final meeting of the Quinte Cotton Belles 4-H Club was held Tuesday at the home of Peggy Thomson. The discussion included preparations for achievement day and Miss M. Oliver, home economist for Hastings County, told of the points to look for while judging a class of dresses. She also discussed the project for fall, a world dresses was judged by the girls and Miss Oliver discussed with the members the good and bad points of each dress.

For home assignments each girl is to complete her dress and record book.

Ann Landers

Seems Many Men Wear Women's Clothes

ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: I'm shook. Recently I printed a letter from a Dallas golfer who wrote to say he wore his wife's girdle because it relieved his aching back and improved his posture. He added nonchalantly that he also wore his wife's nylon hose because he needed to hook the garters to something to keep his girdle down.

Shortly after that letter appeared I heard from another man whose luggage had been lost and he had no underwear. His wife gave him a pair of her bloomers. "Just for the night." He liked them so well he never did go back to wearing shorts. That was in 1945 and he has been wearing ladies' bloomers ever since.

This past week I have received an avalanche of letters from virtually every state in the union. The mail attests to the fact that a startling number of men (most of them married and with families) thoroughly enjoy dressing up in women's clothes. I assure you these people are not putting me on. They are strictly for real. Here are some samples:

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do you point an accusing finger at any man who happens to prefer some article of women's clothing?

Some men enjoy a soft, smooth fabric next to their skin. Somewhere along the line men are stuck with cotton underwear. I can assure you if men's silk shorts were not so expensive they would outsell cotton shorts by the carload.

Shortly after I married, my wife was making a dress for herself. We are both the same height. She asked me to put on her dress so she could pin the hem properly. I liked the feel of the silk dress and asked her if she would make one for me to lounge in. Now I have several lounging dresses and they are much more comfortable than slacks and a T-shirt. I'm not a fairy and I resent the inference that any man who wears women's clothes is a little funny. — DIVERSILE, IOWA.

* * *

DEAR DY: My haberdashery expert tells me cotton shirts are plenty soft enough for anybody and that most men prefer cotton shorts to the sleazier fabrics. I would not try to change the mind of a guy who sits around in his wife's dresses however, so enjoy yourself, Bub.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Many men enjoy dressing up in women's clothing. I, for one, can tell you it's a real kick in the head. Here's how I discovered how much fun it could be.

Several years ago my wife and I went to a "Switch Sex Ball" at our Country Club. My wife wore our oldest son's suit. I wore one of her made-over evening dresses, her wig and white fox stole. My wife did my makeup (false eyelashes and the works) and she even painted my fingernails. I won first prize as the "Foster Female."

I enjoyed the outfit so much I decided to wear it again several nights later when the two of us took a weekend vacation. We posed as two women friends and no one batted an eye.

Now I have several "Foster" outfits and whenever we are short of town we have a few evenings as "women."

This may seem strange, but I assure you I am perfectly normal. These little masquerade parties are simply our way of having fun. — ALL MAN.

DEAR MAN: Yup. You're all normal — all you guys who like to dress up in women's clothing. And if anyone says otherwise, just hit 'em with your purse, Dearie.

Domineering Mother Slowly Wrecking Son's Marriage and Children

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: What would you do about a mother-in-law who is trying to dominate you? Mine is continually telling me how to raise my children. Sure, she has been good to us: she took us in when we had to get married, when even my own parents would not, and I appreciate that.

We have a piece of our own now, but even yet, whenever she comes over, she does just what she likes with the kids, no matter what I say. I even hate to see her pick them up. She feels her own kids get away with murder.

What can I do? I don't want to lose my husband, and I don't want to hurt my father-in-law. (She nags him so he goes out once in a while and gets so darn tight it hurts.) But she is slowly wrecking our marriage. — Up In Arms

Dear Arms: The damage was done in those first few months; when she ruled the roost and you, along with everybody else, in her home. How she still has the idea she is the Only Living Authority on child raising.

You are over-reacting by not wanting her to even pick up the children. She should have some chance to cuddle them; but should certainly be ready to fall in with your routines and let them go off to bed when you say so.

This is no unfamiliar clash. Next time you write in give me a name and address to reply to: and I'll direct you to a counsellor who will help you work out a constructive approach. Human relationships call for skilled handling.

Dear Doris: I would like to get your reducing diet at try. I am 69 years old, five feet six. I lose ten pounds and then it won't budge either way and I stay stuck at 170 pounds. I live alone and walk the quarter mile downtown each day for the exercise, although I have arthritis in hips and cannot do too much. — Still Going Strong.

Dear Still: The thing is, you are losing energy when you do less; so the excess fuel you have taken on gets stored up in fat.

For your age and height, you are easily 30 pounds overweight. Use the diet I'm sending; and try eating smaller meals than usual. If you can shriek that tummy a little — which can happen even in a few days of undereating — the dieting will go like a breeze.

Dear Doris: I am an unwed mother, and I kept my son.

Now I am engaged to be married. I want a formal wedding, and I am saving towards the cost now. I plan to be married in May; as pale a blue as possible, and will have my bridal attendants.

Are there any special etiquette rules to be followed under these circumstances, as I want to keep the wedding and reception in good taste? — Engaged

Dear Engaged: The good taste consists in not making too big a splash about the whole thing. You are already avoiding the traditional virginwhite. Keep most of the number 100; attendants down to one or two.

Confidential to Mrs. J.R.: It is beyond all sense for you to put up with such physical abuse and alcoholism. There is no percentage in staying on in the same house with a person you hate and fear.

The police will protect you; the family court will help you to sue for support. Look for a job where board and lodging are provided, until you can get on your feet.

Once you have made your move, stick with it. The authorities who are there to help you will depend on you not to break down.

Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write in her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Sally: "Your grandma is dead."

Janie: "No, she went to sleep and then went to heaven. She'll come back soon. Mommy doesn't like to talk about it."

Sally: "My Daddy says she's dead — like that bird last summer."

Even a 6-year-old understands about life and death — and knows when there is sorrow in the family.

Explain the death of a loved one to your school-age child. You can do it more gently than will another child. It will comfort her if she shares your grief and knows the loss is not hers alone.

Republicanism Hot Issue

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Canada has a 50-50 chance of becoming a republic by the year 2,000, John White, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Huron South, told members of London's International House Sunday night.

But republicanism will be a hot issue if it does come up, he said.

In 10 years, post secondary education will be "virtually free"; in 15 years there will be a guaranteed minimum income and by 2,000 the closed political party caucus will become a political forum.

Roving Jesuit General Makes Canadian Visit

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Very Rev. Pedro Arrupe, a priest cautiously on the move since his election as Jesuit General in 1965, arrives in Canada this week for his first visit as head of the Roman Catholic Church's largest and most influential order.

The 59-year-old Father Arrupe has undertaken the unprecedented task of visiting the institutions of the 36,000 - strong Jesuit order around the world.

The Jesuit General is a Spaniard, born in the same Basque region of northern Spain as St. Ignatius of Loyola, the order's founder, and St. Francis Xavier, his immediate successor.

But he hasn't lived in his native country since 1931, when the Jesuits were temporarily suppressed there by a new republican regime.

Father Arrupe has spent 27 years of his life in Japan and some people objected to his election as head of the Jesuits on the ground that he was no longer fitted for leadership in the cultural climate of Europe.

But he won on the third ballot in secret voting among 218 delegates summoned to Rome for a general congregation of the order.

Sent to Japan by the order in 1938 after completing his studies in Belgium, Holland and the United States, he mastered the Japanese language so well that he was able to write eight books in it and do numerous translations.

In addition to Spanish and Japanese, he speaks French, English and German.

Father Arrupe begins his Canadian visit in Regina, where he will arrive by plane Friday after a five-day tour of Jesuit missions in Alaska. The visit will include several days in Montreal, where he will attend the annual meeting of North American Jesuit provincials May 7, see Expo 67 and attend a dinner in honor of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger and Sargent Shriver, director of the U.S. Peace Corps May 10.

Lesage Warns Liberals

MONTREAL (CP)— Jean Lesage gave clear notice Sunday night to reform elements within the Quebec Liberal party that if they cannot accept party principles "there is no place for them" in the party.

The Liberal leader made the statement before 2,000 party supporters attending a $50-a-plate fund-raising dinner in a downtown hotel. In his speech he pledged the provincial Liberals squarely "between the reactionary right and the extremists of the left."

"The Quebec Liberal party . . . will be neither separatist, nor extreme right, nor extreme left," he said.

"It will remain what it set out to be, that is, a party of the centre, left."

Mr. Lesage's remarks were seen as a set of explicit guidelines for reelious militants within the party, who are reported to favor various reforms.

"It is by concrete action and the dynamism of our progress, rather than by the elaboration of learned doctrine, that we can best serve the interests of Quebec."

On the national level, the party believed that a particular status for—Quebec "should prevail within a Canadian confederation responding to the exigencies of a modern Canada," and that Quebec should "evolve within a united Canada."

On the individual level, the Liberal party stood for the essential freedoms of language, culture and religion.

Mr. Lesage said that within the "corridor" he had mentioned, "we have all the democratic structures to permit all members of the party to make themselves heard and to put forward their points of view."

BRAINTREE, England (CP) — Robert Chinn, 26, claimed a world record after downing a quart of beer in 7.35 seconds before 150 witnesses at the 600-year-old Cock Inn. The Guinness Book of Records gives the old record as 8.3 seconds set by an Oxford University student in 1963.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

MADOC — Back in this historic hockey-mad centre of mid-Hastings, Glen Hicks, sportsman and coach asked a beady-le-eyed to "push over", rolled off Closed Nine and told an inquiring reporter, "This the the greatest thing that ever happened to us, the village and all East Hastings."

There was a trace of celebrative fog in his eyes and voice — but who could blame him or the hockey-minded populace of the district.

For on Saturday night he piloted his Tweed-Madoc Twins to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "D" all-Ontario championship.

The Twins defeated a gallant runner-up team from Mitchell, Ont., by a 6-4 score while a roaring cheering crowd of 1187 fans, largest in the history of the Madoc Arena figuratively tore off the roof in the wild excitement of victory.

Ever since the days of the old gold rush, Madoc has been a hotbed of hockey. It has bred and raised many outstanding players and teams, some of which were "bricklaids," in sports vernacular, but the Twins are the first to say "I do" when asked to accept an all-Ontario championship.

Orphaned, league-wise at the beginning of the season, they had to play in a Junior "C" circuit compiling a fine record while awaiting the Junior "D" playdowns.

On their march to the title they eliminated Newcastle and Bobcaygeon before entering the championship series with the Mitchell squad.

They proved they were of championship calibre by taking the finals series 4-1. They won the first two games at home in the best-of-seven series, split a pair of victories in Mitchell and won the titular gunlaiss at home on Saturday night.

They were presented with the OHA Trophy, emblematic of the championship, by OHA vice president Jack Devine following the victory.

"I am very very proud of the team as are the people of all of East Hastings for the boys are truly representative of the area as well as Campbellford," Hicks said.

Glen played hockey in his younger days and has been coaching teams for the past ten years. He with Arnold Ross, the manager, organized the Twins a year ago but failed to make the championship series.

"They are a grand group of youngsters who play the sport for the love of the game and were determined to win the championship this year," Glen said. "We thought they had the potential. They worked hard and finally reaped the reward they deserved."

What is meant by representative of East Hastings, the team's name implies it is composed of players from Madoc and Tweed, he was asked.

"That is what makes it more than an ordinary championship," he said. "The players come from Madoc, Tweed Campbellford, Stirling, Marmora, Actinolite and Clayton. Not only that but the good people of these centres were solidly behind the club in more ways than one."

And from what this reporter has learned, the good people of the communities will be behind them for some time yet.

I understand the village fathers will give them a celebrational banquet where the youngsters will be presented with jackets. And other centres, it is reported, will tender them the festive board.

They had problems prior to going into the OHA playdowns series. It seems their timing apparatus was not according to OHA requirements, nor were the goalposts.

"Don't worry," said Stirling. "We'll loan you our official time-clock." They did.

"Don't worry," said Bancroft. "You can have our regulation Art Ross goal nets." They were installed the next day.

Climaxing the fruits of championship efforts will be Centennial ten-dollar gold pieces. Every player on the club will receive one, courtesy Clarke Rollins, MPP, Hastings East.

The Twins championship topped the best hockey season Eastern Ontario has enjoyed since the beginning. Oshawa won two minor titles, Belleville and Napanee also winning championship bids.

Breaks 11 Win Streak

Bower Hangs 3-0 Collar On Habs!

MONTREAL (CP) — George (Punch) Imlach is noted throughout the National Hockey League for his sometimes 'way out predictions and hunches.

However today he boasts a perfect batting average in both departments after his Toronto Maple Leafs took full measure of Montreal Canadiens Saturday afternoon and shut out the defending Stanley Cup champions 3-0.

The win evened the Stanley Cup final round at one game apiece.

The third game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Toronto at 8 p.m. EST Tuesday, and will be seen in its entirety on the national network of the CBC.

Before game time Saturday Imlach, general manager and coach of the Toronto club, had predicted that the odds were running out on Canadiens' perpetuating their 16-game unbeaten skein and their record of 11 consecutive wins.

The Montrealers had not been beaten since March 8 when Toronto handed them a 6-4 loss on Leafs' ice.

The Canadiens won their last six regular season contests, beat New York Rangers in four straight games in the semi-final round and trounced the Leafs 6-2 in the opening game of the final round last Thursday.

"I said it before the first game and I'm saying it again now, there was no way Montreal could take us four straight," Imlach said.

"I decided before the warmup to start Bower. We thought we'd replace him if he wasn't going good, but we didn't have to, did we?"

Johnny Bower counted the first shutout of this year's Stanley Cup playoffs with a superb individual effort, coupled with a tremendous checking display of his team-mates that stored the speedy Montrealers down to the pace Toronto wanted throughout the contest.

It was Bower's fifth playoff shutout in 10 NHL post - season appearances.

The Leafs' power play, which faltered badly during their semi-final series against Chicago Black Hawks, scored two of the three goals.

Centre Pete Stemkowski poked Bob Pulford's goalmouth pass behind rookie Rogatien Vachon in the Canadiens' net at 12:14 of the first period. It was Stemkowski's fourth goal of the playoffs and came with Montreal defenceman Terry Harper in the penalty box.

Pulford took the puck away from Montreal defenceman J. C. Tremblay and hit Stemkowski with a perfect pass at the lip of the crease.

Mike Walton gave the Leafs a 2-0 edge at 8:12 of the middle period, just six seconds before Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer was due back on the ice after picking up a slashing penalty.

Defenceman Tim Horton rounded out the scoring at 16:37 of the second period when he blasted a hard shot behind Vachon from just inside the Montreal blueline.

On the Walton and Horton goals Vachon appeared to be partially screened and had no chance to block the shots.

Montreal coach Toe Blake had a few caustic comments to make, but none were directed at the 21-year-old Vachon, playing in his first NHL playoffs after coming up from Houston of the Central Professional League in mid-February.

Blake said he had no alibis and his team didn't deserve to win.

"We were outhustled all the way and they beat us to the puck all through the game.

"We took some silly penalties and this after they were told before the game not to take them. Vachon wasn't to blame and I don't figure to make any changes in goal. There were others out there today who didn't play well for us."

Bower, who had been accustomed in the first two periods, was almost lost to the Leafs on the side of the head and bridge of his nose as the Canadiens' left winger skated through the crease locked in combat with Stemkowski.

However, Bower was back at the old stand two minutes later to make fine stops on Harper, Bobby Rousseau and Claude Larose.

Stemkowski narrowly missed setting a record for the fastest goal in playoff history when his shot at the eight - second mark of the game bounced off the Montreal goal post.

Referee Vern Buffey called 14 minors throughout, eight to the winners.

A crowd of 14,789 was on hand for the game.

Departmental League Off To Good Start

Four of last year's clubs and two new ones turned out for the year's initial meeting of the Belleville Departmental Softball League last night, indicating a better-than-ever season.

Representatives at the meeting were the pennant-winning City Hall club, the playoff champion Hydro team, Fire Department and Public Works, all back from last season, plus the City Police Department and Electric Motors Sales.

Public Utilities, from last season, was not represented but the club will be contacted prior to the next meeting regarding an entry.

The 1966 executive was returned as a body. It consists of president Al Rump, secretary Bill Cooney and treasurers Sam Finkle and Paul Stephenson. Each team will later name a delegate for the executive body.

The entry fee was again established at $25 per team and the clubs spoke in favor of lengthening last year's 12-game schedule.

The Belleville and District Umpires' Association put a bid in to officiate in the league, through new president Gerald "Shud" Eidler and Al Kelleher. The league will also use the new Centennial Umpires' Association before selecting its officials.

Another meeting will be held on Monday, May 1, at the Public Works Building, at 7.00 p.m.

Mets, Cubs Jolt Favored Pirates

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh Pirates discovered that Chicago left them cold and are happily leaving town a little ahead of schedule, no doubt relieved that neither the Cubs nor the Mets appear on their schedule for a while.

In their first nine games, the Pirates, everybody's pre-season favorites to win the National League pennant, have faced only New York and Chicago, the tailenders last season.

But the Mets and Cubs have combined to win five games and lose only three to Pittsburgh, Sunday's 7-3 Chicago victory being the latest in the series.

The Pirates were supposed to play like Cubs again today, but the Cub management came up with possibly the earliest postponement in baseball history, calling the game in the seventh inning Sunday because of snow forecast for today.

Rookie Norm Gigon's homer accounted for three Chicago runs. The Cubs scored four unearned runs in the fourth inning, with Adolfo Phillips slinging home two of them.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia won a pair from New York 6-1 and 5-1, Cincinnati took Houston 5-3, Los Angeles bombed St. Louis 9-3 and a doubleheader between Atlanta and San Francisco was rained out.

Saturday's games saw San Francisco nip Atlanta 6-5, Philadelphia edge New York 4-3, St. Louis down Los Angeles 3-1 and Cincinnati take a 7-2 decision from Houston. Pittsburgh's game against the Cubs in Chicago was postponed because of cold weather.

Dona Clendenon and Roberto Clemente hit homers for the Pirates, but Cub starter Ferguson Jenkins, a native of Chatham, Ont., settled down to his second victory, striking out 10.

Rich Allen hit a pair of home runs, one in each of the Phillies' victories, and Dick Ellsworth gave just seven hits to the Mets in his first appearance of the season in the nightcap. Phil Linz's two-run homer in the eighth inning of the first game put the Phils ahead for good.

Milt Pappas held off the Astros, though he needed late-inning help from Ted Abernathy. The Reds got five straight hits in the first before a man was out, Doron Johnson's single driving in two runs. Ron Davis hit a three-run homer for Houston.

Ron Fairly drove in five runs for the Dodgers with a double and the sixth's first homer of the season. Claude Osteen kept the Cards in tow on 12 hits, picking up his second victory of three outings. Lou Brock continued his pace with three hits for the Cardinals.

UK Soccer

Manchester U. Eyes Title!

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United moved a step closer Saturday to its seventh soccer title in the English League's First Division and its fifth since the end of the Second World War.

Manchester United, glittering with such stars as Denis Law, Bobby Charlton and George Best, forced a scoreless tie at Sunderland while Nottingham Forest, its nearest rival, tied 1-1 at Arsenal.

With only three games remaining, Manchester United has 55 points, three more than Nottingham.

If Manchester wins the league title, it will join Arsenal and Liverpool as league winners with seven victories each.

Manchester United now is favorite to go into next season's European Cup of Champions.

West Bromwich Albion scored one of the most surprising victories, upsetting the reigning league champion, Liverpool. It was Liverpool's first home league defeat of the season and extinguished any hope of its retaining the title.

Albion's victory eased its fears of being relegated to the Second Division.

But both Southampton and Aston Villa lost at home, increasing the chances of one of them dropping to the Second Division with Blackpool.

Tottenham Hotspur scored a 3-0 victory over Southampton, which now has 30 points with three games to play.

The Spurs, who play Nottingham in the English Football Association Cup semi-finals next week, now are third, only three points behind Nottingham and with a game in hand.

Aston Villa lost 1-0 to Burnley. It now has 29 points with three games to play. Newcastle, which had a scoreless tie with Sheffield Wednesday, has 28 points, with four games to play.

In the Scottish League, Rangers cut Celtics' First Division leadership of 55 points to two. But Celtic is favored to retain the title.

Orioles Split

Yankees Rally; Whip Bosox

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Success will never spoil Boston Red Sox. Not with Elston Howard and Al Downing around.

The New York batterymen sparkled in relief roles Sunday —Howard with a decisive pinch-hit doubled and Downing with a near-perfect pitching performance — as the Yankees came from behind to stun the Red Sox 7-5.

Downing came out of the bullpen with New York trailing 5-1 in the fourth and allowed just one hit the rest of the way for his second victory in two relief appearances—both against Boston.

In other American League action, California Angels moved into first place by sweeping a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians, 9-6 in 12 innings and 2-1; Baltimore Orioles split a twin bill with Kansas City Athletics, winning the opener 5-2 before bowing 8-7; Minnesota Twins topped Detroit Tigers 4-2 and Washington Senators whipped Chicago White Sox 5-1.

On Saturday, Boston edged New York 3-2, California drubbed Cleveland 11-4, Baltimore swamped Kansas City 12-2, Chicago blanked Washington 1-0 and Minnesota nipped Detroit 4-3.

Boston's four-run lead over the Yankees began to disappear in the fifth when right-hander Darrell Brandon walked Tom Tresh and Mickey Mantle, gave up a bases - filling single to Joe Pepitone and wild-pitched a run home.

Steve Whitaker's sacrifice fly delivered another run and Jake Gibbs' single sent the third run home before Howard looped a double in to right centre.

Americans Capture Semi-Final

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rochester Americans scored six goals in the second period Sunday night and went on to defeat Baltimore Clippers 7-3 and win the best - of - five American Hockey League semi-finals 3-1. Eddie Joyal led the Americans with three goals.

Baltimore had taken a three-goal advantage in the first period on goals by Rod Seiling, Billy Hicks and Billy Hicke. But the Americans stormed back in the middle stanza with one of their biggest offensive displays of the season.

The Angels completed their sweep at Cleveland with an unearned run in the ninth inning of the nightcap, which runner Marcellino Lopez scoring on third baseman Max Alvis' wild throw to the plate.

Successive homers by the Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, paced the Orioles to their first - game victory over Kansas City. Steve Barber was the winner, with relief help from Moe Drabowsky and Stu Miller.

Randy Matson Breaks Own World Record

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Randy Matson had been expecting to hit 71 feet in the shot put for three weeks. He was in just the condition and size he figured necessary to become the first man ever to reach that mark.

While his Texas A and M fellow students roared from the stands at historical Kyle Field Saturday, Matson threw the shot 71 feet 3¼ inches, breaking his world's record by 19¼ inches.

He did it on Randy Matson Day — the occasion when his school honored him on his last appearance in track and field at home.

Pittsburgh Shades Toronto

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Co Prins dribbled through the Toronto defence and boomed in his second goal of the game at 39:40 of the second half Saturday night as Pittsburgh Phantoms a 4-3 victory in their National - Professional Soccer League home opener.

Pittsburgh led at the half 3-2. Pittsburgh had only 10 men on the field when Prins took a pass from Mhamed Rummel, worked into the clear down the right side and sent the ball into the left corner of the net past Toronto goalie Nigel Sims.

Bernardo Vargas staked the Falcons to a 1-0 lead at 18:14 of the first half, but Prins scored the first goal at 32:10 and Rummel headed home a goal at 38:15.

Eagles Nip Aces In Overtime

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP)—Gordie Haworth's goal at 6:32 of the second overtime period snapped a 3-3 tie and gave Drummondville Eagles a 4-3 victory over Kingston Aces Sunday night.

The victory gave the Eagles a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup final series.

The teams were deadlocked 3-3 at the end of regulation time and battled through a scoreless 10-minute overtime period before going into the second overtime period, a 20-minute sudden death period.

Fourth game of the series will be played here tonight.

The Eagles led 3-1 going into the third period but the Aces struck for two goals in a little more than two minutes early in the third period to tie the game, setting the stage for Haworth's overtime winner.

Michel Lapaine, Rejean Richer and Ron Racette scored the other Drummondville goals. Ron Earl, Jim Sproit and Jack Price scored for the Aces.

Earl gave the Aces a 1-0 lead at the 61-second mark.

Napalm tied the score at 14:40 of the first period and the Eagles went ahead for the first time in the game when Richer connected at 18:47.

Racette made it 3-1 for the Eagles when he scored at 8:20 of the wild second period.

Sproit narrowed the margin to 3-2 with his goal at 5:11 of the third period and Price tied the game up at 7:34, sending the game into overtime, where Haworth scored.

The Eagles had 43 shots at Kingston goalie Steve Rene. He made several brilliant saves to keep his club in the game. Claude Cyr made 35 saves in nets for the Eagles.

Strikes Umpire

Trouble Looms For Mr. Dark

BALTIMORE (AP) — The umpiring crew worked shorthanded at Sunday's Baltimore-Kansas City doubleheader, but there was no shortage of disputes.

The most violent argument involved Kansas City manager Alvin Dark, and it could result in a fine for the Athletics' skipper.

Umpire Al Salerno, one of three remaining umpires in the absence of the injured Ed Runge, accused Dark of striking him during an argument, following the first game.

"There was a little contact," Salerno said. "Dark hit me on the right arm with his fist. He also said the usual things—stuff you can't print. I'll write a report and send it to league headquarters."

Dark came out of the dugout throwing things after Salerno called Mike Hershberger out at first base on a game - ending double play, with Baltimore winning 5-2.

Seattle Western Champions

SEATTLE, Wash. (CP)—Bill MacFarland freshman coach of Seattle Totems who had considered quitting early in the season, had all the more reason to enjoy the champagne Sunday night after his team downed Vancouver Canucks 3-1 to win the Western Hockey League championship.

The Totems won the best-of-seven series, for the Lester Patrick Trophy in four straight —the first time any team took the title undefeated since Seattle in its only previous title in 1959.

Seattle won 4-3 Saturday after winning the first two games 3-2 and 4-3.

Horticulturists Share Garden Knowledge

NAPANEE — The Napanee Horticultural Society called on its own members to share their garden knowledge Wednesday evening, and the result was a satisfactory meeting. Each of the speakers talked about something in which he specialized.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bullard, grow tuberous begonias and roses which are the admiration of the town. They concentrated on tuberous begonias at Wednesday's meeting, collaborating both in the remarks and in their demonstrations. They pointed out that a large tuber could be successfully divided, making two plants instead of one. Also, they stressed the addition of peat moss to the beds each year, as tuberous begonias like the acidity.

W. W. Orsewick has a garden which has bloom continuously from the first spring bulbs to the last chrysanthemum, and told the meeting that much of his success lies in the use of blood meals which fill in the gap between the bulbs and the annuals. He removes them as soon as they have finished blooming and replaces them with annuals, some of which are almost ready to bloom.

Mrs. N. F. Burke specializes in growing African violets, mostly under fluorescent lights and described her methods in general. She stressed the necessity of sanitary practices, especially in the soil mixture.

She had a number of plants to illustrate the various types, drawing attention to the fact that today's plants are more compact than the old varieties, and that the bloom is mostly at the centre of the plant.

Donald Scott brought the informative evening to a close by showing pictures he had taken at the flower show at the O'Keefe Centre in Toronto.

Set Fire To Town Eyesore

NAPANEE — A Napanee citizen set fire to his own house last week, but instead of being arrested for arson, he was lauded for his good deed.

Alfred King, a member of the Napanee fire department, purchased the property on Mill St. north of his Water St. home, in order to get rid of an eyesore. The small house had been allowed to go to ruin, with rubbish collected in the back yard in plain view of the King home. He arranged with Fire Chief "Pat" Patton to burn it up when conditions were right. Last Monday night had seen a heavy rain, and the wind was in the right direction the following evening.

Chief Patton was on hand with the task truck and portable pumper, to supervise and assist. The rubbish, including two chesterfields, was put into the building and everything was closed up and the windows boarded. It was quite a bonfire.

Many calls came in to the fire station, showing that people are alert. However, the men at the station were aware of what was happening.

The fire chief states that every precaution was taken and that there was no danger. It was just the best and quickest way to dispose of something which was not only useless, but was also a detriment to the neighborhood.

By Saturday everything had been cleared away.

Napanee's housing bylaw will be presented to the council soon, probably at its next meeting.

Napanee Army League Holds Centennial Tea

NAPANEE — Friday's weather was unkind to the members of the Home League of the Napanee corps of the Salvation Army, as it cut down on attendance at their Centennial Tea. But those who attended had the usual enjoyable time for which this organization is noted at its events.

Mrs. Captain Frank Phelps welcomed the guests, wearing an old-time costume, and Mrs. Jennie Hagerman received the donations and invited the guests to sign the guest book.

The room was appropriately decorated, and each small table was covered by a tiny silk Centennial flag. Centennial serviettes carried out the theme. The five ladies serving the guests were in period dress: Mrs. Norman Dupont, Mrs. Walter Storey, Mrs. Howard Storey, Mrs. Hilliard Barker, and Mrs. Keith Ivan Smith.

The tea table was centred with an arrangement of mums and carnations with Mrs. William Trafford and Mrs. Mellow pouring tea in turn.

Mrs. Paul was in charge of the homebaking table, whose good things found ready buyers. Mrs. Menzo Grooms and Mrs. Jack Martin were on hand to explain the display of antiques which the members had lent for the occasion. There was a surprising display of wearables, dishes, and other household articles. An atlas of the county attracted much attention.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Philip Milligan, Miss Nellie Bennett, and Miss Harriett Hanna.

Debut of Centennial Costumes

For the first time the women of Deseronto had a chance to wear their centennial dresses. Most of them were reproductions as worn by Mrs. Vera Hutchison (left) and Mrs. Jack Layfield at right, but one worn by Mrs. Sidney Brown (second from left) was a priceless heirloom, 140 years old. The event was a card party in aid of the Centennial Park and the lone male is Bert Lloyd chairman of the park committee.

Hold Party In Aid Of Park

DESERONTO — The Lions hall was the scene of the largest card party Deseronto has seen in years, according to some of the old-timers. Players could choose between bridge and euchre, but evidently Deseronto prefers euchre as there were 21 tables and only two of bridge.

It was a park party, and probably the first of several, judging by the enthusiasm aroused. An appeal for funds so that labor can be hired to complete Centennial Park by July 1 has brought donations, and led to this fund-raising event.

Posters were made and there was no lack of help in distributing them, the Girl Guides, the Sports Organization, made up of teen-age boys, and the Lions Club all giving a hand.

For the first time, the ladies had a chance to wear their Centennial dresses in Deseronto. Most of them were reproductions, but at least one was a priceless heirloom 140 years old. Others were inspired, and the next such event will probably see many more.

The women who began it all had canvassed some of the other mothers for refreshments and the word was passed on, with many others appearing with their sandwiches and cakes. There was a wonderful spirit throughout the evening.

Prizes were contributed by many of the merchants:

Mrs. Mark Doran, and Mrs. Hudson of Napanee won ladies' high and low respectively in euchre, and Brock Thompson and Don Jackson won the men's prizes. Muriel Reid took home the prize for lone hand.

Mrs. Jack Spence and Mrs. Charles Gray won the first and second prizes for high in bridge, and Mrs. C. H. Rivard and Mrs. Tom Bowen first and second for low

Nixon Wants New Deal For All Municipalities

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, Saturday called for a provincial - municipal conference to hammer out a new constitution for Ontario and its municipalities.

The cornerstone of the new constitution, he said, should be the Liberal party's proposal for a gradual takeover by the province of 80 per cent of the cost of education.

Speaking to 125 delegates to the policy conference of the Toronto and District Liberal Association, he said the people of Ontario are deeply concerned with the need for economy in education and other government programs.

Mr. Nixon said the takeover by the province would be paced over the first four years of a Liberal government if they won the next election.

Mr. Nixon's impromptu speech did not follow the outline of a prepared speech handed to delegates at the beginning of the meeting.

The press release of the speech he was supposed to make outlined the election platform of the Liberal party.

The platform, covering 18 areas, included a pledge for the appointment of an Ontario ombudsman and a reorganization of the legislature and the government to make them more effective instruments of democracy.

It also included incentives for regional development, the abolition of injunctions in labor disputes unless both parties are present before the judge and a crash program for housing and urban development based on tax relief to property-owners.

Earlier in the conference, Robert Stanbury, Liberal member for York Scarborough, criticized the Ontario government concerning changes in the federal government's adult retraining program.

By saying Ottawa's new program will cut off living allowances for several thousand Ontario students, he said, the Ontario government was diverting attention from its own failings by blaming someone else.

Fumes Off Bus Battery Blamed as Pupils Sick

TORONTO (CP) — Fifteen members of a Toronto township secondary school choir were taken to hospital Tuesday after a 130-mile bus trip left them with sore throats and gasping for air.

Police have impounded the Grey Coach bus to discover cause of the illness, which was not listed as serious.

The students, from Lorne Park Secondary school in Clarkson, were the most seriously ill of the choir members who were returning from an exchange trip to Owen Sound.

During the trip the students complained to the driver of feeling sick and being unable to breath properly, despite all the windows being open.

When the bus arrived at the school the students stumbled out, some collapsing on the ground. Alarmed parents called police, ambulances and the fire department.

Police think acid fumes from the battery of the bus may have been responsible.

Nashville, Louisville Riots Feared Just First Sparks of Fiery Summer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—If the fears of civil-rights leaders become reality, the recent rioting at Nashville, Tenn., and the street marches in Louisville, Ky., are merely the first sparks of another summer of racial violence in the United States.

"I'm afraid the situation can't help but get worse," said Rev. William Sloane Coffin, chaplain at Yale University and long an advocate of Negro rights.

"Progress once begun must accelerate or a peaceful revolution turns into a violent revolution," Mr. Coffin said in an interview.

Civil-rights leaders and Negro spokesmen across the U.S. share his pessimistic outlook.

Dr. Martin Luther King told a press conference in New York a week ago:

"I'll preach non-violence with all my might, but I'm afraid it will fall on deaf ears. I'm sorry to have to say this, but the intolerable conditions which brought about racial violence last summer still exist."

Dr. King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, then singled out as "powder kegs" such cities as Cleveland, Los Angeles, the San Francisco bay area, New York, Newark, N.J. Washington and Chicago.

Most of the clashes between whites and Negroes in Chicago last summer were the result of King's campaign for open housing in the city's all-white suburbs.

King has said the campaign of street marches will be resumed this summer.

Open housing, specifically the right of a Negro to move into a white neighborhood, is an emotional issue that confronts communities throughout the U.S. It is the focal point of the demonstrations.

At Louisville, where police have had to use tear gas to keep marchers and hecklers apart, the leader of the drive to force city council approval of an open housing ordinance is Dr. King's brother, the Rev. A. D. Williams King.

The Nashville rioting had no such objective. It was set off after police ejected a Negro from a Negro tavern.

Civil-rights spokesmen claim that no appreciable efforts have been made to defuse urban slum areas, scene of almost all the racial violence in the last four summers.

Stokely Carmichael, busily touring U.S. college campuses, is urging young Negroes to fight for their freedom. Carmichael heads the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating committee.

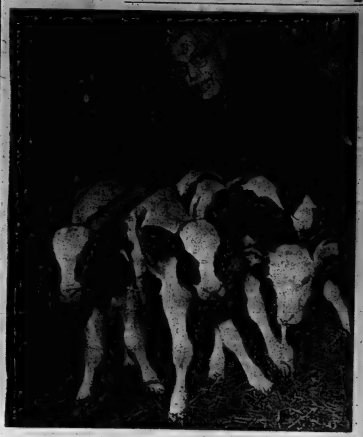
"Wherever the bunkies (Whites) get injustice, we're going to tear their cities apart," he told a crowd in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Urging his listeners to adopt black power—"the coming together of black people to fight for their freedom by any means necessary" Carmichael said in Tallahassee, Fla.:

"It's not a question of civilization, baby. It's a question of survival."

The civil rights attack has shifted from segregation to the root problem of living standards. Now the demand increasingly is for better jobs, houses and education.

"We are talking about realistic goals," said Floyd McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality.



"We have found the average man is not seeking and begging so much for integrated housing as he is seeking adequate housing."

Dr. Robert Green, a Michigan State University faculty member who has been allied with King, is convinced "the riots are going to come."

"Unless there is a greater effort on the part of the U.S. of key political leaders and the Congress—to indicate to Negroes that meaningful changes are being made in employment, housing and education, we can expect that the disorders we have had will only continue to increase," Green said.

Chinese Reds Said at Root Of Vietnam War

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Yu-chi Hsueh, newly-appointed Nationalist Chinese ambassador to Canada, said Sunday the Communist regime on mainland China is at the root of the war in Vietnam.

There would be no change in the course of the war without a change of government in Peking.

Dr. Yu-chi, former ambassador and deputy chief of the Chinese delegation to the United Nations, said in an interview:

"It has always been our contention that the Communists are perfectly happy with the U.S. dilemma in Vietnam. The war could continue indefinitely as long as the Communists control the Chinese mainland."

In Montreal to attend a luncheon meeting with members of the local Chinese community, Dr. Yu-chi expressed doubt, as to whether Peking would accept the U.S. state department's offer to sell them medical supplies.

The state department last week authorized American drug and medicine manufacturers to sell their products to Red China on humanitarian grounds.

Dr. Yu-chi said Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek is waiting for the "opportune moment" to move into the mainland once again.

Despite Red China's involvement with internal affairs, the government there was "keeping a diligent eye on Taiwan, seat of Nationalist China. They regard our government as their greatest enemy, even greater than the U.S."

Students' Dormitory Is Opened for Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—A $300,000 dormitory development, built to lodge student groups visiting Expo 67 this summer, was officially opened Saturday.

The temporary buildings, capable of housing 1,280 students a night, are located on a tract of land donated free by the City of St. Hubert, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite the island of Montreal.

The lodging service, sponsored by the Lions Club of Kitchener, Ont., is the largest single lodging for students available during the world's fair.

It will offer mostly to organized groups of touring students, primarily those of high school and university age. However, single students will be accommodated if there are vacancies.

Walter Downer, Lions Club president, said a night's lodging will cost $2.50, "but only if they can pay."

Tours of blind and handicapped children, already arranged, will be accommodated free of charge.

A club spokesman attending the opening ceremony said the lodging service was originally intended solely for Ontario students. However, the demand was so great that plans were revised to handle requests from throughout Canada.

Most of the reservations are being handled through local school boards, but Logexpo, the fair's official lodging service, has said it will take advantage of any vacancies for its own students.

Book Touches Off Controversy

Russians in India Face 'Witch Hunt'

NEW DELHI (AP)—The defection of Svetlana Stalina is not the only problem the Russians have had in India lately.

At least one other Russian woman has apparently decided "not to go home." There has been a shakeup in the Soviet embassy's information office apparently resulting from a book, Moscow's Head in India, written by Peter Sager and published in Switzerland.

The book tells about the Soviet propaganda machine in India. Current, a right-wing weekly newspaper, says it has touched off a "witch-hunt" in the Soviet information department in the Indian capital.

"Most of the Indian employees without a leftist backing or background are being harassed and victimized by the Soviet officials on fictitious charges and allegations," the weekly says.

It reports that the Russian wife of an Indian citizen was relieved of her job at the information office "without assigning any reason."

The Associated Press confirmed that Rano Irzamova, the Russian wife of Syed Habib, was dropped from the Soviet payroll recently. She had worked for the information office for about one year as a cartoonist for propaganda publications.

Habib said he has become disenchanted with communism and dropped out of the Communist party of India in 1952, he went to the Soviet Union for a Communist youth festival and stayed there four years.

Habib got a job with the Soviet government translating papers from Russian to Indian languages. In Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek Republics, he met and married Rano. They had two daughters and moved to India in 1963.

Habib would not discuss reports his wife has also left the Communist party and that she would not be returning to her homeland.

Rano spends most of her time painting and a few months ago had her own exhibition here. Habib said she sold seven of her works to people from the Canadian and American embassies.

In its article, Current says O. P. Bourykh, deputy head of the information department and a first secretary in the Soviet embassy, has left for Moscow and will not return.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Benediktov, dean of the New Delhi diplomatic corps, was transferred after the Svetlana affair.

Scene resembling a battlefield is all that's left after the terror of Friday's tornado which swept through the Chicago, northern Illinois and western Michigan areas. ## Stalin Paranoid: Daughter

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says Svetlana Stalina, daughter of Russian leader Joseph Stalin, said her father had a paranoid reaction to his wife's suicide, tending to see it as part of a conspiracy against him.

Newsweek says Svetlana believed until she was 18 years old that her mother died a natural death nine years earlier. It was a "traumatic shock" for the girl when she learned the truth.

The magazine quotes George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow, in relating excerpts from Svetlana's memoirs to be published in October.

Kennan helped Svetlana reach the United States Friday after she first sought asylum here two months ago.

At that time, she was in New Delhi after returning her late husband's ashes to India.

Svetlana, 41, spent six weeks in Switzerland before travelling to the U.S. She immediately went into seclusion pending a news conference Wednesday.

Snow Hits Tornado Area

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy wet snow covered the debris Sunday as residents of tornado-ravaged northern Illinois communities cleared the rubble, patched their homes and prepared to bury their dead.

The snowstorm, heaviest on record so late in the spring in Chicago, hampered cleanup operations in Oak Lawn, Belvidere and Lake Zurich. These areas were hardest hit by twisters that ramped across the top of the state and into Michigan Friday, killing 53, injuring hundreds and causing damage estimated as high as $50,000,000.

Four inches of snow fell on hundreds of workers at Belvidere.

A spirit of optimism, tempered by sadness, prevailed.

Hubert Ray stood in front of his ruined house and said:

"The ones with dead, they're the ones. . . It took us 25 years to build this house. The wind tore it down in two minutes. But you can build a house back again." "

Funeral services for many of the victims were planned for today and Tuesday. Most schools in the Oak Lawn area planned to hold classes today, but those in Belvidere will remain closed until Wednesday while pupils help with the cleanup and attend funerals of their classmates.

Thomas Grese, regional director, said 650 homes in Lake, Boone and Cook Counties were destroyed by the tornadoes, 450 suffered major damage, and 200 were damaged lightly.

About 130 persons injured in the tornadoes remained in hospitals in the Belvidere area and more than 100 were in Oak Lawn hospitals.

Special for Young Generation Original Hour of Music, Comedy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Go, Smothers Brothers! A special for the younger generation, was an hour inhabited and original hour of music, comedy and dancing which provided a welcome if hot tingling even for older members of the family.

There was no music to match it. Rudy Vallee sang through a long megaphone. Actor Gene Barry leaned on the bonnet of his Rolls Royce trying unsuccessfully to blow bubbles gum while the Buffalo Springfield—a Beatles-type singing group specializing in Civil War uniforms — were heard from off camera.

The hour was full of sight gags. Smokey the Bear was glimpsed puffing a cigar in bed. Pickets made occasionally appearances carrying signs like "bomb the hell" and "Secretary Rusk Ann Margaret."

There were some exciting and off - beat dance numbers by David Winters' group.

The style of the hour was set originally by the Beatle movie, A Hard Day's Night, and it worked beautifully for a variety hour.

ABC's "examination in depth" of the late Humphrey Bogart which followed, was a pretty superficial slide over the 25-year career in films. It opened and closed with shots of college students describing Bogart as "cool." A number of well-known film personalities spoke scholarly of his talent and his honesty or told unrevealing anecdotes. Ingrid Bergman, his co-star in Casablanca for instance, said she found him fascinating but repeated what she told inquiring friends at the time: "I have kissed him but I don't know him."

Joan Blondell contributed one realistic note to what was mostly a eulogy by recalling battles between Bogart and his third wife, Mayo Method, and told of "slapping a steak" on Bogart's kisser after one.

Generally the hour relied heavily on clips from the 75 films in which the actor appeared.

Recommended tonight: Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass, CBS, 9-10 EST, special made in Mexico. The Tonight Show, NBC, 11.30-1 a.m., return of Johnny Carson to his show after almost five weeks.

Massacre of Kansas Ranch Family by Drifters Reinacted

The story of one of the most notorious crimes of modern times, the massacre of a Kansas ranch family by a pair of drifters that was chronicled in Truman Capote's In Cold Blood is being filmed at the actual locale. This is the first of a series of articles on the filming by Bob Thomas, Associated Press movie columnist.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLCOMBE, Kan. (AP)—Lawyers are beginning to appear on the Chinese chess that line the country road to the Clutter ranch, and the apple orchard that Herbert Clutter prized is leading out in bright green.

Spring hasn't completely arrived in this wind-swept ranching community; the crabgrass hasn't before the Clutter house yet sizes its wintry white. The house, with its wooden siding newly painted pink, looks about as it did when the Clutters lived there. Now it is occupied by the son of the man who owns the Clutter house, Bobby Byrde.

A score of reporters and photographers attack Holcombe—the driveway and lawn. Something resembling that of the scene must resemble that of the morning of November 16, 1959, when the bodies of four members of the Clutter family were found inside the house. All had been murdered by shotgun blasts in the head by two men.

Now the reporters were waiting outside the house while the murderers were being reenacted for a Hollywood movie, In Cold Blood, based on Truman Capote's best - selling book. They were permitted to tour the upper part of the house but could not go into the basement where director Richard Brooks was staging the killing of Herb Clutter and his son Kenyon.

The lukiest reaction of the reader of the Capote book is how small the house seems. There are 14 rooms, but most of them are cramped.

The day's filming ended at 5 p.m. and the journalists are told they can go to the basement.

Brooks, former reporter and marine, summons the actors. The killers are played by a couple of unknowns, Robert Blake and Scott Wilson. Father Chatter is Hollywood actor John McLiam and son Kenyon is Paul Hough, University of Kansas student.

"Now what happened was the following," says Brooks, and he has the actors perform the tragic events.

The killers, armed with shotgun and knife, lead father and son down the stairs to the basement. The victims are bound at the wrists with a light rope.

The father is taken into a small room where he is tied to an overhead pipe so his feet barely touch the ground. Later the dark - haired murderer, Dick Hickok, cuts him down and throws him on a cardboard mattress box, where he is trussed with more rope. The actors play their roles with intensity; actor McLiam's wrists are skinned by the rope.

The son is buried onto a couch in the main basement room and he is tied by swift movements by Hickock.

"Don't forget the pillow," Brooks commands.

The killer places a pillow under the head of the terrified son, an act which intrigued author Capote in his account of the crime.

After an angry exchange between the two murderers, the charade is over.

Broadcasting Museum Items Wait in Storage

TORONTO (CP)—Exhibits included for a Canadian broadcast museum are stored in packing crates at the rear of a downtown CBC storage warehouse, says museum curator Jack Brickenden.

The exhibits will stay there until the CBC builds its projected multi-million-dollar Toronto headquarters. When the building is completed the museum will be permanently displayed in its foyer, Mr. Brickenden says.

Mr. Brickenden is CBC's promotion manager and lends the museum only in his spare time.

Among the prize exhibits in his charge are:

Montreal Singer Hit in Sardinia

CAGLIARI (CP) — Michele Richard probably won't be down as the top strike-breaker of 1967 in this Sardinian capital.

The petite Montreal singer stepped from her hotel as 30 factory workers marched by, blowing whistles and beating tin cans and drums, a typical island method of drawing public attention to a walkout.

The curvaceous brunette took less than a dozen steps before the parade leader lost 19 supporters.

Michele, soon found herself surrounded by a wide-eyed band of impromptu tourist guides. She speaks no Italian but that was no barrier as far as the men were concerned.

It's doubtful she could have completed much of a planned shopping trip if she had not been rescued by two crew members of the RCAF Yukon jet which ferried Michele and 70 other Canadian entertainers on a $4,000-side tour of Europe, Africa and Asia.

Even then her bright yellow halter-skirt ensemble and the ever - increasing number of male admirers combined to make the outing almost an obstacle run through the narrow, hilly streets of Cagliari.

They all thought she was a famous movie star," said FE. Sgt Rod McLeod, captain of the Yukon and one of her rescuers.

At home Michele is host of a weekly French - language television show—The Young of Today, an hour-long teen-age program Saturday nights.

She sent more than $50,000 annually from TV, night club work and records.

Since her first record, hit, Seul Ménrien, sold more than 62,000 a couple of years ago, she has followed with 30 others that have increased this figure. Her top seller hit the 100,000-mark.

She began singing 10 years ago when her father, Thijaic Richard, an old-time fiddler, starred on a radio and television series.

In 1966, she appeared on television programs, including two guest spots on It's Happening, a top-rated Ontario teen show. On her own show she helps with much of the planning.

"I started singing for fun. I wanted to be a nurse. But I became doing so well singing I gave up this ambition and now sing seriously."

Despite her success she plans to forsake singing within two years to "get married and have a million children."

"I want to stop while I'm young. I want to have time to enjoy being young. Working in a nightclub is when a Canadian girl can make money, but you have to work hard to get it.

"I work in clubs 46 weeks a year. With television and records I'm known as a name and a face."

But Michele admits she likes the place of public admiration.

"Back home people know my face. They stared at me on the streets. When I went to a supermarket they would lose over to see what I had in my cart. It bothered me before, but on the trip I sort of relaxed in it."

That was before Cagliari, the second stop on her first entertainment tour outside Canada, where the fun was even more than impressed with the form she cut in clothes she designed herself.

While she plans to quit young, Michele says that if she has a baby she would not stop her from doing the same work. "You can become a success even without having to do anything off color."

Michele drew whistles and shouts throughout the tour. She loved it but admitted that she too is a fan—"I just love Montreal Canadiens."

ARTIST DIES

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. R. H. Storer, 55, a prominent international commercial artist, died at her farm home Sunday. Mrs. Storer was president of Associated Advertising Ltd. of Toronto, was born in Leduc, Alta., and studied in Edmonton before coming to Toronto in 1938.

New Trick For An Old Dog

MONTREAL (CP) — John Hoover, goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs and one of the last holdouts against wearing a mask during National Hockey League games, is relenting.

After 22 professional years and countless stitches taken in his head and face, Hoover, 43, Saturday conceded he would be wearing a mask next season.

The decision came minutes after he left the ice with a 3-6 shutout over Montreal Canadiens to his credit to tie the Stanley Cup final series 1-1.

But in passing the shutout, Hoover took three stiff raps about the head from sticks before waved in his direction. One of them struck and cut his nose midway through the third period.

Hoover, who has worn a mask in practice for several years, said:

"Those curved sticks are too dangerous when a goalie is down. A guy could get hurt in a scramble."

House Fired By Lightning Near Milford

PICTON (Staff) — Fire early Friday morning completely destroyed the two-storey frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kleinsteuber of R.R. 1, Milford. The house, located about 12 miles South of Picton was struck by lightning about 3.30 a.m. during a violent electric storm which swept the area. The blast blew off the chimney and started the fire which quickly levelled the dwelling.

Occupants of the farm home Mr. and Mrs. Kleinsteuber and their two small daughters one age two and the other an infant barely escaped in their night attire and took refuge with neighbors. All contents of the house were lost, including a number of recently purchased appliances. Insurance on contents and on the house, which is owned by Mr. Kleinsteubers father, helped soften the blow.

Mr. Kleinsteuber had been ill at the time of the storm and was awake when the lightning struck - he quickly roused the family and they fled the flaming building. Pouring rain at the time of the fire did little to quench the flames and the house was too far gone to call for aid from the fire department.

To Your Good Health

Swellings May Be Caused by Allergy

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife has periods of swelling of her tongue, lips, cheeks and eyes. Is this an allergy or could she be hives? She is very nervous before this happens. Could it be nervousness? — M. O

Dear Doctor: Ever since I can remember I have a sore tongue if I eat citrus fruit, strawberries, cherries, their juices or tomato juice, pickles, etc. or walnuts.

I am wondering if it is lack of a vitamin that causes it. — M. E. S.

Hives are usually the result of allergy. Hence asking whether the swelling of tongue and face is allergy or hives is essentially the same question.

Allergy can manifest itself in many ways: hay fever, various forms of dermatitis, swelling, some digestive problems, itching, burning, asthma all are common results of allergy.

The manifestations can be different from one individual to another. The foods, dust, pollen or other materials that cause the allergy also differ. What bothers one person does not bother another.

It is not unusual for nervous tension to trigger an attack in a person subject to allergic outbreaks.

Thus in M.O's case I would certainly be observant as to whether eating certain foods, or contact with other materials, precedes these attacks of swelling. It might be wise, also, to discuss with your physician whether some antihistamine preparation might be tried, since this drug allays allergies to some degree and also might ease nervous tension when it begins to build up. I do not say it will do so, but it might be worth trying.

• • •

In the case of M.E.S. it is unusual but not unknown for a person allergic to any of many things, and some individuals are extremely sensitive to citrus fruits — while, of course, most of us thrive on them.

An allergy is not the result of a vitamin deficiency The first line of defence in all allergies, is to avoid the things which cause trouble. In this particular instance, since the principal sources are while, of all cause trouble, Vitamin C can be taken in tablet form to make up for the lack.

Dear Dr. Molner: I know that coffee is not recommended for dieters. What about using artificial sweeteners in coffee free coffees? Doing without coffee is the hardest part of dieting for me. — Mrs. J. G.

Depends on what kind of diet you mean. There are special diets for one condition or another which require avoiding coffee, but in most of them, the caffein-free substitutes are acceptable. Better ask your doctor about your special case.

If you are talking about ordinary reducing diets, you are laboring under a misunderstanding. Coffee is not prohibited and some people find that an occasional cup is a great help in fighting off temptation to eat something fattening.

The only requirement is that you should not add cream or sugar since both of these add calories. Use artificial sweeteners if you like.

Dear Dr. Molner: How long would a man have to remain in the hospital for a hernia operation? Would a double hernia cost more? About what would the total cost be? — Mrs. J. C.

Depends on what kind of a hernia he has. There are special diets for one condition or another which require avoiding coffee, but in most of them, the caffein-free substitutes are acceptable. Better ask your doctor about your special case.

Wonders of Expo Previewed By Three Score of Reporters

MONTREAL (CP)—Light impulses shimmered over the top of the huge, translucent dome, wormed their way through tiny cranial nerve pathways; flashed a myriad of colorful messages, flashed again . . . and wouldn't stop.

Set adrift by an Expo workman while a press party previewed the Man and Life theme building on St. Helen's Island, the 14-foot-high human brain just would not turn off for the unexcited hands in charge.

One of three huge "truncated parababoloid" buildings - that's house four of 17 displays built around the fair's Man and His World theme, Mond and Life B lustrates the life of man on the level, most numerous, earliest and oldest.

Other displays include Man and the Polar Regions; Man and the Oceans, Man, His Planet and Space, Man the Provider, Man the Creator and Man the Producer.

Elsewhere at Expo, whispering huddle of reporters stood in hushed wonder as—caught in the middle of Expo's Labyrinth—they watched the flashes of glowing light scintillate in the darkness around them and sparkle away into the endless depth of primeval mirrors.

Little flocs of lights marched in precision to floating musical notes scattered, split, and melted in the primordial ooze where that lies in the centre of my good mans.

It was a display of delicate beauty and confusing effects.

There might have been a thousand lights, or ten. Were it shorn a hundred murmuring shapes in the velvety darkness, or just 30 reporters enjoying a sneak preview Saturday of the $1,200,000 theme pavilion?

Whatever the truth, it was 15 minutes of enchantment that had the planned effect—disorientation from the everyday world and a sense of being born-born to start learning again.

The music, gaiety and laughter of the beautiful West Indies will surround visitors to the Trinidad and Tobago and Grenada pavilion at Expo 67, previewed for the press, inside the 275-seat auditorium of the pavilion, some of the world's best steel bands, calypso singers and limbo dancers, all costumed in a brilliant array of colors, sang and played their tribute to Expo.

Throughout the six months of Expo, visitors will be entertained, at no charge, night and day, by these performers.

The two-storey pavilion has a ground floor open on all four sides, and houses displays of paintings and sculptures. The auditorium is on the second level.

An Arctic brand air conditioning unit, an Usha sewing machine and Hamam—the family soap—are featured on the upper floor of the India pavilion at Expo 67, while the ground level features a journey in India through pictures and sound.

The 40,000-square-foot, $3,000,000 pavilion, designed by Manisish M. Rana of New Delhi, "tells the story of the skill of Indian hands in the context of 5,000 years of India's continuity, persistence and richness of human experience and endeavors."

The pavilion's business are probably the fair's most elegant—young Indian girls in beautiful floor-length, flowing gowns who seem to glide across the room.

The pavilion's main entry features a massive, 14-foot-high door made in India of shisham wood and brass by a team of 50 craftsmen.

The Greece pavilion consists of nine white boxes each housing a hall featuring a specific theme. The themes run from the Contributions of Greece to Civilization, to "Economic and Technical Development."

Outside there is a 300-seat amphitheatre where Greek folklore will be performed.

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal sculptor Armand Vaillancourt is so upset about statements that a sculpture be made for Expo is anti-Semite that he has threatened to blow it up.

The small sides of the four-legged, 75,000-pound block of black granite stone stabbed with heavy, off-centre incisions along the long sides resembly a swastika, a Nazi symbol.

"I can't say it's an accident; no sad - respecting sculptor would say that about the form of his own work," Mr. Vaillancourt said in an interview Saturday.

"But the thought that the sides are to represent a swastika never entered my mind. I have nothing against Jewish people and I hate everything Nazism stands for.

"If they want proof of my feelings," he added, "I'm willing to blow the whole thing up in the air."

The $50,000 sculpture, entitled Present, is 16 feet long and about six feet high and wide.
